STUNG BY LAMA'S ESCAPE

Reds Send Fresh Forces To Tibet To Crush Revolt

NEW DELHI, India (UPI)—Communist China has sent 100,000 fresh troops to smash the Tibetan rebellion before the stunning escape of the Dalai Lama inflames all of Tibet, reports from the border said Thursday.

The reports said the Peiping regime, stung by the successful flight of the Tibetan god-king into India, apparently intended to overwhelm Tibetan anti-Communists by sheer numbers as they tried to do to United Nations forces in Korea.

LAMA IN INDIA

The rebels, led by the fierce Khamba tribesmen, have used their superior knowledge of the mountainous country to ambush Chinese columns raid their arsenals and harass them out of strategic locations.

Reports from the Indo-Tibetan border said shooting still was continuing on the outskirts of Lhasa, but not in the capital.

Information from Shillong, capital of India's Assam state, said the 25-year-old Dalai Lama had made it through the 14,000-foot Sela Pass and may arrive at Towang Saturday night, 24 hours ahead of schedule.

One New Delhi newspaper, The Statesmen, said he already had arrived at Towang, site of a large Buddhist monastery.

The Dalai Lama, who crossed the border from Tibet Tuesday, is traveling with 80 of his followers. They are being escorted by an Indian political officer and Indian troops. The only method of transportation in the mountainous area is horse or mulehack.

United Press International correspondent Patrick J. Killem reported from the border town of Kalimpong that officials there estimated it would take the Dalai Lama and his party about a week to reach the nearest railhead at Tezpur.

As the young temporal and spiritual leader of Tibet drew closer to safer grounds, the Indian government began to worry about repercussions from giant, neighboring Communist China.

Newspapers and government leaders continued to insist that the Dalai Lama would do or say

Alexandria's Mayor Wins High Honor

Bowdon, 37, is the youngest man ever to receive the award. He was Alexandria's youngest mayor when first elected in 1953 at the age of 31. He was re-elected last year.

Mayor Sidney Gray of Lake Charles was elected LMA president at the final session of the 22nd annual convention succeeding Bowdon. Mayor Roy Snider of Delhi was chosen executive vice president.

On other action, the LMA killed a resolution urging the Legislature to switch primary elections back from Saturday to Tuesday.

The resolution was tabled after Mayor Clyde Fant of Shreveport

Researchers Unveil Space Return Plan

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Scientists today unveiled space glider control instruments they say can bring a man back alive from orbit and land him on any airfield he chooses.

Researchers at Chance Vought Aircraft Co. claim defeat of the heat problem — how to return a man from space without burning him to a cinder from atmospheric friction.

They say theirs is the only system permitting a spaceman full control of his flight and landing.

"The nation now can shoot a man into controlled space flight any time it will spend the money a little time," says Lyman C. Josephs III, one of the scientists.

Pilots are testing the instruments in the hush-hush laboratory deep inside the company's windowless plant here.

"We can build an actual space vehicle using these instruments," declared Bill Luton, an engineer who has made about 200 simulated flights in the laboratory machine.

The Chance Vought project uses the principle of allowing a space craft to glide into the atmosphere at such a gradual angle that it will not overheat.

Another re-entry plan — Project Mercury—is designed to drop a man through the atmosphere with sufficient metal around him so heat will not burn it all away. The final few thousand feet of descent would be by parachute. The pilot would have only limited control over his flight or landing.

Chance Vought scientists say Project Mercury probably will place a man in space first. But they term their project more sophisticated, and stress the control afforded the pilot.

Luton says the Chance Vought system eventually will be used for supply ships going to and from permanent space vehicles.

Youth Is Killed As Auto Flips

EUNICE, La. (AP) — A car failed to make a curve at the northern edge of Eunice Saturday. It landed in a large ditch, followed the ditch about 100 feet, struck a bridge, flipped over the bridge and landed on the other side.

Herbert Fontenot, 14, was thrown under the falling vehicle and killed. Another youth, 16-year-old John Fruge, received injuries believed to be minor.

Firemen Free Infant's Head From Old Pot

When his 4-year-old sister clapped an old coffee pot over his head, he didn't make too much fuss. But a babysitter who was taking care of him found she couldn't get the pot off Rickie's head and called the fire department.

Capt. Z. W. Stanbrough and three firemen spent half an hour cutting the steel rim of the pot, spreading it and greasing Rickie's head before they freed him.

"He was pretty happy until we started working on him and then he put up an awful holler," said Stanbrough.

Home Of Castro Captain Blasted

HAVANA (UPI)— Unidentified gunmen made two desperate attacks against revolutionary police in the Havana area Saturday and escaped in fast cars.

Several men and women in a late model sedan opened fire on a police patrol car in the fashionable Vedado residential section near the strike-bound Baldor school.

A woman pedestrain was hit by stray bullets and rushed to the hospital in critical condition. Police requested local newspapers and radio stations not to mention the incident, it was reported.

It was not certain whether the attack was part of the counter-revolutionary activity that was reported to have hit the Havana area earlier.

A band of die-hard supporters of Fulgencio Batista carried out a gangland-style machine gun attack on the home of a police captain in suburban Marianao, it was reported.

TROUBLE MOUNTS

The hit-and-run attack was the first instance of counter-revolutionary activity in the greater Havana area, although there have been various incidents of terrorism and sabotage elsewhere in Cuba.

There also were mounting labor problems for the revolutionary government of Premier Fidel Castro. Some 500 unemployed construction workers occupied the headquarters of the Cuban Confederation of Labor to enforce demands for jobs.

A spokesman said they represented some 4,000 jobless construction workers and would remain in the headquarters until Castro resolved the job situation.

There was trouble on the education front, too. Revolutionary police surrounded Baldor Institute in suburban Vedado when a score of representatives of the "National Students Union" from the rival Vibora Institute "occupied" the

Soviets Warned On Berlin Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The NATO Council Saturday firmly endorsed the Western Big Three's German policy and warned the Communists to keep their hands off the free Allied sector of Berlin.

The 15-nation council expressed "full agreement on the broad lines of policy to be pursued" by Britain, France and the United States in their forthcoming showdown talks on the German crisis with the Soviet Union at Geneva.

The council said in a communique issued at the close of its three-day spring session that it wanted to see "outstanding problems solved by negotiation" but would consent to no appeasement on Berlin.

PLEDGE FREEDOM

"The council confirmed its unanimous determination to maintain the freedom of the people of West Berlin and the rights and obligations of the Allied powers."

The council endorsed anew the Western Big Three's "basic principles" on Berlin and Germany. These are:

Britain, France and the United States will keep their forces in Berlin and maintain "freedom of access" to that city until there is an acceptable all-German settlement.

They reject any effort by Russia to repudiate the Soviet Union's obligations to the other three victorious powers in regard to Berlin.

They will refuse to recognize as valid any Soviet action turning over to the German Communists control of the Russian sector of East Berlin or control over the Allied access routes to West Berlin.

Plane Plows Into House, Child Killed

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. (UPI) — An F9T6 Navy Cougar Jet fighter, unmanned when the pilot bailed out, plowed into three housing units near the Blytheville Air Force base Saturday, killing a six-year-old girl and injuring two other persons.

Officials at the Memphis Naval Air Station at Millington, Tenn., where the flight originated, said the pilot was Edward A. Holmes, a naval reservists from Marianna, Fla. The Navy said Holmes was a professional flight instructor for the Air Force at Graham Air Force base in Marianna.

Blytheville Air Force Base authorities said Holmes bailed out under orders when the engine of the fighter flamed out at about 10,000 feet. He tried to restart the engine, falling to about 3,000 feet before ejecting.

Ed Hayes, a reporter for the Blytheville Courier and one of the first persons to reach the scene, said the plane skimmed the roof top of one housing unit, smashed through a bedroom of another about 30 yards away, then veered across the street and ripped into the center of a third house, killing the child who was playing in the yard.

Hayes said a seven-year-old sister of the dead child had just gone into the house. She was uninjured.

Authorities said the orders for Holmes to bail out came from Millington. The plane did not burn on impact.

Ding Dong Daddy Held For Bigamy

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) —"To tell the truth boys, I just don't rightly know why I do these things. I don't drink, and I go to church every Sunday."

The speaker was cherubic Francis Van Wie, 72, whose matrimonial capers as a San Francisco streetcar conductor won him the nickname of "Ding Dong Daddy of the D Car Line.

Van Wie, who had 16 wives, was being sought by probation officers for having taken No. 17. They found him with No. 18 in nearby Whittier.

The police complaint is not with his marriages but with his frequent failure to get divorces.

Van Wie, warned five years ago against remarrying for seven years, was arrested Friday night for parole violation.

Sitting in county jail Saturday, Van Wie heard from newsmen that his latest bride, Minnie Reardon, 81, said she "will fight to keep him."

Sobbed Miss Reardon: "He's the best man I ever met. You couldn't ask for a better man. He was good in every way, a model husband.

"I don't want a divorce from him. I don't need a divorce."

She told officers they had married in Lodi in June 1957.

"She was a nagger," said Van Wie.

Asked why he didn't bother to get divorces, the one-time conductor replied indignantly, "I did. Anyway, along towards the last I did."

West Forces Parade Near Iron Curtain

Troops of nine North Atlantic Treaty Organization power marched past NATO commander Gen. Lauris Norstad of the United States and central European commander Jean Valluy of France, while 120 jet aircraft flew in an aerial salute.

CLOSEST TO REDS

The parade was one of a series staged at NATO bases in Europe to mark the 10th anniversary of the Western alliance. It was the closest of all to the Iron Curtain. U. S. forces patrolled the East German frontier only 70 miles away.

Norstad took off for Washington as soon as the parade was over. He planned to tell officials there that any weakening of NATO forces in Europe would be extremely dangerous. He also planned to help map Western strategy in the light of Soviet threats to isolate West Berlin.

The general said in a NATO anniversary statement that the existence of the alliance had decreased the danger of all-out conflict by providing an alternative to nuclear war or surrender.

Before the advent of NATO, Norstad said, the sole deterrent to Red aggression lay in the nuclear capability of the United States. He added the existence of NATO gave added flexibility to Western diplomatic efforts to reach honorable settlements of problems in Europe.

In Bonn Saturday, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said the NATO anniversary was "an important date for the German people."

"NATO guarantees us peace, freedom and security," Adenauer said. "Under its protection our reconstruction was able to be completed."

Fish Blaster Loses Sight, Arm, Hearing

Arenac County sheriff Edward Bessinger said they were tossing dynamite from their 16-foot fiberglass boat into the main channel of the Au Gres River, illegally taking fish.

The dynamite exploded as Arnold De Wald prepared to toss it into the river. His right arm just below the elbow had to be amputated at Au Gres Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said De Wald was also blinded and lost his hearing, but were not able to tell if these injuries were permanent.

TAX PROPOSITIONS

Absentee Voting On Issues Light

Voting in Tuesday's special parish-wide bond issue election will be unusually light, if interest manifested by absentee voters is any criterion.

R. Dean Farr, Ouachita Parish clerk of court, said last night that only three property owners had voted "in absentia" as of noon yesterday—deadline for such polling. The percentage of absentee voting is usually much higher than that in the current campaign.

All of Ouachita Parish's polling places will open Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock, and will remain open until 6 p.m. for the benefit of those property owners who have complied with local and state registration laws.

Appearing on the ballot are five propositions involving a tax totaling 4.75 mills. Each of the five propositions may be voted upon separately, and only those receiving the majority of votes will be put into force.

FACTOR

When they go to the polls Tuesday, the property owners will be the deciding factor on a variety of issues.

Proposition Number 1 is to determine if there shall be a levy of a special tax of two mills on the dollar for a period of five years, beginning with the year 1959, for the purpose of blacktopping the roads and highways of Ouachita Parish.

Second on the list is the proposition of whether or not there shall be a special levy of one-half a mill on the dollar for a period of five years beginning with the year 1959, for the purpose of maintaining, supporting and improving drainage canals, ditches and other devices of Ouachita parish's program of drainage.

Next in line is the proposition of a special tax of one mill for a period of five years, beginning with the year 1959, for the purpose

Former Area Resident Dies In Car Crash

VICKSBURG, Miss. (Special) — A 22 - year - old former Tallulah resident, Charles Terrell of Vicksburg, Miss., was killed early yesterday when the car he was driving swung off the Hall's Ferry Road here and crashed into a tree.

His brother - in - law, David Gilmer, also of Vicksburg, was injured in the wreck and taken to a Vicksburg hospital.

Highway patrolmen found the car during a routine patrol. They said Terrell apparently lost control of the vehicle.

He was dead when officers arrived and Gilmer was unconscious.

Terrell attended Tallulah High School and was a member of the Baptist Church. He was employed by the Magnolia Towing Co. in Vicksburg.

Final rites will be held Monday at 10 a.m. at Young's Funeral Home Chapel in Tallulah with the Rev. John Meeks officiating. Burial will be in Silver Cross Cemetery by Young's.

The youth is survived by his parents. Mr. and Mrs. William M. Terrell, Vicksburg, and five sisters, Mrs. David Gilmer and Mrs. Floyd Decker, Vicksburg; Mrs. Robert Evans and Mrs. Decatur Freeman, Tallulah, and Miss Mildred Terrell, Alexandria.

'Ghost Of Griffith Park' Is Captured

"I thought I'd go up there and die," Farrell, a bearded, tattered man of 32, told police Saturday.

"I just don't see any future." Farrell didn't die. Instead he became a hermit in a park surrounded by the homes and free- ways of Los Angeles. He lived five years without speaking to a human being.

Then, Friday night, police answered a prowler call at a home near the park and captured him. He was taken to Hollywood Police Station, where haltingly he told his story.

He was an infantryman in World War II and was shot through the lung on Okinawa. He said he has a father and mother in North Platte, Neb.

In 1954 he decided to die. Police asked why.

"This is the way it's supposed to be, you wouldn't understand," he said, trembling. "I tried starving to death. The first time I went without food for three days, then again for 11 days.

"But each time I gave up fasting. I couldn't stand it any more."

He took to picking up scraps left by picnickers in the park. At night he raided garbage cans at homes on the park's fringe. In the daytime he lived in caves or shelters built of lumber scraps in remote parts of the hilly, 2½-by-2-mile park.

Police said Farrell is undoubtedly the "Ghost of Griffith Park" who has been sighted occasionally in the park in recent years.

Police said that since Farrell hadn't broken any laws, he could go. They offered him money to buy clothing and food.

Free World Firm Stand Held Vital

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI)— President Eisenhower pledged the United States Saturday to follow a firm course in Berlin and prevent that divided city from becoming "another Munich."

"The course of appeasement is not only dishonorable, it is the most dangerous one we could pursue," he declared. "The world paid a high price for the lesson of Munich—but it learned it well."

The President spoke Saturday at Gettysburg College's spring convocation, attended by 4,000 invited guests. The affair was held in windy, topcoat weather in the college football stadium.

CITES EXAMPLES

The President used the political crisis in Vietnam and the economic difficulites of Japan, along with the Berlin problem, as examples of the need for mutual free world security as a buffer against Communism.

Berlin is a tension point just now, he said, "because the Kremlin hopes to eliminate it as a part of the free world."

"The Communist leaders have chosen to exert pressure there at this moment," he added. "Naturally they always pick the most awkward situation, the hard-to-defend position, as the place to test our strength and resolution.

"There will never be an easy place for us to make a stand, but there is a best one."

As the President spoke, the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council, meeting in Washington, warned Russia again of its determination to defend Allied treaty rights in West Berlin.

In a renewed defense of his foreign policy, which is under continuing attack in Congress, Eisenhower said the situations in Berlin, Vietnam and Japan show the need for firm answers to Soviet political challenges, U.S. foreign aid to keep the spirit of freedom alive in divided countries, and foreign trade to keep nations of the free world in economic good health.

"We have learned, too," he said, "that the costs of defending freedom—of defending Amer-

FOUND WITH 18TH WIFE

Ding Dong Daddy Held For Bigamy

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) —"To tell the truth boys, I just don't rightly know why I do these things. I don't drink, and I go to church every Sunday."

The speaker was cherubic Francis Van Wie, 72, whose matrimonial capers as a San Francisco streetcar conductor won him the nickname of "Ding Dong Daddy of the D Car Line.

Van Wie, who had 16 wives, was being sought by probation officers for having taken No. 17. They found him with No. 18 in nearby Whittier.

The police complaint is not with his marriages but with his frequent failure to get divorces.

Van Wie, warned five years ago against remarrying for seven years, was arrested Friday night for parole violation.

Sitting in county jail Saturday, Van Wie heard from newsmen that his latest bride, Minnie Reardon, 81, said she "will fight to keep him."

Sobbed Miss Reardon: "He's the best man I ever met. You couldn't ask for a better man. He was good in every way, a model husband.

"I don't want a divorce from him. I don't need a divorce."

She told officers they had married in Lodi in June 1957.

"She was a nagger," said Van Wie.

Asked why he didn't bother to get divorces, the one-time conductor replied indignantly, "I did. Anyway, along towards the last I did."

West Forces Parade Near Iron Curtain

Troops of nine North Atlantic Treaty Organization power marched past NATO commander Gen. Lauris Norstad of the United States and central European commander Jean Valluy of France, while 120 jet aircraft flew in an aerial salute.

CLOSEST TO REDS

The parade was one of a series staged at NATO bases in Europe to mark the 10th anniversary of the Western alliance. It was the closest of all to the Iron Curtain. U. S. forces patrolled the East German frontier only 70 miles away.

Norstad took off for Washington as soon as the parade was over. He planned to tell officials there that any weakening of NATO forces in Europe would be extremely dangerous. He also planned to help map Western strategy in the light of Soviet threats to isolate West Berlin.

The general said in a NATO anniversary statement that the existence of the alliance had decreased the danger of all-out conflict by providing an alternative to nuclear war or surrender.

Before the advent of NATO, Norstad said, the sole deterrent to Red aggression lay in the nuclear capability of the United States. He added the existence of NATO gave added flexibility to Western diplomatic efforts to reach honorable settlements of problems in Europe.

In Bonn Saturday, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said the NATO anniversary was "an important date for the German people."

"NATO guarantees us peace, freedom and security," Adenauer said. "Under its protection our reconstruction was able to be completed."

Fish Blaster Loses Sight, Arm, Hearing

Arenac County sheriff Edward Bessinger said they were tossing dynamite from their 16-foot fiberglass boat into the main channel of the Au Gres River, illegally taking fish.

The dynamite exploded as Arnold De Wald prepared to toss it into the river. His right arm just below the elbow had to be amputated at Au Gres Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said De Wald was also blinded and lost his hearing, but were not able to tell if these injuries were permanent.

Many Features In World Today

You'll find today's Monroe Morning World crammed full of many interesting and informative articles and sections.

For example, The World carries today its largest classified section — more than nine full pages.

Then, too, you will find a big automobile show section, showing all the latest models and with a vivid description of each.

Scattered throughout The World are numerous ads describing what is in store for the shoppers at downtown stores on "Downtown Bargain Day" Monday.

Newswise, there are numerous features and informative articles, plus full sports coverage. All in all, you find anything you want in today's big Monroe Morning World.

TAX PROPOSITIONS

Absentee Voting On Issues Light

Voting in Tuesday's special parish-wide bond issue election will be unusually light, if interest manifested by absentee voters is any criterion.

R. Dean Farr, Ouachita Parish clerk of court, said last night that only three property owners had voted "in absentia" as of noon yesterday—deadline for such polling. The percentage of absentee voting is usually much higher than that in the current campaign.

All of Ouachita Parish's polling places will open Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock, and will remain open until 6 p.m. for the benefit of those property owners who have complied with local and state registration laws.

Appearing on the ballot are five propositions involving a tax totalling 4.75 mills. Each of the five propositions may be voted upon separately, and only those receiving the majority of votes will be put into force.

FACTOR

When they go to the polls Tuesday, the property owners will be the deciding factor on a variety of issues.

Proposition Number 1 is to determine if there shall be a levy of a special tax of two mills on the dollar for a period of five years, beginning with the year 1959, for the purpose of blacktopping the roads and highways of Ouachita Parish.

Second on the list is the proposition of whether or not there shall be a special levy of one-half a mill on the dollar for a period of five years beginning with the year 1959, for the purpose of maintaining, supporting and improving drainage canals, ditches and other devices of Ouachita parish's program of drainage.

Next in line is the proposition of a special tax of one mill for a period of five years, beginning with the year 1959, for the purpose

Former Area Resident Dies In Car Crash

VICKSBURG, Miss. (Special) — A 22 - year - old former Tallulah resident, Charles Terrell of Vicksburg, Miss., was killed early yesterday when the car he was driving swung off the Hall's Ferry Road here and crashed into a tree.

His brother - in - law, David Gilmer, also of Vicksburg, was injured in the wreck and taken to a Vicksburg hospital.

Highway patrolmen found the car during a routine patrol. They said Terrell apparently lost control of the vehicle.

He was dead when officers arrived and Gilmer was unconscious.

Terrell attended Tallulah High School and was a member of the Baptist Church. He was employed by the Magnolia Towing Co. in Vicksburg.

Final rites will be held Monday at 10 a.m. at Young's Funeral Home Chapel in Tallulah with the Rev. John Meeks officiating. Burial will be in Silver Cross Cemetery by Young's.

The youth is survived by his parents. Mr. and Mrs. William M. Terrell, Vicksburg, and five sisters, Mrs. David Gilmer and Mrs. Floyd Decker, Vicksburg; Mrs. Robert Evans and Mrs. Decatur Freeman, Tallulah, and Miss Mildred Terrell, Alexandria.

'Ghost Of Griffith Park' Is Captured

"I thought I'd go up there and die," Farrell, a bearded, tattered man of 32, told police Saturday.

"I just don't see any future." Farrell didn't die. Instead he became a hermit in a park surrounded by the homes and free- ways of Los Angeles. He lived five years without speaking to a human being.

Then, Friday night, police answered a prowler call at a home near the park and captured him. He was taken to Hollywood Police Station, where haltingly he told his story.

He was an infantryman in World War II and was shot through the lung on Okinawa. He said he has a father and mother in North Platte, Neb.

In 1954 he decided to die. Police asked why.

"This is the way it's supposed to be, you wouldn't understand," he said, trembling. "I tried starving to death. The first time I went without food for three days, then again for 11 days.

"But each time I gave up fasting. I couldn't stand it any more."

He took to picking up scraps left by picnickers in the park. At night he raided garbage cans at homes on the park's fringe. In the daytime he lived in caves or shelters built of lumber scraps in remote parts of the hilly, 2½-by-2-mile park.

Police said Farrell is undoubtedly the "Ghost of Griffith Park" who has been sighted occasionally in the park in recent years.

Police said that since Farrell hadn't broken any laws, he could go. They offered him money to buy clothing and food.

Free World Firm Stand Held Vital

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI)— President Eisenhower pledged the United States Saturday to follow a firm course in Berlin and prevent that divided city from becoming "another Munich."

"The course of appeasement is not only dishonorable, it is the most dangerous one we could pursue," he declared. "The world paid a high price for the lesson of Munich—but it learned it well."

The President spoke Saturday at Gettysburg College's spring convocation, attended by 4,000 invited guests. The affair was held in windy, topcoat weather in the college football stadium.

CITES EXAMPLES

The President used the political crisis in Vietnam and the economic difficulites of Japan, along with the Berlin problem, as examples of the need for mutual free world security as a buffer against Communism.

Berlin is a tension point just now, he said, "because the Kremlin hopes to eliminate it as a part of the free world."

"The Communist leaders have chosen to exert pressure there at this moment," he added. "Naturally they always pick the most awkward situation, the hard-to-defend position, as the place to test our strength and resolution.

"There will never be an easy place for us to make a stand, but there is a best one."

As the President spoke, the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council, meeting in Washington, warned Russia again of its determination to defend Allied treaty rights in West Berlin.

In a renewed defense of his foreign policy, which is under continuing attack in Congress, Eisenhower said the situations in Berlin, Vietnam and Japan show the need for firm answers to Soviet political challenges, U.S. foreign aid to keep the spirit of freedom alive in divided countries, and foreign trade to keep nations of the free world in economic good health.

"We have learned, too," he said, "that the costs of defending freedom—of defending Amer-

Rotarians Arrive In Monroe For District Meeting

About 300 Rotarians, representing the 25 clubs in the district, began arriving in Monroe last night for the district conference set today and tomorrow.

Sessions will be held in the Virginia Hotel with District Gov. T. C. Beasley of Ruston presiding.

Included in the program will be plenary sessions both days, an outing tonight at the Bancroft Camp, and the formal banquet tomorrow night at the Virginia.

Jack Mays is conference chairman.

Two principal speakers will be featured during the session, Charles T. Evans, Little Rock, Ark., and Chesley F. Perry, Fort Myers, Fla.

Evans, an Arkansas native, entered business as an office boy with a hardware and mill supply concern, and rose to general manager.

He also served five years as vice president of an insurance company. For more than 20 years, Evans was a member of the executive staff of Arkansas Power

Negro Woman, 20, Is Hospitalized After Shooting

A 20 - year - old Monroe Negro woman was hospitalized last night with a gunshot wound allegedly inflicted by her common - law husband. She was taken to Charity Hospital but was not believed to be seriously injured.

Sheriff Bailey Grant identified the woman as Ruby Ballard, 306 Swayze, and is holding Joseph Hopkins, 27, 2403 24th St., on an aggravated battery charge in connection with the shooting.

According to Grant, Hopkins reportedly shot the woman in the leg with a .32 caliber automatic pistol at about 9 p.m. last night. Grant said Hopkins claimed the shooting was accidental.

IN FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Nixon May Get Important Role

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — President Eisenhower may be planning to give Vice President Richard M. Nixon a more important role in foreign affairs, Merriman Smith, White House correspondent for United Press International, said Saturday.

"The President may be toying with an idea of having Nixon do some of the conferring with prime ministers or premiers," Smith told the Hoosier State Press Assn.

But Smith added that such a development would come "only after Eisenhower, himself, charts the course and sets the ground rules at a full-fledged summit meeting—should one take place."

He said the President "would never turn over summit conference negotiations with Khrushchev to Nixon unless there is some personal or domestic governmental crisis unforeseen at the moment."

If Nixon were to become more prominent in foreign affairs negotiations, Smith said, "it certainly would produce a lot of heated discussion in Republican, as well as Democratic, political circles.

"Outwardly, this could look like a case of Eisenhower giving Nixon a chance to set in the President's chair and thus enhance his 1960 chances by what you might call in-job training," Smith said.

"I think Nixon has been playing a more important role in foreign policy than many of us realize," he said. "I doubt he would try to make any basic alterations in policy determined by Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles, but Nixon is being kept well-informed."

Smith said Nixon is "high in the councils of the administration on just about every subject" and his supporters undoubtedly will "point with pride" to "this in-job training" when Nixon's drive for the 1960 presidential nomination swings into full operation."

Smith said he believed Eisenhower did not want a summit meeting and would "go right to the edge of a summit conference, but he'll go slow." He said the reason for the President's reluctance was that Khrushchev wants the summit meeting to bolster his personal popularity and prestige.

Smith said he "understands" that when British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan and Khrushchev conferred in Russia recently, Khrushchev advised MacMillan in a roundabout way to avoid a foreign ministers' meeting as a summit conference preliminary and made disparaging remarks about Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko.

"I'll tell you what it means to deal with Gromyko," Khrushchev was said to have told MacMillan. "I could tell that man to sit his bottom down on a cake of ice and he wouldn't move an inch until I told him to do so."

Smith quoted "one of the very top officials of our government" as saying privately that "a real war" with Russia is "unlikely" but that this nation must be prepared "lest some triggery happy guy on the other side cuts loose."

Smith said the Tibetan revolt against communism "could well turn into a real plus factor for the West, provided the West keeps hands off at present and just lets the Orient come to its own conclusions."

Booster Singing Convention Is Scheduled Here

The Booster Singing Convention will meet at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in Booster Hall on Ouachita Ave. for a three and one - half hour singing session.

The session will end around 4 p.m., according to Garland May, head of the group.

May pointed out that during the 22 years since the organization was formed many famous gospel singing groups have appeared at its meetings. These included recording artists and others.

Proposed plans to conduct a normal school of gospel music here this summer will also be discussed at the meeting during a brief business session.

Officers Press Search For Two In Jail Escape

FAYETTEVILLE N. C. (UPI) —Law enforcement agencies were kept busy investigating a number of leads—all unsuccessful—Saturday as the search intensified for two fugitives from the county jail.

The FBI had said the "extremely dangerous" pair, Charles Thomas Bradford, 26, and John Odum, 18, may be headed for Mexico. That was what they told fellow prisoners before overpowering a jailer and fleeing Friday morning in a 1953 blue-and-cream ford.

However, the State Highway Patrol, the FBI and local officers pressed a search which has been extended to 16 states.

Greensboro police Saturday morning picked a suspect for questioning but later released him.

And the Highway Patrol said that a "number" of leads were chased down in the Raleigh area.

"One man said he knew where to find a man that looked exactly like Bradford," said an officer. "But when we questioned the 'suspect' he was 44 years old and had graying hair."

Bradford, a former trumpet player at Ft. McPherson, Ga., and Odum, of Fayetteville, fled the Cumberland County jail after tricking a jailer to open the cell door.

Bradford, a federal prisoner, was awaiting trial on a charge of robbing a branch bank at Ft. Bragg and fatally shooting its teller.

Segregation Issue Raised At Hospital

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—Dr. Horace L. White, medical director of the Hale Memorial Hospital here, has resigned under fire from Citizens Council and Ku Klux Klan officials for lack of segregation at the state-supported tuberculosis hospital, it was disclosed Saturday.

Dr. Otis L. Jordan, chairman of the hospital's board of trustees, said "absolute segregation" now exists in the 154-bed hospital. Dr. Jordan, who was named temporary director, said the board accepted Dr. White's resignation Friday night.

He said Klan and Council groups objected to the white nurses performing certain services for Negro patients in the hospital which serves 11 west Alabama counties.

Dr. White told the board that threats had been made against him and his family and against other hospital employes. The 38-year-old director said a Negro orderly was forced into a car at gunpoint two weeks ago, and driven into neighboring Bibb County and severely beaten.

Of the 147 patients, 102 signed a petition asking the board to reject White's resignation. They said there had been no attempt to integrate.

Dr. Jordan said "White did not know the Southern customs and by not being told he did some things that didn't fit the book."

"These are the things that were brought to the board of trustees by the Citizens Council and Ku Klux Klan which have been corrected," he added.

"At this time there is absolute segregation. The only thing the white nurses do for Negro patients is to measure out medicine and have supervisory capacity. We have to do that because there are no colored nurses available."

Dr. White, a graduate of the University of Oregon, came to the $1,300,000 hospital when it was opened last October from the McKnight State Hospital at San Angelo, Tex.

Dr. White said, "I'm not embittered by all this. I would call it a tragic thing. The events that have happened have not in any way helped the cause of the South."

Residents of the village of Stinking Creek in Australia's island state, Tasmania, recently decided to change the name of their town. The new name is Aroma Rivulet.

Sparkman Hurls Critical Blast At Paul Butler

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala) Saturday criticized Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler for suggesting some Southerners should get out of the party.

In a radio interview recorded for Alabama stations, Sparkman said, "I certainly do not believe that the chairman of the Democratic Party ought to be urging the South to get out of the party and expressing the wish that we would get out.

"The party belongs to us certainly as much as it does to him, and, as a matter of fact, many times in the past we in the South have kept the party alive."

Butler said last fall anyone unwilling to support the Democratic Party platform stand for racial integration should get out of the party.

He mentioned Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas and Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss) in his comment.

HIGH-SPEED TESTING

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) — Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory's hypersonic tunnel, formerly restricted to basic research, has been made available to outside companies for testing aircraft and missile designs at up to 20 times the speed of sound.

BIG AID TO AIRLINERS

Electronic System Warns Of Defects

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

MARIETTA, Ga. (AP) — For airline passengers, no more bad moments when an airplane engine conks out during flight.

And no more instances of landing gears sticking so they won't come down, and your plane has to belly land.

This is the prospect offered through an electronic detective system conceived here.

It could warn six to eight hours in advance that some vital part of an airplane was heading for trouble. It would detect slight clues for its diagnosis. Then the ailing engine, for example, could be repaired or replaced before the next sheduled flight.

Studies show that such a warning system is probably feasible, says J. Jamgochian, electronics engineer of Lockheed Aircraft Crop's Georgia division.

This could be the next development in a highly successful method already being used in flights to spot existing or impending troubles in the complex electronic systems of some modern airplanes.

Carried further, it could analyze engines and hydraulic systems, such as the landing gear, Jamgochian thinks. The first sign of stickiness in a landing gear would call for quick remedy.

Jamgochian played a leading role in developing an electronic detective, nicknamed MADREC, now being used regularly in flight tests of B47 medium jet bombers and C130 military cargo transport planes.

MADREC checks on and analyzes specific electric and electronic systems on these planes for any malfunction — systems controlling movements of elevators, the radio, power supply, pressurization.

It can pinpoint the location of circuits or transistors or tubes which aren't performing properly.

It's also saving enormous funds in flight tests of newly modified aircraft re-equippped with the latest systems.

One flight test of a B47 costs $3,000 to $5,000, for example.

It used to take about five flights to check the plane for company acceptance, Jamgochian says. With MADREC, two flights usually are enough.

MADREC in its first year of application to B47s and C130s saved about $500,000 and savings have been higher each year since then, Jamgochian estimates.

For future commercial flights, an airborne computer could be devised which would give the pilot continuous information on performance of electrical systems, engines and hydraulic systems, and provide advance warning of malfunction, Jamgochian says.

Three Men Die In Plane Crash

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A B47 Stratojet bomber crashed into a ridge high in the Santa Rita Mountains near Tucson Saturday. All three airmen aboard were killed.

The six-jet plane went down at 1:20 a.m. Rescue teams battled for more than nine hours to reach the crash site on the steep, gullied slopes.

The bomber, on a routine training flight, was coming in for a landing when it struck a ridge, bounced into another ridge and disintegrated in a ball of fire.

Carried further, it could analyze engines and hydraulic systems, such as the landing gear, Jamgochian thinks. The first sign of stickiness in a landing gear would call for quick remedy.

Jamgochian played a leading role in developing an electronic detective, nicknamed MADREC, now being used regularly in flight tests of B47 medium jet bombers and C130 military cargo transport planes.

MADREC checks on and analyzes specific electric and electronic systems on these planes for any malfunction — systems controlling movements of elevators, the radio, power supply, pressurization.

It can pinpoint the location of circuits or transistors or tubes which aren't performing properly.

It's also saving enormous funds in flight tests of newly modified aircraft re-equippped with the latest systems.

One flight test of a B47 costs $3,000 to $5,000, for example.

It used to take about five flights to check the plane for company acceptance, Jamgochian says. With MADREC, two flights usually are enough.

MADREC in its first year of application to B47s and C130s saved about $500,000 and savings have been higher each year since then, Jamgochian estimates.

For future commercial flights, an airborne computer could be devised which would give the pilot continuous information on performance of electrical systems, engines and hydraulic systems, and provide advance warning of malfunction, Jamgochian says.

Three Men Die In Plane Crash

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A B47 Stratojet bomber crashed into a ridge high in the Santa Rita Mountains near Tucson Saturday. All three airmen aboard were killed.

The six-jet plane went down at 1:20 a.m. Rescue teams battled for more than nine hours to reach the crash site on the steep, gullied slopes.

The bomber, on a routine training flight, was coming in for a landing when it struck a ridge, bounced into another ridge and disintegrated in a ball of fire.

IN FOREIGN AFFAIRS

Nixon May Get Important Role

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — President Eisenhower may be planning to give Vice President Richard M. Nixon a more important role in foreign affairs, Merriman Smith, White House correspondent for United Press International, said Saturday.

"The President may be toying with an idea of having Nixon do some of the conferring with prime ministers or premiers," Smith told the Hoosier State Press Assn.

But Smith added that such a development would come "only after Eisenhower, himself, charts the course and sets the ground rules at a full-fledged summit meeting—should one take place."

He said the President "would never turn over summit conference negotiations with Khrushchev to Nixon unless there is some personal or domestic governmental crisis unforeseen at the moment."

If Nixon were to become more prominent in foreign affairs negotiations, Smith said, "it certainly would produce a lot of heated discussion in Republican, as well as Democratic, political circles.

"Outwardly, this could look like a case of Eisenhower giving Nixon a chance to set in the President's chair and thus enhance his 1960 chances by what you might call in-job training," Smith said.

"I think Nixon has been playing a more important role in foreign policy than many of us realize," he said. "I doubt he would try to make any basic alterations in policy determined by Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles, but Nixon is being kept well-informed."

Smith said Nixon is "high in the councils of the administration on just about every subject" and his supporters undoubtedly will "point with pride" to "this in-job training" when Nixon's drive for the 1960 presidential nomination swings into full operation."

Smith said he believed Eisenhower did not want a summit meeting and would "go right to the edge of a summit conference, but he'll go slow." He said the reason for the President's reluctance was that Khrushchev wants the summit meeting to bolster his personal popularity and prestige.

Smith said he "understands" that when British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan and Khrushchev conferred in Russia recently, Khrushchev advised MacMillan in a roundabout way to avoid a foreign ministers' meeting as a summit conference preliminary and made disparaging remarks about Soviet foreign minister Andrei Gromyko.

"I'll tell you what it means to deal with Gromyko," Khrushchev was said to have told MacMillan. "I could tell that man to sit his bottom down on a cake of ice and he wouldn't move an inch until I told him to do so."

Smith quoted "one of the very top officials of our government" as saying privately that "a real war" with Russia is "unlikely" but that this nation must be prepared "lest some triggery happy guy on the other side cuts loose."

Smith said the Tibetan revolt against communism "could well turn into a real plus factor for the West, provided the West keeps hands off at present and just lets the Orient come to its own conclusions."

Booster Singing Convention Is Scheduled Here

The Booster Singing Convention will meet at 1:30 p.m. Sunday in Booster Hall on Ouachita Ave. for a three and one - half hour singing session.

The session will end around 4 p.m., according to Garland May, head of the group.

May pointed out that during the 22 years since the organization was formed many famous gospel singing groups have appeared at its meetings. These included recording artists and others.

Proposed plans to conduct a normal school of gospel music here this summer will also be discussed at the meeting during a brief business session.

Officers Press Search For Two In Jail Escape

FAYETTEVILLE N. C. (UPI) —Law enforcement agencies were kept busy investigating a number of leads—all unsuccessful—Saturday as the search intensified for two fugitives from the county jail.

The FBI had said the "extremely dangerous" pair, Charles Thomas Bradford, 26, and John Odum, 18, may be headed for Mexico. That was what they told fellow prisoners before overpowering a jailer and fleeing Friday morning in a 1953 blue-and-cream ford.

However, the State Highway Patrol, the FBI and local officers pressed a search which has been extended to 16 states.

Greensboro police Saturday morning picked a suspect for questioning but later released him.

And the Highway Patrol said that a "number" of leads were chased down in the Raleigh area.

"One man said he knew where to find a man that looked exactly like Bradford," said an officer. "But when we questioned the 'suspect' he was 44 years old and had graying hair."

Bradford, a former trumpet player at Ft. McPherson, Ga., and Odum, of Fayetteville, fled the Cumberland County jail after tricking a jailer to open the cell door.

Bradford, a federal prisoner, was awaiting trial on a charge of robbing a branch bank at Ft. Bragg and fatally shooting its teller.

Segregation Issue Raised At Hospital

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI)—Dr. Horace L. White, medical director of the Hale Memorial Hospital here, has resigned under fire from Citizens Council and Ku Klux Klan officials for lack of segregation at the state-supported tuberculosis hospital, it was disclosed Saturday.

Dr. Otis L. Jordan, chairman of the hospital's board of trustees, said "absolute segregation" now exists in the 154-bed hospital. Dr. Jordan, who was named temporary director, said the board accepted Dr. White's resignation Friday night.

He said Klan and Council groups objected to the white nurses performing certain services for Negro patients in the hospital which serves 11 west Alabama counties.

Dr. White told the board that threats had been made against him and his family and against other hospital employes. The 38-year-old director said a Negro orderly was forced into a car at gunpoint two weeks ago, and driven into neighboring Bibb County and severely beaten.

Of the 147 patients, 102 signed a petition asking the board to reject White's resignation. They said there had been no attempt to integrate.

Dr. Jordan said "White did not know the Southern customs and by not being told he did some things that didn't fit the book."

"These are the things that were brought to the board of trustees by the Citizens Council and Ku Klux Klan which have been corrected," he added.

"At this time there is absolute segregation. The only thing the white nurses do for Negro patients is to measure out medicine and have supervisory capacity. We have to do that because there are no colored nurses available."

Dr. White, a graduate of the University of Oregon, came to the $1,300,000 hospital when it was opened last October from the McKnight State Hospital at San Angelo, Tex.

Dr. White said, "I'm not embittered by all this. I would call it a tragic thing. The events that have happened have not in any way helped the cause of the South."

SECRECY REASONS TWO-FOLD

U.S. Taxpayers Are Kept In 'Dark' On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Although U. S. taxpayers have spent over 22 - billion dollars on military aid to Allies since 1950, they have yet to be told in detail where the money went or what it bought.

With swords rattling over Berlin, the question of the free world's military posture has become one of vital importance.

Operations of the nation's foreign military aid program are hidden behind an iron curtain of secrecy.

The reasons for all this secrecy are two-fold:

1. The amount and detailed description of the military aid we give to friendly free-world countries is precisely the information the Soviets would like to get their hands on—and is, of course, a primary target of the far-flung Soviet espionage system.

2. Also involved is the question of jealousy and bickering which might arise if one nation discovered, through published information, that another country was getting a bigger bite of the U. S. military aid dollar.

This is why a country-by-country breakdown of military aid has never been published by the defense department.

Necessary or not, however, the rigid secrecy has caused misgivings, in and out of Congress, on the question of how effective our military assistance program really is.

On March 12 President Eisenhower asked Congress for $2,435,000,000 for the military aid program during the fiscal year beginning July 1. This included $1,600,000,000 in military supplies and training aid, and 835 million for defense supports. Five days later, a presidential advisory group headed by former Undersecretary of the Army William H. Draper Jr. recommended that Eisenhower increase his request for military supplies and training aid by 400 million dollars.

Only this much is certain about the military part of the Mutual Security Program (MSP):

The United States has military treaties with 42 nations, 12 of which are Central and South America. There are 8,384 American military men scattered among these nations either in training or advisory capacities.

The United States has access to more than 250 major military installations in Allied countries around the perimeter of the Chinese-Soviet bloc.

There are three governmental agencies involved in MSP—the Department of Defense, the Department of State, and the International Cooperation Administration.

In their last report, called "a summary presentation," the three agencies had this to say:

"The result of the joint (military) effort and expenditure is impressive and reassuring. In 1950 the Army ground forces of the countries associated with us numbered 3,600,000 men, poorly trained and equipped; today, these same countries include about 4,700,000 effective fighting men equipped to defend the Free World in case of limited or general war.

"During the same eight-year interval the naval forces of these same countries have grown from about 1,200 to 2,500 combat yessels, an increase of more than 100 per cent.

"In 1950 these countries had about 17,000 aircraft, fewer than 600 of which were jets; today, they have 32,000 aircraft of which 14,000 are jets."

The key words in this assertion are "effective fighting men" and "equipped to defend the Free World in case of limited or general war."

Since this report was issued, a House subcommittee on Foreign Affairs, headed by Rep. Thomas E. Morgan (D-Pa), has put out an interim report on MSP and said it had been shocked at the waste found in the arms program.

Further, the General Accounting Office, watchdog over government spending, reported to the House Appropriations subcommittee on MSP that it had assessed the military strength levels urged by the Joint Chiefs of Staff for our Allies and found they were "not always realistic in terms of the capabilities of the countries involved."

All of this raises questions of immense import:

Are these fighting men truly effective? By whose standards?

Is there gross waste in the military aid program?

There have been reports that the armed services have been using the aid program as a sort of dumping ground for embarrassing surpluses. Is this true?

In the Pentagon is a tall, rawboned man named Charles Shuff whose eyes are red-rimmed with sleeplessness. Shuff is Undersecretary of Defense in charge of the military aid program. He works 16 to 18 hours a day. The above questions were put to him in an interview.

"In the first place," says Shuff, "it is safe to say that using the word 'effective' is in some measure editorializing. If the object is to compare 10 years ago with now, the comparison is that 10 years ago they weren't so hot, but now they are effective. Then the question is, whose standard of effectiveness? The force in being now by any standards is a hell of a lot more effective than 10 years ago.

"As far as dumping is concerned, the program in the past has been blamed with some degree of truth for absrobing our military excesses, but I don't believe it was a wholesale dumping place. You must remember that what is obsolescent in the U.S. Army is not obsolescent in somebody else's army. If you start with bows and arrows, even a flintlock is an improvement."

"It must always be remembered," Shuff continues, "that whatever contribution they make to the Free World, they make by defending their own homes and property and they would probably do it better. Effectiveness is a relative thing.

"I'll agree," he says, "there is inefficiency in the program. In the first place, all military establishments are a liability until you need them. And then you need them bad and you can't conjure them up overnight."

Shuff has another point on effectiveness: "I think the program has done a lot to provide a deterrent. If we hadn't had it for the past years, things might be different. Not one country to which we have been giving military assistance has gone under the Sino-Soviet bloc.

"I always come back to this question: How would we do it if we didn't have this program, do it this way? If we didn't, we would have to have a lot more guys in our armed forces stationed around the world."

N.O. Witness For Probers Threatened

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A Jefferson Parish bar-restaurant operator said Saturday his life has been threatened twice since his recent testimony before the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee.

Walter Richardson, Negro operator of the Midway Bar and Restaurant, said a Negro lunged at him twice within a matter of minutes Friday night at a taxicab stand near his place.

The New Orleans States-Item reported that Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel for the Senate committee, immediately called on the FBI to investigate.

Richardson testified before the committee last month during its probe of alleged racketerring links with the coin machine business in Jefferson Parish and the New Orleans area.

He told the investigators that deputies for Sheriff William Cocf of Jefferson Parish harassed him when he refused to install a juke box owned by gambler Carlos Marcello.

Friday night, Richardson said, he drove two bar patrons to the cab stand where a man sat in a parked car.

Earl Long's Joke

Despite a statement by one potential candidate that, "Gov. Long is just having his fun," when Long announced he might run to succeed himself as governor of Louisiana, there is not much reason to think Long's statement was only a joke.

In fact, it would almost be safe to write it down in the book that Long will enter the next race for governor if:

He can be legally qualified as a candidate.

The "bad health" he enjoyed during his last campaign continues to be as good as it was then.

He thinks he can win.

We say this for several reasons. Long has never been concerned with scruples about ethics or about legal technicalities as against the intent of the farmers of the constitution, either state or national. His "bad health" seems to be a matter of choice, to be turned on and off at will, depending on how much sympathy he thinks it will arouse. He is ambitious and there is no better way in which he can gratify his ego or enhance his economic status than by another term as governor. He will make an appraisal of his chances to win. If he thinks they are good, he will run. If he finds they are not, he will make a joke out of the "joke."

Right now, Gov. Long is sounding off to find out what his real chances are. Opening the general session of the 22nd annual convention of the Louisiana Municipal Association, Long tried hard to sound like a potential candidate, carrying out his press conference remarks that he might run for a fourth term.

The governor said he had heard that former Gov. Robert Kennon might be interested in making the race again "and there's liable to be a lot of ex-governors in this time."

Referring to remarks of former Gov. Jimmie Davis and U.S. Rep. Otto Passman, Long said Davis was right when he said Long was unpredictable. Long grinningly quoted an old farmer as saying, "Don't trust a mule even sideways and don't trust a politician anyways."

As for Passman's comment that Long was joking, Long said, "I might be serious despite what Passman said."

If Long enters the race for governor, he will do so under a legal subterfuge and in obvious violation of the intent of the Louisiana constitution. The constitution says a governor may not succeed himeslf. If Long runs, he will evade this provision by resigning before the qualifying deadline, allowing the lieutenant governor to succeed him. He would then technically say he was not succeeding himself, since there would be an intervening governor.

The constitutional prohibition against a governor succeeding himself was drawn for the express purpose of preventing a governor from perpetuating himself in office and from building up such political power that there would be no way to overthrow him except by revolution. If it is possible for the governor to run by the technically of resigning a short time before his term expires, then the purpose of the constitution has been defeated. It would have been safer and more positive if the constitution had said that a governor could not succeed himself without an intervening period of four years, the length of time a governor serves in this state.

Flatly, this leaves the question of whether or not a governor can disregard honesty in this state and be elected through a "gimmick."

Aside from this, there is the interesting question of what kind of platform the governor would choose. The last time he ran on a platform of no increases in taxes. He not only increased taxes in every way possible but sought many increases which were blocked.

Lovely Louisiana

Appearing just about the time the spring and summer vacation period is getting into full swing, "Lovely Louisiana," colorful 240-page tourist guide book, just off the press, beckons invitingly to potential visitors to the beautiful and romantic bayou state.

"Lovely Louisiana" is intended to serve as the most complete tourist guide book ever issued in this state and one of the most informative ever issued in any state. Tourists looking for vacation mecca or unusual and hidden romantic spots will find this book a veritable library of descriptive loveliness.

It tells of entertainment spots ranging all the way from the wild, weird, raucus and rollicking music of the famous night spots of New Orleans' French quarter, to the crystal-clear sands of the shores of the Gulf of Mexico, to the great Lake Ponchartrain with its myriad attractions, to the quiet little lakes dotted here and there, to the many rivers and winding streams, to the race tracks, to the bowling centers, to the shady hidden nooks, to the fishing places and to the deep, somber swamps filled with dark water and with trees and undergrowth so thick that paths must be cut for boats to pass through and with huge trees festooned with long gray moss.

Published by the Louisiana Municipal Association the book outlines the many attractions of the land of sports, sugar cane, rice, Mardi Gras, old plantations, picturesque bayous, the land of Evangeline and Acadian culture and the year-round vacation and historic spots.

Directions are given to lakes, resorts, state parks and overnight camping areas.

Stories unique to the state include tales of voodoo, buried treasure, legendary bayous, the seafood industry, Louisiana cuisine and the fabled Deep South.

The unusual booklet is a handy six by nine inches and contains more than 250 pictures and illustrations, many in color. Included also is a special glossary of words and phrases.

A special feature of the book is a listing on "Who to See," in addition to the fact-filled where-to-go and what-to-see sections. Local information is readily available in all areas, so that the tourist who reads and studies this book may soon become more of an expert on Louisiana lore and attractions than the average citizen of this state.

Other features of "Lovely Louisiana" include special tours, festivals and events of the various seasons, as well as full information on routes, accomodations, sporting events and fishing and hunting tips.

Tourism is fast becoming one of the biggest industries of the state and fabulous Louisiana is being added to more and more intineraries of those who have learned to find the nation's strangest and most alluring and enchanting spots.

The Louisiana Municipal Association, which has the cooperation of the Louisiana department of industry and commerce and of many chambers of commerce and other civic organizations, deserves to be congratulated for promulgating the greatest tourist attraction campaign ever carried on in this state. Rewards of a greatly expanded tourist trade are certain to follow.

Even A Whisper

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAY'S

Soviet Universal State Keeps World Disordered

It is the policy of the Soviet Universal State to keep the world in disorder as a method for universal adhesion to the Marxist-Leninist dogma. At present this war against mankind is manifesting itself in four places, Berlin, Iraq, Tibet and Cuba.

Tibet is often called the top of the world and lies in central Asia, surrounded by Turkestan, China Kashmir and Ladak, India, Nepal and Bhutan. It has, in the past, been regarded as inaccessible, but the airplane has changed all that.

The Tibetans are of Turko-Mongol stock, accustomed to live in high altitudes and to live on spare rations. The holy books of Tibet (lamaistic Buddhism) are written in Sanskrit, but the spoken language is akin mostly to Burmese and is highly dialectal. Those who do business with China, of course, speak Chinese.

Tibet is or was a theocracy, that is, a country governed by a religious hierarchy. China was, for many years, its suzerain but the Dalai Lama of Lhasa served both as head of the church and head of the state. In imperial days in China, the Tibetans paid a tribute to Peking; subsequently, Tibet became, in a manner, a protectorate of India (British) and China, but for practical purposes, the Tibetans governed themselves.

Most countries have been traversed by conquerors, but not Tibet; its mountains too lofty and irregular, its climate too difficult. Even Genghis Khan avoided Tibet on his way to India, taking the more circuitous but easier routes from Bokhara and Afghanistan. Nevertheless there have been quite a number of Western explorers who came into that country. Probably the earliest American explorer was W. Woodville Rockhill, who was American minister to China, and whose "The Life of the Buddha" is a classic.

Tibetan history does not go far back, not beyond the fifth century B C. The country had kings up to 914. In the seventh century, Buddhism was introduced from India. At one stage, the Tibetans held parts of India and China. There is a king in Tibtan history, Muni Tsan-po, who attempted to establish in the eighth or ninth century, a socialist state based upon a theory of the equality of man, but it did not work, because the rich somehow became richer and the poor became poorer.

Kublai Khan, who conquered Eastern Tibet, favored the Sakyapa Lamas who became the local governors on behalf of the Chinese Emperor. Subsequently, other monasteries gained political control over areas. The kings eventually lost all authority and disappeared from history and Tibet came under control of the heads of monasteries and by the 17th century, the Dalai Lama of Lhasa became the supreme ruler of Tibet.

During the 19th century, British officials in India sought to establish trade relations with Tibet. To this, the Chinese objected on the ground that China was suzerain over Tibet. Because the British agreed to China's objections, the Tibetans regarded the British as weaklings and therefore invaded Sikkim. The British sent an army to expel the Tibetans This resulted in negotiations which were at first not successful.

About 1880, Russia moved into the picture using a Mongolian Buriat for the purpose. His name was Dorjiev and he established himself in Lhasa, becoming a favorite of the Dalai Lama. The Russians, indeed, worked so actively in Lhasa that it became necessary for the Chinese as well as the Indian government to take steps. Great Britain sent a force into Tibet. As a result, a trade treaty between India and Tibet was signed in 1904.

(As a footnote Tong Shao-i represented China in 1905 in a continuation of these negotiations and he gave me, many years ago, a first-hand account of the Russian efforts to conquer Tibet, a conquest which is now being effected, a half century later, by the Soviet Universal State through Red China.)

It can be said that the Tibetans ha[illegible]never been conquered really. T[illegible]e a rebellious people who have resisted all efforts to force them into a pattern of life other than their own.

However, they now face airplanes, rapidly built roads, automobiles and tanks and it is difficult to guess what will happen to them. Their revolt against Mao Tze-tung is not the first that he has had to deal with; it is the first that has attracted world attention. Actually, there has been a constant rebellion on the Western periphery of Red China.

Southern Revolt Looming Again

The specter of a possible Southern bolt from the Democratic National Convention at Los Angeles in June, 1960, has again risen and is being talked between Southern Senators and Representatives and the leaders at State and county bailwicks while these members of Congress are home for the Easter Congressional recess.

The advice that most of these Senators and Representatives took home to the State and county leaders was to forget about the bolt for the time being at least and try to bring about a condition where the national convention "would give the South a platform and a ticket it can live with."

But these Senators and Representatives may not have made especially good advocates for the course they are advising. They themselves for the most part feel that while they may get a ticket that may not be wholly unpalatable, the platform, especially on civil rights is a horse of a very different color.

What has been worrying Southerners who want to stay in the party most is the forecasts of the likely atmosphere of Los Angeles. That worry has nothing to do with the city's renowned smog but its June political weather. They believed when the choice of Los Angeles was announced and believe even more strongly now that it was the worst possible selection insofar as the South is concerned.

The generalissimo of the Los Angeles conclave will be Paul Ziffren, Democratic National Committeeman from California. Ziffren, a transplanted Iowan, has stated on numerous occasions that what the Democratic party needs is "to get rid of its Southern accent." Ziffren believes the Democrats can win in 1960 even if the South is largely or even entirely lost to the ticket made at Los Angeles.

This view of Ziffren that the South is expendable is not held by most northern and eastern Democrats. But Ziffren and not they will be in the driver's seat at Los Angeles. Ziffren will distribute the seats to the galleries, create the convention atmosphere and exert a powerful influence both in naming the ticket and writing the platform.

Within the last few days there has been renewed talk that the Southern delegates might again be asked to take the "loyalty" oath at Los Angeles. This followed the new Dixie movement which gained impetus with the repeal two weeks ago of the party loyalty oath in Alabama.

The Alabama State Democratic Executive Committee voted 45 to 25 to throw out the pledge that had bound Presidential electors to the national party nominees. Arkansas and Georgia have also similar legislation.

But what Northern and eastern Democrats who do not believe the Democrats could win if they lost a majority of the Southern States fear is that the Southern revolt would not end with freeing the electors but that a third party ticket will be put into the field which will carry some Southern States and siphon off enough voters to give the Republicans some Dixie States, especially should Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York be the G. O. P. standard bearer.

Some surveys have shown considerable support for Rockefeller in the South. Conversely Rockefeller is under fire from Civil Rights advocates, because he never so much as mentioned civil rights and their extension at the recent session of the New York legislature

Rockefeller is now under heavy pressure to speak out on Civil Rights. He may do so and his statement might change the image of him now held in large segments of the South. It is remarkable how Rockefeller enters into Democratic conversations, North and South.

Some Southerners think he might turn out to be more symphathetic to the problems of the South than any man likely to be nominated by the Democrats. Some Northern Democrats are not certain should the Republicans name him he will not be more appealing to the nation as a whole than any one the Democratic party might put at the head of its ticket.

Foreign Aid To Face Big Attack

Between now and the adjournment of Congress the prospect is that the greatest flow of words on any topic will be loosed on foreign aid. And the outlook too is that after the mauling its opponents will inflict upon it it will still come out with the largest appropriation it has received in any single year.

The principal promoter of lavish American cash to our Allies of the free world and to "underdeveloped" countries will be the Berlin crisis, which will probably reach its zenith during the Congressional debate on foreign aid. The greatest obstacle will be a feeling among members of Congress that they will have a hard time justifying such aid to other countries at a time of great unemployment in the United States.

During the debate on redevelopment of depressed areas in the United States in the Senate a fortnight ago there was a discussion of this unemployment which has reached the greatest height since 1941.

There are no breadlines in the United States, but there are lines of people who are queued up to receive free food from surplus commodities distributed by the Department of Agriculture. The commodities included cornmeal, cheese, powdered milk, butter and flour. In January there were 5,606,000 persons receiving such aid.

In Pennsylvania 851,203 persons received such aid; in Michigan, 533,914; in New York 369,266; in West Virginia, 282,575. Even in Texas, where the oil millionaires we are supposed to always have with us, although it was twelfth in rank of States receiving such aid, 142,446 went into the lines asking and receiving free food.

The debate on foreign aid has started earlier than usual this year. President Eisenhower has sent a long message to Congress urging a three billion, nine hundred million dollar appropriation in fiscal 1960. Acting Secretary of State Herter and other Administration spokesmen have appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in its behalf.

A committee appointed by President Eisenhower and made up in large part by former Administration officials had recommended that the President's already generous request be increased by $400,000,000 while another equally distinguished group of citizens has recommended that it be cut in half.

There was a setto in the House over an appropriation for the Development Loan Fund, a segment of foreign aid, just before Congress adjourned for the Easter recess. President Eisenhower unexpectedly called for an emergency appropriation of $225,000,000 for this fund. The House Appropriations Committee denied the request, but $100,000,000 was put back on the floor of the House and when the Senate comes back next week it will be asked to restore the full $225,000,000 and there is an excellent chance that it will.

Of the three billion, nine hundred million dollars for foreign aid, President Eisenhower has asked Congress to make available $700,000,000 more in fiscal 1960 for the Development Loan Fund.

Senator John F. Kennedy, than whom there is no more ardent advocate of foreign aid, has asked Congress to give the fund a long-term authorization of $1 billion a year. Whatever is appropriated will go to new ventures in "underprivileged" nations. Thus, the United States Treasury would provide risk capital in large amounts for speculative undertakings abroad.

Taking an opposite stand from Senator Kennedy, John B. Hollister, recent Director of International Cooperation Administration, which handles foreign aid, thinks it would not be a bad idea at all to abolish the Development Loan Fund. Failing that he would have it placed entirely under ICA, arguing that its present independent status weakens the nation's, overall control of spending and waste. Neither of Hollister's proposals has a chance of adoption.

If Congress finally appropriates three billion, nine hundred million for foreign aid it will be only a portion of American Funds being devoted to foreign aid. There are a whole jungle of agencies, with money for the purpose, including the World Bank; the International Loan Fund to which the United States is the principal contributor and the Export - import Bank. In addition President Eisenhower has recommended and the present session of Congress probably will create two more such bureaucracies — the International Development Association and the Inter-American Development Bank.

State Dentists End Convention With Election

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—The Louisiana Dental Assn. ended its 79th annual convention Saturday by electing Dr. Stanley S. Levy of Lake Charles as president. He succeeds Dr. Victor B. Marquet of New Orleans.

Also elected were Dr. Prescott E. Smith of New Orleans, president-elect; vice presidents Dr. N. Lynn Norman of Shreveport and Dr. Frank J. Houghton of New Orleans; Dr. Julian S. Bernhard of Shreveport, secretary; and Dr. Charles F. Bartels of New Orleans, treasurer.

Other dental groups, meeting in conjunction with the association during the four-day meeting, installed officers Friday.

The LDA women's auxiliary installed Mrs. N. Lynn Norman of Shreveport as president; the Louisiana Dental Hygenists Assn. installed Helen Bordelon of Lake Charles president; and the Louisiana Dental Assistants Assn. put Mrs. Lottie Fisher of Monroe in as president.

Warden Drowns On River Patrol

LEAKESVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Game Warden Ezra L. Brewer of State Line drowned Saturday when his small boat sank while he was patrolling the Chickasawhay river in Greene County near here.

Brewer, 42, had been a game warden since 1952.

Another man in the boat was rescued.

Views Of Our Readers

TRAIN DISCONTINUANCE

Gretna, La.

To The Editor

It will be appreciated if you publish my views in your comments for Readers. It may be a little long but the truth never hurts.

It has been called to my attention that the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company has placed notices in their passenger stations and depots that they have made application to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D.C. that they will discontinue their passenger trains Nos. 103 and 116 April 27, 1959, Little Rock, Ark., to Alexandria, La. which connects from that point to New Orleans, over the Texas and Pacific Railroad tracks.

I wonder if the citizens living in the towns and communities that these trains serve for their travels realize that these trains are the only over-nite service to and from New Orleans. You can at present leave Little Rock 5:30, Monroe, 11:10 p.m. and arrive New Orleans 6:15 a.m. the next morning, attend to your days business, or visit your doctor and leave New Orleans, 7:50 p.m. arrive Monroe, 6:50 a.m., Little Rock, 12:15 p.m., even though this connection is delayed at Alexandria, for four hours. If they discontinue this service on these trains it will take three days and two nights to make this trip, on their other trains Nos. 1311 and 132.

I am wondering what the business people will do if these trains are allowed to be discontinued. At present they have an overnight merchandise service that serves Monroe and the surrounding communities out of New Orleans on train No. 116. All they have to do at present is phone their orders in to the wholesale houses there any time of the day up to 7 p.m. at night and it is loaded in a high speed box car up to 7 p.m. and this car is placed on Texas and Pacific Railroad passenger train out at 7:50 p.m. and arrives in Monroe at 6:50 a.m. It is unloaded into trucks and the merchants receive this merchandise at the opening of their stores. This is a service that none of the other communities can boast of.

These communities served by these trains now enjoy double daily mail service. If this service is discontinued, it will cut it to only one each day.

The last time I visited Monroe, it was brought to my attention that they were going all out seeking industry to locate there and the other communities, I wonder how they expect to receive industries if they allow the railroads to do away with their only real means of transportation, for their travels, express and baggage. They will really need this for themselves and employees and their families, if they would locate there.

I do not understand why the people of Monroe don't rise as a whole to protest this move by the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company to discontinue these trains.

Respectfully,
R. R. TUSSON

Earl Long's Joke

Despite a statement by one potential candidate that, "Gov. Long is just having his fun," when Long announced he might run to succeed himself as governor of Louisiana, there is not much reason to think Long's statement was only a joke.

In fact, it would almost be safe to write it down in the book that Long will enter the next race for governor if:

He can be legally qualified as a candidate.

The "bad health" he enjoyed during his last campaign continues to be as good as it was then.

He thinks he can win.

We say this for several reasons. Long has never been concerned with scruples about ethics or about legal technicalities as against the intent of the farmers of the constitution, either state or national. His "bad health" seems to be a matter of choice, to be turned on and off at will, depending on how much sympathy he thinks it will arouse. He is ambitious and there is no better way in which he can gratify his ego or enhance his economic status than by another term as governor. He will make an appraisal of his chances to win. If he thinks they are good, he will run. If he finds they are not, he will make a joke out of the "joke."

Right now, Gov. Long is sounding off to find out what his real chances are. Opening the general session of the 22nd annual convention of the Louisiana Municipal Association, Long tried hard to sound like a potential candidate, carrying out his press conference remarks that he might run for a fourth term.

The governor said he had heard that former Gov. Robert Kennon might be interested in making the race again "and there's liable to be a lot of ex-governors in this time."

Referring to remarks of former Gov. Jimmie Davis and U.S. Rep. Otto Passman, Long said Davis was right when he said Long was unpredictable. Long grinningly quoted an old farmer as saying, "Don't trust a mule even sideways and don't trust a politician anyways."

As for Passman's comment that Long was joking, Long said, "I might be serious despite what Passman said."

If Long enters the race for governor, he will do so under a legal subterfuge and in obvious violation of the intent of the Louisiana constitution. The constitution says a governor may not succeed himeslf. If Long runs, he will evade this provision by resigning before the qualifying deadline, allowing the lieutenant governor to succeed him. He would then technically say he was not succeeding himself, since there would be an intervening governor.

The constitutional prohibition against a governor succeeding himself was drawn for the express purpose of preventing a governor from perpetuating himself in office and from building up such political power that there would be no way to overthrow him except by revolution. If it is possible for the governor to run by the technically of resigning a short time before his term expires, then the purpose of the constitution has been defeated. It would have been safer and more positive if the constitution had said that a governor could not succeed himself without an intervening period of four years, the length of time a governor serves in this state.

Flatly, this leaves the question of whether or not a governor can disregard honesty in this state and be elected through a "gimmick."

Aside from this, there is the interesting question of what kind of platform the governor would choose. The last time he ran on a platform of no increases in taxes. He not only increased taxes in every way possible but sought many increases which were blocked.

Lovely Louisiana

Appearing just about the time the spring and summer vacation period is getting into full swing, "Lovely Louisiana," colorful 240-page tourist guide book, just off the press, beckons invitingly to potential visitors to the beautiful and romantic bayou state.

"Lovely Louisiana" is intended to serve as the most complete tourist guide book ever issued in this state and one of the most informative ever issued in any state. Tourists looking for vacation mecas or unusual and hidden romantic spots will find this book a veritable library of descriptive loveliness.

It tells of entertainment spots ranging all the way from the wild, weird, raucus and rollicking music of the famous night spots of New Orleans' French quarter, to the crystal-clear sands of the shores of the Gulf of Mexico, to the great Lake Ponchartrain with its myriad attractions, to the quiet little lakes dotted here and there, to the many rivers and winding streams, to the race tracks, to the bowling centers, to the shady hidden nooks, to the fishing places and to the deep, somber swamps filled with dark water and with trees and undergrowth so thick that paths must be cut for boats to pass through and with huge trees festooned with long gray moss.

Published by the Louisiana Municipal Association the book outlines the many attractions of the land of sports, sugar cane, rice, Mardi Gras, old plantations, picturesque bayous, the land of Evangeline and Acadian culture and the year-round vacation and historic spots.

Directions are given to lakes, resorts, state parks and overnight camping areas.

Stories unique to the state include tales of voodoo, buried treasure, legendary bayous, the seafood industry, Louisiana cuisine and the fabled Deep South.

The unusual booklet is a handy six by nine inches and contains more than 250 pictures and illustrations, many in color. Included also is a special glossary of words and phrases.

A special feature of the book is a listing on "Who to See," in addition to the fact-filled where-to-go and what-to-see sections. Local information is readily available in all areas, so that the tourist who reads and studies this book may soon become more of an expert on Louisiana lore and attractions than the average citizen of this state.

And the outlook too is that after the mauling its opponents will inflict upon it it will still come out with the largest appropriation it has received in any single year.

The principal promoter of lavish American cash to our Allies of the free world and to "underdeveloped" countries will be the Berlin crisis, which will probably reach its zenith during the Congressional debate on foreign aid. The greatest obstacle will be a feeling among members of Congress that they will have a hard time justifying such aid to other countries at a time of great unemployment in the United States.

During the debate on redevelopment of depressed areas in the United States in the Senate a fortnight ago there was a discussion of this unemployment which has reached the greatest height since 1941.

There are no breadlines in the United States, but there are lines of people who are queued up to receive free food from surplus commodities distributed by the Department of Agriculture. The commodities included cornmeal, cheese, powdered milk, butter and flour. In January there were 5,606,000 persons receiving such aid.

In Pennsylvania 851,203 persons received such aid; in Michigan, 533,914; in New York 369,266; in West Virginia, 282,575. Even in Texas, where the oil millionaires we are supposed to always have with us, although it was twelfth in rank of States receiving such aid, 142,446 went into the lines asking and receiving free food.

The debate on foreign aid has started earlier than usual this year. President Eisenhower has sent a long message to Congress urging a three billion, nine hundred million dollar appropriation in fiscal 1960. Acting Secretary of State Herter and other Administration spokesmen have appeared before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in its behalf.

A committee appointed by President Eisenhower and made up in large part by former Administration officials had recommended that the President's already generous request be increased by $400,000,000 while another equally distinguished group of citizens has recommended that it be cut in half.

There was a setto in the House over an appropriation for the Development Loan Fund, a segment of foreign aid, just before Congress adjourned for the Easter recess. President Eisenhower unexpectedly called for an emergency appropriation of $225,000,000 for this fund. The House Appropriations Committee denied the request, but $100,000,000 was put back on the floor of the House and when the Senate comes back next week it will be asked to restore the full $225,000,000 and there is an excellent chance that it will.

Of the three billion, nine hundred million dollars for foreign aid, President Eisenhower has asked Congress to make available $700,000,000 more in fiscal 1960 for the Development Loan Fund.

Senator John F. Kennedy, than whom there is no more ardent advocate of foreign aid, has asked Congress to give the fund a long-term authorization of $1 billion a year. Whatever is appropriated will go to new ventures in "underprivileged" nations. Thus, the United States Treasury would provide risk capital in large amounts for speculative undertakings abroad.

Taking an opposite stand from Senator Kennedy, John B. Hollister, recent Director of International Cooperation Administration, which handles foreign aid, thinks it would not be a bad idea at all to abolish the Development Loan Fund. Failing that he would have it placed entirely under ICA, arguing that its present independent status weakens the nation's, overall control of spending and waste. Neither of Hollister's proposals has a chance of adoption.

If Congress finally appropriates three billion, nine hundred million for foreign aid it will be only a portion of American Funds being devoted to foreign aid. There are a whole jungle of agencies, with money for the purpose, including the World Bank; the International Loan Fund to which the United States is the principal contributor and the Export - import Bank. In addition President Eisenhower has recommended and the present session of Congress probably will create two more such bureaucracies — the International Development Association and the Inter-American Development Bank.

State Dentists End Convention With Election

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—The Louisiana Dental Assn. ended its 79th annual convention Saturday by electing Dr. Stanley S. Levy of Lake Charles as president. He succeeds Dr. Victor B. Marquet of New Orleans.

Also elected were Dr. Prescott E. Smith of New Orleans, president-elect; vice presidents Dr. N. Lynn Norman of Shreveport and Dr. Frank J. Houghton of New Orleans; Dr. Julian S. Bernhard of Shreveport, secretary; and Dr. Charles F. Bartels of New Orleans, treasurer.

Other dental groups, meeting in conjunction with the association during the four-day meeting, installed officers Friday.

The LDA women's auxiliary installed Mrs. N. Lynn Norman of Shreveport as president; the Louisiana Dental Hygenists Assn. installed Helen Bordelon of Lake Charles president; and the Louisiana Dental Assistants Assn. put Mrs. Lottie Fisher of Monroe in as president.

Warden Drowns On River Patrol

LEAKESVILLE, Miss. (AP) — Game Warden Ezra L. Brewer of State Line drowned Saturday when his small boat sank while he was patrolling the Chickasawhay river in Greene County near here.

Brewer, 42, had been a game warden since 1952.

Another man in the boat was rescued.

TRAIN DISCONTINUANCE

Gretna, La.

To The Editor

It will be appreciated if you publish my views in your comments for Readers. It may be a little long but the truth never hurts.

It has been called to my attention that the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company has placed notices in their passenger stations and depots that they have made application to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D.C. that they will discontinue their passenger trains Nos. 103 and 116 April 27, 1959, Little Rock, Ark., to Alexandria, La. which connects from that point to New Orleans, over the Texas and Pacific Railroad tracks.

I wonder if the citizens living in the towns and communities that these trains serve for their travels realize that these trains are the only over-nite service to and from New Orleans You can at present leave Little Rock 5:30, Monroe, 11:10 p.m. and arrive New Orleans 6:15 a.m. the next morning, attend to your days business, or visit your doctor and leave New Orleans, 7:50 p.m. arrive Monroe, 6:50 a.m., Little Rock, 12:15 p.m., even though this connection is delayed at Alexandria, for four hours. If they discontinue this service on these trains it will take three days and two nights to make this trip, on their other trains Nos. 1311 and 132.

I am wondering what the business people will do if these trains are allowed to be discontinued. At present they have an overnight merchandise service that serves Monroe and the surrounding communities out of New Orleans on train No. 116. All they have to do at present is phone their orders in to the wholesale houses there any time of the day up to 7 p.m. at night and it is loaded in a high speed box car up to 7 p.m. and this car is placed on Texas and Pacific Railroad passenger train out at 7:50 p.m. and arrives in Monroe at 6:50 a.m. It is unloaded into trucks and the merchants receive this merchandise at the opening of their stores. This is a service that none of the other communities can boast of.

These communities served by these trains now enjoy double daily mail service. If this service is discontinued, it will cut it to only one each day.

The last time I visited Monroe, it was brought to my attention that they were going all out seeking industry to locate there and the other communities, I wonder how they expect to receive industries if they allow the railroads to do away with their only real means of transportation, for their travels, express and baggage. They will really need this for themselves and employees and their families, if they would locate there.

I do not understand why the people of Monroe don't rise as a whole to protest this move by the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company to discontinue these trains.

Respectfully,
R. R. TUSSON

The two banks are receiving checks for the Lock - Cullen Memorial Monument Fund.

Letter

From the Naval Air Station in Barber's Point, Hawaii, we have a very interesting letter from Jim Lea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lea of Monroe.

Jim is the assistant editor of the station newspaper, "The Pointer," We must congratulate the boys on this very fine eight page paper. In his letter Jim says, "I am very concerned about living conditions in Hong Kong and elsewhere in the Orient and feel that all Americans should know a little more about the terrible waste fostered by Communism. I feel that it will generate a little more appreciation for the life we enjoy in the United States."

"Thank God that you were born American and ask Him to bring a swift and total end to the slavery of communism."

Jes' Ramblin' thinks that the strong words of this young boy known to many in Monroe through his school, Scouting and church affiliations should be read, for he is where so much is known that we only hear from others unknown to us. Let us heed this boy's words.

School

A "School of Missions" will begin tonight at the First Christian Church. The time is 5:45 until 8:00 p.m. A snack supper will be served and an exhibit on Africa class sessions for all ages, an assembly period, and a film will complete activities. "Ingila of the Congo."

The theme of the school is "Missions Follow New Frontiers," and the total program of the work of the 'Disciples of Christ Around the World' will be studied.

All friends of the church are welcome.

SUPER SUPERMARKETS

as an inspiring example of Western solidarity.

After the communique was released, NATO Secretary General Paul-Henri Spaak pleaded with newsmen to place emphasis on the broad field of agreement among the NATO members, rather than on some differences he described as being of minor importance.

Spaak declined to give details of any specific accords but he said one area concerned "a number of principles" on which the Western defensive alliance will give no ground whatsoever. He did not list them.

The council also reaffirmed a statement made last December, when it backed up the Big Three in its refusal to withdraw troops from Berlin until the whole German question is answered.

It said the opinions of the other 11 NATO nations also will be considered at a meeting of the Big Three with West Germany next month in Geneva. That conference will put the final polish on Western proposals to be presented at a foreign ministers' meeting with Russia there on May 11.

The council said its endorsement followed a thorough study of reports from the Big Three and West Germany regarding "the present state of their thought in regard to the problems" which have arisen in Berlin.

The communique said the NATO ministers also discussed the threat of international communism throughout the free world; reaffirmed the determination of NATO nations to maintain a common defense effort; agreed that closer interdependence is needed to best utilize defense resources; recognized need for consultation in the fields of politics, defense, economy, science, culture and information; and reviewed progress made by the alliance over the past 10 years.

The council expressed confidence that NATO "will continue to develop as the indispensable basis for the security of the Atlantic peoples and the defense of world peace."

"It (the council) believes also that the unity of action and policy which the alliance makes possible is the best guarantee of successful negotiation with the Soviet government and of any genuine resolution of differences between the East and the West," the communique said.

The council's recommendations and observations will be taken up at a Western Big Four meeting in London April 13, during which a working group will rough out an allied bargaining position.

In his press briefing Spaak said a final Western position may not be hammered out until the Allied ministers' meeting at Geneva.

Spaak did not discuss a Canadian proposal made Friday that the United Nations place some sort of watchdog unit on the road to Berlin. Diplomatic informants have said there is strong opposition inside the council to any scheme for bringing the United Nations on the scene.

Khrushchev Still Ahead In Debating

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the fateful debate over Berlin, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is still ahead.

This became evident Saturday with the windup of intensive consultations here among foreign policymakers of the Western powers during the past week.

An official commcnique stressed the solidarity of the Allied stand against yielding to Soviet pressures for withdrawal from West Berlin. The position thus redefined for what a cynical diplomat called the umpteenth time is essentially a negative one. It does nothing to challenge Khrushchev's hold on the initiative.

On the positive side the NATO foreign ministers stressed their desire for negotiations with the Soviet Union. But neither the communique nor authoritative information filtered out through diplomatic informants indicated that any imaginative, bold or especially new approach had been generated.

Behind the stout declarations of solidarity there ran a thread of concern about concessions which might be made to the Soviets. Behind the repeated official insistence on the unity of the NATO allies in meeting the Soviet threat could be found evidence of disunity at critical points.

The consensus of the council on the problem of concessions was summed up by diplomats in a simple formula: No concessions to the Reds which were not matched by concessions from the Reds.

Strictly as a bargaining matter this may be a weak principle to guide a coalition in negotiating with a dictator. The coalition always faces the danger of division over the price to pay for concessions it wants from the other side.

On every hand this reporter heard references during the meetings here to the absence of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. Such comments served to magnify a striking fact about the council meeting itself. It was singularly free of forceful, decisive personalities.

AT ANNUAL GRIDIRON

Long, Candidates Are Main Targets

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Sen. W. M. Rainach, Louisiana segregation chief, sang gaily Saturday night, "So, I'm a candidate for governor, yesiree, I'm going to set you white folks free."

And former Gov. Jimmie Davis complained Gov. Earl Long "sang no song. . .but I'll change all that, next election day, and this old place will swing and sway."

Meanwhile, the governor danced, sang, worked out a scheme to befuddle reporters hunting gambling by hiding slot machines in ladies restrooms and ordered several officials of the New Orleans Times-Picayune shot for printing stories about him on back pages instead of the front page.

It was all in fun as Baton Rouge newsmen mocked state officials in the eighth annual Louisiana Gridiron Show. After the show, the chief target, Gov. Long, got a chance for a reply.

A sellout crowd of 750 saw the show sponsored by the Capital Correspondents Assn., including most of the people being rubbed on the state, Long and former Govs. Davis and Robert Kennon.

In a make believe news conference, the governor complained Times-Picayune Editor George W. Healy Jr. is giving Cuban leader Fidel Castro a better break than Long, "inviting him to speak to the newspaper editors and is even fixing him up with a lot of blades."

So he ordered Healy, Publisher John Tims and "that Picayune sports editor who makes such bad selections at the Fairgrounds" hauled away and shot. Then he dared newsmen, "now let's see you put that on page 57."

In a sketch about the school lunch surplus, School Lunch Director Evelyn Terrell explained to State Supt. Shelby M. Jackson:

"No, sire, this isn't surplus from the regular lunch room. We got rid of most of that and hid theing. rest. This is surplus from the surplus that never got distributed. It's better. And it's just for you."

In New Orleans, the cold water committee is trying to discourage Mayor deLesseps Morrison from running for governor.

Each time, after they pour cold water — literally — on him, Morrison insists, "I'm gonna run."

Then a committee member asked, "You want to be senator?

Morrison thought a minute, then sang, "You Are My Sunshine."

Tech Students Slated To Talk At ASME Confab

RUSTON (Special) — Representing Louisiana Tech's student section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at a conference April 17 - 18 at Louisiana State University will be Joseph T. Rayburn and Charles E. Williams, both of Ruston.

The students will present talks on scientific papers they have written.

At the LSU conference will be members of Region 8 of the ASME, which is comprised of Texas and Louisiana schools.

Members of the ASME from Shreveport and Monroe will be guests of the Tech ASME at a shrimp boil, which will be held in the college's mechanical engineering laboratory at 6:30 p.m. on April 24.

Rayburn and Williams will aslo present their talks at that gathering.

Behind the stout declarations of solidarity there ran a thread of concern about concessions which might be made to the Soviets. Behind the repeated official insistence on the unity of the NATO allies in meeting the Soviet threat could be found evidence of disunity at critical points.

The consensus of the council on the problem of concessions was summed up by diplomats in a simple formula: No concessions to the Reds which were not matched by concessions from the Reds.

Strictly as a bargaining matter this may be a weak principle to guide a coalition in negotiating with a dictator. The coalition always faces the danger of division over the price to pay for concessions it wants from the other side.

On every hand this reporter heard references during the meetings here to the absence of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. Such comments served to magnify a striking fact about the council meeting itself. It was singularly free of forceful, decisive personalities.

Long, Candidates Are Main Targets

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Sen. W. M. Rainach, Louisiana segregation chief, sang gaily Saturday night, "So, I'm a candidate for governor, yesiree, I'm going to set you white folks free."

And former Gov. Jimmie Davis complained Gov. Earl Long "sang no song. . .but I'll change all that, next election day, and this old place will swing and sway."

Meanwhile, the governor danced, sang, worked out a scheme to befuddle reporters hunting gambling by hiding slot machines in ladies restrooms and ordered several officials of the New Orleans Times-Picayune shot for printing stories about him on back pages instead of the front page.

It was all in fun as Baton Rouge newsmen mocked state officials in the eighth annual Louisiana Gridiron Show. After the show, the chief target, Gov. Long, got a chance for a reply.

A sellout crowd of 750 saw the show sponsored by the Capital Correspondents Assn., including most of the people being rubbed on the state, Long and former Govs. Davis and Robert Kennon.

In a make believe news conference, the governor complained Times-Picayune Editor George W. Healy Jr. is giving Cuban leader Fidel Castro a better break than Long, "inviting him to speak to the newspaper editors and is even fixing him up with a lot of blades."

So he ordered Healy, Publisher John Tims and "that Picayune sports editor who makes such bad selections at the Fairgrounds" hauled away and shot. Then he dared newsmen, "now let's see you put that on page 57."

In a sketch about the school lunch surplus, School Lunch Director Evelyn Terrell explained to State Supt. Shelby M. Jackson:

"No, sire, this isn't surplus from the regular lunch room. We got rid of most of that and hid the rest. This is surplus from the surplus that never got distributed. It's better. And it's just for you."

In New Orleans, the cold water committee is trying to discourage Mayor deLesseps Morrison from running for governor.

Each time, after they pour cold water — literally — on him, Morrison insists, "I'm gonna run."

Then a committee member asked, "You want to be senator?

Morrison thought a minute, then sang, "You Are My Sunshine."

Tech Students Slated To Talk At ASME Confab

RUSTON (Special) — Representing Louisiana Tech's student section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at a conference April 17 - 18 at Louisiana State University will be Joseph T. Rayburn and Charles E. Williams, both of Ruston.

The students will present talks on scientific papers they have written.

At the LSU conference will be members of Region 8 of the ASME, which is comprised of Texas and Louisiana schools.

Members of the ASME from Shreveport and Monroe will be guests of the Tech ASME at a shrimp boil, which will be held in the college's mechanical engineering laboratory at 6:30 p.m. on April 24.

Rayburn and Williams will aslo present their talks at that gathering.

The vacation, however, turned out to be a nightmare for Andrews. First he had to call the boss and tell him that he had skidded Mansfield's car and smasked the front grill. Then he had to telephone the sad news that a water main had broken and flooded all of the stock in the store's basement.

nothing to compromise India with Peiping while he is on Indian soil.

Domestically, the Tibetan affair appeared to be a blessing in disguise to Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's ruling Congress Party.

The Communists, who had been gaining popularity among the masses at the expense of the Congress Party, suddenly found themselves looked upon with increasing suspicion for supporting Peiping's version of the Tibetan rebellion and for making charges that India was letting Kalimpong be used as an anti-China spy base.

Nehru was expected to clear up some of the questions of how he regards the legal status of the Dalai Lama when he holds a press conference Sunday.

Nehru, speaking at the opening of the second Indian national conference of United Nations Non-governmental Organizations, praised Panch Shila—the five principles of co-existence agreed to by India and Red China—and then took a backhand slap at Peiping.

There are those who forget these principles when their own "narrow self-interest" gets in the way, he said.

New details of how the Tibet rebellion started last month were disclosed Saturday by Tibetan refugees and Nationalist Chinese intelligence reports in Taipei.

The Nationalist intelligence reports said the Tibetan government issued a statement on the eve of the revolt officially accusing the Peiping regime of enslaving, robbing and exploiting the Tibetan people.

The proclamation was reported to have charged Peiping with attempting to destroy Buddhism.

Eisenhower departed from his prepared text to declare that "no matter what areas of federal spending should be curtailed—and some should—our safety comes first."

Some congressional Democrats have accused him of cutting back essential defense spending to achieve a balanced budget.

"Since that safety is necessarily based on a sound and thriving economy," the President added, "its protection must equally engage our earnest attention."

He also voiced hope that through education, citizens would achieve an understanding of the international situation and of the need for this country to play a major role in blunting Communist efforts.

"A free America can exist only as part of a free world, and a free world can continue to exist only as it meets the rightful demands of people for security, progress and opportunity," he said.

Mainly because they've made exhaustive tests with a simulated space ship cockpit using a room filled with electronic calculators check and recheck information.

Into these calculators are fed the natural phenomenon spacemen will encounter, plus data on the hypothetical space glider's performance.

Thus if a pilot moves his controls, that fact is flashed to the calculator, which instantly determines how the glider will react. This information shows on the pilot's instrument panel to guide him. In actual flight, nature and the glider's characteristics will replace the calculator.

Luton flew a theoretical problem for newsmen. A rocket, the type used to put any satellite into orbit, boosted him from Galveston, Tex. Over Atlanta, Ga., the boosters dropped off at 350,000 feet, with his momentum about 18,000 m.p.h.—orbit speed.

Over Ethiopia, he reached the high point of his orbit at 375,000 feet. Over New Zealand he reached what the scientists term the "sensible atmosphere"—sufficiently dense to exert some drag on the glider and to permit the control wings of the craft to have some effect.

At that point, Luton could take control. At the Equator, he began a left turn to bring the craft over Dallas.

It was simply a demonstration, but the Chance Vought scientists watched recording instruments in the calculator room almost with the excitement they would demonstrate if a man were at 375,000 feet—70 miles—above the earth.

The scientists watched with concern as Luton almost went out of control into perpetual orbit, temporarily overheated, bounced 50,000 feet in a couple of minutes when he hit a cushion of air too fast, and lost momentum too rapidly, requiring a small rocket boost.

Those are the problems a spaceman will face, says the scientists, but they believe the instruments can bring him back.

said, "I see no reason to pass on a resolution that we know the Legislature will not act upon during the forthcoming fiscal session."

Fant, elected last summer in a Saturday primary, said he found Saturday elections "highly satisfactory," but added he was not defending Gov. Earl Long "and the governor knows I'm not."

Long, who sponsored the change in the 1958 Legislature, urged the LMA Thursday to give Saturday elections a tryout in a statewide election next December before demanding a change.

The selection committee cited Bowdon for his public relations work outside his own area and his municipal programs, specifically a 13 million dollar public improvement program.

Bowdon's father served as Alexandria mayor 1941-45. They are the only father-son team to serve in the city's top job.

The LMA voted to hold its 1960 convention in New Orleans.

John McW. Ford, Shreveport commissioner of finance, was honored by the LMA for 50 years service to his city.

The delegates also approved resolutions calling for:

1. The Legislature to restore $1,100,000 to provide a city police pay hike, originally voted in 1956 and sliced out last year when money grew tight.
2. "Rigid and impartial" enforcement of the state's shrimp laws.
3. Support of a program to improve municipal bond ratings.
4. Congress to repeal the federal excise tax on communications services.
5. Support of the Miss Louisiana pageant at Lake Providence.
6. Representation of the municipal employes' retirement system on the LMA board of directors.

India Shields Tibet Lama From Public

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India shielded Tibet's fugitive Dalai Lama from any outside contact Saturday, obviously fearful lest he say something that might bring down the wrath of Red China.

India's press, however, cut loose with speculation that a Communist spy ring had unearthed the tightly guarded secret of the god-king's arrival in India last Tuesday.

Some even asked if spies had cracked India's secret code in which the news of the Dalai Lama's crossing of the frontier was sent from the border point of Towang to New Delhi.

Prime Minister Nehru will be questioned at his press conference Monday about the fact that Peiping told the world Thursday the Dalai Lama had reached India, 18 hours before Nehru himself announced it to Parliament.

There was little doubt that Nehru's government was treading warily to avoid angering Red China, its powerful neighbor still heavily engaged in putting down a revolt of the Dalai Lama's followers in Tibet.

An Indian political officer from the frontier was accompanying the Dalai Lama's party of 80 as it approached Towang, in remote northeast India.

premises during the early morning hours.

The Alumni Assn. of Baldorn with an enrollment of 4,000, is seeking the expulsion of 29 "troublemaking" professors who have been defended by the National Students Union.

The Ministry for the Recovery of Embezzled Wealth, meantime, disclosed that it had "intervened" in 236 business enterprises, allegedly owned or controlled by collaborators or supporters of Batista.

These included three domestic airlines, an airport, two banks, various newspapers, the national radio network, a television station and scores of other projects.

The ministry also said it had recovered more than 20 million dollars in cash or securities of "Batistianos" or suspected collaborators.

Alexandria's Mayor Wins High Honor

said, "I see no reason to pass on a resolution that we know the Legislature will not act upon during the forthcoming fiscal session."

Fant, elected last summer in a Saturday primary, said he found Saturday elections "highly satisfactory," but added he was not defending Gov. Earl Long "and the governor knows I'm not."

Long, who sponsored the change in the 1958 Legislature, urged the LMA Thursday to give Saturday elections a tryout in a statewide election next December before demanding a change.

The selection committee cited Bowdon for his public relations work outside his own area and his municipal programs, specifically a 13 million dollar public improvement program.

Bowdon's father served as Alexandria mayor 1941-45. They are the only father-son team to serve in the city's top job.

The LMA voted to hold its 1960 convention in New Orleans.

John McW. Ford, Shreveport commissioner of finance, was honored by the LMA for 50 years service to his city.

The delegates also approved resolutions calling for:

1. The Legislature to restore $1,100,000 to provide a city police pay hike, originally voted in 1956 and sliced out last year when money grew tight.
2. "Rigid and impartial" enforcement of the state's shrimp laws.
3. Support of a program to improve municipal bond ratings.
4. Congress to repeal the federal excise tax on communications services.
5. Support of the Miss Louisiana pageant at Lake Providence.
6. Representation of the municipal employes' retirement system on the LMA board of directors.

India Shields Tibet Lama From Public

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India shielded Tibet's fugitive Dalai Lama from any outside contact Saturday, obviously fearful lest he say something that might bring down the wrath of Red China.

India's press, however, cut loose with speculation that a Communist spy ring had unearthed the tightly guarded secret of the god-king's arrival in India last Tuesday.

Some even asked if spies had cracked India's secret code in which the news of the Dalai Lama's crossing of the frontier was sent from the border point of Towang to New Delhi.

Prime Minister Nehru will be questioned at his press conference Monday about the fact that Peiping told the world Thursday the Dalai Lama had reached India, 18 hours before Nehru himself announced it to Parliament.

There was little doubt that Nehru's government was treading warily to avoid angering Red China, its powerful neighbor still heavily engaged in putting down a revolt of the Dalai Lama's followers in Tibet.

An Indian political officer from the frontier was accompanying the Dalai Lama's party of 80 as it approached Towang, in remote northeast India.

Paul Weston Offers New Puppet Show

NEW YORK (AP)—"The way it begins," said Paul Weston, "Art Carney is a sorcerer, a sort of half-baked sorcerer. Nobody applauds him. He has an underpaid rabbit working for him. . . ."

And so the same combination of talents that brought "Peter and the Wolf," to television will offer the ever human Carney and the almost human Biard puppets in "The Sorcerer's Apprentice" over ABC-TV Sunday, April 5.

Weston, the noted and affable musical conductor, composer and arranger, explained that the history of the show is as complicated as one of Bach's inventions for the piano.

In the beginning there was a legend. Then Goethe wrote a poem called "The Sorcerer's Apprentice." It inspired the French composer Paul Dukas to his symphonic poem "L'Apprenti Sorcier" — which was an instanteous success when it was first presented in Paris in 1897. A few years ago it was incorporated into Walt Disney's "Fantasia," with Mickey Mouse, of all people, playing the apprentic.

"You might say that we started all over again," said Weston, "using Dukas's work as the musical basis."

From the viewpoint of an hour television show the only trouble with Dukas' symphonic work is that it lasts only nine minutes. And an hour TV show, under the rules of commercial television, runs 52 minutes. That leaves? . . .

"There were six songs for me to write," said Weston, who also will conduct the orchestra for the show. "I enjoyed writing them. I had a wonderful time. One of the chief reasons was because Ogden Nash was writing the lyrics."

Does a prolific composer like Weston reach into a trunk and pull out some unpublished tunes?

"It's not that easy," he said. "Old manuscripts are no good. You have to keep the whole thing true to the mood and tradition of Dukas' music. You can't throw in some bop with Dukas or the result would be musical chaos."

Weston wrote his music in Hollywood. Nash wrote his lyrics in New York. Which came first is as insoluble as the riddle of the chicken and the egg, for Nash sent sent some lyrics to Weston and Weston sent some taped music to Nash. You try to figure it out, for they can't—except that Weston thinks Nash is the greatest as a lyricist.

"It's his free associations," Weston said. "They're wonderful."

A. J. Russell wrote the book for the show, as he did for "Peter and the Wolf." The entire staff is the same as in the previous special. Nturally Bil and Cora Baird have created an entire new cast of puppets for "The Sorcerer's

Tea sales to groceries and institutions in the U.S. totaled more than 108 million pounds in 1958, second largest in history.

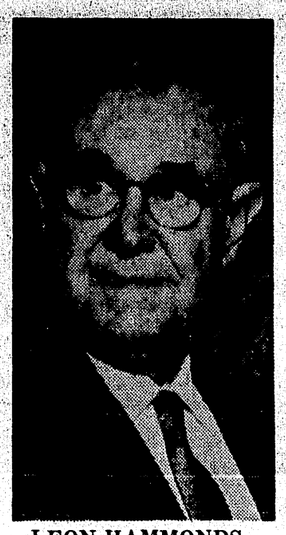
R. D. KELLOGG

L. E. NUGENT



LEON HAMMONDS

R. D. Kellogg Names Nugent General Mgr.

R. D. Kellogg, owner of Monroe Furniture Company and its subsidiaries, yesterday announced that L. E. Nugent has assumed the duties of general manager.

Nugent took over as general manager April 1, after being transferred to the main office from the American Furniture Company in Shreveport.

Kellogg announced that Nugent will be general manager of the Monroe Furniture Company, its eight subsidiaries and its manufacturing company, The Supreme Bedding and Furniture Manufacturing Company.

The new executive is well versed in all phases of the furniture business, having been associated in the retail and wholesale line since 1945. He joined the staff of the Monroe Furniture Company when he was discharged from the armed services.

Nugent started out as a salesman and progressed to opening a wholesale territory in Beaumont. He has managed several of the retail stores and prior to being promoted, was manager of American Furniture Company in Shreveport.

The Monroe Furniture Company has branch stores in the following cities; Ruston Furniture Company, Ruston, managed by Buster Lucas; American Furniture Company, Shreveport; Milford Furniture Company and Southern Furniture Company, Lake Charles; United Furniture Company, Alexandria; Monroe Furniture Company, West Monroe, managed by Harold Miles, Monroe Furniture Company, Bastrop, managed by Howard Morgan.

Kellogg announced that Leon Hammonds, well - known in the Twin Cities area, will continue to serve the customers he has become acquainted with during his employment with the company since 1922.

In commenting on the policy of the Monroe Furniture Company and its subsidiaries, Nugent stated, "We carry the largest stock of furniture in north Louisiana and our policy will continue to be that of supplying the people of this area with top quality furniture at the most reasonable prices. For the budget buyers, we have in stock high quality furniture at the most economical prices."

10 Children See First 'Big Show'

TREHARRIS, Wales (AP)—The 10 children of former trapese artist Ted Griffin had never seen a circus. Five are confined to wheelchairs. Griffin, now unemployed, couldn't afford to send the other five to a town seven miles away where the big show was playing.

The circus performers heard about the children and Ted and brought the circus to them. putting on an hour-long performance in the street outside the Griffin home.

WON'T STAGGER TO POLLS

Oklahoma To Vote On Repeal Tuesday

EDITOR'S NOTE: — Since it became a state in 1907, Oklahoma has been legally dry, but for years anyone who has wanted a bottle of booze could generally get one. Now, as the state votes for the sixth time on the question of repeal, there has been a real crackdown. An AP reporter went high and low to get the wet and dry of it all.

By JIM MONROE

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — "I ain't no criminal," says Old Joe, an Oklahoma City bootlegger. But he is.

Thirty times a day he breaks the law in this constitutionally dry state.

Old Joe operates a walk-in whisky store in a rundown area of the city. The windows are painted. A couple of peekholes let in light. There are no signs or liquor displays.

When Old Joe makes a sale, he trudges to the rear of the ramshackle building to the secret whisky caches.

Two months ago Old Joe would have sold a bottle of bourbon to almost anyone. But now he only sells to people he knows. If a stranger enters his establishment and asks for a bottle, he becomes highly indignant.

The heat's on. And Old Joe knows that officers who virtually gave him a free reign for years may swoop down on him at any moment.

"It keeps me pretty nervous," he admits.

Like hundreds of other bootleggers and thousands of whisky-drinkers in Oklahoma, Old Joe is agonizing over a statewide stop-and-go drive on liquor.

State residents vote Tuesday, April 7, on the repeal of prohibition, and this time there won't be any staggering to the polls.

A crackdown on illegal liquor was started at the same time that a repeal proposal was dropped into the legislative hoppers. Both were triggered by a red-haired, former Tulsa county prosecutor soon after he took office as governor Jan. 12.

"I think Oklahomans should be given a clearcut choice between repeal and prohibition," says Gov. J. Howard Edmondson. "They have never had this before."

Edmondson turned the Highway Patrol and State Crime Bureau loose on illicit liquor peddlers, and persuaded local officers to join the crusade.

Many bootleggers have quit business. Private clubs have closed their bars, hotels are moaning over a sharp decrease in guests, and it's hard for anyone to find a drink of hard liquor.

Leading the liquor chase is 34-year-old Joe Cannon, longtime friend of the governor and former Muskogee county attorney.

Cannon says surprisingly both wets and drys are endorsing the drastic action. The drys want to keep Oklahoma sober and the wets believe it will help the anti-prohibition cause.

While the general reaction of the public to the crackdown has been favorable, Cannon admits he has angered many persons. The legislature has jumped him periodically, and a senate committee investigated his use of patrol troopers in liquor raids.

Sen. Everett Collins of Sapulpa declared the patrol should stick to traffic problems on state highways, and Rep. J. D. McCarty of Oklahoma City protested that the crime bureau has been turned "into a bunch of whisky sniffers."

Many Oklahomans are nostalgic for "the good old days" when prohibition was often interpreted to mean: "Keep your bottle out of sight."

If you don't know your bootlegger personally, it takes a good reference to make a purchase in Oklahoma City. The bootlegger checks you out by telephone before deciding whether to do business.

Hundreds of thousands of bottles have been confiscated by the widespread raids. A recent haul at Oklahoma City netted 100 cases and officers got even more than that in five raids at Lawton.

The added peril for bootleggers has brought a sharp boost in prices. Bourbon which sold at $5 a fifth a few months ago now is going at up to $9. Other liquors are up as much.

Wets and drys marshalled their forces quickly for the campaign, and both are holding statewide rallies. Both are predicting victory.

REASONS WHY OUACHITA PARISH NEEDS 2 MILL ROAD TAX!

In a recent article which appeared in the paper, it was stated that Ouachita Parish now has 757.65 miles of Parish roads. At present there are 147.8 miles of blacktopped roads, this having been done in the past ten years. There are now 527.15 miles of gravel roads and 82.7 miles dirt roads in Ouachita Parish.

For the year of 1958 the Police Jury hauled and distributed on the above roads 62,000 yards of gravel. Not only does the surface of these roads have to be maintained but down each side of these 757.65 miles of roads there is a ditch for drainage that must be cleaned to permit proper flow of water.

At the present time there are only four parishes in the State of Louisiana who do not have a road maintenance tax, and Ouachita Parish is one of the four. Now who has been keeping these parish roads? The Police Jury has been maintaining these roads with funds they receive for other purposes. It is true the parish is not growing in that we have acquired more land, but more people are moving to the country and every day the Police Jury is asked to construct new roads or improve some of the existing ones. We, the people of Ouachita Parish, use many of these roads at some time or another. Those who live in town use the roads in the Parish and likewise those who live in the country use the roads, going to and from town.

To maintain these many miles of roads is a very expensive operation. Many pieces of machinery and equipment must be kept on hand at all times. Not only is it necessary to have this equipment, but it must be be running order, and like all pieces of machinery it does wear out and must be replaced. At the present we have seventy pieces of equipment. They are as follows: 32 trucks; 2 cars; 2 jeeps; 12 motor graders; 4 drag lines; 2 gradeall; 1 asphalt distributor; 6 mowing machines; 5 dozers; 2 rollers; 2 pull graders. Of the seventy pieces listed above there are fourteen of these pieces that have over 100,000 miles on them. Several pieces are over fourteen years old. The cost of these seventy pieces represents over $400,000.00 dollars. Just to give the voters some idea what it costs to purchase one piece of road machinery, a gradeall costs over $28,000.00. That is just one piece of these seventy pieces listed. That is just a birds-eye view of the purchase cost, but after the purchase there is maintenance that must be carried on at all times. This bill each year is a very large one. To give you some idea, during the year of 1958 the repair and maintenance on this equipment was $48,-021.98. Just these two items alone, should make each parish resident see the need for a road maintenance tax for Ouachita Parish.

Not only does the Police Jury have to purchase, maintain equipment, furnish road material, but wages must be pai dto those who operate the equipment. During the year of 1958 $272,886.38 was paid for wages and salaries. This money stays in Ouachita Parish and is spent in the various business establishments located in this parish.

There are many other services the Police Jury must do with the money they receive other than those which have been given above. Just to list some of the larger items: Insurance $20,280.52; Tires and Tubes $6,657.66; Materials and Supplies $11,982.49; Lumber $17,607.65; Culverts $8,731.32; Gravel $13,-566.75; Asphalt $34,991.74; Gasoline, Oil & Fuel $38,242.96; other miscellaneous items $30,334.04. This expenditure was for the year 1958.

If the 2 mill tax is passed it is the plans of the Police Jury to blacktop approximately 110.0 miles of the most vital parish roads and to repair existing roads. This tax is dedicated to blacktopping of roads.

All of the above information is just for road maintenance. But to complete the duties of the Police Jury, let's look at some of the many other expenditures they are required to assume.

So you, Mr. & Mrs. Taxpayer, can see just where your parish tax money goes. Too, it will help you to better understand why the parish needs to vote favorably for the five tax issues coming up on April 7th.

In addition to all of the above mentioned expenses the Police Jury is called on to be responsible for, there is still approximately 90 miles of large drainage canals to be maintained, about 3 miles of wooden bridges, on roads and over drainage canals, all must be kept in good condition at all times.

Why is all this information being given to the public? So you, Mr. & Mrs. Taxpayer, can see just where your tax money goes. Too, it will help you to better understand why the parish needs to vote favorably for the five tax issues coming up on April 7th.

These five tax issues represent 4¾ mills of tax. In 1958 a ½ mill drainage tax expired, this year ⅓ mill detiontion home, and 1 mill Cooley Sanatorium, and 3.4 mill Health unit tax, will expire.

LEON HAMMONDS

R. D. Kellogg Names Nugent General Mgr.

R. D. Kellogg, owner of Monroe Furniture Company and its subsidiaries, yesterday announced that L. E. Nugent has assumed the duties of general manager.

Nugent took over as general manager April 1, after being transferred to the main office from the American Furniture Company in Shreveport.

Kellogg announced that Nugent will be general manager of the Monroe Furniture Company, its eight subsidiaries and its manufacturing company, The Supreme Bedding and Furniture Manufacturing Company.

The new executive is well versed in all phases of the furniture business, having been associated in the retail and wholesale line since 1945. He joined the staff of the Monroe Furniture Company when he was discharged from the armed services.

Nugent started out as a salesman and progressed to opening a wholesale territory in Beaumont. He has managed several of the retail stores and prior to being promoted, was manager of American Furniture Company in Shreveport.

The Monroe Furniture Company has branch stores in the following cities; Ruston Furniture Company, Ruston, managed by Buster Lucas; American Furniture Company, Shreveport; Milford Furniture Company and Southern Furniture Company, Lake Charles; United Furniture Company, Alexandria; Monroe Furniture Company, West Monroe, managed by Harold Miles, Monroe Furniture Company, Bastrop, managed by Howard Morgan.

Kellogg announced that Leon Hammonds, well - known in the Twin Cities area, will continue to serve the customers he has become acquainted with during his employment with the company since 1922.

In commenting on the policy of the Monroe Furniture Company and its subsidiaries, Nugent stated, "We carry the largest stock of furniture in north Louisiana and our policy will continue to be that of supplying the people of this area with top quality furniture at the most reasonable prices. For the budget buyers, we have in stock high quality furniture at the most economical prices."

10 Children See First 'Big Show'

TREHARRIS, Wales (AP)—The 10 children of former trapese artist Ted Griffin had never seen a circus. Five are confined to wheelchairs. Griffin, now unemployed, couldn't afford to send the other five to a town seven miles away where the big show was playing.

The circus performers heard about the children and Ted and brought the circus to them, putting on an hour-long performance in the street outside the Griffin home.

WON'T STAGGER TO POLLS

Oklahoma To Vote On Repeal Tuesday

EDITOR'S NOTE: — Since it became a state in 1907, Oklahoma has been legally dry, but for years anyone who has wanted a bottle of booze could generally get one. Now, as the state votes for the sixth time on the question of repeal, there has been a real crackdown. An AP reporter went high and low to get the wet and dry of it all.

By JIM MONROE

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — "I ain't no criminal," says Old Joe, an Oklahoma City bootlegger. But he is.

Thirty times a day he breaks the law in this constitutionally dry state.

Old Joe operates a walk-in whisky store in a rundown area of the city. The windows are painted. A couple of peekholes let in light. There are no signs or liquor displays.

When Old Joe makes a sale, he trudges to the rear of the ramshackle building to the secret whisky caches.

Two months ago Old Joe would have sold a bottle of bourbon to almost anyone. But now he only sells to people he knows. If a stranger enters his establishment and asks for a bottle, he becomes highly indignant.

The heat's on. And Old Joe knows that officers who virtually gave him a free reign for years may swoop down on him at any moment.

"It keeps me pretty nervous," he admits.

Like hundreds of other bootleggers and thousands of whisky-drinkers in Oklahoma, Old Joe is agonizing over a statewide stop-and-go drive on liquor.

State residents vote Tuesday, April 7, on the repeal of prohibition, and this time there won't be any staggering to the polls.

PROGRAM FLEXIBLE

LSU Approves Building Plans

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisiana State University Saturday adopted a flexible building program, designed to fit whatever funds the May fiscal Legislature can provide.

The plan provides a two-year immediate program, with most of the money going to meet emergency needs at LSU in New Orleans; a larger five-year program and a seven-year program to meet the students expected to double enrollments by 1970.

LSU has proposed a 40 million dollar bond issue, financed by beer tax revenues, to meet the major portion of its 53 million dollar building needs.

But Dean of Administration Daniel Borth told the board since Gov. Earl Long frowns on bond issues, a cash appropriation might be more likely.

A mineral leasing in February netted the state 59 million dollars in bonuses, almost three times the previous record high.

"Gov. Long might be more favorable to a direct appropriation from funds that have become available than a bond issue," Borth said.

Then he presented the building program approved by the board.

The two-year plan called for $20,250,000 to meet immediate needs, with $10,875,000 going to LSUNO where a sophomore year will be added next fall.

The full seven-year $55,707,000 program set aside $27,285,000 for LSUNO and $23,870,000 for the Baton Rouge campus. In all programs three million dollars was apportioned to the LSU School of Medicine in New Orleans.

The LSU board of supervisors created the new administrative post of dean of student services. The dean will have under his direction the deans of men and women, campus security, food services, housing of married students and faculty, Latin American relations, student health services, student employment and scholarships, publications, student government and loans and the LSU Student Union.

Dr. John A. Hunter, dean of the junior division, was named as the first dean of student activities. The supervisors made three other appointments:

1. Dr. George H. Mickey, head of the zoology department, was named dean of the graduate school to succeed Dr. Richard J. Russell, who stepped out to devote more time to his job as director of the LSU Coastal Studies Institute.

2. Dr. Martin D. Woodin, head of the department of agricultural economics, was named director of resident instruction, college of agriculture, to succeed the late Dr. Roy L. Davenport.

3. Dr. L. L. Fulmer, education professor, was chosen head of the education department, college of education, and assistant to the dean and director of graduate studies in the college of education, to replace Dr. Benjamin F. Mitchell who will retire July 1.

The board also:

1. Approved a sophomore curriculum for LSUNO next fall.

2. Accepted gifts and grants totaling $364,718.

3. Set $12,000 per year as the minimum salary for a Boyd professor.

The "Snuff Information Center" says that the average weekly consumption of snuff in the U.S. is two ounces per user and that the average retail price is 10 cents an ounce.

Pope Leads Applause For Negro Singer

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John XXIII led the applause Saturday night for an American Negro singer at a concert of sacred music in the Vatican's hall of Benedictions.

Mezzo soprano Vera Little, of Memphis, Tenn., and Finnish-born bass Kim Borg sang the main solo roles in the concert of Bach and Handel pieces attended by the Pope, the Sacred College, the diplomatic corps and some 700 select guests.

The Pope, sitting on an ornate throne with a cushion under his feet, listened intently, nodding here and there and looking at the program. He led the applause after each piece and exchanged impressions with aides standing by the throne.

At the end of the concert the Pope congratuled the performers as they filed past his throne. He spoke a few words smilingly to each hand held out his ring to catholics to kiss.

Miss Little and Borg, both protestants, bowed and shook the Pope's hand.

The Pope gave medals of his pontificate to the singers following the nearly two-hour long program.

The performance was televised throughout Europe in an "eurovision" linkup.

Ingrid Bergman Has Brief Visit With Daughter

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Ingrid Bergman and her 19-year-old daughter by her first marriage were reunited here Saturday for a brief visit.

The daughter, Jennie Ann Lindstrom, flew in from San Francisco. She is a student at Mills College. They met at Miss Bergman's Beverly Hills Hotel cottage.

Miss Bergman and her third husband, theatrical impressario Lars Schmidt, arrived from Europe Friday. She is here to present one of the Oscars at the academy awards ceremony Monday night.

Jennie Ann told reporters at the Airport: "I am very thrilled to see mother again."

She last saw her mother two years ago in Europe.

Jennie Ann's father is Dr. Peter Lindstrom, whom Miss Bergman left for Italian movie director Roberto Tossellini 10 years ago. Her marriage to Rossellini was annuled in 1957.

Inspection Is Scheduled Of College ROTC

The annual inspection of the Northeast Louisiana State College Reserve Officers Training Corps has been scheduled April 16, announced Lt. Col. Howard P. Landry, professor of military science and tactics.

Col. Paul Bellamy will head the inspecting team from Fourth Army Headquarters, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex. He will be accompanied by Lt. Col. R. M. Milan and Lt. Col. J. W. Fielder.

During the morning, the visiting officers will observe various activities of the Military Science department, including classes, administration, operations and supply.

Inspection of cadets in ranks has been set for 1 p.m. with a formal review following at 2 p.m. at Brown Stadium.

Cadet Col. James H. Wharton, Monroe senior and commander of the Northeast Battle Group, will lead the review to which the public is invited.

PLANNING AHEAD

EAST HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Police said William J. Locke bought a $139 radio with a rubber check and had it sent to the state prison so it would be waiting for him when he was jailed for the crime

VIOLENCE IN ARGENTINE CAPITAL —Firemen fixes hose to put out blaze in two overturned autos in Buenos Aires, Argentina, Saturday as rioting broke out when workers sought to stage a demonstration against President Arturo Frondizi's labor policies. Rioters burned cars, broke windows and stoned police as they tried to enter Plaza Mayo opposite Government House. Scores of workers were arrested. Authorities blamed Peronist and Communist unions for the violence in which seven autos and a streetcar were burned. (AP Wirephoto by radio from Buenos Aires)

PROGRAM FLEXIBLE

LSU Approves Building Plans

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisiana State University Saturday adopted a flexible building program, designed to fit whatever funds the May fiscal Legislature can provide.

The plan provides a two-year immediate program, with most of the money going to meet emergency needs at LSU in New Orleans; a larger five-year program and a seven-year program to meet the students expected to double enrollments by 1970.

LSU has proposed a 40 million dollar bond issue, financed by beer tax revenues, to meet the major portion of its 53 million dollar building needs.

But Dean of Administration Daniel Borth told the board since Gov. Earl Long frowns on bond issues, a cash appropriation might be more likely.

A mineral leasing in February netted the state 59 million dollars in bonuses, almost three times the previous record high.

"Gov. Long might be more favorable to a direct appropriation from funds that have become available than a bond issue," Borth said.

Then he presented the building program approved by the board.

The two-year plan called for $20,250,000 to meet immediate needs, with $10,875,000 going to LSUNO where a sophomore year will be added next fall.

The full seven-year $55,707,000 program set aside $27,285,000 for LSUNO and $23,870,000 for the Baton Rouge campus. In all programs three million dollars was apportioned to the LSU School of Medicine in New Orleans.

The LSU board of supervisors created the new administrative post of dean of student services. The dean will have under his direction the deans of men and women, campus security, food services, housing of married students and faculty, Latin American relations, student health services, student employment and scholarships, publications, student government and loans and the LSU Student Union.

Dr. John A. Hunter, dean of the junior division, was named as the first dean of student activities. The supervisors made three other appointments:

1. Dr. George H. Mickey, head of the zoology department, was named dean of the graduate school to succeed Dr. Richard J. Russell, who stepped out to devote more time to his job as director of the LSU Coastal Studies Institute.

2. Dr. Martin D. Woodin, head of the department of agricultural economics, was named director of resident instruction, college of agriculture, to succeed the late Dr. Roy L. Davenport.

3. Dr. L. L. Fulmer, education professor, was chosen head of the education department, college of education, and assistant to the dean and director of graduate studies in the college of education, to replace Dr. Benjamin F. Mitchell who will retire July 1.

The board also:

1. Approved a sophomore curriculum for LSUNO next fall.

2. Accepted gifts and grants totaling $364,718.

3. Set $12,000 per year as the minimum salary for a Boyd professor.

The "Snuff Information Center" says that the average weekly consumption of snuff in the U.S. is two ounces per user and that the average retail price is 10 cents an ounce.

Pope Leads Applause For Negro Singer

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John XXIII led the applause Saturday night for an American Negro singer at a concert of sacred music in the Vatican's hall of Benedictions.

Mezzo soprano Vera Little, of Memphis, Tenn., and Finnish-born bass Kim Borg sang the main solo roles in the concert of Bach and Handel pieces attended by the Pope, the Sacred College, the diplomatic corps and some 700 select guests.

The Pope, sitting on an ornate throne with a cushion under his feet, listened intently, nodding here and there and looking at the program. He led the applause after each piece and exchanged impressions with aides standing by the throne.

At the end of the concert the Pope congratuled the performers as they filed past his throne. He spoke a few words smilingly to each hand held out his ring to catholics to kiss.

Miss Little and Borg, both protestants, bowed and shook the Pope's hand.

The Pope gave medals of his pontificate to the singers following the nearly two-hour long program.

Official Says Germany Peace Treaty Obsolete

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul-Henri Spaak, secretary general of NATO, said Saturday he believes the idea of a formal peace treaty with Germany is obsolete.

As the 15 NATO foreign ministers concluded their meeting here, Spaak said he personally feels the remaining questions between the victorious World War II Western Allies and Germany can be settled otherwise than by a peace treaty.

Spaak made it clear this is his personal opinion and is not binding in any way on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"It seems to me the West has already concluded peace with the Federal Republic of Germany," Spaak told a news conference.

Even as recently as the end of World War II, he added, it seemed normal to end a war with a formal peace treaty, but now it has been well said that "today nations no longer declare war nor make peace."

MINISTERS LOSING OUT

Cold War Causing Diplomacy Change

LONDON (UPI)—U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles may be the last of the foreign ministers in the old "grand tradition."

Diplomats here see a significant switch in the higher spheres of international relations.

The cold war has pushed international diplomacy right up to the summit — apparently to stay. As President Eisenhower conceded recently, there may be a whole series of summit meetings.

At the same time, it has downgraded the foreign ministers to the level of "technicians" or "backroom boys" for the summit leaders. The ambassadors of today have dropped still lower in the scale.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan are credited with the chief responsibility for this change.

Macmillan returned from his recent peace mission to Moscow to report to Eisenhower and other Western leaders that Khrushchev is the only man in the Kremlin with authority to deal with them.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, he reported, does not possess the freedom of decision for serious negotiations.

In fact, the process of downgrading the Soviet foreign minister to "technician" rank has been going on for some time.

The last two Soviet foreign ministers with real authority were Vyacheslav M. Molotov, now disgraced and "banished" as ambassador to Outer Mongolia, and the late Andrei I .Vishinsky.

Their successors Dmitri Shepilov and Gromyko, never have been in the same league. For the last three or four years Russia's real foreign policy makers and negotiators have been the top men in the Kremlin itself.

In a period when Dulles was winning a name as a one man globe - trotting diplomatic task force for the U.S., Macmillan was busy taking Britain's foreign policy into his own hands.

Sir Anthony Eden was the last of Britain's policy - making foreign ministers. When he became prime minister he was determined to keep foreign policy under his own control.

In West Germany, aged Chancellor Konrad Adenauer never has let the foreign policy reins out of his hands. From the foundation of the federal republic in 1949 he combined the job of foreign minister with that of chancellor, always explaining this was necessary until his nation won its full independence.

In France's Fifth Republic, President Charles de Gaulle has taken the same road. As foreign minister he named able but publicity - shunning career diplomat Maurice Couve de Murville as the "technician" to carry out the policy decisions.

But the foreign policy leadership remained firmly in the hands of one man—President Charles de Gaulle.

Dress Rehearsal Of School Play Ends In Tragedy

RAMONA, Okla. (AP)—A dress rehearsal accident turned a three act comedy into tragedy at Ramona High School Friday.

"Desperate Ambrose," to have been presented Friday night, never came off. Its leading man, Arthur Justice, 17, was accidentally shot to death.

Officers said an apparently harmless stage prop was the death weapon.

Justict's lifelong friend, Joe Cox, 17, carried a .38 calibre pistol as part of his costume in the play.

He and Justice were playing with it shortly before the rehearsal Friday when it discharged. The bullet struck Justice in his left eye. It was the only slug in the six-shooter.

Board Launches Scholarship Bid

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Board of Education Saturday stared its bid for legislative consideration of 60 academic scholarships at each of the nine state colleges based on merit and need.

Each scholarship would be worth $600 a year.

The program will be referred to Sen. Rer McCullough's legislative committee on higher education, in hopes the idea will gain momentum with his backing.

The entire proposal hinges on legislative funds.

While sponsors said nothing at the board meeting about legislative scholarships, a joint meeting of the state board and the Louisiana State University board a day earlier plunged into the question.

The educators examined the possibility of lawmakers giving up their "political scholarships" in favor of awards by college faculties based on ability and need.

The proposed new scholarships would be awarded for a full four years. No student receiving other state aid would be eligible.

Among requirements:

High performance on National Merit Scholarship examination tests.

At least a "B" average each semester.

The state board delayed any consideration at this time of a proposed 33-million-dollar bond issue for college improvements. Members said college presidents, instead, were requested to provide more information on need.

And in its quest for more information, the board delayed any action at this time on a key resolution outlining more screening of high school students for college purposes.

The joint board session Friday had touched on the issue with great interest as a means of slowing college failures.

State board members decided to let a board committee probe the idea before final board action. The resolution calls for high school grades to be placed on high school graduation credit certificates. It calls for aptitude test scores to be placed on college entrance data sheets.

In other action the board:

Approved distribution of $452,788 under the national defense act for promotion of skilled students in the sciences, mathematics and foreign languages.

Okayed another $100,000 to encourage better student guidance and counseling, also under the national defense program.

Referred to a board advisory committee technical provisions of a proposed new step permitting acceptance of qualified teachers from other states where Louisiana does not have teacher certificate reciprocity.

Approved Louisiana Polytechnic Institute's request for authority to make a pact with the Mississippi Board of Trustees of Institutions of Higher Learning for instructing Louisiana Tech students in marine biology and geology at the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, Ocean Springs, Miss.

The board also endorsed steps to start preliminary planning of repairs and modifications at Brown-Ayers Hall, Southwestern Louisiana Institute, Lafayette.

A request was granted for a poll of the board April 15 on acceptance of bids for $550,000 in SLI revenue bonds for dining hall improvements and construction of a married students' dormitory.

The board decided to get tough about the way future bids are offered for school projects, demanding a single base bid without it being loaded with alternates.

The action came after an investigation of one $70,000 item for school cabinets at Southern University, protested by member Leon Gary of Houma.

The board approved $1,327,368 as a base bid for construction of three women's dormitories at Southern, at President Felton Clark's request. It also approved the $70,000 for superior cabinets, also at Clark's request.

During World War I, according to a report by the Twentieth Century Fund, only 4.1 per cent of all enlisted men in the U. S. armed forces had finished high school. In World War II, the figure was more than 23 per cent.

Pennsylvania anthracite, or hard coal, now accounts for only about five per cent of the nation's coal production. The rest is bituminous, or soft coal.

Board Launches Scholarship Bid

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Board of Education Saturday stared its bid for legislative consideration of 60 academic scholarships at each of the nine state colleges based on merit and need.

IN EVENT OF WAR

U.S. To Strike With All Power

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. military leaders have told Congress the United States will fight with everything it has — including unuclear missiles and ground troops—if the Soviet Union uses major force against Berlin.

This testimony by Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy was accompanied by an assertion of Gen. Nathan Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, that the Berlin issue is a political rather than a military problem and he hopes it will be settled politically.

"I don't know why people get so excited about the military aspect," Twining said. "I do think we have to be careful about always throwing this thing at the military side."

At the same time, McElroy and Twining said day-and-night planning is under way on how to act on various situations that might arise out of the Berlin crisis including moves short of general war. McElroy said the U.S. military strength under President Eisenhower's program is adequate generally for both small and large wars, counting ground forces of America's Allies.

The Pentagon leaders spoke to the House Foreign Affairs Committee in support of Eisenhower's four-billion-dollar foreign aid request, which includes $1,600,000,000 for arms help abroad. A censored version of their closed-door testimony March 18 was made public Saturday.

Rep. Wayne Hays (D-Ohjo) pressed for an explanation of an Eisenhower news conference statement that the United States would not fight a ground war in Europe.

Twining said it was clear that the Russians were being told an attack would mean a missile war, and that if the Soviets move against the NATO shield "in force, that is a general war, and the shield forces will hold."

McElroy said he believed Eisenhower meant this: "That if there is to be a real fight over Berlin that will require more than the forces that exist in the field, then it will be a war to which the Russians have committed major forces. And if they commit major forces to it, it will be a big war."

"And it would be fair to assume then that we will use any and all weapons that we have available, including our ground troops, to repel that," Hays interjected.

"That is correct, sir," McElroy replied.

Demo Leader Hoping India To Join Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Assistant Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday he hopes the "possible common danger" of Red China as displayed in Tibet will end the long feud between India and Pakistan.

The Montana Democrat added the implied hope that India would abandon her neutrality and seek membership in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization to which Pakistan belongs.

SEATO pact nations united against Communist aggression, are meeting in Wellingtton, New Zealand next week, April 8-10.

Mansfield, a Foreign Relations Committee expert on Asia, applauded India for giving political asylum to the Dalai Lama, theocratic head of three million Tibetans who revolted against Communist Chinese oppression.

He said in an interview that this was the "only decent thing it could do."

The senator said he knew of no connection between the Tibetan revolt and a U. S. decision to give Pakistan 25 Canberra (B-57) light jet bombers over the next two years. India already has about 80 such planes, bought from Britain. Pakistan has been appealing for more aid to offset India's superior strength.

Mansfield asserted that the Communist danger to India, domestically and externally, has now been "brought home to Prime Minister Nehru and his parliament more forcibly than ever before."

"The lesson of Tibet is that what happened in that peaceful, isolated hermit area could, under certain circumstances, happen elsewhere in the general area," he said.

"I'd express the hope that this possible common danger to both India and Pakistan would help to bring about an accommodation between the two nations and a closer relationship between their governments and peoples."

State Man Dies In Auto Crash

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP)—One man was killed and another injured when their car ran off of Hall's Ferry Rd. and overturned against a tree early Saturday.

The highway patrol identified the dead man as Charles Terrill, 21, of Tallulah, La. The injured kan was identified only as David Gilmer.

Officers found the wreck during a patrol.

Three Shots Fired At Car In Mine Area

KINGSTON, Tenn. (UPI) — A non-union coal mine operator's wife said three shots were fired at her car Friday night when she left home with two little girls.

Mrs. Paul Ross said her daughter, Claudia, a sixth-grader, and her friend, Shelby Jones, 14, were with her when the shooting occurred.

"Just as we were entering the public road, Highway 116, the shots were fired—three of them," Mrs. Ross said. "We saw the streaks of flame."

"One shot crossed in front of the windsheild. The girls said another bullet passed above the car roof. The third bullet hit the side of the car on my side," Mrs. Rose said.

Mrs. Ross said she didn't stop until they reached the home of Shelby's parents at Fork Mountain.

Sheriff Glad Woodward said he sent two deputies to investigate but had not talked to Mrs. Ross.

Ross owns the Double Camp mine at Rosedale. He said his mine had been idle since March 26.

"I couldn't afford to sign the contract," he said.

Ross said he had heard threats against him and his home and added he might never return to the mining area.

At the same time, McElroy and Twining said day-and-night planning is under way on how to act on various situations that might arise out of the Berlin crisis including moves short of general war. McElroy said the U.S. military strength under President Eisenhower's program is adequate generally for both small and large wars, counting ground forces of America's Allies.

The Pentagon leaders spoke to the House Foreign Affairs Committee in support of Eisenhower's four-billion-dollar foreign aid request, which includes $1,600,000,000 for arms help abroad. A censored version of their closed-door testimony March 18 was made public Saturday.

Rep. Wayne Hays (D - Ohio) pressed for an explanation of an Eisenhower news conference statement that the United States would not fight a ground war in Europe.

Twining said it was clear that the Russians were being told an attack would mean a missile war, and that if the Soviets move against the NATO shield "in force, that is a general war, and the shield forces will hold."

McElroy said he believed Eisenhower meant this: "That if there is to be a real fight over Berlin that will require more than the forces that exist in the field, then it will be a war to which the Russians have committed major forces. And if they commit major forces to it, it will be a big war."

"And it would be fair to assume then that we will use any and all weapons that we have available, including our ground troops, to repel that," Hays interjected.

"That is correct, sir," McElroy replied.

Demo Leader Hoping India To Join Pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Assistant Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said Saturday he hopes the "possible common danger" of Red China as displayed in Tibet will end the long feud between India and Pakistan.

The Montana Democrat added the implied hope that India would abandon her neutrality and seek membership in the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization to which Pakistan belongs.

SEATO pact nations united against Communist aggression, are meeting in Wellingtton, New Zealand next week, April 8-10.

Mansfield, a Foreign Relations Committee expert on Asia, applauded India for giving political asylum to the Dalai Lama, theocratic head of three million Tibetans who revolted against Communist Chinese oppression.

He said in an interview that this was the "only decent thing it could do."

The senator said he knew of no connection between the Tibetan revolt and a U. S. decision to give Pakistan 25 Canberra (B-57) light jet bombers over the next two years. India already has about 80 such planes, bought from Britain. Pakistan has been appealing for more aid to offset India's superior strength.

Mansfield asserted that the Communist danger to India, domestically and externally, has now been "brought home to Prime Minister Nehru and his parliament more forcibly than ever before."

"The lesson of Tibet is that what happened in that peaceful, isolated hermit area could, under certain circumstances, happen elsewhere in the general area," he said.

"I'd express the hope that this possible common danger to both India and Pakistan would help to bring about an accommodation between the two nations and a closer relationship between their governments and peoples."

State Man Dies In Auto Crash

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP)—One man was killed and another injured when their car ran off of Hall's Ferry Rd. and overturned against a tree early Saturday.

The highway patrol identified the dead man as Charles Terrill, 21, of Tallulah, La. The injured kan was identified only as David Gilmer.

Officers found the wreck during a patrol.

Three Shots Fired At Car In Mine Area

KINGSTON, Tenn. (UPI) — A non-union coal mine operator's wife said three shots were fired at her car Friday night when she left home with two little girls.

Mrs. Paul Ross said her daughter, Claudia, a sixth-grader, and her friend, Shelby Jones, 14, were with her when the snooting occurred.

"Just as we were entering the public road, Highway 116, the shots were fired—three of them," Mrs. Ross said. "We saw the streaks of flame."

"One shot crossed in front of the windsheild. The girls said another bullet passed above the car roof. The third bullet hit the side of the car on my side," Mrs. Rose said.

Mrs. Ross said she didn't stop until they reached the home of Shelby's parents at Fork Mountain.

Sheriff Glad Woodward said he sent two deputies to investigate but had not talked to Mrs. Ross.

Ross owns the Double Camp mine at Rosedale. He said his mine had been idle since March 26.

"I couldn't afford to sign the contract," he said.

Ross said he had heard threats against him and his home and added he might never return to the mining area.

20 WITNESSES CALLED

Detroit Rackets Probe Scheduled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Rackets Committee has subpenaed more than 20 witnesses for questioning next week about juke box racketeering in the Detroit area, it was announced Saturday.

Chief counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the list included a former Teamster Union official who claims he shouldn't have to pay income taxes on embezzled money.

Some top figures in the Detroit branch of the Mafia underworld syndicate also were scheduled to appear during the hearing, which will last two or three days.

The committee, in a preliminary inquiry last December, heard testimony that the underworld called the tune for part of the music machine business in the machine business in the Michigan-Ohio region.

The committee will inquire further into this next week by questioning William Bufalino, head of Teamster Local 985, and John (Papa John) Priziola, former Wurlitzer juke box distributor.

It also planned to call in Joseph Memesh, president of Music System, and Angelo Meli, identified by Kennedy as former public enemy No. 1 in Detroit.

Kennedy said another important witness would be Jimmy James, former Teamster official accused by a Senate labor subcommittee of taking more than $900,000 from a union welfare fund.

He said defense attorneys are now claiming in an income tax case that James didn't have to pay a $500,000 tax because the money was embezzled.

The Meli and Bufalino families of Detroit are listed on the committee's chart of Mafia members. According to the chart, the two families are linked by marriage, as well as syndicate ties.

Board Supports College Prexy In Controversy

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Board of Education Saturday supported president John Kyser of Northwestern State College in his controversial dismissal of sociology Prof. Medford Evens.

Dr. Evans, an ardent segregationist, had complained the college decision against renewing his contract was caused under pressure.

But Dr. Kyser read the state board a statement giving reasons for not renewing the contract, touching on lack of proper academic background to fit NSC's current needs.

"I have been assured," Dr. Kyser said, "that Dr. Evans has never requested the board to hear his case. If he wishes such a hearing, I have every reason to believe that it will be granted."

Board President Nash Roberts said no board action was necessary since Dr. Kyser and his personnel administrator had acted within their authority, adding:

"If Dr. Evans asks a board hearing, we will be happy to grant it. Unless Dr. Evans appeals, there is no need for board action."

Protests On GOP Chief May Be Vain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — High administration sources said Saturday that appointment next week of Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky as new Republican national chairman will go through despite strong party opposition.

President Eisenhower will have the final say on who gets the post.

Protests were raised by two influential party leaders, Rep. Richard M. Simpson (Pa.) and Sen. Barry Goldwater (Ariz.) chairmen, respectively, of the House and Senate Republican campaign committees.

They questioned the selection of Morton, a young middle-of-the-roader, to succeed Meade Alcorn on grounds he would not be able to devote full time to the exacting party leadership job. Alcorn, who served full time without pay, resigned to return to his private law practice in Hartford, Conn.

Administration informants voiced belief the protests might help, rather than hinder, Morton's chances. Both Simpson and Goldwater are recognized as the conservative GOP wing. Both have differed sharply with Eisenhower.

Morton, who has indicated his willingness to accept the post, conferred with Alcorn Friday. The Republican National Committee will select Alcorn's successor at a meeting here next weekend.

Simpson said he and Goldwater felt that the committee should select someone "who will devote his full time to he job." He said Morton is a "full-time senator" and could not carry on his Senate responsibilities and still do the job needed as national chairman.

DR. PAUL ROBERTS

Crusade To Be Launched Here Monday

The Ouachita Parish Baptist Association will launch its simultaneous Crusade with a mass rally at the College Place Baptist Church Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Paul Roberts, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Little Rock, Ark., will be the inspirational speaker. Dr. Roberts until recently was pastor of the First Baptist Church of Lake Charles, leading that church in a great program of expansion. He was elected president of the Louisiana Baptist Convention last fall resigning when he accepted the work at Little Rock.

The Ouachita Parish High School choir will sing at the meeting.

Rev. Fred Doolittle, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church of Monroe, and chairman of the Crusade for the Association will preside at the meeting.

This rally is in preparation for the Crusade April 12-26th. In cooperation with all other Baptist Churches of our nation this association is engaging in a great simultaneous Crusade celebrating the 150th anniversary of the beginning of organized Baptist Work in our nation. At least eighteen of the twenty-one Baptist churches will be engaged in revival efforts during the two week period. Two of the churches have already completed their revivals.

Associational leaders are expecting one thousand people for this rally.

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have lived in a Christian atmosphere all my life, and try to live as a Christian should. But the more I study my Bible the more I realize how many sins I have. Instead of being surer of my salvation I become more confused. I believe Jesus is the Son of God and that He died for my sins. But why this uneasy feeling in my heart? Aren't Christians supposed to feel confident and happy, knowing their belief in Christ assures them of life everlasting?

R. W.

ANSWER: Off hand I would say that you have the paralysis of analysis! That is to say: you spend too much time analyzing your spiritual status. I have known people who were given to taking their temperature, feeling their pulse, and analyzing themselves, physically. Invariably these people find something wrong because they anticipate difficulty. For the most part, we find what we anticipate and look for, and in your case you feel insecure spiritually because you apparently spend a great deal of time taking your spiritual pulse.

Being a Christian, for one thing, means taking God at His word with no ifs, ands or buts. We look at a promise such as "Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out", and in trusting faith, we conclude, "God said it, I believe it, and that settles it," so we rest our faith on that promise and take it for our own. It is much better to doubt our doubts and believe our beliefs than to doubt our beliefs believe our doubts. It seems to me that you have put too much emphasis on feeling and too little on faith. We are Christian despite our feelings good or bad, but "without faith it is impossible to please God." Martin Luther once said "The only faith which makes a man Christian is that which casts itself on God for life or death." I suggest you do this.

Christian Church Opens Mission School

A School of Missions will start at 5:45 p.m. today and continue through May 10 at the First Christian Church.

The theme will be missions follow new frontiers. There will be classes for every age group from kindergarten through the adults. The total mission program of the Disciples of Christ around the world will be studied.

A snack supper will be served at 5:45 p.m. A display of exhibits will be arranged each time, symbolic of the countries studied. Individual classes will follow the supper for 54 minutes. After that those present will assemble in the Sanctuary where a film will be shown or a missionary speaker will be present. A 15-minute worship, devotional and communion service will conclude the two - hour session.

The departments and instructors are kindergarten, Mrs. Paul Huntsman, and Mrs. P. P. DeRossett; primary, Mrs. J. M. Harrell and Mrs. H. H. Douglas; juniors, Mrs. John Varner and Mrs. Olen McElhaney; junior high and senior youth; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sikes, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Clark, and Chris Pittman; adults, Carl Walker, F. O. Seymour, Max Wroten and Bobby Clark.

Others working for the Mission are Miss Jean Bonham, director; Mrs. Billy Clark, hospitality; Miss Barbara Hulin, registrar; Mrs. O. H. Robbins, librarian; Mrs. S. W. Raby, decorations and exhibits; and Mrs. B. B. Martin, publicity.

Baptist Group To Meet In Columbia Mon.

The Louisiana Baptist District III Pastor's Conference will meet with the First Baptist Church of Columbia, on Monday at 10 a.m. according to Rev. Rawls Pierce, secretary.

The Rev. W. E. Spencer of Trenton Baptist Church, West Monroe, will bring the scripture reading and the opening prayer. He will be followed by Rev. A. T. Mitchell, Ridge Avenue Baptist Church, West Monroe, who will speak on "How We Observe The Ordinance of Baptism."

In preparation for the coming Baptist revivals Rev. C. B. Thompson, Highland Park Baptist Church, Monroe, will speak on "New Member Orientation and Enlistment."

To conclude the conference Dr. James Horton, First Baptst Church, Monroe, will bring the Bible Study.

Southern Baptist pastors of Morehouse, Ouachita and Caldwell Parishes are urged to attend this important meeting.

Attend Meeting

Attending the Baptist Business Women's Circle of Women's Missionary Union Saturday and today were Mrs. F. S. Fisher, Mrs. S. B. Hancock, Mrs. H. M. Chatham and Mrs. A. J. Garvan.

BILLY WEBER

Billy Weber Guest Speaker At Youth Week

Billy Weber, student at West Monroe High School and son of Dr. Jaroy Weber, pastor of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe, will be guest speaker at training union services at 6:30 p.m. Sunday as Emmanuel Baptist Church, North Fifth and Breard streets, Monroe, observes youth week.

Weber will also be the speaker for an evangelistic service at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Louisianians To Present Concert Here

"The Louisianans," a 22-voice male chorus from Louisiana College, will appear in concert here April 9th at 7:30 p.m. The program will be given at the Trinity Baptist Church in West Monroe.

The singers will appear here in connection with Youth Week, currently in progress in the Baptist churches of this area.

These men are much in demand throughout the South. They have appeared twice in recent years at Southern Baptist Conventions; in 1955 at Miami, Florida and in 1957 at Chicago, Illinois. These singers travel the Southland each year on goodwill tours in behalf of the Baptist College located in Pineville.

Their program is divided in three parts; Secular, Spiritual, and Sacred. The concert is free and the general public is cordially invited to attend.

Strong Will Be Guest Minister

RAYVILLE (Special) —W. L Strong Jr., Methodist ministerial student at La. Tech in Ruston and pastor of the Bartholomew and Sunrise Methodist Churches, will be guest minister at the Rayville Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

DR. PAUL ROBERTS

Crusade To Be Launched Here Monday

The Ouachita Parish Baptist Association will launch its simultaneous Crusade with a mass rally at the College Place Baptist Church Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Paul Roberts, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Little Rock, Ark., will be the inspirational speaker. Dr. Roberts until recently was pastor of the First Baptist Church of Lake Charles, leading that church in a great program of expansion. He was elected president of the Louisiana Baptist Convention last fall resigning when he accepted the work at Little Rock.

The Ouachita Parish High School choir will sing at the meeting.

Rev. Fred Doolittle, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist Church of Monroe, and chairman of the Crusade for the Association will preside at the meeting.

This rally is in preparation for the Crusade April 12-26th. In cooperation with all other Baptist Churches of our nation this association is engaging in a great simultaneous Crusade celebrating the 150th anniversary of the beginning of organized Baptist Work in our nation. At least eighteen of the twenty-one Baptist churches will be engaged in revival efforts during the two week period. Two of the churches have already completed their revivals.

Associational leaders are expecting one thousand people for this rally.

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have lived in a Christian atmosphere all my life, and try to live as a Christian should. But the more I study my Bible the more I realize how many sins I have. Instead of being surer of my salvation I become more confused. I believe Jesus is the Son of God and that He died for my sins. But why this uneasy feeling in my heart? Aren't Christians supposed to feel confident and happy, knowing their belief in Christ assures them of life everlasting?

R. W.

ANSWER: Off hand I would say that you have the paralysis of analysis! That is to say: you spend too much time analyzing your spiritual status. I have known people who were given to taking their temperature, feeling their pulse, and analyzing themselves, physically. Invariably these people find something wrong because they anticipate difficulty. For the most part, we find what we anticipate and look for, and in your case you feel insecure spiritually because you apparently spend a great deal of time taking your spiritual pulse.

Being a Christian, for one thing, means taking God at His word with no ifs, ands or buts. We look at a promise such as "Him that cometh unto me I will in no wise cast out", and in trusting faith, we conclude, "God said it, I believe it, and that settles it," so we rest our faith on that promise and take it for our own. It is much better to doubt our doubts and believe our beliefs than to doubt our beliefs believe our doubts. It seems to me that you have put too much emphasis on feeling and too little on faith. We are Christian despite our feelings good or bad, but "without faith it is impossible to please God." Martin Luther once said "The only faith which makes a man Christian is that which casts itself on God for life or death." I suggest you do this.

Christian Church Opens Mission School

A School of Missions will start at 5:45 p.m. today and continue through May 10 at the First Christian Church.

The theme will be missions follow new frontiers. There will be classes for every age group from kindergarten through the adults. The total mission program of the Disciples of Christ around the world will be studied.

A snack supper will be served at 5:45 p.m. A display of exhibits will be arranged each time, symbolic of the countries studied. Individual classes will follow the supper for 54 minutes. After that those present will assemble in the Sanctuary where a film will be shown or a missionary speaker will be present. A 15-minute worship, devotional and communion service will conclude the two - hour session.

The departments and instructors are kindergarten, Mrs. Paul Huntsman, and Mrs. P. P. DeRossett; primary, Mrs. J. M. Harrell and Mrs. H. H. Douglas; juniors, Mrs. John Varner and Mrs. Olen McElhaney; junior high and senior youth; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sikes, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Clark, and Chris Pittman; adults, Carl Walker, F. O. Seymour, Max Wroten and Bobby Clark.

TRASH SEPARATOR

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — A trash separator that looks and sounds like a Rube Goldberg invention is helping to save Pima County $15,000 a year.

The $12,000 contraption, invented locally, consists of an ingenious combination of conveyor belts, a hopper, a permanent magnet and a large wire tumbler. It separates the paper from the tin cans, which are then sold for $14.50 a ton.

Add ground ginger, powdered dry mustard, and instant minced onion to canned baked beans. Turn into a casserole, top with bacon strips and bake in a 350-degree oven 30 minutes or until brown.

Leaders Deserve A Salute From Females

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Some leaders in the handbag industry deserve a salute from us females. They're trying, bless 'em, to bring order out of the chaos in our purses.

Of course any woman can tell them they're fighting a losing battle. Purses are like closets. The more room we have, the more we stuff in, and the harder it is to grub through to the bottom. But designed inventiveness is not at all discouraged by feminine disorder.

This season, one manufacturer (Koret) is out with a whole group of leather knick-knacks called "n'cessories" (the word is a combination of "necessary" and "accessories"). These include a patented billfold to fit the outsize currency a traveler gets overseas; "his" and "her" passport cases; and a flip-top cigaret box for square packages. The case is magnetized, to stick to the intrument panel of a car.

Another manufacturer (Bond Street) has a series of matching purse accessories, all so light in weight they add only a few ounces to the overall weight of a purse. (What's a few ounces, when some of today's tote bags weigh in at 10 pounds by the time they're full of everything from makeup to magazines and a sandwich for lunch?)

The matching sets come in natural colored linen with strawberry embroidery; in flower-printed silks; and in pastel kids. They include cigaret cases, eyeglass cases, coin purse, perfume container, and a two-fold, which is a combination billfold, coin purse and card holder with celluloid windows for easy viewing of driver's license and identification card.

An Evening Ceremony Unites In Marriage Miss Lee, K. Bauman

The Bosco Baptist Church was the scene, March 26, of the marriage of Miss Betty Jo Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmit Lee of Bosco, and Kenneth Bauman, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Bauman of Columbia.

The Rev. La Velle Enterkin performed the double ring ceremony before green magnolia leaves and ivy with white gladioli forming an arch.

Mrs. Doris Kitchens Pollard was the soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Louis Shelton at the piano.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in Chantilly lace with sequins and pearls outlining the sabrina neckline. The long sleeves came to points at the wrists. Nylon tulle started as the hem with bands of lace encircling the skirt. Her veil of illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis centered by a white orchid.

Mrs. James T. Lee served the bride as matron of honor. She wore a light blue brocade taffeta with a blue crystal satin cummerbund. She carried a colonial style bouquet with light pink feathered carnations and streamers of satin.

Bridesmaids were Miss Armande McHenry and Miss Sara Smith. They were dressed identical to the matron of honor and carried identical bouquets.

Flower girls were Betty Gayle Lee, niece of the bride, and Elizabeth McCaleb of Winnsboro. They were attired in a replica of the matron of honor. They carried baskets of rose petals and pink feathered carnations.

Harold Bauman was best man and ring bearer was Mike Calloway. Groomsmen and ushers were Linus Carroll, Billy Kenney, Mickey Alford and Neil Reynolds, Jr. Candlelighters were Calvin Pipes and Don Long.

The bride's mother chose to wear a light blue lace with matching shoes and hat. The groom's mother wore a navy silk dress with light blue accessories. They both wore shoulder corsages of white carnations.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony, a reception was held. The reception rooms were beautifully decorated in a green and white theme of spring flowers consisting of camellias, and green and white native orchids interspersed with white pearl.

The bride's table was covered with a handsome cut-work cloth and was centered with a silver candelabra topped by a lovely arrangement of white stock and greenery. One end of the table held the crystal punch service while the other held the wedding cake. Pouring were Mrs. T. A. Calloway and Mrs. J. Y. Pipes. Serving was Mrs. V. H. Faust. Mrs. P. S. Tomlinson was hostess for the occasion. Miss Jeanette McDonald registered the guests at a white covered table adorned by a bouquet of white stock and a memory candle.

Judy and Susan McCaleb passed among the guests with individually wrapped rice to throw at the bride and groom as they left.

The bride chose for travel, a light spring suit of pink and green with bone accessories. At her shoulder was a corsage of orchids

The bride is a graduate of Ouachita Parish High School and is attending Northeast Louisiana State College.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. R. D. McCaleb Jr. and daughters.

Miss Collette Entertained At Informal Tea

Mrs. Frances A. Robinson entertained with an informal tea at her home honoring Miss Mabel Collette, of Baton Rouge, supervisor of Primary Education of the State Department of Education. slowering almond and red bud sprays were used in attractive floral decorations.

Mrs. Marvin Whitfield presided at the punch service and was assisted in serving cookies by Mrs. Myles Hopkins. The guests included Supt. and Mrs. M. A. Phillips and the primary teachers of Madison Parish schools.

Miss Stephenson And R. Machen Are Married

Miss Nancy Myrle Stephenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Stephenson of Monroe, and Robert Frank Machen, son of Mr and Mrs. Loyd L. Machen of West Monroe were united in marriage on March 27.

The Rev. W. F. Hunt officiated over the double ring ceremony at the First Baptist Church of West Monroe at six-thirty o'clock in the evening.

The Church decorations consisted of white gladioli and greenery. Jack Day was the soloist who sang "Because", and "God Bless This Day", accompanied by Bob Oldenburg at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of chantilly lace over antique taffeta with a chapel train. The fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a small caplett. She carried a bouquet of baby mums centered by a white orchid.

Miss Dianne Carter served the bride as maid honor. She was gowned in white silk organa over pink taffeta. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Loyd L. Machen served his son as best man. The ushers were David L. Johnston and John T. Aulds.

The bride's mother chose to wear a dress of aqua silk accented by a white carnation corsage. The groom's mother wore a navy model with a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

The reception was held at seven o'clock following the wedding. The bride's table was decorated with white roses, white carnations and lilies of the valley. To one end was the tiered wedding cake, while the other end held the crystal punch service.

The bride chose for travel, a blue silk faille suit accented by the white orchid from her bouquet.

The couple will be at home in West Monroe.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♦	Double	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♦.

That aces were intended to catch kings is a principle that any player must comprehend if he aspires to sound defensive play. As a corollary to this theory, the successful declarer must attempt to get the adverse high cards out by the use of little ones rather than honor cards. This is at the bottom of the rule that one should lead toward his high cards. Observe how it worked in today's hand.

North is not in a position to contract for game since South may have nothing. But 19 or 20 points is enough for the doubler to raise to the three level.

West opened the king of diamonds and dummy won the ace. It was quite apparent that declarer must lose two diamonds and the ace of clubs, so that he must avoid the loss of a heart trick. This would be easy if he could find a 3-3 club break, for he could then discard a heart on dummy's fourth club. But a 3-3 break is not a likely prospect. However, there was the further chance that the enemy could be forced to play the ace on a small club instead of one of the honors.

West's opening bid made it quite clear that he held the ace of clubs. So declarer cashed the ace of spades and then led a trump to his ten. He followed with a low club, and when West played low, dummy's jack held the trick. The lazy play of a club back to South carefully led a spade to his hand and led another low club. This time West was compelled to play the ace. He cashed two diamonds and shifted to a heart. Declarer won the ace and led a club to his king. A trump permitted reentry to the dummy and on the queen of clubs, South discarded his losing heart.

Rainbow Formal Dance Is Held In Delhi

The Delhi Country Club was the scene of the Rainbow Formal dance held recently.

The club was decorated with five colors of crepe paper. The colors were, violet, yellow, turquoise, pink, and blue, hung from the entrance of the room, and across the ceiling. At one corner was an opening to the dance floor. The ceiling of the floor was decorated with the same colors and with umbrellas made from construction paper. Flower arrangements throughout the room were lovely in corresponding colors.

PTA Members To Attend Convention

PTA members in the New Orleans area are rolling out the red carpet for the more than 1,000 delegates expected to attend the 36th annual convention of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher Association which will be held at the Jung Hotel April 23, 24, and 25.

A processional of unit presidents from the more than 440 PTA units in the state will be an opening feature of the convention over which Mrs. George B. Walther, Jr. president, of Lake Charles, will preside. Extending greetings to the delegates at the opening session will be Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison, Mayor of New Orleans, Dr. James Redmond, superintendent of Orleans Parish schools, Mrs. Charles M. Robards, convention chairman, Shelby M. Jackson, state superintendent of schools, Henry Taliaferro, president of the Louisiana School Boards Association, and Mrs. Ralph Hobbs, vice president of Region III, National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Mrs. Hobbs will be the featured speaker at the banquet for all the delegates and her subject will be "Guided Missiles."

Tours of the Garden district, the Vieux Carre and the harbor are planned for the delegates during their free time. The touch of Mardi Gras will be added to the convention with the presentation of a carnival tableau to be presented by the Krewe of Noblads.

Convention committees including Convention Management, Credentials, Rules and Program will give reports at the opening session. Mrs. Walther will give a report of the activities of the office of President during her three year administration. Mrs. George W. Beste of Baton Rouge, chairman of the National Parent - Teacher Magazine for Louisiana will announce state awards for magazine promotion.

Bringing greetings at other times during the convention will be Mrs. Lizzie Riser, president of the Louisiana Teachers Association, Mrs. James Yeargin, president of the Department of Classroom Teachers, Nash Roberts president of the State Board of Education and Victor Schiro, president of the New Orleans Commission Council.

Special conferences are being planned for the delegates as well as conferences with their counterpart on the State Board of Managers.

Mrs. Clyde McArty of Springhill is convention management chairman and Mrs. Charles M. Robards of New Orleans is local convention chairman.

Sigma Kappa Alumnae Chpt. Holds Meeting

The regular meeting of the Sigma Kappa Alumnae Chapter was held at the home of Mrs. Franklin Jones.

The president, Mrs. George Herrell, conducter the business meeting after which refreshments were served to Alice McBride, Harriet Smith, Delores Pittman, Mrs. Edward Miller, Mrs. Neal Adams and Mrs. Franklin Jones.

Morning Ritual Unites Miss Carole Anne Tonore And Lt. James Greenlaw

Easter lilies bloomed among emerald palms and were highlighted by the soft radiance of many burning candles Monday morning at St. Matthews Catholic Church. The occasion was the marriage of Miss Carole Anne Tonore and Lieutenant James Allan Greenlaw. Monsignor John C. Marsh heard their vows at eleven o'clock in the morning. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Michael Tonore of Monroe and he the son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis R. Greenlaw of Lake Charles.

Ushering the wedding guests to their seats in this vernal setting, were Ralph Norman Jr., Arthur Craig, Jimmy Goldman, and Floyd Prejean. Altar boys were George Tonore Jr. and Owen Moses Jr. At this time, Mrs. Della Williamson at the organ played selections "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus." She accompanied Mrs. James E. Lewis who sang "Oh Beautiful Mother."

Just prior to the bride's entrance her mother was escorted to her place. She wore a gown of rose beige lace designed with a portrait neckline. Her slippers and hat were of spring-leaf green.

The maid of honor was Miss Gaye Helene Tonore. Matron of honor was Mrs. Ronald Stratton and bridesmaids were Miss Maria Maggio, Miss Mary Kathryn Walker, Mrs. Lyle Dorsey and Miss Joyce Zambie of Helena, Ark. Janet Moses was junior bridesmaid and flower girl was Pamela Moses of Yazoo City, Miss.

Their frocks were of shell pink organza over taffeta with portrait necklines fashioned in classic princess lines flaring to a bouffant hem. They wore matching slippers and hats of pink organza and ruffled nylon mitts with velvet bows at the wrists. They carried nosegays of pink sweetheart roses with white candytuft. Maline ruffles and miniature ivy formed the background.

BRIDE

The bride entered with her father. Her gown was of Chantilly lace and emphasized the modern trend with the princess skirt and circlet neckline. The full princess skirt beneath the empire bodice featured inserts of taffeta and billowed out in a magnificent sweep of Chantilly lace. The back feature was a soft pickup bustle. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a bianchi coronet encrusted with seed pearls. She carried a bridal missal adorned with white orchids, and lilies of the valley misted with maline and iridescents and the streamers of white satin were tied with stephanotis.

During the rendition of the hymn "Oh Beautiful Mother", the bride placed a white heart of flowers and lace before the altar of the Blessed Mother.

The guests assembled in the Knights of Columbus Home for the ensuing reception. In the foyer, a beautiful arrangement of white stock and stately calla lilies were noted. The guest book was placed on a small table with a memory candle enclosed in a large hurricane shade as the decor.

The bride chose for travel, a two - piece green silk suit with beige accessories.

They will be at home in Lake Charles after the wedding trip.

Sigma Kappa Alumnae Chpt. Holds Meeting

The regular meeting of the Sigma Kappa Alumnae Chapter was held at the home of Mrs. Franklin Jones.

The president, Mrs. George Herrell, conducter the business meeting after which refreshments were served to Alice McBride, Harriet Smith, Delores Pittman, Mrs. Edward Miller, Mrs. Neal Adams and Mrs. Franklin Jones.

Easter lilies bloomed among emerald palms and were highlighted by the soft radiance of many burning candles Monday morning at St. Matthews Catholic Church. The occasion was the marriage of Miss Carole Anne Tonore and Lieutenant James Allan Greenlaw. Monsignor John C. Marsh heard their vows at eleven o'clock in the morning. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Michael Tonore of Monroe and he the son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis R. Greenlaw of Lake Charles.

Ushering the wedding guests to their seats in this vernal setting, were Ralph Norman Jr., Arthur Craig, Jimmy Goldman, and Floyd Prejean. Altar boys were George Tonore Jr. and Owen Moses Jr. At this time, Mrs. Della Williamson at the organ played selections "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus." She accompanied Mrs. James E. Lewis who sang "Oh Beautiful Mother."

Just prior to the bride's entrance her mother was escorted to her place. She wore a gown of rose beige lace designed with a portrait neckline. Her slippers and hat were of spring-leaf green.

The maid of honor was Miss Gaye Helene Tonore. Matron of honor was Mrs. Ronald Stratton and bridesmaids were Miss Maria Maggio, Miss Mary Kathryn Walker, Mrs. Lyle Dorsey and Miss Joyce Zambie of Helena, Ark. Janet Moses was junior bridesmaid and flower girl was Pamela Moses of Yazoo City, Miss.

Their frocks were of shell pink organza over taffeta with portrait necklines fashioned in classic princess lines flaring to a bouffant hem. They wore matching slippers and hats of pink organza and ruffled nylon mitts with velvet bows at the wrists. They carried nosegays of pink sweetheart roses with white candytuft. Maline ruffles and miniature ivy formed the background.

BRIDE

The bride entered with her father. Her gown was of Chantilly lace and emphasized the modern trend with the princess skirt and circlet neckline. The full princess skirt beneath the empire bodice featured inserts of taffeta and billowed out in a magnificent sweep of Chantilly lace. The back feature was a soft pickup bustle. Her veil of silk illusion fell from a bianchi coronet encrusted with seed pearls. She carried a bridal missal adorned with white orchids, and lilies of the valley misted with maline and iridescents and the streamers of white satin were tied with stephanotis.

During the rendition of the hymn "Oh Beautiful Mother", the bride placed a white heart of flowers and lace before the altar of the Blessed Mother.

The guests assembled in the Knights of Columbus Home for the ensuing reception. In the foyer, a beautiful arrangement of white stock and stately calla lilies were noted. The guest book was placed on a small table with a memory candle enclosed in a large hurricane shade as the decor.

The bride chose for travel, a two - piece green silk suit with beige accessories.

They will be at home in Lake Charles after the wedding trip.

Mary Leslie Clark Exchanges Vows With Alton Earl Ingram

A beautiful and impressive wedding ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Mary Leslie Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Leslie Clark Jr., and Alton Earl Ingram, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Ingram, all of Mer Rouge, was held on Easter Sunday, March 29, 1959, at six o'clock in the evening in the Mer Rouge Baptist Church.

Stately arrangements of Easter lilies with a background of jade foliage were placed on either side of the altar. Pyramids of arched candelabra flanked the lilies and two smaller pyramids of candles on either side were connected by vertical lines of candles interspersed with jade foliage. Smaller standards of lilies were placed in front of the small arches of candlelight. The church vestibule held two massive arrangements of glossy magnolia leaves in wrought iron containers.

The nuptial vows were exchanged with the Reverend William Beam officiating. Mrs. Dan McDuff of Monroe rendered organ selections including "Adagio" by Beethoven, "Andante" by Tchaikowsky, "Poeme" by Fibich, and "Agnus Dei" by Bizet. the two traditional wedding marches were used. Mrs. McDuff also accompanied the vocal soloists, Mrs. Ann Eubanks of Bastrop who sang "I Love Thee" and "Through the years", and Mrs. Clare Clark of Mer Rouge who sang "The Lord's Prayer".

Soft organ music was played throughout the ceremony.

Guests were seated by Donald Bacon, Henry Dawson both of Mer Rouge, Ronald Walters of Monroe, and Jack Burkett of Orange, Texas The cathedral tapers were lighted by Henry Tilbury of Mer Rouge; Miss Marlene Heinemann Springhill.

BRIDESMAIDS

Miss Patsy Jo Hockaday of Dallas, Texas, a college friend of the bride, served as maid-of-honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Bettye Brasfield, cousin of the bride, of Meridian, Mississippi; Miss Linda Hornbeak of Monroe; Miss Mary Huckabay of Mer Rouge; Miss Marlene Heinemann of Chicago, Illionis; and Miss Betty Miles of Natchez, Mississippi. They were identically gowned in dresses of palest yellow silk organza over yellow taffeta featuring a scoop neckline, cap sleeves and a Princess body which extended into a bell-shaped skirt with an inserted band of shirred chiffon emphasizing a full soft bow in the back. Matching satin shoes, soft veil hats and wrist length kid gloves completed the ensemble. The bridesmaids carried cascading bouquets of yellow daises and the honor attendant carried a basket of natural straw with an arrangement of the yellow daisies, and mixed spring flowers.

The flower girl was little Miss Colleen Burkett of Orange, Texas, niece of the bridegroom who wore a dainty, full-skirted dress of pale yellow organdy over taffeta fashioned with a scoop neck and tiny cap sleeves and complemented by a small white hat with orange blossoms, white shoes and gloves. She carried a small basket of natural straw from which she scattered yellow rose petals down the aisle.

BRIDE

The bride entered the sanctuary escorted by her father down the center aisle which was bordered with lighted single Cathedral tapers. She was lovely in a designer's gown of white silk organza fashioned with a scoop neck and yoked front and back with exquisite re-embroidered inported alencon lace. The moulded bodice extended into a bouffant skirt which featured a panel of re-embroidered alencon lace in the front. The long sleeves tapered to points over her wrists. A modified Empire look was achieved by a chapel-length train topped with matching alencon lace and appliqued in panels of the same lace which fell from the yoke and extended over the full skirt. She wore a Swedish crown of pearls which draped to a three tiered veil of French illusion and carried a cascading bouquet of white yellow-throated orchids and Lily-of-the-Valley, thus completing a lovely regal effect. Her only adornment was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom.

After the vows were exchanged a reception given by the bride's parents was held in the Church Parlor.

RECEPTION

Receiving with the bridal couple were their mothers and the bride's attendants. Mrs. Clark was becomingly gowned in a lovely navy blue dress of pure silk fashioned with a lace bodice. She wore a flowered cloche in subtle shades of lavender and purple. Navy accessories completed her ensemble. Mrs. Ingram was attired in a dress of mauve lace and wore a flowered hat in a matching shade. They each had corsages of Cymbidium Orchids in shades of lavender.

WEDDING CAKE

The bride's table was covered with an ivory linen cut-work cloth which extended to the floor. A five branch candelabrum garlanded with daisies graced the center of the table. On one end was placed the wedding cake whose tiers were ornamented with white roses and lilies-of-the-valley and surrounded at the base by Leather Fern. Alternating in serving were, Mrs. Marion Clark, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Jack Burkett of Orange, Texas, sister of the groom. A lovely crystal punch bowl graced the other end of the table and this was presided over by Mrs. L. L. Brasfield, an aunt of the bride of Meridian, Mississippi, and Mrs. Jack Yeldell.

The Bride's Book was presided over by Miss Debbie Pinkston, former teacher of the bride. The lovely marble topped table was graced with a single candle with a dainty arrangement of daises at the base.

Others assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Emmett Eckles, Mrs. Jack Moore, Mrs. J. V. McCorvey, and Mrs. Mae Eubanks. The tea girls were Miss Lenna Armstrong, Miss Mary Blackwell, and Mrs. Sam Ingram.

Shortly before the couple left small wisps of tulle filled with rice were presented to the guests by David Clark.

SCHOOLING

The bride graduated from Mer Rouge High School and from H. Sophie Newcomb College in New Orleans. While there she was affiliated with Phi Mu Social Sorority, Alpha Sigma Sigma Honorary Society, Mortar Board, and was listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. The groom graduated from Mer Rouge High School and received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Northeast Louisiana State College. He was affiliated with Tau Kappa Epsilon Social Fraternity. He is now enrolled in the Graduate Division of Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge.

The young couple will be at home at 261 East Drive in Baton Rouge.

REHEARSAL SUPPER

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Ingram entertained in the Kraft Room of the Louisiana Hotel with a supper following the rehearsal for the wedding of their son, Alton Earl Ingram, and his bride. The table was centered with a flowing arrangement of white Stock, Majestic Daisies, and Candy-tuft. The places were marked with tiny wisps of tulle filled with rice and tied with satin ribbon and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Clark was attired in a pure silk sheath in a champagne shade.

Guests for the occasion included Miss Clark and Mr. Ingram; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Clark Jr., Mr. David Clark, Reverend and Mrs. William Beam, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bacon, Miss Mary Huckabay, Mr. Henry Tilbury, Mr. Henry Earl Dawson, all of Mer Rouge: Mrs. and Mrs. L. L. Brasfield, Miss Bettye Brasfield, and Mr. Scott Brasfield of Meridian, Mississippi; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Burkett, Colleen and David of Orange, Texas; Mr and Mrs. Dan McDuff, Miss Linda Hornbeak and Mr. Ronald Walters, all of Monroe; Miss Patsy Jo Hockaday of Dallas, Texas; Miss Marlene Heinemann of Chicago Illinois; Miss Barbara Bates of Lafayette; Miss Betty Miles of Natchez, Mississippi; Miss Carolyn Ann Tucker and Mr. Jack Montgomery of Springhill; Mrs. Ann Eubanks of Bastrop: and Lt. and Mrs. Sam Ingram of Killeen, Texas.

FRUIT BARS

NEW YORK — Fruit bars are easy to make with packaged date bar mix. Add ¼ cup chopped, drained maraschino cherries and ½ cup cooked dried apricots to mix, and bake according to pacage directions.

Spring shoes are bright enough to rival Easter eggs. Leading the leather group are purple and mauve, hot pink, geranium, bright red, blue, orange, coral and vivid green. Because of such high color, the shoes are minus buttons, bows, and other frills. Interest is centered in textured leathers, including reptile, and in heel shaped. Look for the curved-in Louis heel, the high stiletto and the stacked leather heel with layers in various shades.

TOP VIEW

The Washington Monument, overlooking the nation's capital, is an 81,120-ton obelisk. You can take an elevator or walk up 898 metal steps to see the view from the top.

Miss Vidrine, Alton Braddock Are Betrothed

Miss Wynonah Vidrine of Pineville and Alton Aubrey Braddock of Monroe have selected April 11 for their marriage which will be solemnized at 10 o'clock in the morning in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Goodman on Hill Road, Pineville. A reception will follow the ceremony in honor of the couple. The engagement is announced by her brother, Audley Galye Vidrine of Escalante, Utah, and Mrs. Vidrine.

The bride, whose parents are the late Mrs. Arnold Reed of Pineville and Martin L. Vidrine of Ville Platte, is a graduate of Louisiana College, Pineville, where she received her Bachelor of Science degree, and attended Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge. She has invited Mrs. Charles E. Denham of Monroe to be her matron of honor and Fran Stagg to be junior bridesmaid.

Mr. Denham will serve as best man to Mr. Braddock, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aubra Alton Braddock of Grayson. The future bridegroom graduated from Northeast State College, where he became affiliated with Phi Alpha Theat.

Mrs. Farrington Honored At A Bridal Shower

On Friday afternoon Mrs. Clarence Farrington, who before her recent marriage, was Miss Sherry Denton, was honored with a bridal shower in the home of Mrs. Wells Harrell in Farmerville. Cohostesses were Mrs. A. A. Gordon and the members of the Northside Home Demonstration Club.

For the occasion the honoree chose a lovely podure blue brocade cotton satin sheath with a shirt jacket. Her shoes were matching blue satin. She wore a white carnation corsage at her shoulder.

The reception rooms were beautifully decorated with gay spring flowers placed at vantage points throughout the area. The service table was overlaid with a white linen cut work cloth over pink satin. The centerpiece, consisting of greenery and pink and white carnations, was flanked on either side by tall white tapers burning in crystal candelabra. The punch bowl was surrounded by pink camellias on a large crystal plate. Behind the bowl stood a miniature bride and groom. Miss Nell Odom was at the punch service. Mrs. Kenneth Brantley presided at the bride's book. Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Sam Phelps invited the guests to view the many lovely gifts.

The receiving hours were 2 to 5 o'clock.

Smaller standards of lilies were placed in front of the small arches of candlelight. The church vestibule held two massive arrangements of glossy magnolia leaves in wrought iron containers.

The nuptial vows were exchanged with the Reverend William Beam officiating. Mrs. Dan McDuff of Monroe rendered organ selections including "Adagio" by Beethoven, "Andante" by Tchaikowsky, "Poeme" by Fibich, and "Agnus Dei" by Bizet. the two traditional wedding marches were used. Mrs. McDuff also accompanied the vocal soloists, Mrs. Ann Eubanks of Bastrop who sang "I Love Thee" and "Through the years", and Mrs. Clare Clark of Mer Rouge who sang "The Lord's Prayer".

Soft organ music was played throughout the ceremony.

Guests were seated by Donald Bacon, Henry Dawson both of Mer Rouge, Ronald Walters of Monroe, and Jack Burkett of Orange, Texas The cathedral tapers were lighted by Henry Tilbury of Mer Rouge; Miss Marlene Heinemann Springhill.

BRIDESMAIDS

Miss Patsy Jo Hockaday of Dallas, Texas, a college friend of the bride, served as maid-of-honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Bettye Brasfield, cousin of the bride, of Meridian, Mississippi; Miss Linda Hornbeak of Monroe; Miss Mary Huckabay of Mer Rouge; Miss Marlene Heinemann of Chicago, Illionis; and Miss Betty Miles of Natchez, Mississippi. They were identically gowned in dresses of palest yellow silk organza over yellow taffeta featuring a scoop neckline, cap sleeves and a Princess body which extended into a bell-shaped skirt with an inserted band of shirred chiffon emphasizing a full soft bow in the back. Matching satin shoes, soft veil hats and wrist length kid gloves completed the ensemble. The bridesmaids carried cascading bouquets of yellow daises and the honor attendant carried a basket of natural straw with an arrangement of the yellow daisies, and mixed spring flowers.

The flower girl was little Miss Colleen Burkett of Orange, Texas, niece of the bridegroom who wore a dainty, full-skirted dress of pale yellow organdy over taffeta fashioned with a scoop neck and tiny cap sleeves and complemented by a small white hat with orange blossoms, white shoes and gloves. She carried a small basket of natural straw from which she scattered yellow rose petals down the aisle.

BRIDE

The bride entered the sanctuary escorted by her father down the center aisle which was bordered with lighted single Cathedral tapers. She was lovely in a designer's gown of white silk organza fashioned with a scoop neck and yoked front and back with exquisite re-embroidered inported alencon lace. The moulded bodice extended into a bouffant skirt which featured a panel of re-embroidered alencon lace in the front. The long sleeves tapered to points over her wrists. A modified Empire look was achieved by a chapel-length train topped with matching alencon lace and appliqued in panels of the same lace which feli from the yoke and extended over the full skirt. She wore a Swedish crown of pearls which draped to a three tiered veil of French illusion and carried a cascading bouquet of white yellow-throated orchids and Lily-of-the-Valley, thus completing a lovely regal effect. Her only adornment was a string of pearls, a gift of the groom.

After the vows were exchanged a reception given by the bride's parents was held in the Church Parlor.

RECEPTION

Receiving with the bridal couple were their mothers and the bride's attendants. Mrs. Clark was becomingly gowned in a lovely navy blue dress of pure silk fashioned with a lace bodice. She wore a flowered cloche in subtle shades of lavender and purple. Navy accessories completed her ensemble. Mrs. Ingram was attired in a dress of mauve lace and wore a flowered hat in a matching shade. They each had corsages of Cymbidium Orchids in shades of lavender.

WEDDING CAKE

The bride's table was covered with an ivory linen cut-work cloth which extended to the floor. A five branch candelabrum garlanded with daisies graced the center of the table. On one end was placed the wedding cake whose tiers were ornamented with white roses and lilies-of-the-valley and surrounded at the base by Leather Fern. Alternating in serving were, Mrs. Marion Clark, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Jack Burkett of Orange, Texas, sister of the groom. A lovely crystal punch bowl graced the other end of the table and this was presided over by Mrs. L. L. Brasfield, an aunt of the bride of Meridian, Mississippi, and Mrs. Jack Yeldell.

The Bride's Book was presided over by Miss Debbie Pinkston, former teacher of the bride. The lovely marble topped table was graced with a single candle with a dainty arrangement of daises at the base.

Others assisting in the courtesies were Mrs. Emmett Eckles, Mrs. Jack Moore, Mrs. J. V. McCorvey, and Mrs. Mae Eubanks. The tea girls were Miss Lenna Armstrong, Miss Mary Blackwell, and Mrs. Sam Ingram.

Shortly before the couple left small wisps of tulle filled with rice were presented to the guests by David Clark.

SCHOOLING

The bride graduated from Mer Rouge High School and from H. Sophie Newcomb College in New Orleans. While there she was affiliated with Phi Mu Social Sorority, Alpha Sigma Sigma Honorary Society, Mortar Board, and was listed in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. The groom graduated from Mer Rouge High School and received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Northeast Louisiana State College. He was affiliated with Tau Kappa Epsilon Social Fraternity. He is now enrolled in the Graduate Division of Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge.

The young couple will be at home at 261 East Drive in Baton Rouge.

REHEARSAL SUPPER

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Ingram entertained in the Kraft Room of the Louisiana Hotel with a supper following the rehearsal for the wedding of their son, Alton Earl Ingram, and his bride. The table was centered with a flowing arrangement of white Stock, Majestic Daisies, and Candy-tuft. The places were marked with tiny wisps of tulle filled with rice and tied with satin ribbon and lily-of-the-valley.

Miss Clark was attired in a pure silk sheath in a champagne shade.

Guests for the occasion included Miss Clark and Mr. Ingram; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Clark Jr., Mr. David Clark, Reverend and Mrs. William Beam, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bacon, Miss Mary Huckabay, Mr. Henry Tilbury, Mr. Henry Earl Dawson, all of Mer Rouge: Mrs. and Mrs. L. L. Brasfield, Miss Bettye Brasfield, and Mr. Scott Brasfield of Meridian, Mississippi; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Burkett, Colleen and David of Orange, Texas; Mr and Mrs. Dan McDuff, Miss Linda Hornbeak and Mr. Ronald Walters, all of Monroe; Miss Patsy Jo Hockaday of Dallas, Texas; Miss Marlene Heinemann of Chicago Illinois; Miss Barbara Bates of Lafayette; Miss Betty Miles of Natchez, Mississippi; Miss Carolyn Ann Tucker and Mr. Jack Montgomery of Springhill; Mrs. Ann Eubanks of Bastrop; and Lt. and Mrs. Sam Ingram of Killeen, Texas.

FRUIT BARS

NEW YORK — Fruit bars are easy to make with packaged date bar mix. Add ¼ cup chopped, drained maraschino cherries and ½ cup cooked dried apricots to mix, and bake according to pacage directions.

Spring shoes are bright enough to rival Easter eggs. Leading the leather group are purple and mauve, hot pink, geranium, bright red, blue, orange, coral and vivid green. Because of such high color, the shoes are minus buttons, bows, and other frills. Interest is centered in textured leathers, including reptile, and in heel shaped. Look for the curved-in Louis heel, the high stiletto and the stacked leather heel with layers in various shades.

MISS WYNONAH VIDRINE

MONKEYS

Some monkeys, especially those from Oriental countries, have pouches in their cheeks to store food for consumption in lean times. They look like they have the mumps.

TOP VIEW

The Washington Monument, overlooking the nation's capital, is an 81,120-ton obelisk. You can take an elevator or walk up 898 metal steps to see the view from the top.

Miss Vidrine, Alton Braddock Are Betrothed

Miss Wynonah Vidrine of Pineville and Alton Aubrey Braddock of Monroe have selected April 11 for their marriage which will be solemnized at 10 o'clock in the morning in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Goodman on Hill Road, Pineville. A reception will follow the ceremony in honor of the couple. The engagement is announced by her brother, Audley Galye Vidrine of Escalante, Utah, and Mrs. Vidrine.

The bride, whose parents are the late Mrs. Arnold Reed of Pineville and Martin L. Vidrine of Ville Platte, is a graduate of Louisiana College, Pineville, where she received her Bachelor of Science degree, and attended Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge. She has invited Mrs. Charles E. Denham of Monroe to be her matron of honor and Fran Stagg to be junior bridesmaid.

Mr. Denham will serve as best man to Mr. Braddock, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Aubra Alton Braddock of Grayson. The future bridegroom graduated from Northeast State College, where he became affiliated with Phi Alpha Theat.

Mrs. Farrington Honored At A Bridal Shower

On Friday afternoon Mrs. Clarence Farrington, who before her recent marriage, was Miss Sherry Denton, was honored with a bridal shower in the home of Mrs. Wells Harrell in Farmerville. Cohostesses were Mrs. A. A. Gordon and the members of the Northside Home Demonstration Club.

For the occasion the honoree chose a lovely podure blue brocade cotton satin sheath with a shirt jacket. Her shoes were matching blue satin. She wore a white carnation corsage at her shoulder.

The reception rooms were beautifully decorated with gay spring flowers placed at vantage points throughout the area. The service table was overlaid with a white linen cut work cloth over pink satin. The centerpiece, consisting of greenery and pink and white carnations, was flanked on either side by tall white tapers burning in crystal candelabra. The punch bowl was surrounded by pink camellias on a large crystal plate. Behind the bowl stood a miniature bride and groom. Miss Nell Odom was at the punch service. Mrs. Kenneth Brantley presided at the bride's book. Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. Sam Phelps invited the guests to view the many lovely gifts.

The receiving hours were 2 to 5 o'clock.

June Wedding Planned By Rayville Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Crain of Rayville announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Patsy Ruth, to Richard McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McDonald Sr., also of Rayville.

June fifth, is the date set for the wedding, at seven o'clock in the evening in the Holly Ridge Baptist Church, with the Rev. Wilburn Taylor officiating.

Louise Phillips will serve the bride as maid of honor. Candlelighters will be Carolyn Roberts and Carolyn Flowers. Best man will be Dennis Carroll and ushers will be Don McDonald and Gale Swanner.

They both graduated from Holly Ridge High School and are students at Northeast Louisiana State College.

Following the ceremony the couple will be at home in Monroe.

An inexpensive bookcase is made with boards and bricks. Paint or wax the boards and stack, separating them with the bricks.

MISS PATSY RUTH CRAIN

MRS. CLAUDE PERKINS JR., is the former Miss Marilyn Hopkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hopkins of Oak Grove. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Claude Perkins Sr., of West Monroe. The wedding took place on March 20.

Parties Fete Bride-Elect, Miss Williamson

A luncheon at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club Saturday honored Miss Eleanor Williamson. Hostesses for the luncheon were Mrs. Charles H. Hatfield and Mrs. John Snyder.

The honoree was wearing a black linen sheath and a milan straw hat and a yellow rose bud corsage. Mrs. Thomas E. Williamson, her mother wore a brown and beige pin check suit with matching straw hat and a talisman rose corsage.

The luncheon table was laid with a linen cloth and pale yellow china and clear crystal. The centerpiece was a unique design featuring an organdy hat trimmed in yellow rose buds with yellow satin ribbon streamers. The place cards also carried out the yellow rose bud theme.

Guests of Mrs. Hatfield and Mrs. Snyder were Miss Williamson, Mrs. Williamson, Miss Rowena Ramage, Mrs. Tommy Womble, Miss Joanna Lipp, Miss Betty Miller, Miss June Lang, Mrs. Thomas Stodghill, Jr., Mrs. Raymond Taliaferro, Jr., Mrs. James McGraw, Miss Zoe Snyder and Miss Margie Bengtson.

BREAKFAST

Miss Williamson continues to be entertained prior to her wedding which will be on April 11, at the First Methodist Church in Winnsboro.

The home of Mrs. Louise R. Lipp was the scene of a breakfast complimentary to Miss Williamson, Friday morning. Co-hostess with Mrs. Lipp for the party were her daughters, Miss Joanna Lipp and Mrs. Tommy Womble.

Daisies and eucalyptus were used in flower arrangements in the living room. The breakfast tables were centered with fruit bowls.

Miss Williamson chose for the party a black sheath dress from her trousseau.

Guests sharing the occasion with Miss Williamson were Mrs. Thomas Williamson, her mother, Mrs. Rowena Ramage, Mrs. Charles Ray Martin, Miss Zoe Snyder, Mrs. Thomas Stodghill, Jr., Miss Betty Miller, and Miss June Lang.

COFFEE

A coffee hour Friday morning in the home of Miss Elizabeth Landis and Miss Marguerite Landis was planned honoring Miss Eleanor Williamson. Mrs. L. L. Miller and Miss Betty Miller were co-hostesses with the Misses Landis for the party.

Miss Williamson was attired in a pretty pastel trousseau model. She was presented a rose bud corsage by the hostesses.

The serving table was overlaid with a linen cloth and centered with white azaleas and stock. Miss Betty Miller served coffee from the silver coffee service.

Guests included Miss Williamson, Mrs. Thomas Williamson, Mrs. Tommy Womble, Miss Marietta Rhein, Mrs. Dorothy Bengtson, Miss Margie Bengtson, Miss June Lang, Mrs. T. W. Stodghill, Jr., and Miss Rowena Ramage.

Says Free China Today Is A Woman's World

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Free China today is a woman's world, says pert, petite Elizabeth Wang, a member of the Taiwan Legislature, now visiting America at the invitation of the U.S. Department of State.

"We have 64 women members of the Legislative Yuan out of 500," says Mrs. Wang. "In the National Assembly there are 210 women. There is no field in business, the professions or the arts where women are not making distinguished records."

A graduate of the University of North Carolina, she is married to C. Y. Chang, also a member of the Legislature, and has three sons: Bobby, 17, a student at Cheng-Kung University; Eddie, 15 and Frank, 3.

"We call them by American names," laughs Mrs. Wang. "They have long Chinese names, too, but these are easier."

Daughter of a high official, Elizabeth was born in Kiang-Su province, on the mainland of China, and was educated in Chinese schools and colleges before coming to the United States to take a master's degree at Chapel Hill, N.C.

"I got back to China just before Pearl Harbor," says this modern daughter of an ancient race. "I was married in the early days of the war, and then afterward came the Communist conquest of our country. My husband and I escaped to Formosa with our children.

"The constitution of Taiwan was adopted in 1947, and I have been a member of the Legislature since 1948, as have many other women. There is so much to be done, the need and the opportunity are so great, that the days never seem long enough to get everything done."

Mrs. Wang and her family live in a modern Japanese style home in the city of Taipei, and have three servants — a nursemaid, a housekeeper and a chauffeur to drive the tricycle ricksha which is the family vehicle.

Women of Taiwan don't waste time debating about whether to have a career or marriage, says Mrs. Wang—they have both, as a matter of course, working at their job during business hours, taking part in all community and national issues and running their homes with graciousness and ease.

STRAWBERRY PIE

Springtime and strawberrytime go together. Here's a party - perfect Strawberry Pie to celebrate both occasions. Clean 1 quart strawberries and cut in halves. Stir together 2 3-ounce packages cream cheese, softened, and 4 medium strawberries until fluffy. Spread evenly over bottom and sides of a 9-inch baked pastry shell. Mix ¾ cup sugar, 1-3 cup cornstarch and ¼ teaspoon salt in saucepan. Gradually add ¼ cup water. Cook 2 minutes stirring constantly. Add 2 cups of the strawberries. Cook until clear and thickened, stirring constantly, about 5 minutes. Cool. Fold in remaining strawberries. Cover cheese with strawberry filling. Whip ½ cup whipping cream until stiff peaks are formed. Fold in 1 teaspoon sugar and ¼ teaspoon vanilla extract. Garnish pie with sweetened whipped cream. Makes 1 9-inch pie.

MR. AND MRS. FORD BAYLES of Downsville announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Shirley Ann, to Laymon Lee Godwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burley L. Godwin of West Monroe. The wedding will be an event of May 22.

American Manufacturers Make Search

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Our scientists can put a satellite into orbit around the sun, but no one has produced an easy-to-get-at sardine container.

We can, in the jet age, fly from Chicago to San Francisco in four hours, but no one has figured a way to preserve the softness of brown sugar once the package is opened.

American manufacturers constantly search for ways to improve their products and the packaging, pay experts fat fees for their ideas, and still miss many of the obvious needs.

Just ask any homemaker. She has a list of "why don't theys" long as your arm. For instance (and all these are free):

Why don't they make attractive lunch bags for all the girls who take their own sandwiches. Sprinkle them with a floral design, or run them up in assorted stripes—navy and white, for instance, for the girl who has built her wardrobe around navy blue.

Pack brown sugar in ½ or 1 cup quantities, as called for in most recipies. There is waste for most of us cooks in buying even the 1-pound box because once opened, the leftover sugar soon hardens.

Put extracts, meat sauces, spices and syrups in shorter, fatter bottles that won't tip and spill the contents on shelves or table linens.

Package evaporated milk in cans that can be opened with the wall-type opener for those of us no longer using the spear-type.

Package meals for the one-member family as well as in family size for feeding six to eight persons. Numerous bachelors and old maids complain of the wasted bread, meats, canned and frozen goods from having to buy large packages.

While they're at it, write a cookbook designed for the one-member family, or else in other cookbooks specify how a recipe can be halved as well as doubled.

Make cup and spoon measurements on glass containers for such products as catsup, to prevent the trouble and waste of pouring into a measuring cup. And mark cup and tablespoon measurements on all oleo and butter wrappers.

Mark caloric content on food containers.

CHILDREN

Harriet Beecher Stowe, who wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was her mother's seventh child Harriet, herself, had six children.

Mrs. Burgess Presides At Red Bud HDC

The Red Bud H D Club met in the home of the hostess, Mrs. Bernice Burgess, who presided at the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. J. B. McPherson. The meeting was called to order and the minutes were read and the treasurer's report was given.

Mrs. Adrian Ryalls gave a timely report on gardening and told what seed should be sown in order to have summer vegatables. Mrs. Burgess, Home Management Chairman, informed on the Family Room and its furnishings.

Mrs. H. L. Condrey gave a demonstration on sewing that would be helpful in entering garments in sewing contests, especially the one slated for May 7th in the parish. She also gave rules and regulations for entering garments in this contest.

The club voted to purchase material necessary to complete the club quilt being made by the members in order that it be disposed of in May to bring revenue into the club. Plans were made for the club to sell candy and cake at the 4-H Achievement Day to be held April 18th at Transylvania Junior School.

It was announced that the next montly meeting scheduled will be held in the home of Mrs. Reece Coleman.

Another effort to jazz up men's conservative clothing: Designer Julie Taylor shows ties in red, gold, orange and blue in 2,000 patterns. Most ties are washable, and hand sewn. Shapes range from slim bow ties to narrow four-in-hands. Ends are square and have inside pockets "for bus tokens or tranquillizers."

Says Free China Today Is A Woman's World

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Free China today is a woman's world, says pert, petite Elizabeth Wang, a member of the Taiwan Legislature, now visiting America at the invitation of the U.S. Department of State.

"We have 64 women members of the Legislative Yuan out of 500," says Mrs. Wang. "In the National Assembly there are 210 women. There is no field in business, the professions or the arts where women are not making distinguished records."

A graduate of the University of North Carolina, she is married to C. Y. Chang, also a member of the Legislature, and has three sons: Bobby, 17, a student at Cheng-Kung University; Eddie, 15 and Frank, 3.

"We call them by American names," laughs Mrs. Wang. "They have long Chinese names, too, but these are easier."

Daughter of a high official, Elizabeth was born in Kiang-Su province, on the mainland of China, and was educated in Chinese schools and colleges before coming to the United States to take a master's degree at Chapel Hill, N.C.

"I got back to China just before Pearl Harbor," says this modern daughter of an ancient race. "I was married in the early days of the war, and then afterward came the Communist conquest of our country. My husband and I escaped to Formosa with our children.

"The constitution of Taiwan was adopted in 1947, and I have been a member of the Legislature since 1948, as have many other women. There is so much to be done, the need and the opportunity are so great, that the days never seem long enough to get everything done."

Mrs. Wang and her family live in a modern Japanese style home in the city of Taipei, and have three servants — a nursemaid, a housekeeper and a chauffeur to drive the tricycle ricksha which is the family vehicle.

Women of Taiwan don't waste time debating about whether to have a career or marriage, says Mrs. Wang—they have both, as a matter of course, working at their job during business hours, taking part in all community and national issues and running their homes with graciousness and ease.

STRAWBERRY PIE

Springtime and strawberrytime go together. Here's a party - perfect Strawberry Pie to celebrate both occasions. Clean 1 quart strawberries and cut in halves. Stir together 2 3-ounce packages cream cheese, softened, and 4 medium strawberries until fluffy. Spread evenly over bottom and sides of a 9-inch baked pastry shell. Mix ¾ cup sugar, 1-3 cup cornstarch and ¼ teaspoon salt in saucepan. Gradually add ¼ cup water. Cook 2 minutes stirring constantly. Add 2 cups of the strawberries. Cook until clear and thickened, stirring constantly, about 5 minutes. Cool. Fold in remaining strawberries. Cover cheese with strawberry filling. Whip ½ cup whipping cream until stiff peaks are formed. Fold in 1 teaspoon sugar and ¼ teaspoon vanilla extract. Garnish pie with sweetened whipped cream. Makes 1 9-inch pie.

MR. AND MRS. FORD BAYLES of Downsville announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Shirley Ann, to Laymon Lee Godwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burley L. Godwin of West Monroe. The wedding will be an event of May 22.

American Manufacturers Make Search

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Our scientists can put a satellite into orbit around the sun, but no one has produced an easy-to-get-at sardine container.

We can, in the jet age, fly from Chicago to San Francisco in four hours, but no one has figured a way to preserve the softness of brown sugar once the package is opened.

American manufacturers constantly search for ways to improve their products and the packaging, pay experts fat fees for their ideas, and still miss many of the obvious needs.

Just ask any homemaker. She has a list of "why don't theys" long as your arm. For instance (and all these are free):

Why don't they make attractive lunch bags for all the girls who take their own sandwiches. Sprinkle them with a floral design, or run them up in assorted stripes—navy and white, for instance, for the girl who has built her wardrobe around navy blue.

Pack brown sugar in ½ or 1 cup quantities, as called for in most recipies. There is waste for most of us cooks in buying even the 1-pound box because once opened, the leftover sugar soon hardens.

Put extracts, meat sauces, spices and syrups in shorter, fatter bottles that won't tip and spill the contents on shelves or table linens.

Package evaporated milk in cans that can be opened with the wall-type opener for those of us no longer using the spear-type.

Package meals for the one-member family as well as in family size for feeding six to eight persons. Numerous bachelors and old maids complain of the wasted bread, meats, canned and frozen goods from having to buy large packages.

While they're at it, write a cookbook designed for the one-member family, or else in other cookbooks specify how a recipe can be halved as well as doubled.

Make cup and spoon measurements on glass containers for such products as catsup, to prevent the trouble and waste of pouring into a measuring cup. And mark cup and tablespoon measurements on all oleo and butter wrappers.

Mark caloric content on food containers.

CHILDREN

Harriet Beecher Stowe, who wrote "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was her mother's seventh child Harriet, herself, had six children.

Mrs. Burgess Presides At Red Bud HDC

The Red Bud H D Club met in the home of the hostess, Mrs. Bernice Burgess, who presided at the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. J. B. McPherson. The meeting was called to order and the minutes were read and the treasurer's report was given.

Mrs. Adrian Ryalls gave a timely report on gardening and told what seed should be sown in order to have summer vegatables. Mrs. Burgess, Home Management Chairman, informed on the Family Room and its furnishings.

Mrs. H. L. Condrey gave a demonstration on sewing that would be helpful in entering garments in sewing contests, especially the one slated for May 7th in the parish. She also gave rules and regulations for entering garments in this contest.

The club voted to purchase material necessary to complete the club quilt being made by the members in order that it be disposed of in May to bring revenue into the club. Plans were made for the club to sell candy and cake at the 4-H Achievement Day to be held April 18th at Transylvania Junior School.

It was announced that the next montly meeting scheduled will be held in the home of Mrs. Reece Coleman.

Another effort to jazz up men's conservative clothing: Designer Julie Taylor shows ties in red, gold, orange and blue in 2,000 patterns. Most ties are washable, and hand sewn. Shapes range from slim bow ties to narrow four-in-hands. Ends are square and have inside pockets "for bus tokens or tranquillizers."

March went out like a lion with a big blow and rain this week, but still our gardens have their spring look. The very streets are full of the heavenly scent of the wisteria—is it just because we are partial to purple, or is the wisteria unusually lovely this year?

Pink dogwood is a little later than the white, but worth waiting for. . .Did you see the one in the FRED FUDICKAR, SR.. yard on Riverfront?. . . On Forsythe, at EMY LOU BIEDENHARN's, there is a pink dogwood blooming before a rosy brick wall hung with white wisteria.

The weather threatened ominously, but Easter turned out a fair and lovely day. In fact, the rain cleared in time for all the ladies to wear their Easter bonnets to the tea honoring ANN SLAGLE Saturday afternoon. Ann and Elmer, Jr., were here from Beeville, Texas for the weekend. CLARICE JOHNS and ANNA SLAGLE were hostesses from three to five in the Slagle home.

Azaleas, Dutch iris, hyacinths, camellias, spirea and daffodils were seen in the beautiful arrangements placed throughout the reception suite. The tea table was centered with a silver epergne filled with pink, lavender and yellow tulips and pink stock.

Among the several hundred guests, we spied SYLVIA GENTRY, home from LSU for the weekend, and looking lovely in an all pink outfit. . .VERA TROY, whose hat was a pyramid of white flowers. . .and MARGUERITE JONES, in a white straw tall cloche ringed with shell pink and blue poppies. . .The band on CAROL MOUK's Panama hat exactly matched her brown and white checked linen suit. . .MARY LEE MILAM chose a Milam straw in French blue. . .Also home from LSU was KAY M'CUE, who wore a perky spool-shaped white straw accented with a blue bow. . .In from Rayville was BARBARA VENABLE, in a pink straw circled with flowers of the same shade. . .With ROSEMARY BRISBIN was her mother, MRS. J. T. GOUGH, who was here visiting from New Orleans.

Another high point of the Easter weekend was the dinner dance at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. This affair was attended by about two hundred persons, including out of town visitors. Dinner, which featured roast beef and shrimp Creole, was served from a buffet table in the dining room. The Easter motif was emphasized by the clever centerpiece, made of flowers, rabbits, and three of WILMA GUERRIERO's handmade hats. The Mixmasters played for dancing in the ballroom from eight until twelve o'clock.

The BREARD SNELLINGS, here from New Orleans, were among the dancers . . . The M. D. SORKINS were celebrating their wedding anniversary. Judy wore a watered silk print in shades of grey, with green satin shoes . . . A white orchid accented CHRIS BARTON's white and black organza dance frock . . . CAROLYN CUMMINGS wore a white lace sheath with blue chiffon streamers . . . Chiffon printed in shades of brown with orange was the choice of JOYCE BURKHALTER.

The RABUN SMITHS' guests Billie's parents, MR. and MRS. W. H. CHILDRESS of New Orleans . . . At the table with the Smiths were JEAN and JACK DAVIS, and Jean's parents, DR. AND MRS. DONOVAN BROWN and the RALPH WICKERS. The Browns and the Wickers were here from New Orleans for the weekend . . . Also seen at the dance were the WALTER HASTINGS from Lake Charles, SPEED LAMKIN from New York, MANZIE GUERRIERO from New Orleans, and the DENT TISDALES from Shreveport.

The Spring vacationers are coming and going. Nothing like the first warm days to put one in the mood for a trip. The STAN BAGWELLS will be back tomorrow. They have been visiting relatives in Oklahoma City since Wednesday.

The ARTHUR SMITHS, JR., and son, ART, have been in Florida for over a week. They attended a meeting in Palm Beach, and made a leisurely trip stopping off with friends en route. They are due home in a day or two.

Leaving Wednesday on a fabulous South Seas cruise is FLORA POTTS. She is going by train to Los Angeles, where she will sail on the S. S. Montefey. The cruise stops at Hawaii, Fiji, Samoa, Tahiti, New Zealand, and Australia.

Our own ELISE MAPP will be the only woman on the panel at the University of Texas higher education conference next week. She will be in Austin from Tuesday through Friday, and is one of a group of four speakers who will discuss "The Nature and Destiny of Man."

The DOYLE HAMILTONS are leaving today for two weeks in California. They will go first to San Francisco, where Doyle will attend a meeting; and thence to Los Angeles, where they will visit an old school friend of Jean's. . . . Also attending the San Francisco meeting will be NORMA and OTIS TUGWELL of Bastrop.

CAPTAIN and MRS. HAL KINNE and daughter, ANNE, arrived yesterday for a week's visit before leaving for Germany. They will be guests of Sarah Ellen's relatives, EDITH and OLIVE GUNBY, and COL. THOMAS GUNBY, of Rayville. The Kinnes have been living in Washington, D. C., for the past several years.

MARY HUDSON entertained with a luncheon Tuesday honoring MRS. G. B. ACKERMAN of Columbus, Ohio, who is the guest of her daughter, JENNIE COLLETT. The party was held in the private dining room at Bayou DeSiard Country club. The long table held twin arrangements of pastel tulips and Dutch iris with rainbow ribbon streamers . . . Also with the look of spring were the ladies' hats. KATHERINE JORDAN's natural straw was circled with vari - colored flowers . . . and PAT MADDEN's sailor had flowers under the brim . . . A tangerine colored chiffon scarf accented MILDRED VANDERPOOL's straw with the slough brim . . . BERNICE WOODS was all in white, with a spray of yellow flowers on her hat.

Other guests at this party were NODIE THATCHER, JUDY EVANS, IRIS BROOKS, DOLL BIEDENHARN, JANICE CALDWELL, MAMIE SCOTT, WINIFRED ASHCRAFT, VIRGINIA GUERRIERO, SHIRLEY LEE, KATHY GILMONT, and DES ATKINSON.

Saturday night the TOMMY HOLMES and the RANDOLPH BROWNS invited sixteen friends to dinner at the Holmes residence. Highlight of the meal were the doves which had been shot by the hosts and frozen for this occasion. Dinner was served from a buffet table in the dining room. Spirea in a large tureen was used as a centerpiece. Guests were seated at tables for four centered with candles . . . Incidentally, the Holmes have a house guest this week. Ann's mother, MRS. W. F. MILBURN of Atlanta, arrived Wednesday and will be here until the middle of next week.

Seen lunching at Bayou DeSiard Country Club on Wednesday were MARGARET ROANE of Ruston and her guest, MRS. WILLIAM A. WILTSHIRE of McComb, Mississippi. Mrs. Wiltshire is president of Kappa Delta sorority's Gamma South province. Margaret met her here when she arrived by plane and then drove her to Ruston, where she made a three day visit with Alpha Chi chapter of Kappa Delta at Louisiana Tech.

Another group lunching at Bayou DeSiard Country Club this week was a foursome hosted by HILDA M'DONALD. Guest of honor was JEAN M'LEOD, who with husband JOHN has recently moved here from New York and is now settled on Country Club drive. Other guests for lunch were MARY LOUISE SNELLINGS and YVONNE ANDERSON.

A charming Easter party was that given at the GRANT BOARDMAN home last Sunday afternoon for children and parents. Young host and hostess were CLINT and BARBARA BOARDMAN. The children hunted Easter eggs and took turns riding in LEE CARBREY's pony cart, gaily ribboned and flowered for the occasion . . . Young miss SUSAN BROWN was judged to be the bearer of the fanciest Easter basket . . . Ice cream cones were served to the children from two tables which were centered with twin baskets filled with eggs and tied with big pink plaid bows . . . A large flower pot holding a white tree hung with candy eggs centered the grown-ups' refreshment table.

ELEANOR BROWN honored recent bride DOROTHY DELL BUFFINGTON with a luncheon Thursday. Guests were seated at card tables set up in the private dining room of the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. Azaleas in small Revere bowls centered each table. The sixteen guests played bridge after lunch.

Sorority women of the Twin Cities are looking forward to the annual meeting of Monroe City Panhellenic on Friday. An informal coffee and conversational hour will be held at Bayou DeSiard Country Club at ten o'clock, preceeding the short business meeting. Officers for the coming year will be installed. All regularly initiated members of sororities affiliated with national Panhellenic are invited to join the local organization.

April this year, not otherwise
Than April of a year ago,
Is full of whispers, full of sighs,
Of dazzling mud and dingy snow,
Hepaticas that pleased you so
Are here agair, and butterflies.
The larger streams run still and deep,
Noisy and swift the small brooks run;
Among the mullein stalks the sheep
Go up the hillside in the sun,
Pensively, —— only you are gone,
You that alone I cared to keep.

FLAVOR

Monosodium glutamate has a way of intensifying flavors. It may be used along with salt and pepper in cooking, but not in place of them.

BLACK

Adrian, a Latin name, means "black."

Is full of whispers, full of sighs,
Of dazzling mud and dingy snow,
Hepaticas that pleased you so
Are here agair, and butterflies.
The larger streams run still and deep,
Noisy and swift the small brooks run;
Among the mullein stalks the sheep
Go up the hillside in the sun,
Pensively, —— only you are gone,
You that alone I cared to keep.

Dr. and Mrs. Vincent Sampognaro invited the members of the Board of Ouacihta Tuberculosis and Public Health Association to hold the annual meeting in their home on Deborah Drive on Tuesday evening.

Dr. Sampognaro, president presided and called for reading of the minutes, report of the treasurer and heard the report of the nominating committee which was Mrs. Carroll Aiken, Mrs. W. O. Cotton and Mrs. Clifford Foster. Mrs. Aiken read the report as follows: Pres., Dr. Sampgonaro, V. P., L. J. Hulin, Sec., Mrs. W. L. Moore, Treas., Mr. Thomas Lee. Members were Mrs. W. E. Kramer, Mrs. Ivy Smith, Mr. Walter C. Bentrup, Mrs. R. M. Drew, Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Mrs. Amos Hood, Rev. Ralph Cain, Mrs. Guy Campbell Mrs. George Breece, Clifford Foster, Mrs. R. L. Morgan, Mr. J. H. Watkins, Mrs. C. Aikin, Mr. John F. McCormick, Dr. S. I. Courtman, honorary, Mr. Ben Breard, advisory, E. L. Sanford, Dr. W. C. Sumner, Mrs. Dewitt Henry, Miss Bess Sharp and Miss Myrtle Rodgers. The annual report was read by Jerry Hodge, field consultant, and revealed that altho much work had been done by the officers and members, the goal of $10,000 was not reached. Plans were formulated for the coming year with hope expressed that the next Seal sale will be more successful. Jerry Hodge expressed thanks to the Pilot Club for getting out the 13,000 letters to Ouachita Parish, also to KNOE-TV Station, Monroe Worldand News-Star, all the radio stations Ouachita Citizen, the YWCA girls and many others who helped with publicity during the 1958 campaign. Announcement was made of Louisiana TB Institute to be held in May in Shreveport.

After the business was concluded. Mrs. Sampognaro presided at a beautifully appointed tea table where the guests enjoyed a social hour. They were afterward invited to see this beautiful new home and grounds which is situated on the bayou.

Bridge Club Hosted By Mrs. Anderson

Mrs. Jesse Anderson was a recent bridge hostess entertaining the members of her club at her home south of Tallulah. Decorations for the event were lovely camellia blooms.

At the conclusion of the games Mrs. Douglas Lee was awarded the high score prize. A salad course was served to Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Wray W. Bowie, Mrs. Will Harvey, Mrs. Clark Brown, Mrs. B. G. Hammond, Mrs. Leander Grace, Mrs. Paul Schwartz and Mrs. T. Ed. Williams.

Monroe City Council PTA Holds Meeting

The Monroe City Council of P. T. A. presided over by it's president, Mrs. F. A. Faucett, held it's first meeting at Plum Street grammar school. Speaking to the group was Mr. Buster Crowley, Jr., who presented facts concerning the Detention Home, it's place in our community and it's need for being there. The Fifth District of Louisiana P. T. A. having previously endorsed aiding the securing and maintaining the Detention Home was further strengthened by the Council. Action was taken by the delegates as they voted to accept the revised By-Laws presented by Miss Eloise Cann as recommended by the By-Laws Committee. Resolutions presented at the Fifth District meeting to be included and voted upon at the state convention were read, discussion and explanatory comment followed. The group further endorsed participation in the Library program. Invitations and the announcement of the Councils meeting to be held at Sherrouse Elementary School on May 6th concluded the business session.

In attendance at the meeting were the principals of Lida Benton, Georgia Tucker, Lexington, Sherrouse and Plum Street schools as well as guests and delegates from each local P. T. A. Unit. For the occasion the Plum Street P. T. A. served as hostess at a coffee hour preceded by a presentation of Mrs. C. A. Littleton's third grade in a delightful operetta entitled, "The Weatherman" with vocal solo parts by Mike Ellerby.

Bayou DeSiard Garden Club Has Garden Tour

Members of the Bayou DeSiard Garden Club and their guests enjoyed touring two of Monroe's loveliest gardens Wednesday afternoon under the direction of Mrs. James Kelly and Mrs. P. N. Edwards who served as program directors for the afternoon.

FORMAL

The formal garden of Miss Emmie Lou Biedenharn was visited early in the afternoon. Miss Biedenharn graciously escorted the group through her garden pointing out unusual plants, groupings, and statuary. Yellow Lady Bashar roses, fountains, and soft music entranced the visitors. From the Biedenharn garden the group went to the home of President and Mrs. George Thomas Walker on the Northeast College Campus. Mrs. Walker guided the group on a tour of the spacious garden typical of Louisiana with masses of blooming azaleas, spring bulbs, flowering trees and lovely Bayou DeSiard.

HOSTESSES

Hostesses for the afternoon, Mrs. John McCarter and Mrs. E. J. Foster, invited members and guests into the Walker home for a social hour. In the foyer, a massive arrangement of lavender and yellow bearded iris set the theme for spring. Blue and yellow dutch iris in pewter washed copper containers were placed throughout the living and music rooms. Mrs. Alfred Ware and Mrs. Barney Pate served strawberry float from two silver punch bowls placed on either end of a beautifully appointed table in the dining room. The table was covered with an embroidered linen cloth and centered with a graceful placement of white stock, vivid pink azaleas, and a single white iris in a footed silver container. White chiffon butterflies completed the aura of springtime. Dainty petis fors topped with pink and white petals, ribbon sandwiches, cookies and nuts were served by the hostesses. During the social hour club members presented a silver well-and-tree platter to Mrs. Alfred Ware, immediate past president.

GUESTS

Those present for the delightful garden tour were Mesdames: J. D. Wink, Jr., Alfred Ware, Johnnie Usrey, H. W. Tolson, Jack Rushing, Barney Pate, E. R. Osburn, J. A. Neill, Marcus Mapp, John McCarter, J. D. Kelly, J. H. Huffman, Crusman Gillette, E. J. Foster, R. D. Farr, Jr., P. N. Edwards, Dan Cox, Fred Plitt, and Carl Walker. Guests were: Mesdames, Jennings Wilkins, Carl David, Morton Cooper, T. E. Gibbs, Jim Dollar, A. P. Lassiter, John Luffey, Billy Gannaway, George Thomas Walker and Miss Biedenharn.

Mrs. Thompson Is President Of Garden Club

Mrs. Pat Thompson was elected president of the West Oak Garden Club at the club's regular meeting in the home of Mrs. W. E. Lambert on Dianne Street. Other officers elected were: Mrs. R. J. Goza, Jr., vice president; Mrs. Louis Evangelista, secretary; Mrs. O. E. Brandon, treasurer; Mrs. W. S. Nash, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. W. M. Jones, reporter.

In the absence of the president Mrs. L. T. Harper presided at the meeting. After routine business matters were finished, attention was centered on the flower arrangements the members had made and brought. As each lady displayed her work, the club commented on it, following standard rules as read by Mrs. Harper. The arrangements were studied carefully to see if each style had been portrayed correctly and to decide whether flowers, containers, and foliage were matched and balanced.

At the end of the meeting the hostess invited her guests into the dining room for refreshments. The table was charmingly decorated with flowers matching the Easter egg eclairs and other confections. Mrs. R. J. Goza, Jr., co-hostess, presided over the punch bowl and served the following members: Mesdames Jack Whitehead, Pat Thompson, W. S. Nash, R. F. Taichman, O. J. White, W. A. Gray, Benoit Williams, L. T. Harper, Louis Evangelista, and the hostess.

Mrs. L. Clark Entertains Bridge Club

Mrs. Luther Clark entertained the Bridge Luncheon Club in her home recently.

Spring flowers decorated the livin; room. An arrangement of Dutch Iris and flowering almond centered the desk while white iris and bridal wreath graced the coffee table.

The ladies enjoyed their morning coffee and played bridge until noon, when a luncheon was served.

The remainder of the afternoon was filled playing bridge with Mrs. E. A. Woodrd, Mrs. N. E. McElwee and Mrs. Roy Snider winning prizes.

Leaf And Petal Garden Club Elects Officers

The march meeting of the Leaf and Petal Garden Club was held in the lovely home of Mrs. Robert Newcomer. The minutes were read, and old and new business discussed.

The highlight of the evening was the election of the new officers and projects for the coming year were outlined. The outgoing president, Mrs. Robert Newcomer presented the Club's gavel to Mrs. M. I. Davis, president for the year 1959-1960.

Those elected to office were: President, Mrs. M. I. Davis; Vice President, Mrs. W. A. Carr; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Clyde Brown Historian, Mrs. W. L. Ferguson; Reporter, Mrs. Billy J. Croswell.

Announcement was made, that the next meeting will be hosted by Mrs. M. Kulcke, who will instruct members on flower arranging.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Robert Newcomer. The meeting was adjourned with a prayer, given by Mrs. Clyde Brown.

The Simsboro Garden Club Holds Luncheon

The Simsboro Garden Club met recently for a luncheon in a local dining room.

Following the lunch, Mrs. Earl Harrist, president, called the meeting to order. Ribbons were then presented to Mrs. J. H. Murphy, Mrs. L. A. Mullin, and Mrs. Harrist for horticulture entered in the Dubach Flower Show. The club was especially proud of Mrs. L. A. Mullin for winning the Award of Merit on a daffodil bloom.

Mrs. G. E. Pankey, installing officer and a guest, was then presented to the group.

OFFICERS

The following officers were installed by Mrs. Pankey: Mrs. C. C. Cole, president; Mrs. A. A. Alexander, vice president; Mrs. Ray Canterbury, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. A. A. Lowery, reporter.

Those president for the occasion were Mrs. Pankey, Mrs. A. B. Houck, Mrs. Lowery, Mrs. L. M. Napper, Mrs. G. E. Mullin, Mrs. H. L. Best, Mrs. A. B. Corbett, Mrs. Cole, Mrs. Thera Waldron, Mrs. Grady Carroll, Mrs. Bruna Warner, Mrs. J. H. Murphy, Mrs. W. S. Durrett, Mrs. R. E. Burt, Mrs. Harrist, Mrs. W. R. Sumlin, Mrs. H. E Nobles, Mrs Alexander, Mrs. Canterbury, and Mrs. S. C. Cole.

Two Hostesses To The Delhi Garden Club

Mrs. S. T. Bradley and Mrs. Sam Brown were hostesses for the Delhi Garden Club for their regular meeting held at the Sun Recreation recently for a study about birds.

Mrs. Truman Green, program chairman, presented Mrs. W. T. Windham who gave an interesting talk of "Birds and Their Habits." She gave a list of the most popular wild birds in this area and urged every one to encourage them to come to the gardens because of their beauty, song and usefulness in destroying insects. Pictures were shown of each species, their habits given, and then to conclude her fine program, records were played of different bird songs.

Mrs. L. P. Craighead, first vice-president, presided over the business session in the absence of the president. Committee chairman made their reports.

MRS. BRADLEY

Mrs. S. T. Bradley, flower show chairman, then announced the committees and their chairmen for the Annual Spring Flower Show to be held in the Delhi Methodist Church Recreation Center on May 2nd from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Copies of the schedule were distributed and assigments drawn.

A free will donation for the American Red Cross was taken.

The hostesses had placed two beautiful arrangements in the hall, one held tall branches of red bud in a pale pink footed bowl with pink anemones placed low in the bowl and leaves of strawberry begonia as an accent; the other was a dark green pedestal bowl golding yellow iris with its own foliage.

A spring salad plate was served by Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Bradley to Mesdames Vaugh Biggs, W. E. Coats, L. P. Craighead, C. C. Cutler, J. H. Dodd, Luther Ellison, Truman Green, Carlton Johnson, N. J. Sapp, B. Skidmore, H. P. Warden, W. T. Windham, and T. J. Wren.

Ladies Aux'l Entertained At Country Club

Mrs. Warren Patrick and Mrs. W. M. Scott were hostesses to the Ladies Auxiliary of the Tallulah Country Club.

The buffet table held arrangement of white tulips and jonquils. A delectable luncheon was served. During the meal guests were entertained with a saxophone solo by John Sherwin accompanied by his mother, Mrs. J. C. Sherwin.

The door prize, was won by Mrs. Stewart Moberley.

There were fifty - five guests in attendance including Mrs. Raymon Dickinson of Neopit, Wisconsin. Mrs. E. E. Foree and Mrs. M. F. Carradine were welcomed as new members.

Welcome Book Club Meets In Lovely Point Drive Home Of Mrs. Cummings

Welcome Book Club met in the lovely Point Drive home of Mrs. O. O. Cummings for its March meeting. Seventeen members and one guest answered roll call and joined Mrs. W. B. Wheelis in The Pledge of Allegiance and the reading of the Collect. The President, Mrs. A. S. Gunter presided over the business session. The club gave a contribution to the Drive for Crippled Children and the opening of the new Parish Library.

Mrs. J. D. Petty gave a most interesting report of the Fifth District meeting which she attended as a club delegate. The Scrapbook compiled by Mrs. Ben Oliphant won third place at the meeting. A certificate of appreciation from the Salvation Army was presented to the club. Mrs. Petty announced that the Welcome Book Club had the distinction of having two members listed in the new volume, "Who's Who In American Women". Speer and Mrs. W. B. Wheelis.

STUFFY DISH

NEW YORK (UPI) — Shrimp-stuffed mushrooms are good as canapes or as the entree at a meatless meal. Remove stems from 15 to 20 small fresh mushrooms. Chop stems fine, combine 2 tablespoons with equal amounts fine dry bread crumbs and grated sharp American cheese. Add 1 teaspoon grated onion, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper, and ½ cup minced cooked shrimp. Fill mushroom caps with mixture, broil on baking sheet about 5 to 10 minutes or until browned.

FORE OR AFT

NEW YORK (UPI) — Start or end your meal with sherbert-topped grapefruit. Remove seeds and loosen each section with pointed, sharp knife along membrane and skin. Snip out centers with scissors. Sprinkle 1 teaspoon mint syrup or grenadine over each half. Just before serving, fill each center with 2 tablespoons fruit sherbert and garnish with fresh mint sprigs or strawberries.

Bud & Blossom Garden Club Holds Meeting

The Bud and Blossom Garden Club held their monthly meeting in the home of Mrs. Don L. Williams.

Dr. and Mrs. Vincent Sampognaro invited the members of the Board of Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health Association to hold the annual meeting in their home on Deborah Drive on Tuesday evening.

Dr. Sampognaro, president presided and called for reading of the minutes, report of the treasurer and heard the report of the nominating committee which was Mrs. Carroll Aiken, Mrs. W. O. Cotton and Mrs. Clifford Foster. Mrs. Aiken read the report as follows: Pres., Dr. Sampgonaro, V. P., L. J. Hulin, Sec., Mrs. W. L. Moore, Treas., Mr. Thomas Lee. Members were Mrs. W. E. Kramer, Mrs. Ivy Smith, Mr. Walter C. Bentrup, Mrs. R. M. Drew, Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Mrs. Amos Hood, Rev. Ralph Cain, Mrs. Guy Campbell Mrs. George Breece, Clifford Foster, Mrs. R. L. Morgan, Mr. J. H. Watkins, Mrs. C. Aikin, Mr. John F. McCormick, Dr. S. I. Courtman, honorary, Mr. Ben Breard, advisory, E. L. Sanford, Dr. W. C. Sumner, Mrs. Dewitt Henry, Miss Bess Sharp and Miss Myrtle Rodgers. The annual report was read by Jerry Hodge, field consultant, and revealed that altho much work had been done by the officers and members, the goal of $10,000 was not reached. Plans were formulated for the coming year with hope expressed that the next Seal sale will be more successful. Jerry Hodge expressed thanks to the Pilot Club for getting out the 13,000 letters to Ouachita Parish, also to KNOE-TV Station, Monroe Worldand News-Star, all the radio stations Ouachita Citizen, the YWCA girls and many others who helped with publicity during the 1958 campaign. Announcement was made of Louisiana TB Institute to be held in May in Shreveport.

After the business was concluded. Mrs. Sampognaro presided at a beautifully appointed tea table where the guests enjoyed a social hour. They were afterward invited to see this beautiful new home and grounds which is situated on the bayou.

Bridge Club Hosted By Mrs. Anderson

Mrs. Jesse Anderson was a recent bridge hostess entertaining the members of her club at her home south of Tallulah. Decorations for the event were lovely camellia blooms.

At the conclusion of the games Mrs. Douglas Lee was awarded the high score prize. A salad course was served to Mrs. Lee, Mrs. Wray W. Bowie, Mrs. Will Harvey, Mrs. Clark Brown, Mrs. B. G. Hammond, Mrs. Leander Grace, Mrs. Paul Schwartz and Mrs. T. Ed. Williams.

Monroe City Council PTA Holds Meeting

The Monroe City Council of P. T. A. presided over by it's president, Mrs. F. A. Faucett, held it's first meeting at Plum Street grammar school. Speaking to the group was Mr. Buster Crowley, Jr., who presented facts concerning the Detention Home, it's place in our community and it's need for being there. The Fifth District of Louisiana P. T. A. having previously endorsed aiding the securing and maintaining the Detention Home was further strengthened by the Council. Action was taken by the delegates as they voted to accept the revised By-Laws presented by Miss Eloise Cann as recommended by the By-Laws Committee. Resolutions presented at the Fifth District meeting to be included and voted upon at the state convention were read, discussion and explanatory comment followed. The group further endorsed participation in the Library program. Invitations and the announcement of the Councils meeting to be held at Sherrouse Elementary School on May 6th concluded the business session.

In attendance at the meeting were the principals of Lida Benton, Georgia Tucker, Lexington, Sherrouse and Plum Street schools as well as guests and delegates from each local P. T. A. Unit For the occasion the Plum Street P. T. A. served as hostess at a coffee hour preceded by a presentation of Mrs. C. A. Littleton's third grade in a delightful operetta entitled, "The Weatherman" with vocal solo parts by Mike Ellerby.

Bayou DeSiard Garden Club Has Garden Tour

Members of the Bayou DeSiard Garden Club and their guests enjoyed touring two of Monroe's loveliest gardens Wednesday afternoon under the direction of Mrs. James Kelly and Mrs. P. N. Edwards who served as program directors for the afternoon.

FORMAL

The formal garden of Miss Emmie Lou Biedenharn was visited early in the afternoon. Miss Biedenharn graciously escorted the group through her garden pointing out unusual plants, groupings, and statuary. Yellow Lady Bashar roses, fountains, and soft music entranced the visitors. From the Biedenharn garden the group went to the home of President and Mrs. George Thomas Walker on the Northeast College Campus. Mrs. Walker guided the group on a tour of the spacious garden typical of Louisiana with masses of blooming azaleas, spring bulbs, flowering trees and lovely Bayou DeSiard.

HOSTESSES

Hostesses for the afternoon, Mrs. John McCarter and Mrs. E. J. Foster, invited members and guests into the Walker home for a social hour. In the foyer, a massive arrangement of lavender and yellow bearded iris set the theme for spring. Blue and yellow dutch iris in pewter washed copper containers were placed throughout the living and music rooms. Mrs. Alfred Ware and Mrs. Barney Pate served strawberry float from two silver punch bowls placed on either end of a beautifully appointed table in the dining room. The table was covered with an embroidered linen cloth and centered with a graceful placement of white stock, vivid pink azaleas, and a single white iris in a footed silver container. White chiffon butterflies completed the aura of springtime. Dainty petis fors topped with pink and white petals, ribbon sandwiches, cookies and nuts were served by the hostesses. During the social hour club members presented a silver well-and-tree platter to Mrs. Alfred Ware, immediate past president.

GUESTS

Those present for the delightful garden tour were Mesdames: J. D. Wink, Jr., Alfred Ware, Johnnie Usrey, H. W. Tolson, Jack Rushing, Barney Pate, E. R. Osburn, J. A. Neill, Marcus Mapp John McCarter, J. D. Kelly, J. H. Huffman, Crusman Gillette, E. J. Foster, R. D. Farr, Jr., P. N. Edwards, Dan Cox, Fred Plitt, and Carl Walker. Guests were: Mesdames, Jennings Wilkins, Carl David, Morton Cooper, T. E. Gibbs, Jim Dollar, A. P. Lassiter, John Luffey, Billy Gannaway, George Thomas Walker and Miss Biedenharn.

Mrs. Thompson Is President Of Garden Club

Mrs. Pat Thompson was elected president of the West Oak Garden Club at the club's regular meeting in the home of Mrs. W. E. Lambert on Dianne Street. Other officers elected were: Mrs. R. J. Goza, Jr., vice president; Mrs. Louis Evangelista, secretary; Mrs. O. E. Brandon, treasurer; Mrs. W. S. Nash, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. W. M. Jones, reporter.

In the absence of the president Mrs. L. T. Harper presided at the meeting. After routine business matters were finished, attention was centered on the flower arrangements the members had made and brought. As each lady displayed her work, the club commented on it, following standard rules as read by Mrs. Harper. The arrangements were studied carefully to see if each style had been portrayed correctly and to decide whether flowers, containers, and foliage were matched and balanced.

At the end of the meeting the hostess invited her guests into the dining room for refreshments. The table was charmingly decorated with flowers matching the Easter egg eclairs and other confections. Mrs. R. J. Goza, Jr., cohostess, presided over the punch bowl and served the following members: Mesdames Jack Whitehead, Pat Thompson, W. S. Nash, R. F. Taichman, O. J. White, W. A. Gray, Benoit Williams, L. T. Harper, Louis Evangelista, and the hostess.

Mrs. L. Clark Entertains Bridge Club

Mrs. Luther Clark entertained the Bridge Luncheon Club in her home recently.

Spring flowers decorated the livin; room. An arrangement of Dutch Iris and flowering almond centered the desk while white iris and bridal wreath graced the coffee table.

The ladies enjoyed their morning coffee and played bridge until noon, when a luncheon was served.

The remainder of the afternoon was filled playing bridge with Mrs. E. A. Woodrd, Mrs. N. E. McElwee and Mrs. Roy Snider winning prizes.

Leaf And Petal Garden Club Elects Officers

The march meeting of the Leaf and Petal Garden Club was held in the lovely home of Mrs. Robert Newcomer. The minutes were read, and old and new business discussed.

The highlight of the evening was the election of the new officers and projects for the coming year were outlined. The outgoing president, Mrs. Robert Newcomer presented the Club's gavel to Mrs. M. I. Davis, president for the year 1959-1960.

Those elected to office were: President, Mrs. M. I. Davis; Vice President, Mrs. W. A. Carr; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Clyde Brown Historian, Mrs. W. L. Ferguson; Reporter, Mrs. Billy J. Croswell.

Two Hostesses To The Delhi Garden Club

Mrs. S. T. Bradley and Mrs. Sam Brown were hostesses for the Delhi Garden Club for their regular meeting held at the Sun Recreation recently for a study about birds.

Mrs. Truman Green, program chairman, presented Mrs. W. T. Windham who gave an interesting talk of "Birds and Their Habits." She gave a list of the most popular wild birds in this area and urged every one to encourage them to come to the gardens because of their beauty, song and usefulness in destroying insects. Pictures were shown of each species, their habits given, and then to conclude her fine program, records were played of different bird songs.

Mrs. L. P. Craighead, first vice-president, presided over the business session in the absence of the president. Committee chairman made their reports.

MRS. BRADLEY

Mrs. S. T. Bradley, flower show chairman, then announced the committees and their chairmen for the Annual Spring Flower Show to be held in the Delhi Methodist Church Recreation Center on May 2nd from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Copies of the schedule were distributed and assigments drawn.

A free will donation for the American Red Cross was taken.

The hostesses had placed two beautiful arrangements in the hall, one held tall branches of red bud in a pale pink footed bowl with pink anemones placed low in the bowl and leaves of strawberry begonia as an accent; the other was a dark green pedestal bowl golding yellow iris with its own foliage.

A spring salad plate was served by Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Bradley to Mesdames Vaugh Biggs, W. E. Coats, L. P. Craighead, C. C. Cutler, J. H. Dodd, Luther Ellison, Truman Green, Carlton Johnson, N. J. Sapp, B. Skidmore, H. P. Warden, W. T. Windham, and T. J. Wren.

Ladies Aux'l Entertained At Country Club

Mrs. Warren Patrick and Mrs. W. M. Scott were hostesses to the Ladies Auxiliary of the Tallulah Country Club.

The buffet table held arrangement of white tulips and jonquils. A delectable luncheon was served. During the meal guests were entertained with a saxophone solo by John Sherwin accompanied by his mother, Mrs. J. C. Sherwin.

The door prize, was won by Mrs. Stewart Moberley.

There were fifty - five guests in attendance including Mrs. Raymon Dickinson of Neopit, Wisconsin. Mrs. E. E. Foree and Mrs. M. F. Carradine were welcomed as new members.

STUFFY DISH

NEW YORK (UPI) — Shrimp-stuffed mushrooms are good as canapes or as the entree at a meatless meal. Remove stems from 15 to 20 small fresh mushrooms. Chop stems fine, combine 2 tablespoons with equal amounts fine dry bread crumbs and grated sharp American cheese. Add 1 teaspoon grated onion, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon ground black pepper, and ½ cup minced cooked shrimp. Fill mushroom caps with mixture, broil on baking sheet about 5 to 10 minutes or until browned.

FORE OR AFT

NEW YORK (UPI) — Start or end your meal with sherbert-topped grapefruit. Remove seeds and loosen each section with pointed, sharp knife along membrane and skin. Snip out centers with scissors. Sprinkle 1 teaspoon mint syrup or grenadine over each half. Just before serving, fill each center with 2 tablespoons fruit sherbert and garnish with fresh mint sprigs or strawberries.

Local Scene Flower Dotted

By MILDRED SWIFT

Some beautiful combinations around Ouachita Parish are: White bridal wreath and pink azaleas; lavender wisteria and creamy yellow Lady Banksia rose; nik flowering almond with ground cover of blue scilla; pink verbena and blue iris; pink and white dogwood with iris of any and all colors.

Have you ever seen a lovelier arch than that of the bridal wreath stem, loaded with blossoms? Beautiful in the yard or as cut flowers for the house and your church.

STARTLING!

Yes, tall Easter lilies can now be controlled, stems will grow shorter, thus making them more adapted to a wider variety of uses. The new chemical is a phosphonium compound. Here is the full chemical name: 2-4-dichlorobenzyltributylosphonium. Don't ask me to pronounce it.

The chemical shortens the stems but has no effect on blossoms or leaves if properly used. It is not a hazard to human or animals. Commercial manufacture of this chemical has started.

Florists will be the first to use this but later it is expected to be in retail stores for home gardeners. It also shortens the stems of petunias, chrysanthemums and some flowering shrubs.

One method for application is to mix the powdered phosphonium with the soil before palnting the bulb or plant. Research scientists also say that the grower may drench the soil around the plant with a solution of the compound.

I'll give you more on the use of this after our specialists have released the information, and of course, when the chemical is available.

LABOR SAVERS

Bricks laid flat and at soil level along edges of grass and next to walls, walks or flower beds save you work. You can run the grass roller right down the edge. This eliminates the necessity of hand trimming by allowing your lawn mower to cut to the edge of the grass.

Rustproof your garden tools by coating them with a thin film of paraffin. Dissolve a one-half inch cube in four ounces of non-inflammable carbon tetrachloride. Brush the mixture on tools. The carbon tetrachloride evaporates, leaving just the paraffin to protect the tools.

GARDENING

Remember the Burgomaster giant yellow bulb I told you about in November of 1954. These I planted as an experiment. We're tired of bulbs that degenerate into small ones in a few years. Well—this Burgomaster is holding up. The bulbs this year were no smaller than when they bloomed in the spring of 1955. That's something. Few will give us that service.

I see so much tree pruning around the parish. We discussed that in detail several weeks ago. Let me remind you again, be sure to seal every cut with tree seal. This can be bought at the seed stores and some nurseries.

Aren't the scilla blooms lovely? And — they require so little attention.

If you admire junipers but have no place for the large plants, remember there is a dwarf one. These take on a lovely bronze color in the winter. They're very satisfactory in planters, too.

If you have the dward youpon, these may need some pruning to make them thicken up a bit. Clipping the longer limbs will usually do this. The plant shapes itself in a rather formal manner, without any help. So — we are just helping this little youpon to shape itself when we cut the length of the limbs to make it denser.

MORE

There's one thing and for sure, you'll not go wrong on the type azalea and camellia you want if you buy them while they're in bloom. These plants are balled and burlapped (some camellias are in buckets) so you can plant them now. Azaleas are in bloom and you can see what you're getting.

When you buy one of these two plants it's a long time investment and you should be happy with them. I've had my friends go into exstasy over varieties that I wouldn't buy at all. This would be a very dull world if everybody liked the same type plant, the same style and color dress, hat, shoes, house, etc, etc, etc.

It is really a shame that the borers are fast killing the dogwoods. This is true even in our woods. The sad part about this is — by the time you know the rascals are there, the tree is past saving. We'll keep on planting though, and hoping. Dogwoods create a picture that no other tree can give us.

Have you noticed how dull your garden looked before the lawn grass put out? Now that there's a carpet of green, everything takes on more character. That's the reason I love winter grass. It gives a background and a foreground for our early bulbs and flowering trees.

When the ground is wet, that's a good time to pull weeds in the lawn and flower beds. Those with long tap roots will only come up when the ground is wet. Careful!! Don't pull the top and leave the root. You'll just make a stronger root that will give you more trouble.

Here's a tip about seed with hard shells that don't germinate easily. Soak them, just barely covered with water, overnight. This soaking softens the coat. Plant immediately.

Some years ago a homemaker gave me a good idea for a bird feeder. Let the children make one of these and learn to love and appreciate their feathered frinds.

Here's the feeder: Take a large pine cone for the base. In a boiler melt some suet (thy'll usually give this to you at the market; and add bird seed. Pour the bird seed suet mixture over the pine cone. Hang in the tree.

If you want violets to decorate a cake or for any purpose, treat them in this manner: Melt paraffin. Let it cool for a few minutes. Using a pair of tweezers, dip the blooms in the paraffin very quickly. Shake off excess wax. These will keep for a while. In a few days the stems will die. I'm sure other small flowers could be treated in the same way. Try it. Caution! Cool the wax or you'll have cooked flowers.

ANNOUNCEENTS

Your Open House Programs for next week are: Monday, Mary Sue Nugent will give us some ideas on baby sitting; Tuesday, Mrs. Bonnie Gaddis, safety in the kitchen; Wednesday flower arrangements with Mrs. Jardine; Thursday and Friday marketing with Mildred.

The women of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of St. Paul's Methodist Church, by popular request, have again made up their cookbook. I have one I purchased in 1953 and believe me it is one of my prized possessions.

The recipes were contributed by homemakers in this parish and they selected their best. These are available for $2.50 — for out-of-town orders, please include 25 cents for postage.

You may purchase these books at Dixie Dandy Store on Forsythe; Fred Parrish Service Station, Louisville; Kelso Suburban Shop on Forsythe; Kelso's downtown store or contact any member of the society.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Amaryllis Due In Area Soon

By MARY JARDINE

Soon it will be amaryllis time in North Louisiana. The warm sun is pushing the scapes out of the soil with amazing rapidity. There is a growing colony of amaryllis hobbyists in this area. A book that will appeal to all amaryllis growers is the Amaryllis Manual by Hamilton P. Traub and published by the Macmillan Company, New York. In the words of one advance reviewer the manual is "an elegant sufficiency for the specialist." While the body of the book is devoted to information for the plain dirt gardener and plant hobbyist, technical discussions for the scientist are developed in the extensive appendices.

The suprisingly varied members of the genus Amaryllis are among the most resplendent flowers known in cultivation. Their relative ease of culture (given the right conditions) and the remarkable results that can be obtained through hybridization make amaryllids apt subjects for breeding and other research.

Whether beginning with seeds, cuttings, bulbs, or full-sized specimens, gardeners will find in this book detailed directions for growing these long lived plants. With these instructions they will acquire a basic botanical knowledge which will enhance their appreciation and clarify some of their cultural practices. Arranging, exhibiting and commercial handling are fully covered along with the latest scientific advances in disease and pest control. Blooming now in our garden is the lovely Amaryllis Evansiae, the species collected by Ike Nelson in 1954 in Santa Cruz, Bolivia.

Other members of the tribe amaryllidaceae well known in our Southern Gardens are Crinums, Amarcrinums Lycoris, Habranthas,, narcissus, Sprekelia, sternbergia, zephranthes and others. This is a book you will surely want to read, study and own.

BAYOU VISTA CLUB

Top score went to Mrs. C. A. McKenzie for her triangular arrangement. Carrying out a color scheme of green and yellow, Mrs. McKenzie selected a black boat-shaped container for her design. The triangular background pattern was of variegated sansevieria. A change of texture was introduced by secondary placement of the foliage of loquat. Within the pattern were buds and blooms of the early yellow iris. Full buds were carried to the right angle emphasizing the pattern. Very lovely staged against a chartreuse background.

Mrs. Ben Winegart designed a beautiful line mass arrangement in violet and red-violet color tones. A black, rectangular bowl with a mat finish was selected for the design. Fragrant lilac delineated the line pattern which was emphasized with placement of purple iris buds and deep violet tulips. Massed in the foreground were blooms of the Pride of Mobile azaleas. This appealing color harmony was staged against a soft pink background.

Azaleas were featured in Mrs. W. A. Roche's mass arrangement for a buffet. A round green pottery bowl served as a container. Mrs. Roche placed iris foliage in a radiating fan pattern in the background followed by the new light green foliage of euonymus. Darker green boxwood foliage was placed low in the design. Formosa azalea blooms in brilliant red-violet were effectively grouped as a center of interest.

April 23, East Carroll Garden Club Flower Show, Lake Providence.

Tulip Society Offering Cash Prizes Again

More than $1,000 worth of Dutch bulbs will again be awarded this year to first-prize winners in spring garden shows throughout the United States by the National Tulip Society, it was announced today by Felix. R. Tyroler, Executive Secretary of the Society.

Garden club presidents or committees planning spring shows are urged to notify the National Tulip Society immediately, since only those clubs submitting a schedule of events will be considered. A further requirement is that none of the winners shall have won a similar prize in the last two years.

The bulbs awarded will be outstanding varieties of the highest quality grown in the Netherlands. Last year hundreds of such awards were made.

Second and third prize winners will receive membership in the Tulip Society and Certificates of Award.

All correspondence should be forwarded to Mr. Felix R. Tyroler, Tulip Society, 55 West 42nd Street, New York 36, New York.

Pastor Named For Calvary Missionary

NEW ORLEANS (Special) — The Rev. P Rayfield Brown, III, 41-year-old minister of this city and civic and religious leader has been called to the pastorate of the Calvary Missionary Baptist Church, West Monroe, after pastoring the Pleasant Grove Church here, for nearly 12 years. The Rev. Brown has accepted the call and will move to Monroe shortly.

Having been born in New Orleans the youthful cleric was educated at the Hoffman and McDonogh 35 High Schools, Xavier Seminary and did extension work from the Union Seminary in Westfield, Indiana. He serves presently as instructor, national S. S. and BTU Congress; vice president at large of the Louisiana State SS Convention, Dean, La. State Department of Christian Education; Publicist, La. State Baptist Convention; president of the Sunday School and BTU Congress, Ideal Missionary Baptist Association of this city; member of Mayor's Committee on Traffic Safety; member of N. O. Committee on Housing and Rehabilitation.

The Rev. Brown was among the first group of interracial ministers to go to Jamaica, BWI, on an evangelistic crusade in 1957 and also serve on the Honorary Committee for the inauguration of Mayor deLesseps Morrison last year

Calvary Missionary Baptist Church was built 11 years ago under the administration of Dr. Jesse H. Allen, who pastors now in California and the church has been without a pastor for about two years. The Rev. W. Kelly, a local minister, has acted in the absence of a pastor. Prof. James E. Wilson, local school principal is church clerk and treasurer.

Lovely Garden In Its Glory

By AUDREY DAWSON

GARDEN TOUR

Sixty-six of us are mighty glad that the tour committee of the 10 & 25 Year Club of the Home Demonstration Program planned the trip to the Hodges garden at Many this week. It is one of Louisiana's loveliest areas. It is certainly a corner of God's Paradise. The natural beauty is enhanced by the planting of beautiful gardens of tulips, pansies, camellias, azaleas, roses and other flowers. The huge greenhouse with its many varieties of orchids and numerous other tropical plants is one of the loveliest spots on the tour.

One could spend a greater part of a day wandering in the main garden which is nestled among rocks and pools of water. If you want to see a portion of the beauty of Louisiana, the Hodges Garden should be on your list. Again thanks to the committee members, Mrs. Marvin Shipp, Mrs. J. G. Haynes, Mrs. Pearl Bower and our president, Mrs. Gertie Landrum for a wonderful day.

FASHION WISE

You, I know are pleased with the spring and summer fashion if you are eight or 80. The designers have decided that women want to look like women, so the natural look is back. The bloused top, the Empire style and high rise waistline are the only left overs. If you are young and slim the Empire and high rise waistline are very pretty for you, but if you are not in this class the sheath and casual lines are a welcome.

There will not be many high necklines this summer or fall. They are slightly away or wide away from the throat-even on suits. Collars are becoming, larger covering the top of the shoulders in many sleeveless dresses.

MORE ON FASHION

All-one-color is still the fashion look-the effect of one color outfit is tremendous-expecially for those of us who are just a little on the short stout figure. However all colors are good this summer so long as you don't mix them too much.

If you are one of those individuals who like to mix colors and try lots of contrasting shades, you'll probably have your chance next fall or winter. It looks like contrasting colors and very bright colors are next in fashion. For this season though, the one tone is still the most fashionable.

OPEN HOUSE

Let's not forget Open House at our new parish library on 18th Street next Sunday, April 12th from 2 to 6. It is also National Library Week and the three principle objectives of the week are a more understanding and effective support of libraries, a hightened sense of the importance of reading in national life, and a more active enjoyment by people generally of the rich rewards of reading. So let's use our library and "Wake up and Read."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Chop peanuts, pecans and walnut meats with a small cookie or biscuit cutter in a deep bowl. Saves fingers, and avoids flying nuts.

Use a piece of aluminum foil under the refrigerator ice trays prevents sticking.

A cloth moistened with vinegar will whiten piano keys.

Grind stale bread and store it to use for casseroles and croquette. It keeps best in the freezer.

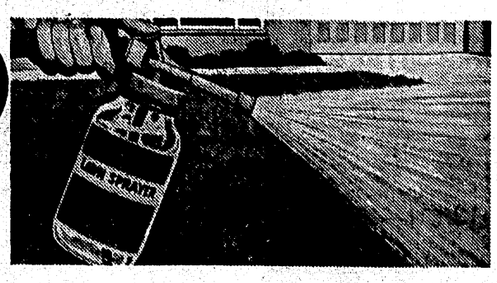
Weeds?



spray WEED-B-GON — kill lawn weeds, roots 'n all!

Use the ORTHO Lawn Sprayer and simply spray lawn weeds away! Or use an ordinary sprinkling can. It's the easy way to wipe out oxalis, plantain, dandelion, chickweed, dock, thistle, wild onion...even poison oak and poison ivy. What's more, weeds don't grow back once they're killed with WEED-B-GON. Most die from the roots up with just one application.

THE HOME SHIFT

Local Scene Flower Dotted

By MILDRED SWIFT

Some beautiful combinations around Ouachita Parish are: White bridal wreath and pink azaleas; lavender wisteria and creamy yellow Lady Banksia rose; nik flowering almond with ground cover of blue scilla; pink verbena and blue iris; pink and white dogwood with iris of any and all colors.

Have you ever seen a lovelier arch than that of the bridal wreath stem, loaded with blossoms? Beautiful in the yard or as cut flowers for the house and your church.

STARTLING!

Yes, tall Easter lilies can now be controlled, stems will grow shorter, thus making them more adapted to a wider variety of uses. The new chemical is a phosphonium compound. Here is the full chemical name: 2-4-dichlorobenzyltributylosphonium. Don't ask me to pronounce it.

The chemical shortens the stems but has no effect on blossoms or leaves if properly used. It is not a hazard to human or animals. Commercial manufacture of this chemical has started.

Florists will be the first to use this but later it is expected to be in retail stores for home gardeners. It also shortens the stems of petunias, chrysanthemums and some flowering shrubs.

One method for application is to mix the powdered phosphonium with the soil before palnting the bulb or plant. Research scientists also say that the grower may drench the soil around the plant with a solution of the compound.

I'll give you more on the use of this after our specialists have released the information, and of course, when the chemical is available.

LABOR SAVERS

Bricks laid flat and at soil level along edges of grass and next to walls, walks or flower beds save you work. You can run the grass roller right down the edge. This eliminates the necessity of hand trimming by allowing your lawn mower to cut to the edge of the grass.

Rustproof your garden tools by coating them with a thin film of paraffin. Dissolve a one-half inch cube in four ounces of non-inflammable carbon tetrachloride. Brush the mixture on tools. The carbon tetrachloride evaporates, leaving just the paraffin to protect the tools.

GARDENING

Remember the Burgomaster giant yellow bulb I told you about in November of 1954. These I planted as an experiment. We're tired of bulbs that degenerate into small ones in a few years. Well—this Burgomaster is holding up. The bulbs this year were no smaller than when they bloomed in the spring of 1955. That's something. Few will give us that service.

I see so much tree pruning around the parish. We discussed that in detail several weeks ago. Let me remind you again, be sure to seal every cut with tree seal. This can be bought at the seed stores and some nurseries.

Aren't the scilla blooms lovely? And — they require so little attention.

If you admire junipers but have no place for the large plants, remember there is a dwarf one. These take on a lovely bronze color in the winter. They're very satisfactory in planters, too.

If you have the dward youpon, these may need some pruning to make them thicken up a bit. Clipping the longer limbs will usually do this. The plant shapes itself in a rather formal manner, without any help. So — we are just helping this little youpon to shape itself when we cut the length of the limbs to make it denser.

MORE

There's one thing and for sure, you'll not go wrong on the type azalea and camellia you want if you buy them while they're in bloom. These plants are balled and burlapped (some camellias are in buckets) so you can plant them now. Azaleas are in bloom and you can see what you're getting.

When you buy one of these two plants it's a long time investment and you should be happy with them. I've had my friends go into exstasy over varieties that I wouldn't buy at all. This would be a very dull world if everybody liked the same type plant, the same style and color dress, hat, shoes, house, etc, etc, etc.

It is really a shame that the borers are fast killing the dogwoods. This is true even in our woods. The sad part about this is — by the time you know the rascals are there, the tree is past saving. We'll keep on planting though, and hoping. Dogwoods create a picture that no other tree can give us.

Have you noticed how dull your garden looked before the lawn grass pu'; out? Now that there's a carpet of green, everything takes on more character. That's the reason I love winter grass. It gives a background and a foreground for our early bulbs and flowering trees.

When the ground is wet, that's a good time to pull weeds in the lawn and flower beds. Those with long tap roots will only come up when the ground is wet. Careful!! Don't pull the top and leave the root. You'll just make a stronger root that will give you more trouble.

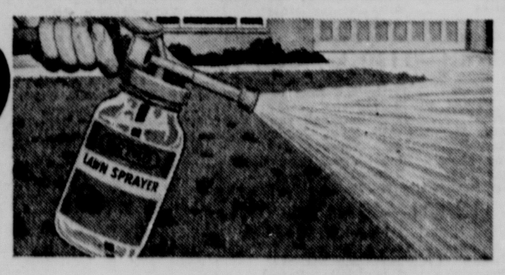
Weeds?



spray WEED-B-GON — kill lawn weeds, roots 'n all!
Use the ORTHO Lawn Sprayer and simply spray lawn weeds away! Or use an ordinary sprinkling can. It's the easy way to wipe out oxalis, plantain, dandelion, chickweed, dock, thistle, wild onion...even poison oak and poison ivy. What's more, weeds don't grow back once they're killed with WEED-B-GON. Most die from the roots up with just one application.

CONCERT
By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — RCA Victor has resumed making records with the National Symphony of Washington, D. C. It's a gain for records, now that Howard Mitchell, a sensitively discerning musician, is the orchestra's conductor.

The first record of what it is hoped will be a series, is of Dimitri Shostakovitch's Fifth Symphony, which under Mitchell's baton, has more impact and more musical meaning for these Western ears than it ever had before.

That may be because the Fifth, which dates from 1937, is now so familiar as music that you no longer try to fit it in with its strange sub-title, "A Soviet artist's creative reply to just criticism." If you forget the sub-title, you realize the music is creative but non - political, (RCA Victor-LM7385).

But the composer is now far removed from his Fifth, composed in the days of Stalin. This fact is most evident in his 11th Symphony which had its first playing in 1957 and now has had its second full recording by a Western orchestra under a Western conductor — the French National Radio Orchestra, Andre Cluytens conducting (Angel-3586).

The composer spared no horses on this one. Two disks are needed, which makes for a lot of listening. Again the sub-title confuses the Western mind. It is "1905," referring to a massacre of would - be petitionetrs of the Czar. Of this latest recording of the 11th, all you can say is that it is not as tedious a listening experience as the first was.

Time works for a composer of Shostakovitch's originality. Maybe the 11th recording of the 11th Symphony will be a major experience. Look at Richard Strauss and his "Also Sprach Zarathustra." In a brilliant new recording by the Berlin Philharmonic under Karl Bohm, it has the classical ring (Decca-7999). A generation or so ago people wondered if it had more banality than profundity. Now it seems profound, at least in a small way.

HAVE MUSIC, WILL TRAVEL

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Philharmonic, with conductor Leonard Bernstein, will leave in August for an extended tour of Europe and the Near East, including some performances in Russia. The itinerary is still being drawn up.

POPULAR
By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hollywood often has dubbed in the voices for actors and actresses who can't sing but United Artists insists Marilyn Monroe doesn't need a musical stand-in.

Thus Miss Monroe proves she is a woman of many talents in "Some Like It Hot."

The sound-track (United Artists UAL-4040) presents Marilyn in three songs that are high spots of the film.

Best of them is "I Want to Be Loved." Marilyn's voice, though much less staggering than her other attributes, oozes sex and she in no way lets down the composers of a great song.

Even without Marilyn, the recorded sound - track would be worth adding to the collection mainly because of the good jazz music of Matty Malneck and his Orchestra.

Most interesting among these are "Miles Davis — Porgy and Bess' (Columbia CL-1274), a jazz gem: "Pearl Bailey Sings Porgy and Bess and Other Gershwin Melodies" (Roulette R-25063), one of Pearl's best efforts, and "Instrumental Selections from Porgy and Bess and Showboat" by Eric Steele and his Orchestra (Mercury MG-203-94).

Selected singles — "Cerveza" by Bert Kampfert and his Orchestra" (Decca 9-308-66), "Golden Rule of Love" by Scott Engel (Orbit R-537), "One Blade of Grass" by Jerry Wright (Freedom F-44008), "Rock A Doodle Reveille" by Le Roy and Wally (Carlton 500).

LP of the Week (Mono) — "Glow With the Mills Brothers" (Decca DL-8827) . . . famed vocal team in a reprise of some of their hits such as "The Glow Worm" and "How Blue?"

LP of the Week (Stereo)— "Stereo Concert" by the Kingston Trio (Capitol ST-1183) . . . a live recording of a concert by the trio that rocketed to prominence with "Tom Dooley."

For Collectors — "The Immortal Harry Lauder" (RCA-Camden 479), a transfer of 78's to a low - price LP of the songs that made the great Scotsman an historical figure in entertainment; and "A Backward Glance — Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey" (Riverside 12-834), a selection of recordings made from 1924 to 1926 by the brothers and other top - flight musicians such as Red Nichols and Freddie Cusick.

-THE ARTS-

Marked For Death By Reds

THE GREAT PRINCE DIED. By Bernard Wolfe, Scribners. $4.50.

In Cohoacan, a surburb of Mexico City, in a pink-walled villa with a sand-bagged turret and armed guards inside and out, there live Victor Rostov, his wife Marisha, and some retainers.

Rostov, according to this novel, is a fugitive from Stalinist Russia. His life is in danger from assassins, he realizes it only too clearly, and one of his chief concerns is to finish his memoirs. In his entourage you meet Paul Teleki, most vigilant against the unseen enemy; David the young American who aligned himself with the political ideals of this exile and is engaged, somewhat naively, in investigating them at their source; Emma, who types for the master; and the faithful wife. Outside in adjacent streets are Mexican police assigned to guard the famous refugee; prostitutes who ostensibly help them to while away their time; and an ignorant but canny peasant Diosdado.

Still farther outside, except on a couple of grim occasions, are George Bass, ordered by Moscow to liquidate Rostov, and some assorted noxious aides, like the implacable old revolutionary Candida, her weakling son Tomas, whom Emma madly needs as a lover, and Ramon.

Rostov reports Bass' presence to the Mexican secret police, but it takes some time to convince them of it. The murderer's principal problem is to get inside the villa's walls and Wolfe builds up the suspense tautly, or as tautly as possible when the reader already knows the outcome.

This is, of course, the novel about Trotsky; he was killed in Coyoacan in 1940, and his slayer is due to be released from prison next year. Wolfe himself served briefly on Trotsky's secretarial staff, and writes out of some first-hand knowledge. In both the novel and in notes, he expresses the suspicion that Trotsky knew he could not escape his assassins, and was somewhat fatalistic. He also believes Trotsky might well have been sorely troubled in his last years by reflections on his historic role at Kronstadt. The rebel sailors represented the finest proletarian aspirations, yet they were ruthlessly sacrificed, at Rostov-Trotsky's command, in order to establish inflexible one-party Bolshevik rule. Wthout Kronstadt, Wolfe asks searchingly, could Stalin have developed?

This is a considerable burden for the hero of a novel to bear if he is to win your sympathy, and Rostov never wholly does. The book has its awkwardnesses, including some lovers encounters either too realistic or too idealistic, but Rostov is a gripping figure in a tense plot, and the course of the story does not falter often over ideology.

Wolfe in his notes utters one wish I'd like emphatically to second: That Victor Serge's "The Case of Comrade Tulayev" be reprinted. I don't remember any condemnation of the police state so impassioned and damning.

RUNNING THE SCALES
With JOHN CALE

The Twin Cities symphony orchestra was getting set for its third concert of the season when the "scales" headed for press this week.

Dr. Harry Lemert, director of the orchestra, said the concert would be in Brown Hall on the Northeast State College campus at 8:30 p.m. Thursday.

SOLOIST

Soprano Marjorie Hayward Madey will be guest soloist for the occasion.

The date coincides with the final concert on the Louisiana Tech series — the performance of the Claremont String Quartet at Howard Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. also on Thursday.

It might be said here that conflicts have been rare this entire season. With professionals covering their tour areas and local organizations also lighting up the footlights, this Thursday marks the first time it will have to be "one or the other, not both."

LOST AND FOUND

The New Orleans Symphony, which has completed a mid-winter tour of the eastern United States, presented a homecoming concert which featured pianist Lee Luvisi.

Luvisi played the "Piano Concerto in E-Flat" by Efrem Zimbalist, former head of the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. The composer is a lifelong friend of New Orleans symphony conductor, Alexander Hilsberg, which explains why he let his concerto "come south" for its world premiere.

Such was not originally the plan, aparently. The late William Kapell had the only copy of the score with him when he died in a plane crash in California several years ago. No doubt pianist Kapell had been practicing the work at the time, perhaps with arrangements made with the composer to give the initial public performance.

Somehow, the score was found intact among the luggage. The composer reworked it and it ultimately was premiered last month in New Orleans.

WAS HERE

William Kapell, who played a heavy program to a cool Monroe audience two years before his death was an unusual figure of the music world of the 1940's and early 50's.

In years, he was not far beyond the average of the "young six" mentioned in last week's column. In ability, he was often mentioned among the world's "top ten." Yet in facing his audience he assumed the attitude of a seasoned traffic policeman writing a ticket.

Back to home territory, LeRoy Anspach, choir director of the St. Paul's Methodist Church in Monroe, will play a piano recital in Minden on Tuesday evening. Anspach, who became acquainted here while stationed at Selman Field during World War II, has found his way back to the Monroe - West Monroe territory to take his present post.

CALLAS AT CARNEGIE

For a performance of Bellini's "Il Pirata" in New York's Carnegie Hall, the undisputed prima donna of the world, Maria Callas, brought her own tenor and baritone. During the performance, it is said she kept passing cough drops to the tenor. Maybe the diva didn't intend it that way, but it appears she has a yen to "control" the operatic stage even if it means humiliating all the other performers. If she continues such antics, she may find herself billed someday as "Maria Callas and her Troupe," adding a touch of the sawdust trail to the operatic scene.

'Come Softly To Me' Leads UPI's Top 20

CHICAGO (UPI) — Romantic "Come Softly To Me" softly edged the ballad "Venus" from the top spot Saturday and took over the lead among the nation's popular tunes, United Press International's top 20 survey revealed.

It was "Come Softly's" fifth week on the list but it broke a four-week first place run for "Venus."

"Come Softly" was done by the Fleetwoods. "Venus" was handled by Frankie Avalon

The survey found the novelty tune "Pink Shoelaces" in third place, ahead of "It's Just a Matter of Time," which has been on the top list now for 10 weeks and thus is dean of all the rest.

"Alvin's Harmonica," in fourth last week, dropped to fifth, followed by Elvis Presley's new hit, "A Fool Such as I," making its first appearance in the survey. GI Elvis also held down eight place with his "I Need Your Love Tonight."

Elvis' civilian rival, Ricky Nelson, also had two hits: seventh-place "Never Be Anyone Else But You" and ninth place "It's Late."

In 10th was the Virtues' "Guitar Boogie Shuffle."

The survey;

(1-2-5) Come Softly to Me. Fleetwoods. (Dolphin).

(2-1-8) Venus. Frankie Avalon. (Chancellor).

(3-6-4) Pink Shoelaces. Dodie Stevens (Crystalette).

(4-5-10) It's Just a Matter of Time. Brook Benton. (Mercury).

(5-3-8) Alvin's Harmonica. The Chipmunks. (Liberty).

(6-0-1) A Fool Such As I. Elvis Presley. (Victor).

(7-10-5) Never Be Anyone Else But You. Ricky Nelson (Imperial)

(8-9-3) I Need Your Love Tonight. Elvis Presley (Victor).

(9-7-5) It's Late. Ricky Nelson (Imperial).

(11-4-9) Charlie Brown. The Coasters. (Atco).

(12-13-5) Since I Don't Have You. The Skyliners .(Calico).

(13-0-1) Turn Me Loose. Fabian. (Chancellor).

(14-11)6) Tragedy. Thomas Wayne. (Fernwood).

(15-8-6) Please Mr. Sun. Tommy Edwards. (MGM).

(19 14-29) Sea Cruise. Frankie Ford. (Ace).

(20-0-1) For a Penny. Pat Boone (Dot)

Troubles For A Unique Trio In Germany

TIDINGS. By Ernst Wiechert. Translated from German by Marie Heynemann and Margery Ledward. Macmillan.

The three Liljecronas men, Amadeus, Aegidius and Erasmus, separated by the long harsh years of World War II, have come together again as this novel opens.

It was not easy for any of them, whether Aegidius who farmed their great Baltic estate, or Erasmus who was the general, or Amadeus, though perhaps he, the tender heart and seer, has suffered most. His forester betrayed him first then a lone woman, each professing friendship yet each assigning him to the tortures Hit-Hitler reserved for his worst foes.

Because he has let hate, at least for one mad moment, conquer love, Amadeus fears he cannot again live at peace with his fellows. So he goes through the trials of Job, he wrestles like Jacob with the angel, to restore his soul. He will not testify against the forester, will not kill to save his life, will befriend the one who tried to murder him, will love the girl who mothers another man's child, will not pass judgment except in the heart.

Erasmus marries empty-headed Daisy, Aegidius finds a good mate, Erdmuthe leaves her husband, the American lieutenant means well, the "dark presence" is snuffed out as a vestige of tyranny. But out of this welter, Amadeus' goal remains steadfast — to understand the terrible power of fear, and endow love once more with its rightful sway.

Here is the old romantic vision — trust in abstract goodness, in the invincibility of the heart, in a moral direction — presented in sweeping strokes. The abundance of Wiechert's earnestness and conviction compensates, to some extent, for the too mystical conception and the hackneyed form of his novel.

House Of Secrets 'On Red Revolution'

THE HOUSE OF SECRETS, by Gordon Young, Duell, Sloan & Pearce. $3.75.

Somewhere in Russia a little man scrawls the mark of a trident on the wall of a building in a deserted street and scurries away.

Like others before him who have scrawled swastikas or hammers and sickles, this man is a revolutionary. His objective: nothing less than revolution in Russia itself.

Is there really any chance for a Russian revolution? The emigres who form the National Alliance of Russian Solidarists, (NTS), and who were interviewed by Gordon Young, a veteran British foreign correspondent, for his new book. "The House of Secrets," certainly appear to think so.

Young doesn't commit himself but he gives an impressive tally of NTS activities.

The House of Secrets is NTS headquarters, an ordinary looking place at Kronbergerstrasse 42, Frankfurt - am - Main, where the top two floors are alive with the goings and comings of 60 to 100 men and women, who draw a uniform and 300 marks a month while working for and dreaming of the day when communism will yield to a new democracy.

From its Voice of Russia, Young reports, are broadcast day after day instructions for fellow coontrymen to take a lonely, secret vow to serve the cause of Russia's freedom and to constitute themselves into one - man "cells."

It is they, he learned, who scrawl the pitchfork sign as encouragement to other lonely, unknown freedom fighters and as a sign to their compatriots in general.

How many of them are there? Not even the enthusiasts at N T S headquarters will guess. But they did give Young much other information.

N T S was born in the 1930's among emigres in Belgrade. It gathered strength during World War II in the ranks of the Russian Liberation army fighting the Communists. It has sent agents into Russia during the years and lost at least 20. Even in Germany some of its chiefs have been kidnaped and murdered. It has carried on psychological warfare by radio, by a weekly paper published in Frankfurt and sent by devious means behind the Iron Curtain, and by a systematic program of talking whenever possible to Russians who are allowed to travel in the free world.

The Soviet Baltic merchant navy has a revolutionary committee inspired by N T S. Young was assured, as well as other groups and regions.

"The molecular organization and our propaganda create a climate," another informant explained, "which persuades the people of Russia that a revolutionary struggle is possible and which persuades the defenders of the regime that a revolution is actually coming."

As a result, the Communists themselves have been giving increasing recognition to NTS in recent years, bearing down on assertions that these men are tools of American spymasters. That's fine publicity, NTS thinks, and an indication that the Reds no longer dare ignore the movement.

And when is a revolution likely to occur?

This is what Dr. Vladimir Poremsky, NTS president, told Young:

"It seems that the revolution occurs not when the opposition among the people is at its most violent, or when the revolutionare forces are necessarily at their most powerful, but when the people holding the power show signs of indecision and uncertitude — when they begin to look shaky.

He asserted that the denunciation of Stalin weakened the Communist regime.

Life In And Out Of The Deep Water

THE KINGDOM UNDER THE SEA. By Henri Queffelec. Translated from French by Len Ortzen. Pantheon. $3.50.

Congers, rayfish, cod, turbot, dogfish — these are the denizens of the kingdom over which skipper Jean Modenou dreams of ruling as he and his small, hardy crew set out in their fishing vessel the Gamineur.

Douarnerez in Brittany is their home port, from which they are gone 10 days at a time. They have been having only average luck, perhaps three tons a trip, or just enough to cover costs. The men prepare their long lines, bait their hooks, let them float down over a vast crawling ocean bed, and in a couple of hours haul in.

But on the trip during which this novel opens, Jean hits at last on a happy underwater hunting ground. Just as he had begun to despair, and above all to think of having to tell Madeleine the same familiar tale again, the hooks settle into a fresh un-exploited bank, and he loads four times the normal catch. He pledges his crew to conceal the location of their rich find, and they sail back into port triumphantly.

But for Jean and his wife, the success is marred by a matter of relativity. Does he love her, she worries, or is the life of the fisherman uppermost in his heart as in his thoughts? Does he withhold professional secrets so that she is, as she jealously views it, only in part a wife? It is to probe his attitude, or to end her own deep unrest, that she becomes involved with Goaster, one of the least of his crewmen, and there follows a bouble betrayal that threatens their peace and happiness.

These are two forceful individuals, each with his own worthy values and goals, and their problem is to preserve what they already have singly along with what they want to have together. Queffelec makes a gripping narrative out of them, but he does more, for there is always the insistent, intruding wash of the sea. Man-and woman troubles are familiar, but ocean is fresher ground. Queffelec stirs you with Jean's apostrophes to the fish, you tumble about in heavy weather with the other crewmen, you share their mental labor, you exult with them as they toast the great catch. Queffelec has been compared to Melville and Conrad; he is much closer to his poetic countryman Pierre Loti.

CLIMBING TOMATOES

Beautiful! Delicious! Easy to Grow!

WELL-ROOTED PLANTS READY TO BEAR IN JUST 30 DAYS! BIG JUICY TOMATOES!

Amazing F-2 Hybrids bear heavily right up to frost—beautify fences, trellises with bushels of juicy, best-tasting tomatoes. You get guaranteed healthy, open field grown plants. You'll see blossoms within 2 weeks—tomatoes start in about 30 days. These genuine Hybrid Climbers bear fruit all summer long until frost. Plenty of big, delicious, firm, juicy tomatoes—for your table month after month, with enough left over for relatives and friends. Meaty flesh of fine flavor and excellent qualtiy. You haven't tasted good tomatoes until you eat home grown, vine ripened hybrid tomatoes.

Take little space!

These hardy F-2 Hybrid Climbing Tomatoes—climb up fences and trellises—or staked, they make beautiful borders. No stooping, no bending to pick them. No mid-season droop like ordinary tomato plants.

"EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW!"
Says North Carolina Woman

"Last year I ordered 12 of your Hybrid Climbing Tomato Plants and I have never seen anything like them. They grew ten feet tall and people would come by just to see them. I wish every one that has a small garden knew about them, for a few plants will supply all the tomatoes for an average family."

"AUTOMATION"

I looked this word up in the Vest Pocket Dictionary and all it said was "Mechanical device". I am sure that to most of us it means far more than that. And to Americans in general that word will be heard much more in the future. In expanding some of the new equipment shown at Philadelphia, let's stay first with the items that will be of the most interest to the most people. Kodak Has a "Starmatic" Camera with a built in light meter that sets the shutter as you point it. Three element, f 8 lens, Film speed settings 32-125 and uses 127 film. For those who just want Pictures, this is a natural. Kodak also has a 35mm camera for the slide fan. This camera again is completely automatic. Simply point the camera and the lens adjust to the amount of light on the subject. This is a good looking camera and sells for only 84.50. Then for the lower price field Kodak has a "Brownie Twin 20". This camera uses 620 film and will properly expose Kodacolor, Ektachrome or Black and White. Can be used as a reflex or eyelevel camera. Priced at only 10.95. The big news in film was the 160 Speed Ektachrome. More next week, Cliff.

218 GRAMMONT MONROE ● 229 TRENTON WEST MONROE

CONCERT
By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — RCA Victor has resumed making records with the National Symphony of Washington, D. C. It's a gain for records, now that Howard Mitchell, a sensitively discerning musician, is the orchestra's conductor.

The first record of what it is hoped will be a series, is of Dimitri Shostakovitch's Fifth Symphony, which under Mitchell's baton, has more impact and more musical meaning for these Western ears than it ever had before.

That may be because the Fifth, which dates from 1937, is now so familiar as music that you no longer try to fit it in with its strange sub-title, "A Soviet artist's creative reply to just criticism." If you forget the sub-title, you realize the music is creative but non - political, (RCA Victor-LM7385).

But the composer is now far removed from his Fifth, composed in the days of Stalin. This fact is most evident in his 11th Symphony which had its first playing in 1957 and now has had its second full recording by a Western orchestra under a Western conductor — the French National Radio Orchestra, Andre Cluytens conducting (Angel-3586).

The composer spared no horses on this one. Two disks are needed, which makes for a lot of listening. Again the sub-title confuses the Western mind. It is "1905," referring to a massacre of would - be petitionetrs of the Czar. Of this latest recording of the 11th, all you can say is that it is not as tedious a listening experience as the first was.

Time works for a composer of Shostakovitch's originality. Maybe the 11th recording of the 11th Symphony will be a major experience. Look at Richard Strauss and his "Also Sprach Zarathustra." In a brilliant new recording by the Berlin Philharmonic under Karl Bohm, it has the classical ring (Decca-7999). A generation or so ago people wondered if it had more banality than profundity. Now it seems profound, at least in a small way.

HAVE MUSIC, WILL TRAVEL

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Philharmonic, with conductor Leonard Bernstein, will leave in August for an extended tour of Europe and the Near East, including some performances in Russia. The itinerary is still being drawn up.

POPULAR

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hollywood often has dubbed in the voices for actors and actresses who can't sing but United Artists insists Marilyn Monroe doesn't need a musical stand-in.

Thus Miss Monroe proves she is a woman of many talents in "Some Like It Hot."

The sound-track (United Artists UAL-4040) presents Marilyn in three songs that are high spots of the film.

Best of them is "I Want to Be Loved." Marilyn's voice, though much less staggering than her other attributes, oozes sex and she in no way lets down the composers of a great song.

Even without Marilyn, the recorded sound - track would be worth adding to the collection mainly because of the good jazz music of Matty Malneck and his Orchestra.

Most interesting among these are "Miles Davis — Porgy and Bess' (Columbia CL-1274), a jazz gem: "Pearl Bailey Sings Porgy and Bess and Other Gershwin Melodies" (Roulette R-25063), one of Pearl's best efforts, and "Instrumental Selections from Porgy and Bess and Showboat" by Eric Steele and his Orchestra (Mercury MG-203-94).

Selected singles — "Cerveza" by Bert Kampfert and his Orchestra" (Decca 9-308-66), "Golden Rule of Love" by Scott Engel (Orbit R-537), "One Blade of Grass" by Jerry Wright (Freedom F-44008), "Rock A Doodle Reveille" by Le Roy and Wally (Carlton 500).

LP of the Week (Mono) — "Glow With the Mills Brothers" (Decca DL-8827) . . . famed vocal team in a reprise of some of their hits such as "The Glow Worm" and "How Blue?"

LP of the Week (Stereo)— "Stereo Concert" by the Kingston Trio (Capitol ST-1183) . . . a live recording of a concert by the trio that rocketed to prominence with "Tom Dooley."

For Collectors — "The Immortal Harry Lauder" (RCA-Camden 479), a transfer of 78's to a low - price LP of the songs that made the great Scotsman an historical figure in entertainment; and "A Backward Glance — Tommy and Jimmy Dorsey" (Riverside 12-834), a selection of recordings made from 1924 to 1926 by the brothers and other top - flight musicians such as Red Nichols and Freddie Cusick.

Marked For Death By Reds

THE GREAT PRINCE DIED. By Bernard Wolfe, Scribners. $4.50.

In Cohoacan, a surburb of Mexico City, in a pink-walled villa with a sand-bagged turret and armed guards inside and out, there live Victor Rostov, his wife Marisha, and some retainers.

Rostov, according to this novel, is a fugitive from Stalinist Russia. His life is in danger from assassins, he realizes it only too clearly, and one of his chief concerns is to finish his memoirs. In his entourage you meet Paul Teleki, most vigilant against the unseen enemy; David the young American who aligned himself with the political ideals of this exile and is engaged, somewhat naively, in investigating them at their source; Emma, who types for the master; and the faithful wife. Outside in adjacent streets are Mexican police assigned to guard the famous refugee; prostitutes who ostensibly help them to while away their time; and an ignorant but canny peasant Diosdado.

Still farther outside, except on a couple of grim occasions, are George Bass, ordered by Moscow to liquidate Rostov, and some assorted noxious aides, like the implacable old revolutionary Candida, her weakling son Tomas, whom Emma madly needs as a lover, and Ramon.

Rostov reports Bass' presence to the Mexican secret police, but it takes some time to convince them of it. The murderer's principal problem is to get inside the villa's walls and Wolfe builds up the suspense tautly, or as tautly as possible when the reader already knows the outcome.

This is, of course, the novel about Trotsky; he was killed in Coyoacan in 1940, and his slayer is due to be released from prison next year. Wolfe himself served briefly on Trotsky's secretarial staff, and writes out of some first-hand knowledge. In both the novel and in notes, he expresses the suspicion that Trotsky knew he could not escape his assassins, and was somewhat fatalistic. He also believes Trotsky might well have been sorely troubled in his last years by reflections on his historic role at Kronstadt. The rebel sailors represented the finest proletarian aspirations, yet they were ruthlessly sacrificed, at Rostov-Trotsky's command, in order to establish inflexible one-party Bolshevik rule. Wthout Kronstadt, Wolfe asks searchingly, could Stalin have developed?

This is a considerable burden for the hero of a novel to bear if he is to win your sympathy, and Rostov never wholly does. The book has its awkwardnesses, including some lovers encounters either too realistic or too idealistic, but Rostov is a gripping figure in a tense plot, and the course of the story does not falter often over ideology.

Wolfe in his notes utters one wish I'd like emphatically to second: That Victor Serge's "The Case of Comrade Tulayev" be reprinted. I don't remember any condemnation of the police state so impassioned and damning.

Troubles For A Unique Trio In Germany

The three Liljecronas men, Amadeus, Aegidius and Erasmus, separated by the long harsh years of World War II, have come together again as this novel opens.

It was not easy for any of them, whether Aegidius who farmed their great Baltic estate, or Erasmus who was the general, or Amadeus, though perhaps he, the tender heart and seer, has suffered most. His forester betrayed him first then a lone woman, each professing friendship yet each assigning him to the tortures Hit-Hitler reserved for his worst foes.

Because he has let hate, at least for one mad moment, conquer love, Amadeus fears he cannot again live at peace with his fellows. So he goes through the trials of Job, he wrestles like Jacob with the angel, to restore his soul. He will not testify against the forester, will not kill to save his life, will befriend the one who tried to murder him, will love the girl who mothers another man's child, will not pass judgment except in the heart.

Erasmus marries empty-headed Daisy, Aegidius finds a good mate, Erdmuthe leaves her husband, the American lieutenant means well, the "dark presence" is snuffed out as a vestige of tyranny. But out of this welter, Amadeus' goal remains steadfast — to understand the terrible power of fear, and endow love once more with its rightful sway.

Here is the old romantic vision — trust in abstract goodness, in the invincibility of the heart, in a moral direction — presented in sweeping strokes. The abundance of Wiechert's earnestness and conviction compensates, to some extent, for the too mystical conception and the hackneyed form of his novel.

House Of Secrets 'On Red Revolution'

THE HOUSE OF SECRETS, by Gordon Young, Duell, Sloan & Pearce. $3.75.

Somewhere in Russia a little man scrawls the mark of a trident on the wall of a building in a deserted street and scurries away.

Like others before him who have scrawled swastikas or hammers and sickles, this man is a revolutionary. His objective: nothing less than revolution in Russia itself.

Is there really any chance for a Russian revolution? The emigres who form the National Alliance of Russian Solidarists, (NTS), and who were interviewed by Gordon Young, a veteran British foreign correspondent, for his new book. "The House of Secrets," certainly appear to think so.

Young doesn't commit himself but he gives an impressive tally of NTS activities.

The House of Secrets is NTS headquarters, an ordinary looking place at Kronbergerstrasse 42, Frankfurt - am - Main, where the top two floors are alive with the goings and comings of 60 to 100 men and women, who draw a uniform and 300 marks a month while working for and dreaming of the day when communism will yield to a new democracy.

From its Voice of Russia, Young reports, are broadcast day after day instructions for fellow coontrymen to take a lonely, secret vow to serve the cause of Russia's freedom and to constitute themselves into one - man "cells."

It is they, he learned, who scrawl the pitchfork sign as encouragement to other lonely, unknown freedom fighters and as a sign to their compatriots in general.

How many of them are there? Not even the enthusiasts at N T S headquarters will guess. But they did give Young much other information.

N T S was born in the 1930's among emigres in Belgrade. It gathered strength during World War II in the ranks of the Russian Liberation army fighting the Communists. It has sent agents into Russia during the years and lost at least 20. Even in Germany some of its chiefs have been kidnaped and murdered. It has carried on psychological warfare by radio, by a weekly paper published in Frankfurt and sent by devious means behind the Iron Curtain, and by a systematic program of talking whenever possible to Russians who are allowed to travel in the free world.

The Soviet Baltic merchant navy has a revolutionary committee inspired by N T S. Young was assured, as well as other groups and regions.

"The molecular organization and our propaganda create a climate," another informant explained, "which persuades the people of Russia that a revolutionary struggle is possible and which persuades the defenders of the regime that a revolution is actually coming."

As a result, the Communists themselves have been giving increasing recognition to NTS in recent years, bearing down on assertions that these men are tools of American spymasters. That's fine publicity, NTS thinks, and an indication that the Reds no longer dare ignore the movement.

And when is a revolution likely to occur?

This is what Dr. Vladimir Poremsky, NTS president, told Young:

"It seems that the revolution occurs not when the opposition among the people is at its most violent, or when the revolutionare forces are necessarily at their most powerful, but when the people holding the power show signs of indecision and uncertitude — when they begin to look shaky.

He asserted that the denunciation of Stalin weakened the Communist regime.

Life In And Out Of The Deep Water

THE KINGDOM UNDER THE SEA. By Henri Queffelec. Translated from French by Len Ortzen. Pantheon. $3.50.

Congers, rayfish, cod, turbot, dogfish — these are the denizens of the kingdom over which skipper Jean Modenou dreams of ruling as he and his small, hardy crew set out in their fishing vessel the Gamineur.

Douarnerez in Brittany is their home port, from which they are gone 10 days at a time. They have been having only average luck, perhaps three tons a trip, or just enough to cover costs. The men prepare their long lines, bait their hooks, let them float down over a vast crawling ocean bed, and in a couple of hours haul in.

But on the trip during which this novel opens, Jean hits at last on a happy underwater hunting ground. Just as he had begun to despair, and above all to think of having to tell Madeleine the same familiar tale again, the hooks settle into a fresh un-exploited bank, and he loads four times the normal catch. He pledges his crew to conceal the location of their rich find, and they sail back into port triumphantly.

But for Jean and his wife, the success is marred by a matter of relativity. Does he love her, she worries, or is the life of the fisherman uppermost in his heart as in his thoughts? Does he withhold professional secrets so that she is, as she jealously views it, only in part a wife? It is to probe his attitude, or to end her own deep unrest, that she becomes involved with Goaster, one of the least of his crewmen, and there follows a bouble betrayal that threatens their peace and happiness.

These are two forceful individuals, each with his own worthy values and goals, and their problem is to preserve what they already have singly along with what they want to have together. Queffelec makes a gripping narrative out of them, but he does more, for there is always the insistent, intruding wash of the sea. Man-and woman troubles are familiar, but ocean is fresher ground. Queffelec stirs you with Jean's apostrophes to the fish, you tumble about in heavy weather with the other crewmen, you share their mental labor, you exult with them as they toast the great catch. Queffelec has been compared to Melville and Conrad; he is much closer to his poetic countryman Pierre Loti.

RUNNING THE SCALES
With JOHN CALE

The Twin Cities symphony orchestra was getting set for its third concert of the season when the "scales" headed for press this week.

Dr. Harry Lemert, director of the orchestra, said the concert would be in Brown Hall on the Northeast State College campus at 8:30 p.m. Thursday.

SOLOIST

Soprano Marjorie Hayward Madey will be guest soloist for the occasion.

The date coincides with the final concert on the Louisiana Tech series — the performance of the Claremont String Quartet at Howard Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. also on Thursday.

It might be said here that conflicts have been rare this entire season. With professionals covering their tour areas and local organizations also lighting up the fooltights, this Thursday marks the first time it will have to be "one or the other, not both."

LOST AND FOUND

The New Orleans Symphony, which has completed a mid-winter tour of the eastern United States, presented a homecoming concert which featured pianist Lee Luvisi.

Luvisi played the "Piano Concerto in E-Flat" by Efrem Zimbalist, former head of the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. The composer is a lifelong friend of New Orleans symphony conductor, Alexander Hilsberg, which explains why he let his concerto "come south" for its world premiere.

Such was not originally the plan, aparently. The late William Kapell had the only copy of the score with him when he died in a plane crash in California several years ago. No doubt pianist Kapell had been practicing the work at the time, perhaps with arrangements made with the composer to give the initial public performance.

Somehow, the score was found intact among the luggage. The composer reworked it and it ultimately was premiered last month in New Orleans.

WAS HERE

William Kapell, who played a heavy program to a cool Monroe audience two years before his death was an unusual figure of the music world of the 1940's and early 50's.

In years, he was not far beyond the average of the "young six" mentioned in last week's column. In ability, he was often mentioned among the world's "top ten." Yet in facing his audience he assumed the attitude of a seasoned traffic policeman writing a ticket.

Back to home territory, LeRoy Anspach, choir director of the St. Paul's Methodist Church in Monroe, will play a piano recital in Minden on Tuesday evening. Anspach, who became acquainted here while stationed at Selman Field during World War II, has found his way back to the Monroe - West Monroe territory to take his present post.

CALLAS AT CARNEGIE

For a performance of Bellini's "Il Pirata" in New York's Carnegie Hall, the undisputed prima donna of the world, Maria Callas, brought her own tenor and baritone. During the performance, it is said she kept passing cough drops to the tenor. Maybe the diva didn't intend it that way, but it appears she has a yen to "control" the operatic stage even if it means humiliating all the other performers. If she continues such antics, she may find herself billed someday as "Maria Callas and her Troupe," adding a touch of the sawdust trail to the operatic scene.

'Come Softly To Me' Leads UPI's Top 20

CHICAGO (UPI) — Romantic "Come Softly To Me" softly edged the ballad "Venus" from the top spot Saturday and took over the lead among the nation's popular tunes, United Press International's top 20 survey revealed.

It was "Come Softly's" fifth week on the list but it broke a four-week first place run for "Venus."

"Come Softly" was done by the Fleetwoods. "Venus" was handled by Frankie Avalon

The survey found the novelty tune "Pink Shoelaces" in third place, ahead of "It's Just a Matter of Time," which has been on the top list now for 10 weeks and thus is dean of all the rest.

"Alvin's Harmonica," in fourth last week, dropped to fifth, followed by Elvis Presley's new hit, "A Fool Such as I," making its first appearance in the survey. GI Elvis also held down eight place with his "I Need Your Love Tonight."

Elvis' civilian rival, Ricky Nelson, also had two hits: seventh-place "Never Be Anyone Else But You" and ninth place "It's Late."

In 10th was the Virtues' "Guitar Boogie Shuffle."

The survey;

(1-2-5) Come Softly to Me. Fleetwoods. (Dolphin).

(2-1-8) Venus. Frankie Avalon. (Chancellor).

(3-6-4) Pink Shoelaces. Dodie Stevens (Crystalette).

(4-5-10) It's Just a Matter of Time. Brook Benton. (Mercury).

(5-3-8) Alvin's Harmonica. The Chipmunks. (Liberty).

(6-0-1) A Fool Such As I. Elvis Presley. (Victor).

(7-10-5) Never Be Anyone Else But You. Ricky Nelson (Imperial)

(8-9-3) I Need Your Love Tonight. Elvis Presley (Victor).

(9-7-5) It's Late. Ricky Nelson (Imperial).

(11-4-9) Charlie Brown. The Coasters. (Atco).

(12-13-5) Since I Don't Have You. The Skyliners (Calico).

(13-0-1) Turn Me Loose. Fabian. (Chancellor).

"AUTOMATION"

I looked this word up in the Vest Pocket Dictionary and all it said was "Mechanical device". I am sure that to most of us it means far more than that. And to Americans in general that word will be heard much more in the future. In expanding some of the new equipment shown at Philadelphia, let's stay first with the items that will be of the most interest to the most people. Kodak Has a "Starmatic" Camera with a built in light meter that sets the shutter as you point it. Three element, f 8 lens, Film speed settings 32-125 and uses 127 film. For those who just want Pictures, this is a natural. Kodak also has a 35mm camera for the slide fan. This camera again is completely automatic. Simply point the camera and the lens adjust to the amount of light on the subject. This is a good looking camera and sells for only 84.50. Then for the lower price field Kodak has a "Brownie Twin 20". This camera uses 620 film and will properly expose Kodacolor, Ektachrome or Black and White. Can be used as a reflex or eyelevel camera. Priced at only 10.95. The big news in film was the 160 Speed Ektachrome. More next week, Cliff.

CLIMBING TOMATOES

Beautiful! Delicious! Easy to Grow!

WELL-ROOTED PLANTS READY TO BEAR IN JUST 30 DAYS!
BIG JUICY TOMATOES!

Amazing F-2 Hybrids bear heavily right up to frost—beautify fences, trellises with bushels of juicy, best-tasting tomatoes. You get guaranteed healthy, open field grown plants. You'll see blossoms within 2 weeks—tomatoes start in about 30 days. These genuine Hybrid Climbers bear fruit all summer long until frost. Plenty of big, delicious, firm, juicy tomatoes—for your table month after month, with enough left over for relatives and friends. Meaty flesh of fine flavor and excellent qualtiy. You haven't tasted good tomatoes until you eat home grown, vine ripened hybrid tomatoes.

Take little space!

These hardy F-2 Hybrid Climbing Tomatoes—climb up fences and trellises—or staked, they make beautiful borders. No stooping, no bending to pick them. No mid-season droop like ordinary tomato plants.

"EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW!"
Says North Carolina Woman

"Last year I ordered 12 of your Hybrid Climbing Tomato Plants and I have never seen anything like them. They grew ten feet tall and people would come by just to see them. I wish every one that has a small garden knew about them, for a few plants will supply all the tomatoes for an average family."

'Tom Sawyer' Opens Soon At Jim Theatre

The job of bringing this immortal Mark Twain story, probably the best - loved and most widely-read work in American literature, to the screen would present a tremendous challenge to the resourcefulness of any producer. David O. Selznick, internationally famous, and the producer of "Gone With The Wind," spared neither time, effort nor expense in presenting a sparkling, authentic version of this happy childhood tale with its Mississippi River setting. In presenting the physical action and aspect of the novel on the screen, the use of Technicolor by the producer adds lustre and enhances the charm of the story as it gradually builds through the "amazing" adventures of the young boy Tom, to the unforgettable climax scene in the huge bat - infested caverns on the banks of the Mississippi.

In writing the screen play, John V. A. Weaver skillfully avoided the pitfalls often encountered in adapting a classic literary work to the screen, limiting any change to those few which Mark Twain himself probably would have made in working with the medium of photography rather than the printed word. Twain's masterful nostalgic touches, carefully preserved in the writing and direction of the picture, makes this famous childhood story a major adult screen attraction. As for youngsters, of all ages, it offers all the delights and thrills in colorful visual form that they have found in the book itself for generations.

'Gidget' Is Fun-Filled, Delightful

"Gidget," the story of a pert blonde teen-ager who goes out on her first "manhunt" and winds up mascot of the Malibu Beach surf-boarding set, opens today at the Paramount Theatre in Cinema Scope and Eastman Color. Considered by Hollywood one of the most delightful romantic comedies of the year "Gidget" stars Sandra Dee in the title role, Cliff Robertson, James Darren and Arthur O'Connell.

As "Gidget," the girl who spends a summer growing up, Miss Dee has the kind of wardrobe most of filmdom's feminine stars would covet—some 21 changes of costume, 19 of them being swim suits! Robertson and Darren, too, spend most of their time in swim suits on the beach or riding the Malibu waves on surf-boards.

"Gidget" is strictly a fun-in-the sun sort of picture, reportedly a refreshing and delightful change of pace for film audiences, a romantic comedy which substitutes "beach generation" for "beat generation." Produced on location for its surfing and water sequences, the "Gidget" company went to Southern California's Paradise Cover, Malibu Beach and Carrillo Beach.

The three young stars are considered ideal in their roles. All learned to handle surfboards well and Darren, who possess a fine baritone singing voice, also sings the title tune and "The Next Best Thing to Love" in "Gidget."

O'Connell and Miss LaRoche play Miss Dee's bewildered parents, while Jo Morrow is one of her more worldly girl friends. The Four Preps, youthful top vocal group, are also featured. Written for the screen by Gabrielle Upton, "Gidget" was directed by Paul Wendkos and it was produced by Lewis J. Rachmil for Columbia Pictures.

AT JOY DRIVE IN — Steve Mitchell and Henry McCann star as a comedy team in American International's "Submarine Seahawk" which opens tonight at the Joy Drive In Theatre.

LITTLE THEATRE

Detective Story is moving right along. The three acts have been blocked out and line rehearsals have begun. Each person in the large cast has started the job of developing a distinctive personality. Woven into the main story of this play are six or eight sub plots, a complicated piece of writing which lifts this work far above the Drag Net, Mike Hammer, etc. stereotype we see night after night on T. V.

Among your friends who will play the parts of criminals are Vinnie Vincent and Val Ringo, a pair of burglars, and Roz Haas, a shoplifter. Shady Wall and Chuck Morgan are detectives. Bill Smith is the attorney for one of the accused. In a drama with so many story threads, it is rather difficult to single out one person as the leading man. Perhaps Dean Smith has the most choice role as a brutal detective with an obsessive feeling of vengeance toward all criminals-toward anyone even accused of wrong-doing. Sandra Johnson takes the part of his wife. In real life, Sandra has been so busy this year taking care of two babies that she hasn't had much time left for Little Theatre. We're glad her youngest has released her for this play. Romance enters with Tavie Kenny- the girl friend of the man accused of embezzling.

Later we shall give you some details as to the parts played by Palmer Jarrell, Lloyd Voorhies, Garland Moore, Jerry Heckert, Patsy Pickett, and others in the large and excellent cast. This could be as great a triumph as Pajama Game.

Did you see the picture in the paper of Board Member Mary Gill's son, Bobby? That handsome lad was chosen Mayor for the Day by his fellow students at Neville.

So many of our friends are in the hospital. How relieved we are to hear the Frank Breese is a little better. To complicate matters in that household, his two boys also have been sick, Beth, who has been so good about taking turns at writing this column has her hands full of work and her heart full of anxiety. We send the Breese family our warm hopes for better days soon.

And too we learned that John Cale, the Morning World's reporter of drama, music, and all the finer things of life, is in St. Francis. Little Theatre could not do without John Cale. Get well, man!

Now it's time for some good news. Pauline Barringer, housebound for much too long, has begun to get out again. She just had to go to the christening of three of her grandchildren last Sunday. Little Larke Woods was out paying calls Tuesday accompained by her mother and our Board Member Jackie Woods and her grandmother Min Walker. What a beauty that baby is!

There was joy in the home of another Board Member this week when Ruth Gladney came up from Baton Rouge to spend a few days with the Will Washburns, and Alice Parkes drove over from Shreveport with her daughter, Myra Winder and Myra's two angels aged one and three.

Last weekend Frances and Al Huey went to a houseparty at Richmond, an old Natchez mansion that is fascinating in its architecture and in the Marshall family whose home it is. Originally a family of ten or more children, there are now seven sisters residing there. There's plenty of room-thirteen bedrooms and seven baths-plus parlors, libraries, etc. Somewhere back in the huge grounds there are kennels in which one of the sisters raises for sale pomeranians, foxterriers, chihuahuas and one other breed we've forgotten.

MINE

NERVOUS

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—David S. Morris, 46, a voluntary fireman relaxed in the chair of a barber shop having his beard trimmed.

He was listening to a television program. Suddenly a siren wailed on the TV set and he jumped just as the barber was drawing the razor down the side of his throat. Six stitches were taken.

'New' Series Of Stamps Issued

The 22nd in the "new" (1954-1959) series of regular U. S. postage stamps will be a 12-center and will feature a likeness of Benjamin Harrison, 23rd President. It will be issued June 6 at Oxford, Ohio, during the Alumni Day celebration of the 150th anniversary of Miami University, from which Harrison was graduated.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send their addressed envelopes to the Postmaster, Oxford, Ohio, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers Benjamin Harrison Stamp. "Send them prior to June 6.

Israel's 11th Independence Day will be commemorated with three new stamps featuring flowers. The date of issuance is May 11. The 60 pruta stamp will depict anemones, the official flower of the state of Israel. The 120 pruta shows the cyclamen. The 300 pruta illustrates the narcissus.

One week prior to this set, Israel will issue a stamp commemorating the 50th anniversary of the city of Tel Aviv.

Both issues were designed by Zvy Narkiss who has been responsible for many Israeli stamps.

An interesting innovation occured during the recently held International Philatelic Exhibition in New York. A stamp auction was held over closed circuit television. Also on display were four carved sapphire busts of Lincoln, Jefferson, Washington and Eisenhower valued at one million dollars.

Two new stamps have been issued by the United Arab Republic. The 10 mills violet honors the Arab Union of Telecommunications. The 10 mills red and green is for the first annivesary of the United Arab States.

A newspaper headline is the central design of a new stamp issued by Ecuador. The stamp commemorates the 75th anniversary of "El Telegrafo," the oldest newspaper in Ecuador. It was founded in 1884 by Jose Abel Castillo. The green, white and black adhesive shows a newspaper front page with a headline reading (translation). "Ecuador Commemorates the 75th Anniversary of the Dean of the Nation's Press."

The Netherlands Antilles has announced that a portion of the proceeds from the sale of a stamp series issued recently will go to the Red Cross in that country. The Red Cross series consisted of four adhesives each of which carried a picture of the Red Cross symbol.

'Tom Sawyer' Opens Soon At Jim Theatre

The job of bringing this immortal Mark Twain story, probably the best - loved and most widely-read work in American literature, to the screen would present a tremendous challenge to the resourcefulness of any producer. David O. Selznick, internationally famous, and the producer of "Gone With The Wind," spared neither time, effort nor expense in presenting a sparkling, authentic version of this happy childhood tale with its Mississippi River setting. In presenting the physical action and aspect of the novel on the screen, the use of Technicolor by the producer adds lustre and enhances the charm of the story as it gradually builds through the "amazing" adventures of the young boy Tom, to the unforgettable climax scene in the huge bat - infested caverns on the banks of the Mississippi.

In writing the screen play, John V. A. Weaver skillfully avoided the pitfalls often encountered in adapting a classic literary work to the screen, limiting any change to those few which Mark Twain himself probably would have made in working with the medium of photography rather than the printed word. Twain's masterful nostalgic touches, carefully preserved in the writing and direction of the picture, makes this famous childhood story a major adult screen attraction. As for youngsters, of all ages, it offers all the delights and thrills in colorful visual form that they have found in the book itself for generations.

'Gidget' Is Fun-Filled, Delightful

"Gidget," the story of a pert blonde teen-ager who goes out on her first "manhunt" and winds up mascot of the Malibu Beach surf-boarding set, opens today at the Paramount Theatre in Cinema Scope and Eastman Color. Considered by Hollywood one of the most delightful romantic comedies of the year "Gidget" stars Sandra Dee in the title role, Cliff Robertson, James Darren and Arthur O'Connell.

As "Gidget," the girl who spends a summer growing up, Miss Dee has the kind of wardrobe most of filmdom's feminine stars would covet—some 21 changes of costume, 19 of them being swim suits! Robertson and Darren, too, spend most of their time in swim suits on the beach or riding the Malibu waves on surf-boards.

"Gidget" is strictly a fun-in-the sun sort of picture, reportedly a refreshing and delightful change of pace for film audiences, a romantic comedy which substitutes "beach generation" for "beat generation." Produced on location for its surfing and water sequences, the "Gidget" company went to Southern California's Paradise Cover, Malibu Beach and Carrillo Beach.

The three young stars are considered ideal in their roles. All learned to handle surfboards well and Darren, who possess a fine baritone singing voice, also sings the title tune and "The Next Best Thing to Love" in "Gidget."

O'Connell and Miss LaRoche play Miss Dee's bewildered parents, while Jo Morrow is one of her more worldly girl friends. The Four Preps, youthful top vocal group, are also featured. Written for the screen by Gabrielle Upton, "Gidget" was directed by Paul Wendkos and it was produced by Lewis J. Rachmil for Columbia Pictures.

NERVOUS

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—David S. Morris, 46, a voluntary fireman relaxed in the chair of a barber shop having his beard trimmed.

He was listening to a television program. Suddenly a siren wailed on the TV set and he jumped just as the barber was drawing the razor down the side of his throat.

Six stitches were taken.

EXTRA GOOD

Cook bacon until crisp, drain and crumble over a dish of succotash if you want something extra good.

AT JOY DRIVE IN — Steve Mitchell and Henry McCann star as a comedy team in American International's "Submarine Seahawk" which opens tonight at the Joy Drive In Theatre.

'New' Series Of Stamps Issued

The 22nd in the "new" (1954-1959) series of regular U. S. postage stamps will be a 12-center and will feature a likeness of Benjamin Harrison, 23rd President. It will be issued June 6 at Oxford, Ohio, during the Alumni Day celebration of the 150th anniversary of Miami University, from which Harrison was graduated.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send their addressed envelopes to the Postmaster, Oxford, Ohio, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers Benjamin Harrison Stamp. "Send them prior to June 6.

Israel's 11th Independence Day will be commemorated with three new stamps featuring flowers. The date of issuance is May 11. The 60 pruta stamp will depict anemones, the official flower of the state of Isarael. The 120 pruta shows the cyclamen. The 300 pruta illustrates the narcissus.

One week prior to this set, Israel will issue a stamp commemorating the 50th anniversary of the city of Tel Aviv.

Both issues were designed by Zvy Narkiss who has been responsible for many Israeli stamps.

An interesting innovation occured during the recently held International Philatelic Exhibition in New York. A stamp auction was held over closed circuit television. Also on display were four carved sapphire busts of Lincoln, Jefferson, Washington and Eisenhower valued at one million dollars.

Two new stamps have been issued by the United Arab Republic. The 10 mills violet honors the Arab Union of Telecommunications. The 10 mills red and green is for the first annivesary of the United Arab States.

A newspaper headline is the central design of a new stamp issued by Ecuador. The stamp commemorates the 75th anniversary of "El Telegrafo," the oldest newspaper in Ecuador. It was founded in 1884 by Jose Abel Castillo. The green, white and black adhesive shows a newspaper front page with a headline reading (translation). "Ecuador Commemorates the 75th Anniversary of the Dean of the Nation's Press."

The Netherlands Antilles has announced that a portion of the proceeds from the sale of a stamp series issued recently will go to the Red Cross in that country. The Red Cross series consisted of four adhesives each of which carried a picture of the Red Cross symbol.

LITTLE THEATRE

Detective Story is moving right along. The three acts have been blocked out and line rehearsals have begun. Each person in the large cast has started the job of developing a distinctive personality. Woven into the main story of this play are six or eight sub plots, a complicated piece of writing which lifts this work far above the Drag Net, Mike Hammer, etc. stereotype we see night after night on T. V.

Among your friends who will play the parts of criminals are Vinnie Vincent and Val Ringo, a pair of burglars, and Roz Haas, a shoplifter. Shady Wall and Chuck Morgan are detectives. Bill Smith is the attorney for one of the accused. In a drama with so many story threads, it is rather difficult to single out one person as the leading man. Perhaps Dean Smith has the most choice role as a brutal detective with an obsessive feeling of vengeance toward all criminals-toward anyone even accused of wrong-doing. Sandra Johnson takes the part of his wife. In real life, Sandra has been so busy this year taking care of two babies that she hasn't had much time left for Little Theatre. We're glad her youngest has released her for this play. Romance enters with Tavie Kenny- the girl friend of the man accused of embezzling.

Later we shall give you some details as to the parts played by Palmer Jarrell, Lloyd Voorhies, Garland Moore, Jerry Heckert, Patsy Pickett, and others in the large and excellent cast. This could be as great a triumph as Pajama Game.

Did you see the picture in the paper of Board Member Mary Gill's son, Bobby? That handsome lad was chosen Mayor for the Day by his fellow students at Neville.

So many of our friends are in the hospital. How relieved we are to hear the Frank Breese is a little better. To complicate matters in that household, his two boys also have been sick, Beth, who has been so good about taking turns at writing this column has her hands full of work and her heart full of anxiety. We send the Breese family our warm hopes for better days soon.

Another Little Theatre supporter through many years, Marguerite Gordon, has just left the hospital after a three weeks' bout with pneumonia and complications. She will convalesce at the home of her sister Katie May Thornhill.

And too we learned that John Cale, the Morning World's reporter of drama, music, and all the finer things of life, is in St. Francis. Little Theatre could not do without John Cale. Get well, man!

Now it's time for some good news. Pauline Barringer, housebound for much too long, has begun to get out again. She just had to go to the christening of three of her grandchildren last Sunday. Little Larke Woods was out paying calls Tuesday accompained by her mother and our Board Member Jackie Woods and her grandmother Min Walker. What a beauty that baby is!

There was joy in the home of another Board Member this week when Ruth Gladney came up from Baton Rouge to spend a few days with the Will Washburns, and Alice Parkes drove over from Shreveport with her daughter, Myra Winder and Myra's two angels aged one and three.

Last weekend Frances and Al Huey went to a houseparty at Richmond, an old Natchez mansion that is fascinating in its architecture and in the Marshall family whose home it is. Originally a family of ten or more children, there are now seven sisters residing there. There's plenty of room-thirteen bedrooms and seven baths-plus parlors, libraries, etc. Somewhere back in the huge grounds there are kennels in which one of the sisters raises for sale pomeranians, foxterriers, chihuahuas and one other breed we've forgotten.

CLOTHES QUIZ

No Hard Pressing For Luxury Fabrics

By BETH BLAIR

Soft and napped fabrics should be carefully handled and never pressed hard. Steaming by an expert and very light pressing will prevent seams from marking and showing in a garment. The use of a velvet board is very helpful. A reader writes —

Dear Miss Blair:

I have a cashmere coat three or four years old. It shows marks on seams from pressing. Would dyeing the coat a dark color help hide these marks?

Actually, I feel the dark color would show the pressing marks even more prominently as light fibers might show through. Why not consider a darker tone for your coat as Vicuna or try having it cleaned and steamed or pressed on the velvet board the next time.

Dear Miss Blair:

Recently I bought brown shoes to wear with a beige suit. I don't see very much news on brown as a spring color, however, and wonder if I should match shoes with a brown handbag. Then what color should I wear for gloves, hat and bag?

Brown is a real high - fashion color this spring. It is being shown by top couturiers for spring and summer. You could match a brown bag to your shoes but if you are afraid of so much of this one color you could choose beige for handbag, and gloves. Try a white hat and blouse or white hat and beige and brown printed blouse.

KOREA

In conservative families in Korea, a woman is seldom referred to by name. She is addressed, usually, as wife, mother or some other feminine relation to the male head of the family.

COPPER

Miami, Ariz., doesn't have as many lovely bathing beauties as Miami, Fla. But, Miami, Ariz., is rich in copper mines.

MR. AND MRS. MELVILLE WILROY JOHNSON announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Shirley Grace Johnson to Richard David DeLabar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel David DeLabar, of Easton, Pa. The marriage will be solemnized Sunday, May third, at Grace Episcopal church, at four o'clock in the afternoon, with the Rev. H. Newton Griffith officiating.

Girl Scout News

The important activity this week is the sign - up on Saturday morning for day camp at Pine Wood. Dates of the camp are July 6-17 for the first session and July 19-31 for the second. Girls who have had fun in previous years, as well as many who have just been hearing about the fun, are going to be ready to sign up in order to make sure of being included. It is possible that the quota could be reached in this one day of signing up, so it will be best not to wait.

Members of the day camp committee and other volunteers will be at the following places Saturday from 9:00-11:00 to receive registrations: Lexington, Sherrouse, Lakeshore, Plum Street, Mitchell, and Highland Schools. In addition, the office will be open from 9:00 until 3.00 to receive registrations. Girls or their parents should take the application blank, properly filled out, along with the fee, to the registration centers.

Folders have been distributed at troop meetings during the past several weeks. Parents should make it a point to read the folder and consider the possibility of their daughter's attendance. A folder will be mailed to anyone requesting it from the office.

The camps will be open to girls from next year's 3rd through 8th grade. The camp committee has set a quota for each age group, in order to ensure an age range for each camp. As in all Girl Scout camps, campers work and play and live in units, made up of a small group of girls of about the same age, and the adult leaders. Each unit has its own home - in - the-woods, which the group chooses and sets up, where the unit plans its own program of out-of-door experiencces.

From the grown - up point of view, camping has as its objectives to stimulate enjoyment and appreciation of the out of doors through progressively adventurous experiences, to provide training in citizenship by giving the girls an opportunity to plan and carry out the camping program with the help of adult leaders, to help in the development of such qualities as resourcefulness, initiative, and self - reliance. To the girls, the program is one of fun and adventure, with the opportunity of learning new skills.

Showing of slides of previous day camps is a good way of promoting interest in camp. Slides and projector may be borrowed from the office.

CLOTHES QUIZ

No Hard Pressing For Luxury Fabrics

By BETH BLAIR

Soft and napped fabrics should be carefully handled and never pressed hard. Steaming by an expert and very light pressing will prevent seams from marking and showing in a garment. The use of a velvet board is very helpful. A reader writes —

Dear Miss Blair:

I have a cashmere coat three or four years old. It shows marks on seams from pressing. Would dyeing the coat a dark color help hide these marks?

Actually, I feel the dark color would show the pressing marks even more prominently as light fibers might show through. Why not consider a darker tone for your coat as Vicuna or try having it cleaned and steamed or pressed on the velvet board the next time.

Dear Miss Blair:

Recently I bought brown shoes to wear with a beige suit. I don't see very much news on brown as a spring color, however, and wonder if I should match shoes with a brown handbag. Then what color should I wear for gloves, hat and bag?

Brown is a real high - fashion color this spring. It is being shown by top couturiers for spring and summer. You could match a brown bag to your shoes but if you are afraid of so much of this one color you could choose beige for handbag, and gloves. Try a white hat and blouse or white hat and beige and brown printed blouse.

KOREA

In conservative families in Korea, a woman is seldom referred to by name. She is addressed, usually, as wife, mother or some other feminine relation to the male head of the family.

COPPER

Miami, Ariz., doesn't have as many lovely bathing beauties as Miami, Fla. But, Miami, Ariz., is rich in copper mines.

MR. AND MRS. MELVILLE WILROY JOHNSON announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Shirley Grace Johnson to Richard David DeLabar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel David DeLabar, of Easton, Pa. The marriage will be solemnized Sunday, May third, at Grace Episcopal church, at four o'clock in the afternoon, with the Rev. H. Newton Griffith officiating.

Girl Scout News

The important activity this week is the sign - up on Saturday morning for day camp at Pine Wood. Dates of the camp are July 6-17 for the first session and July 19-31 for the second. Girls who have had fun in previous years, as well as many who have just been hearing about the fun, are going to be ready to sign up in order to make sure of being included. It is possible that the quota could be reached in this one day of signing up, so it will be best not to wait.

Members of the day camp committee and other volunteers will be at the following places Saturday from 9:00-11:00 to receive registrations: Lexington, Sherrouse, Lakeshore, Plum Street, Mitchell, and Highland Schools. In addition, the office will be open from 9:00 until 3.00 to receive registrations. Girls or their parents should take the application blank, properly filled out, along with the fee, to the registration centers.

Folders have been distributed at troop meetings during the past several weeks. Parents should make it a point to read the folder and consider the possibility of their daughter's attendance. A folder will be mailed to anyone requesting it from the office.

The camps will be open to girls from next year's 3rd through 8th grade. The camp committee has set a quota for each age group, in order to ensure an age range for each camp. As in all Girl Scout camps, campers work and play and live in units, made up of a small group of girls of about the same age, and the adult leaders. Each unit has its own home - in - the-woods, which the group chooses and sets up, where the unit plans its own program of out-of-door experiencces.

From the grown - up point of view, camping has as its objectives to stimulate enjoyment and appreciation of the out of doors through progressively adventurous experiences, to provide training in citizenship by giving the girls an opportunity to plan and carry out the camping program with the help of adult leaders, to help in the development of such qualities as resourcefulness, initiative, and self - reliance. To the girls, the program is one of fun and adventure, with the opportunity of learning new skills.

Showing of slides of previous day camps is a good way of promoting interest in camp. Slides and projector may be borrowed from the office.

Auto Show Sunday; Downtown Bargain Day Mon.

Second Annual Car Show Is Scheduled Here Today

Thousands of persons are expected to attend the second annual automobile show this afternoon at Searstown, between the hours of 1 and 5 p.m.

The big event is staged by the Monroe-West Monroe New Car and Truck Dealers Association and features all of the latest models and styles. Music for the show will be furnished by three local bands.

Representatives from the 11 participating firms will be on hand to explain all the cars and trucks to visitors.

The event was actually kicked off yesterday with a parade through West Monroe and Monroe. The parade started in front of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe, crossed the old river bridge into Monroe and traveled down DeSiard Street.

Bands participating in the parade were Thomas Jefferson Junior High, Robert E. Lee Junior High, Neville High School, and West Monroe High School.

Thousands of persons linned the parade route to see the new model cars, the hostesses and the bands.

Hostesses riding in the parade were Donna Davies, Linda Lavendar, Saundra Knowles, Mildred Levi, Sharron Mann, Sandra Houston, Donna Guyton, Rene Conaway, Ann Trousdale and Jinnie Williams.

Dealerships which will have vehicles in the show are Lennon Motor Co., Ryan Chevrolet, Monroe Auto Mart, Steele Motors, Jackson Motors, Studebaker-Packard, Van Trow Olds-Cadillac, Brown-Rivers Scogin, Coleman-Edwards, Adair GMC, and Twin City Pontiac.

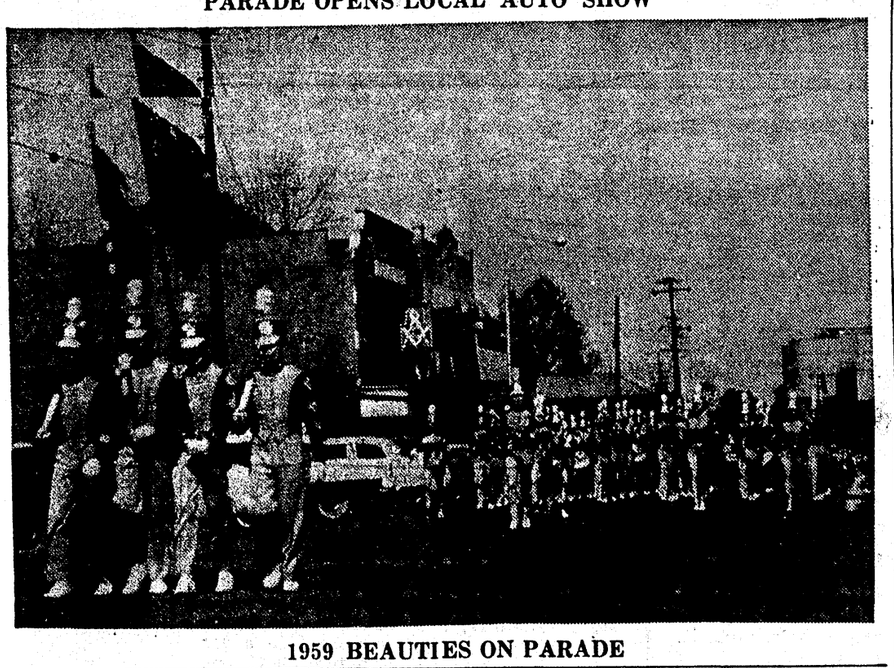
The West Monroe High School Band will present the first program of music from 1:30 until 2:30 p.m., and will be followed by the Ouachita Parish High School Band.

Ouachita will perform until 3:30 p.m. at which time the Neville High School Band will take over for a third hour of music.

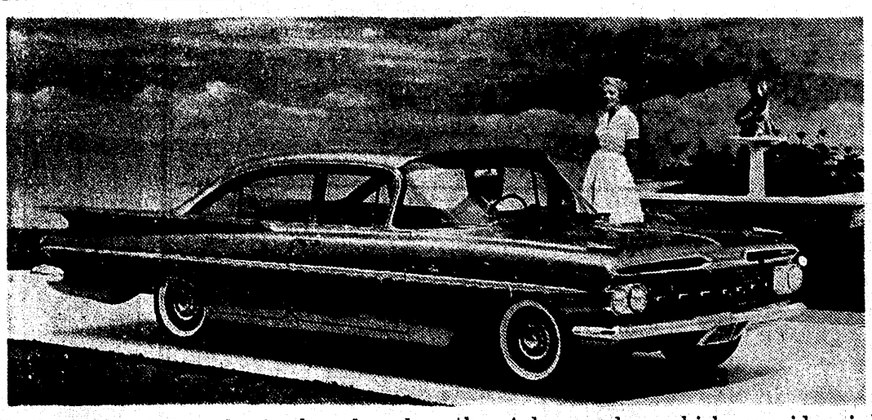
Dealers' officials noted that all 1959 models from the participating firms will be on display during the showing.

A parade here yesterday kicked off the annual show.

PARADE OPENS LOCAL AUTO SHOW



1959 BEAUTIES ON PARADE



RESPLENDENT in the fresh and modernistic "slim line" styling, the popular Bel Air series is again offered by Chevrolet for 1959. Favorite of the group is the 4-door sedan which provides increased passenger room and added visibility in new compound windshields and larger rear windows.

SENSATIONAL

New Chevrolet Charms Nation

A sampling of Chevrolet passenger cars in the sensational new styling that has captivated a large section of the nation's motoring public promises to stop shoppers at the Auto Show.

On display at Ryan Chevrolet Inc., 201 Washington St., are representative models of:

The Impala — Top luxury series in the Chevrolet field, the Impala was introduced a year ago in two body types. This year there are four—a four-door sedan and four-door sport sedan, a sport coupe and a convertible. Note especially the rich custom tailoring of interiors and the flat roof and smart window treatment of the sport sedan.

The Bel Air—retaining all of the features that for the last few years have made the Bel Air synonymous with the finest vehicles ever produced by a low-price automobile manufacturer, the Bel Air series will be available as two-and four-door sedans.

The Biscayne—Lowest priced in the Chevrolet line, the series consists of two-and four-door sedans and a utility sedan. Finishes are all acrylic lacquer, a new paint development that promises to hold high luster, without polishing, for as long as three years in normal climates.

OTHERS

The Station Wagon — Once again Chevrolet offers a wide range in station wagon price and accommodations. Most sumptuous in the series is the Nomad. The Kingswood is a nine-passenger with provisions for folding the third rear-facing seat flush into the floor. Other bodies are the two-and four-door Brookwoods, and the four-door Parkwood.

The Corvette — Chevrolet's claim to the most popular sport car will be strengthened by the 1959 Corvette, refined in appearance and performance.

Although the design of the latest Chevrolets represents an unusual change from traditional styling, Chevrolet reports its mechanical improvements equally as advanced. Brakes, spring suspensions, automatic tansmissions and engines have especially profited from a broadscale program of re-engineering.

A new six-cylinder engine, named the Hi-Thrift, headlines power developments that mean improved operating economy.

Braking characteristics have been enhanced in an engineering project that included linings, drums, wheels and tires. Effective braking surfaces have been enlarged 27 per cent. Added brake drum flanges and wheel spoke separations afford better brake cooling. Tires, due to a thinner, tougher thread, run cooler. The new casing formula adds up to seven per cent more wear.

Particular emphasis is placed by the company on refinements in its advanced wheel suspension systems. A control arm has been introduced at the rear to minimize road shocks. Modifications in the air springs provide a softer ride and increased efficiency.

Visibility has been increased up to 50 per cent.

Five Children Saved In Fire, Baby Perishes

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Oscar Johnson, 2-month-old son of Eula Mae Johnson, burned to death Saturday when fire of undetermined origin roared through his home.

His five brothers and sisters were rescued by a neighbor the Rev. Alfred C. Moore, who ran into the blazing house, carried the children out one by one and threw them over a fence to safety.

The mother was not in the house at the time of the fire.

NO LAYOFF

MILLIS, Mass. (UPI) — After fire swept the Herman Shoe Co. plant, President Peter Solomon announced that the 300 employes would be paid, as usual, during the three weeks needed for repairs.

FREE PARKING MONDAY — Major Jack Davis and Mrs. Neva Thornhill of the Monroe police department check a "covering" for the parking meters which will not be tended tomorrow — the second annual "free parking day" in Monroe. The free parking is a tribute to motorists who have not had a fatal accident in the city limits since February of last year. It also coincides with the second "Downtown Bargain Day."

Operation On Princess Is Successful

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (UPI) —Princess Grace of Monaco underwent a successful operation for appendicities Saturday. Her doctor said the operation conplications or abnormality present."

"The appendix was removed without any difficulty," said the princess' long-time family doctor from Philadelphia, James A. Lehman. He told newsmen the operation was for "simply appendicities and nothing else."

Lehman performed the operation at the "Clinic Cecil," a 90-bed hospital that was once a luxury hotel. Then, leaving the princess with her mother, Mrs. John B. Kelly of Philadelphia, Lehman drove to the Beaurivage Hotel to talk with newsmen.

The 29-year-old princess was expected to get out of bed late Saturday and walk a little, Lehman said, and Sunday he will try to get her to walk for half an hour in the morning and afternoon.

Saturday the former actress was under postoperative narcosis to relieve pain caused by both the operation and a general intravenous anaesthetic, Lehman said.

Lehman said Grace talked briefly to him and to her husband, Prince Rainier, when she came out of the anaesthetic.

He said she would be fed intravenously Saturday but may have small amounts of cracked ice, water of tea "if she is able to retain them."

The princess' pulse and blood pressure returned to normal shortly after the operation, Lehman said. The doctor said he would stay at the clinic Saturday night just in case he's needed and the princess's mother planned to spend the night in her daughter's room.

Second Downtown Bargain Day Slated

"If it's in town, it's downtown" is the apt slogan of The Downtown Merchants who are featuring the second monthly "Downtown Bargain Day" Monday.

"The Downtown Bargain Day held in March was such a huge success that the merchants decided to repeat the bargain event. In preparation for the big affair, downtown merchants have made special buys to offer their customers the best quality merchandise at the most economical price," C. W. Rousseau, co-chairman of the Downtown Shopping Day committee, announced.

The special shopping day coincides with the second annual free parking day to be observed in downtown Monroe. Mayor W. L. Howard proclaimed no parking tickets for the 24-hour period. The free-parking was set aside to pay tribute to the motorists who have not had a fatal accident in the city limits since February of last year and to help the "downtown bargain day."

Thoughout tomorrow the 800 meters in the downtown parking areas of Monroe will remain idle, the violation flag will go unnoticed and the shoppers may park their cars and forget about dropping in another coin at a set time.

Rousseau and co-chairman Fred Beckett, stressed that participating will be stores carrying every line of merchandise such as hardware, furniture, clothing, drugs and anything else the customer may need.

"A look at the display windows of the downtown stores and a check with the advertisements in this newspaper will convince anyone that anything they wish to buy can be purchased downtown. As our slogan states, 'if it's in town, it's downtown,' Rousseau said.

Participating stores will be Star Hardware and Furniture, Alvis Men's Shop, Krauss and Cahn, Silverstein's, Grayson's, Style Shop, Famous Fabric, Haddad's, Field's, Woman's Shop, Allen's Fashions, D. Masur and Son, Durrett's Furniture and Gifts, Keene's Shoes, Kelso's, Terry's Dress Shop, Belk-Gallant, Elias and Son, York Shop, J.C. Penny Co., Dixie Stores, Miller-Guierro, The Fashion, Lane Wilson, and Montgomery Ward.

Ancient Tug Inches Near Home Port

ON THE OHIO RIVER (AP)—The ancient towboat "Sprague" inched slowly past Cincinnati Saturday night, headed toward a probable last rendezvous with friends of a half-century in her home port of Pittsburgh.

The 318-foot Sprague is the largest towboat ever built.

Ahead of her lay 18 barges—but she was not pushing them as she did when she was undisputed queen of the coal fleets plying the Ohio and Mississippi.

Instead, the Sprague lay firmly lashed to, and abreast of, a towboat of later vintage. The diesel-driven "Lehigh" has the job of returning the Sprague to the city which claimed her as its own from the years 1902 to her "retirement" in 1948.

For the first time since she left Vicksburg, Miss., on March 26, the Sprague's speed—actually the speed of the Lehigh's tow8dropped to four miles an hour Friday and Saturday.

The Sprague, which for the last decade has been moored as a municipal museum at Vicksburg, is headed for Pittsburgh to become the center of that city's bicentennial celebration.

She has been refurbished to the extent that two immense dining rooms now occupy space once used as quarters for a crew of 55; food will be prepared in electric kitchens; modern plumbing has been installed.

SHELL GAME

In the automotive business, "shell" is the body of a car. And it's easier to be fooled by these auto body shells than by the old shell game. The plain fact is this: Every medium-priced car but one uses a body shell shared with a low-priced car, the lowest-priced car in the line. The one middle-priced car that uses its own exclusive body specifically designed to give you more than low-priced-car value is Mercury. And what a tremendous difference this exclusive Mercury body shell makes!

THE SWEEPING elegance of the newly created silhouette of the 1959 Cadillac Series Sixty-Two six-window Sedan is more than matched by a powerful new engine. The popular six-window Sedan features all of the advanced engineering and design characteristics of the new models.

OFFICIAL REPORTS

Changes Noted In New Cadillac

"Extensive changes throughout the entire line of new cars gave us the opportunity to bring together majestic new styling and brilliant performance to exceed even further the standards for which our autos are recognized," states James M. Roche, general manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Division and vice president of General Motors.

"In appearance, these new Cadillacs — from the carefully wrought grille and hood to the finely sculptured rear fins — will set a new style note," Roche predicted.

"The sweeping elegance of Cadillac's newly created silhouette is more than matched by the responsiveness of the powerful new engine. This 1959 Cadillac engine," Roche said, "is the result of engineering development based on Cadillac's 45 years of experience in the creation of the V-8 type. In our new models, the power plant incorporates advanced principals principles of design permitting extremely smooth operation while delivering vigorous maximum power for all occasions.

Describing the 1959 Cadillac line, Roche said the 13 models include an additional Sedan not available last year. Van-Trow Olds Cadillac Co., 1204 Louisville Ave. is the local dealer. Offering the most complete array of hardtop styling ever produced by Cadillac, the new models will be on display in Dealer's showrooms tomorrow.

FABULOUS

In revealing the new cars, Roche said, "the monarch in Cadillac's realm of motoring majesty for 1959, is the fabulous Eldorado Brougham. In Styling and craftsmanship, in every detail, this car is without question the most exciting model ever shown by Cadillac."

Sparkling chrome emphasizes Cadillac's sleekly - curved new "Vista panorama" windshield that offers front, top, and side vision totally unapproached by conventional windshield designs.

The skillfully styled horizontal lines of the front area carry the eye in natural sequence to the side of the car where further beautifully conceived lines of chrome sweep rearward.

Dramatically poised and gracefully vibrant, distinctive 1959 Cadillac tail fins crown the rearward flow of the fenders. Set in the deep notch of the fin, twin taillights ride high as an unmistakable nightime identification of the new Cadillac.

A view of the new Cadillac from the rear shows instantly that the designer's art has not been spared here. From the impressive expanse of glass in the larger rear window across the broader, lower deck lid is grace and symmetry.

Aly Khan Striving To Become Diplomat

By RALPH TEATSORTH

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Prince Aly Khan at age 47 is striving hard to establish himself as a serious diplomat.

He is eager to remove the playboy label pinned on him many years ago.

He has been Pakistan's ambassador to the United Nations for a little more than a year and to the surprise of many is doing a serious job.

He admits that he still suffers from a form of stage fright that used to bedevil him in his racing days. He tells a story that sheds light in his many-sized personality.

"I get terribly tense just before I'm to make a speech," he says. "The feeling stays with me almost to the moment I start speaking. Then it leaves me and I become completely calm and self-possessed.

White As Tablecloth

"The same thing used to happen to me when I was getting ready to ride in a race. My face would get as white as a tablecloth. Then, at the starting gate, I would become cool as ice.

"I don't suppose I'll ever get over being a bundle of nerves before an important event."

Close friends regard Prince Aly as a shy man. Certainly he's no extrovert.

He has not as yet made any splash in U.N. circles. But he has been making friends and winning respect. Most of his speeches have been statements of Pakistani policy.

However, at a recent General Assembly meeting devoted to the Cameroons independence plans, he suggested a compromise on the controversial issue of the timing of elections in the French Cameroons.

Bigger Role in Future

Prince Aly's compromise was not adopted. But the fact that he offered a conciliatory idea during warm debate drew favorable comment from other delegates. And it contained a promise that the Pakistani envoy will play a bigger role in U.N. diplomacy in the future.

Aly is a believer in the concept of quiet diplomacy.

"'When two or three people meet informally, they have a better chance of success," he explains. "But when you call a formal conference and bring in staff members, things get complicated."

He cites the recent Greco - Turkish agreement on Cyprus as a triumph of personal and informal diplomacy.

There is almost universal agreement at the United Nations that Aly is a man of great charm. The secret of his appeal to both sexes is his personal warmth. He seems just as attentive to the lowlist of his guests as to the loftiest and he says the right things to all.

If he has any romantic attachment at present, sharp-eyed New York gossip columnists haven't been able to discover her.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Another awards season for show business is close at hand and once again we are reminded of how poorly the legitimate theater fares in this matter so far as public attention is concerned.

Even the American Theater Wing's Tony Awards, which are the most comprehensive and attended by the most hoopla, have several drawbacks.

For one thing, the Tony's which were started in 1947 and the winners of which will be announced this year on April 12, get no national exposure via television, for one thing, as do Hollywood's Oscars and T V's Emmys.

The argument that movies and T V deserve such public attention because they are available to so many millions more persons than are Broadway productions is only partially valid.

With the proper planning, it would be quite possible to have as interesting a TV show built around the theater prizes as around the others, regardless of the fact that many viewers might not be familiar with the productions and personalities involved.

I have always considered that the Theater Wing awards suffer from the fact that those who run the operation refuse to give them for "bests" or "firsts." They are designated as being for "distinguished" of "outstanding" contributions.

The fact that the nominations and winners are determined by the Wing's board of directors is not necessarily reprehensible, for the members are people of the theater, but the representation is restricted.

Then there is the time element. The Tonys are for productions within a 12-month period from March 1 through Feb. 28. This results in shows and performances from parts of two seasons being in competion instead of properly limiting the race to the major part of a single season.

The committee that awards the Pulitzer Prize for drama closes its books as of March 31. That's a little better but still too soon. The Pulitzer awards are not announced until the first Monday in May.

The New York Drama Critics' Circle has still a third deadline —anything produced in a season right up to the day of meeting to vote, which is usually about mid-April. A Broadway season ends May 31 for all practical purposes.

So the returns on theater prizes not only are scattered as to announcement dates, but there is a considerable difference in the period covered by the three outstanding prize-giving groups. Impact and authority are lacking. They might be possible to achieve with one outstanding coordinated project.

Nominated for Tony awards this year in the play category are "A Touch of the Poet," "Epitaph for George Dillon," "J. B." "The Disenchanted" and "The Visit," the latter an entry of last season. Two new plays, "Sweet Bird of Youth" and "Raisin in the Sun," which some think are prize calibre, will have to be considered next year, if at all. This season still has four major musicals coming up before May. 31. The Tony candidates are "Flower Drum Song," "La Pume de Ma Tante" and "Redhead," a poor lot for prize-giving.

'Lost Art' Still Popular Among U.S. Children

FORT MADISON, Iowa (UPI)— A booklet on the supposedly lost art of handwriting has proved so popular among parents, teachers and children that it's gone into a sixth printing.

The brochure, entitled "Sure I Want to be a Better Writer," was developed in 1957 for the Sheaffer Pen Co. by Wesley E. Scott, Leon Rubin and Matthew M. Jasner, Philadelphia educators who designed their city's remedial handwriting program for high schools.

In the past 18 months, more than a million copies have been requested. About 35 per cent of the requests are from teachers, but about 200,000 youngsters of grade and high school age wrote in for the booklet last year.

Grim Slavery Relic Beneath Kentucky Home

By SY RAMSEY

PARIS, Ky. (AP)—Beneath the gracious old Kentucky home owned by Ben Harbeson is an empty room with a grim past.

It is a former slave dungeon which might have rivaled the Black Hole of Calcutta in sheer misery to the occupants.

The masonry - walled room, about 24 by 12 feet, remains in absolute darkness—as it did when unurlly Negroes were chained inside to await transportation to lucrative Deep South slave markets.

The only ventilation comes from an iron-barred window in a two-foot thick wall facing the rear yard.

The dungeon is directly underneath the entrance hall of the 15-room house.

Harbeson, a bachelor who recently retired from the tobacco business in Charleston, W. Va., bought the home 31 years ago. He lives alone.

The Grange, as it's called, is not as large, perhaps not as beautiful as other Kentucky antebellum homes. But few, if any, contain such a grisly relic in the basement.

Kinzea Stone Sr. started building the house in 1800 and finished 18 years later.

His sons, Edward and Howard, used the dungeon while operating a slave - trading business for 10 years.

THE SWEEPING elegance of the newly created silhouette of the 1959 Cadillac Series Sixty-Two six-window Sedan is more than matched by a powerful new engine. The popular six-window Sedan features all of the advanced engineering and design characteristics of the new models.

OFFICIAL REPORTS

Changes Noted In New Cadillac

"Extensive changes throughout the entire line of new cars gave us the opportunity to bring together majestic new styling and brilliant performance to exceed even further the standards for which our autos are recognized," states James M. Roche, general manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Division and vice president of General Motors.

"In appearance, these new Cadillacs — from the carefully wrought grille and hood to the finely sculptured rear fins — will set a new style note," Roche predicted.

"The sweeping elegance of Cadillac's newly created silhouette is more than matched by the responsiveness of the powerful new engine. This 1959 Cadillac engine," Roche said, "is the result of engineering development based on Cadillac's 45 years of experience in the creation of the V-8 type. In our new models, the power plant incorporates advanced principals principles of design permitting extremely smooth operation while delivering vigorous maximum power for all occasions.

Describing the 1959 Cadillac line, Roche said the 13 models include an additional Sedan not available last year. Van-Trow Olds Cadillac Co., 1204 Louisville Ave. is the local dealer. Offering the most complete array of hardtop styling ever produced by Cadillac, the new models will be on display in Dealer's showrooms tomorrow.

PLUSH BEAUTY and distinctive styling are combined in the 1959 Buick Electra 225, the top model in the Buick line. Both the front and rear fenders flare outward at a jaunty angle in Buick's integrated design which has been acclaimed by stylists for its originality.

IN AUTO INDUSTRY

Buick Is Noted As Style Leader

Ever since Buick introduced its famed hardtop body design in 1949 it has had a reputation in the industry as a style leader.

And this year's Buick, with its distinctive design, is no exception, according to Edward T. Ragsdale, general manager of Buick and vice president of General Motors.

"The sculptured lines of the 1959 design, with its canted rear fenders and canted headlights, give Buick an overall style that wears well," Ragsdale said.

One of the by-products of this design is an aerodynamic effect that reduces wind noise to a whisper even when the car is travelling at cruising speeds, Ragsdale added.

This feature, combined with extra thick insulation from road and engine noises, makes Buick one of the quietest cars on the highway today, he said.

SOLVED

One of the problems presented by the new styling was how to maintain adequate trunk room and at the same time tailor the slope of the rear deck lid in keeping with the overall design.

This was overcome, Ragsdale explained, by widening the trunk, providing more room for longer items, such as golf clubs, to lay flat on the floor. The result is more room in the trunk than last year.

Lennon Motor Co., Inc. is the local Buick dealer.

Automotive writers and owners alike have been lavish in their praise of the 1959 Buick with its dramatic new styling, its outstanding performance and its ease of handling, Ragsdale stated.

"An owner's survey showed that one of the things most liked about our 1959 models was the distinctive styling, and the ease of handling, resulting from our new front end suspension and steering geometry," Ragsdale said.

Another feature most liked by Buick customers is the lavish use of glass, the huge compound windshield which curves back into the roof on all models, the curved glass rear "picture window" in the four-door hardtops. Unlimited visibility is provided all passengers in the car, regardless of whether they sit in the front or back seat, Ragsdale said.

THREE SERIES

The 1959 Buicks come in three series LeSabre, the lowest-priced in the line: Invicta, the out-standing performer, and Electra, the luxury series.

The safest, most advanced brake system ever offered on an American production automobile is standard equipment on all 1959 Buick models, according to Oliver K. Kelley, Buick chief engineer.

Few people realize that Buick was the first car equipped with an automatic transmission.

It was back in 1938 that Buick came out with a transmission that shifted automatically. However, only a few models were built before the transmission was abandoned.

Ten years later, Buick introduced the first torque converter transmission, and every automatic transmission designed since that time is based on the torque converter principle.

Other Buick firsts which are commonplace on most cars today include the valve-in-head engine, introduced with the first Buick in 1903; four-wheel brakes in 1924; power-operated windshield wipers, 1925; automatic choke, 1934; directional signals, 1939; hardtop styline, 1949, and tinted glass, 1950.

In 1958, Buick became the first American production car to use aluminum brake drums.

African Hunter Is 'Studio Cop'

MOSHI, Tanganyika (UPI) — "They don't allow you any big mistakes in this business," said George Walter Dove as he slapped a clip into his rifle. "Lose one client to a rhino, a lion or anything else and you've had your chips."

Dove, 40, has been a professional white hunter more than half his life. He has almost been killed twice but, thanks to his skill and long experience, has kept danger away from the men and women he takes out on hunting trips here in British East Africa.

"Frank Buck spoke about 'bringing 'em back alive'," Dove continues, "and so do we white hunters — only we're talking about our clients, not animals; fall down on that job and there goes your government license to operate."

Right now this pleasant-spoken hunter with a blond goatee and Dali-type, 10-inch-long waxed mustache is working on "just about the oddest deal of my life."

He has been hired to stand guard in the nearby wild bush area where Robert Taylor and other movie players are on location for the adventure picture "Adamson of Africa."

"There's rhino, lion, buffalo and elephant around here," Dove explained, "and just in case any of 'em come around for Mr. Taylor's autograph—or for Mr. Taylor — this rifle will be wanted."

Dove chuckled wryly. "I've read about cops on the studio gates in Hollywood," he said, "and now I'm just one of 'em — keeping away the gate-crashers. Only they don't shoot 'em in Hollywood, do they?"

Flicking away a fly with his giraffe's tail whisk, Dove watched 16-year-old John Dimech going through his paces for "Adamson," which is being made for Columbia Pictures release by Britain's Warwick Films.

"Rather a young lad to be out in that sun," somebody said.

"I guess os," remarked Dove, "but I was brought up in this country after my parents brought me here from Australia. I shot my first lion when I was 11 and by the time I was 18 I was shooting elephants."

A year or two later Dove began taking out visiting hunters on safari. Hundreds of them have been Americans — "mostly very nice people and keen sportsmen."

"Of course," Dove said, "we get the occasional snob, the one hunting for the Joneses next door back home."

Dove confided that there's very little danger on safari — except for the white hunter. He has to search out the game, often at risky close quarters.

Then he brings up his clients to within a safe distance and advises them which lion, rhino or buffalo to take a crack at.

Dove has seen more than one "good shot back home" freeze up when an elephant lumbers his way. "A little pushing from the white hunter usually unfreezes 'em," he chuckled, "and they start to shoot quite well."

Dove rates some of his women clients as top shots, recalling one Annie Oakley who chalked up 32 out of 40 animals as one-shot kills.

Homeowners Entitled To Lower Taxes

About 15 per cent of homeowners entitled to homestead exemptions still have not taken advantage of the lowered state and parish tax provisions, Bert Coverdale, Ouachita parish tax assessor, said yesterday. This percentage is for the cities of Monroe, West Monroe and area immediately adjacent to the West Monroe city limits.

Homeowners must sign the application forms for the homestead exemptions on or before April 15 to enjoy the lowered taxes, the assessor pointed out. Those forms not signed by that deadline, which is ten days off, will not be allowed the $2,000 regular reduction and $5,000 for veterans on their home assessments.

Homeowners of the parish have been signing the application forms for the past month.

The office, located on the first floor of the parish court house, will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays. It will remain open through the noon lunch hour from Monday to Friday to provide additional convenience for those persons who work and are not able to get by the office during the regular office hours.

Residents in the rural wards, outside the cities of Monroe and West Monroe, are being contacted by deputy assessors, who will continue working the areas until all have been contacted.

Hula Haircut Catching On

BOSTON (UPI)—If you thought the hula hoop craze was on the way out, better ask your barber.

Members of the teen-age set are putting the hoop on their heads in the form of circular haircuts — bangs in front and medium - length hair on the back and sides.

It's called a hula haircut because "it falls right back into arrangement aftera vigorous hooping session."

So explained James E. Guilford Jr., a Boston barber and public relations committeeman for the Associated Master Barbers and Beauticians.

Guilford said the new cut was introduced at a recent convention of barbers and beauticians in Minneapolis.

"It's already very popular in other areas," he said, "and it's spreading like wildfire."

Ike Getting Some Of Aid Loss Blame

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower's special committee to study foreign aid isn't sparing him from some blame in operations of the program.

The committee, headed by former Defense Department official William Draper, views with considerable concern the President's budget plans to cut military aid spending in the next fiscal year beginning July 1 below the two-billion dollar level.

That would send the military aid below the two-billion dollar mark for the first time since the Mutual Aid program got going. When the President took over in 1953, military aid was at a rate well over four billion dollars a year. The President ordered it cut to three and a half billion in his first budget to Congress.

The downward trend has been continuing ever since. For fiscal year 1959-1960, it would be $1,850,000,000. And most of that would come out of funds provided for the program in the past.

The fact is, the President has been living off the fat in the foreign aid program.

Because of the long lead time required to order military equipment, especially modern missiles and weapons with nuclear capabilities, the fat, or the prior pipelines, dictate almost entirely which current hardware can be delivered.

An example: The President is asking $1,600,000,000 in new money authority for the military aid program. But only $200,000,000 of that can be used to buy weapons and equipment if the next fiscal year. The remainder of the money will come from the so-called pipelines.

When the President took over, the military part of foreign aid had about eight and a half billion dollars in the pipelines. At the end of the current fiscal year, that will be down to about two and a half billion.

The Draper committee says that is the absolute minimum needed in the pipelines to finance the military aid program. Administration spokesmen agree.

The military aid program in the past few years has been well above the two-billion dollar level. The Draper committee says average spending for the next few years must not be any less.

It says the kind of spending involved in the President's authorization request to Congress and the money Congress gave him last year amounts "to a fundamental change in national policy . . .it would imply a strategic retreat."

The committee says the alternatives to an adequate foreign aid program are:

—Increased danger of local wars which neither our allies nor we can handle;

—Dependence upon nuclear warfare for situations which could be handled by local action;

—Retreat to a fortress America and a virtual state of siege.

Bargin Rates Woo Tourists In S. America

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) —Bargain rates have made a tremendous success out of Uruguay's tourist season this year.

While winter whipped across North America, summer sun and economy prices were prevailing along the sand - carpeted "Riviera of the Americas."

At the pride of the Uruguayan resorts, Punta del Este, the best rooms in the best hotel cost between $8.40 and $10 a day for a double room — with all meals included and a sea view to boot.

Accommodations on the small peninsula where the Atlantic meets the mouth of the Rio de la Plata range from fancy hotels to small Swiss - style inns. Diversions include golf, tennis, surf and pool swimming, deep - sea fishing, yachting, water skiing — and gambling.

Although most of Uruguay's tourists usually come from neighboring Argentina and Brazil, English is spoken at most of the major resorts. The Uruguayan National Tourist Service confidently expects more and more tourists from the U. S. — because of the prices and because it will soon take only 12 hours to fly from New York by jet.

Uruguay is also attracting more visitors from Argentina. One reason for this is the rate of exchange. A year ago, 100 Argentine pesos bought 8 to 10 Uruguayan pesos. Now they'll get you 14, while Uruguayan prices remain fairly steady.

A downtown Buenos Aires tourist agent noted that "this is the first year in my memory that I've had more requests for Uruguayan vacations than for Mar del Plata," which is Argentina's No. 1 resort.

However, it must be pointed out that Mar del Plata is suffering from its own popularity. It has become such a magnet for vacationers that reservations must be made well in advance.

The result has been a constant flow of visitors to the Uruguayan tourist headquarters here. Luis Oneto Puentes, chief of the office, said his government is trying to make things even easier for its visitors.

Argentines, for example, need only their identity cards to enter Uruguay and Americans only their passports. They can bring cars duty - free into the country or else rent them when they arrive.

"We believe that Uruguay has plenty to offer tourists," Puentes said. "Now we want to help them discover it."

Physicians Say Bladder Cancer Easy To Detect

NEW YORK (AP) — A simple test can detect bladder cancer very early—when chances of cure are highest—three physicians.

The test involves a microscopic examination of the urine for cancer cells.

It can detect cancer before other means, said Drs. Myron R. Melamed, Leopold G. Koss, and Andrew Ricci of the Strang Cancer Prevention Clinic of Memorial Center and Sloan - Kettering Institute here.

They reported examinations of 285 men known to have been exposed to a chemical, used in industry, which recently was found capable of causing cancer. This chemical is para-aminodephenyl.

Thirty-one men were found to have abnormal cells in their urine. Ten later were proved to have early cancers, and have been treated, the physicians told the James Ewing Society.

Only in three of the 10 men could the cancers be detected at the time of urine exams by cystoscopy, in which a tube is inserted into the bladder to take a look at or to collect tissue samples.

The other men exposed to the industrial chemical are being watched closely to see if they develop still-hidden cancers later on.

PLUSH BEAUTY and distinctive styling are combined in the 1959 Buick Electra 225, the top model in the Buick line. Both the front and rear fenders flare outward at a jaunty angle in Buick's integrated design which has been acclaimed by stylists for its originality.

IN AUTO INDUSTRY

Buick Is Noted As Style Leader

Ever since Buick introduced its famed hardtop body design in 1949 it has had a reputation in the industry as a style leader.

And this year's Buick, with its distinctive design, is no exception, according to Edward T. Ragsdale, general manager of Buick and vice president of General Motors.

"The sculptured lines of the 1959 design, with its canted rear fenders and canted headlights, give Buick an overall style that wears well," Ragsdale said.

One of the by-products of this design is an aerodynamic effect that reduces wind noise to a whisper even when the car is travelling at cruising speeds, Ragsdale added.

This feature, combined with extra thick insulation from road and engine noises, makes Buick one of the quietest cars on the highway today, he said.

SOLVED

One of the problems presented by the new styling was how to maintain adequate trunk room and at the same time tailor the slope of the rear deck lid in keeping with the overall design.

This was overcome, Ragsdale explained, by widening the trunk, providing more room for longer items, such as golf clubs, to lay flat on the floor. The result is more room in the trunk than last year.

Lennon Motor Co., Inc. is the local Buick dealer.

Automotive writers and owners alike have been lavish in their praise of the 1959 Buick with its dramatic new styling, its outstanding performance and its ease of handling, Ragsdale stated.

"An owner's survey showed that one of the things most liked about our 1959 models was the distinctive styling, and the ease of handling, resulting from our new front end suspension and steering geometry," Ragsdale said.

Another feature most liked by Buick customers is the lavish use of glass, the huge compound windshield which curves back into the roof on all models, the curved glass rear "picture window" in the four-door hardtops. Unlimited visibility is provided all passengers in the car, regardless of whether they sit in the front or back seat, Ragsdale said.

THREE SERIES

The 1959 Buicks come in three series LeSabre, the lowest-priced in the line: Invicta, the out-standing performer, and Electra, the luxury series.

The safest, most advanced brake system ever offered on an American production automobile is standard equipment on all 1959 Buick models, according to Oliver K. Kelley, Buick chief engineer.

Few people realize that Buick was the first car equipped with an automatic transmission.

It was back in 1938 that Buick came out with a transmission that shifted automatically. However, only a few models were built before the transmission was abandoned.

Ten years later, Buick introduced the first torque converter transmission, and every automatic transmission designed since that time is based on the torque converter principle.

Other Buick firsts which are commonplace on most cars today include the valve-in-head engine, introduced with the first Buick in 1903; four-wheel brakes in 1924; power-operated windshield wipers, 1925; automatic choke, 1934; directional signals, 1939; hardtop styline, 1949, and tinted glass, 1950.

In 1958, Buick became the first American production car to use aluminum brake drums.

African Hunter Is 'Studio Cop'

MOSHI, Tanganyika (UPI) — "They don't allow you any big mistakes in this business," said George Walter Dove as he slapped a clip into his rifle. "Lose one client to a rhino, a lion or anything else and you've had your chips."

Dove, 40, has been a professional white hunter more than half his life. He has almost been killed twice but, thanks to his skill and long experience, has kept danger away from the men and women he takes out on hunting trips here in British East Africa.

"Frank Buck spoke about 'bringing 'em back alive'," Dove continues, "and so do we white hunters — only we're talking about our clients, not animals; fall down on that job and there goes your government license to operate."

Right now this pleasant-spoken hunter with a blond goatee and Dali-type, 10-inch-long waxed mustache is working on "just about the oddest deal of my life."

He has been hired to stand guard in the nearby wild bush area where Robert Taylor and other movie players are on location for the adventure picture "Adamson of Africa."

"There's rhino, lion, buffalo and elephant around here," Dove explained, "and just in case any of 'em come around for Mr. Taylor's autograph—or for Mr. Taylor — this rifle will be wanted."

Dove chuckled wryly. "I've read about cops on the studio gates in Hollywood," he said, "and now I'm just one of 'em — keeping away the gate-crashers. Only they don't shoot 'em in Hollywood, do they?"

Flicking away a fly with his giraffe's tail whisk, Dove watched 16-year-old John Dimech going through his paces for "Adamson," which is being made for Columbia Pictures release by Britain's Warwick Films.

"Rather a young lad to be out in that sun," somebody said.

"I guess os," remarked Dove, "but I was brought up in this country after my parents brought me here from Australia. I shot my first lion when I was 11 and by the time I was 18 I was shooting elephants."

A year or two later Dove began taking out visiting hunters on safari. Hundreds of them have been Americans — "mostly very nice people and keen sportsmen."

"Of course," Dove said, "we get the occasional snob, the one hunting for the Joneses next door back home."

Dove confided that there's very little danger on safari — except for the white hunter. He has to search out the game, often at risky close quarters.

Then he brings up his clients to within a safe distance and advises them which lion, rhino or buffalo to take a crack at.

Dove has seen more than one "good shot back home" freeze up when an elephant lumbers his way. "A little pushing from the white hunter usually unfreezes 'em," he chuckled, "and they start to shoot quite well."

Dove rates some of his women clients as top shots, recalling one Annie Oakley who chalked up 32 out of 40 animals as one-shot kills.

Homeowners Entitled To Lower Taxes

About 15 per cent of homeowners entitled to homestead exemptions still have not taken advantage of the lowered state and parish tax provisions, Bert Coverdale, Ouachita parish tax assessor, said yesterday. This percentage is for the cities of Monroe, West Monroe and area immediately adjacent to the West Monroe city limits.

Homeowners must sign the application forms for the homestead exemptions on or before April 15 to enjoy the lowered taxes, the assessor pointed out. Those forms not signed by that deadline, which is ten days off, will not be allowed the $2,000 regular reduction and $5,000 for veterans on their home assessments.

Homeowners of the parish have been signing the application forms for the past month.

The office, located on the first floor of the parish court house, will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturdays. It will remain open through the noon lunch hour from Monday to Friday to provide additional convenience for those persons who work and are not able to get by the office during the regular office hours.

Residents in the rural wards, outside the cities of Monroe and West Monroe, are being contacted by deputy assessors, who will continue working the areas until all have been contacted.

Hula Haircut Catching On

BOSTON (UPI)—If you thought the hula hoop craze was on the way out, better ask your barber.

Members of the teen-age set are putting the hoop on their heads in the form of circular haircuts — bangs in front and medium - length hair on the back and sides.

It's called a hula haircut because "it falls right back into arrangement aftera vigorous hooping session."

So explained James E. Guilford Jr., a Boston barber and public relations committeeman for the Associated Master Barbers and Beauticians.

Guilford said the new cut was introduced at a recent convention of barbers and beauticians in Minneapolis.

"It's already very popular in other areas," he said, "and it's spreading like wildfire."

Ike Getting Some Of Aid Loss Blame

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower's special committee to study foreign aid isn't sparing him from some blame in operations of the program.

The committee, headed by former Defense Department official William Draper, views with considerable concern the President's budget plans to cut military aid spending in the next fiscal year beginning July 1 below the two-billion dollar level.

That would send the military aid below the two-billion dollar mark for the first time since the Mutual Aid program got going. When the President took over in 1953, military aid was at a rate well over four billion dollars a year. The President ordered it cut to three and a half billion in his first budget to Congress.

The downward trend has been continuing ever since. For fiscal year 1959-1960, it would be $1,850,000,000. And most of that would come out of funds provided for the program in the past.

The fact is, the President has been living off the fat in the foreign aid program.

Because of the long lead time required to order military equipment, especially modern missiles and weapons with nuclear capabilities, the fat, or the prior pipelines, dictate almost entirely which current hardware can be delivered.

GREAT COMBINATION — Compactness and economy of operation keynote the Rambler line for 1959, available in both six and Rebel V-8 models. Eleven four-door models are offered in the Rambler series, including station wagons, sedans and hardtops. The 108-inch wheelbase Rambler set an all-time sales record in 1958 because of the public swing to the concept of compactness, economy and maneuverability.

Rambler For '59 Completely New

American Motors' compact Rambler for 1959 features new exterior and interior styling, and many engineering advancements designed to further increase Rambler economy of operation and durability.

The 108-inch wheelbase Rambler Six and Rambler Rebel V-8 are offered in eleven models, including station wagons, hardtops and sedans.

"Rambler sales set a new all-time record in 1958 because of the public swing to the concept of compactness, economy and maneuverability," Roy Abernethy, vice-president of automotive distribution and marketing, said. "We anticipate even further production and sales gains in 1959 since more and more motorists each year are becoming aware of the Rambler concept of motoring."

The new Ramblers feature a missile-like spear which runs the full length of the car. The upper portion of the gently flared tail-fins flows forward smoothly into the center of the car.

The Rambler line boasts a new die-cast grille, and new front and rear bumpers, which feature recessed areas for license plates, and are made of steel which is 23 per cent heavier for greater strength and durability.

The 1959 Ramblers retain the same overall exterior and interior dimensions in keeping with AM's compact-car concept.

Abernethy emphasized that Rambler interiors provide generous room for six persons even though the car is more than 1½ feet shorter than the average of the other low-priced 1959 models.

At the same time, the car's front and rear seats measure five feet in width.

The compact dimensions are made possible by American Motor single-unit construction, under which useless bulk and weight is eliminated since there is no separate frame. The underbody and body sections are fused into an integral unit with more than 9,000 welds, which results in a stonger and safer automobile.

American Motors dips all Rambler bodies in a rust-preventing primer which seals all metal areas. This advanced and costly process, Abernethy said, assures longer car life by minimizing the widespread problem of rusted-out bodies.

Economy of operation continues as one of the main features of the 1959 Rambler. The 127 horsepower economy-champion Six is equipped with a new Visi-Flo carburetor designed to increase fuel economy by 1½ miles per gallon of regular grade gasoline. The dual-throat carburetor, which boosts the Rambler Six horsepower to 138, is available as optional equipment.

The 215-horsepower Rambler Rebel V-8 has a four-barrel carburetor which offers improved control of fuel under all conditions. It, too, operates efficiently on regular grade gasoline.

In another move to provide additional fuel economy, formerly optional axle ratios designed to give more miles per gallon have become standard equipment on 1959 models. The other ratios are optional at no extra cost.

As a "personalized comfort" innovation for 1959, separate and individually adjustable front reclining seats are offered as an option on all models. The two seats have separate sets of tracks, providing the driver and the front seat passenger with individual front-to-rear adjustments.

Front seat head-rests are another comfort feature being offered as optional equipment on the new models. They are available singly or in pairs, and are styled to match the car's upholstery. The head-rests are adjustable to 10 positions and can be removed if desired.

FOR VACATION DRIVERS

Gasoline Supplies Near Record Level

HOUSTON (AP) — The spring-summer heavy demand season for gasoline begins next week and the oil industry has a near record supply of motor fuel on hand.

The average vacationing motorist also will find gasoline prices a bit lower in most areas than a year ago. Downward adjustments resulting from 1958's over-supply problems still were under way in a few areas this week.

Some refiners believe the April-September high demand season is getting under way with excessive gasoline inventories.

Gasoline being held in storage normally reaches an annual peak at the end of March. A rapid drop that begins in April normally continues through September while refiners are concentrating on building adequate inventories of heating fuel for the approaching winter season.

Because of the over-supply situation, gasoline stocks in early January had been cut to 11 million barrels below year-earlier levels. A gradual increase, however, has boosted current storage to about 210 million barrels, compared to a record 216 million at the start of the 1958 vacation period.

Executives representing the nation's largest oil companies last week placed before the Texas Railroad Commission their annual estimates of adequate inventories for crude and petroleum products. The estimates of desired level for gasoline at the start of the spring-summer season ranged from 160 to 200 million barrels. Some executives thought the current level of about 210 million is on the high side.

The heaviest demand for gasoline falls in July and August but the two months have switched positions since 1949. August was the leader in 1949 when demand exceeded 3.5 billion gallons. July was the runnerup with a requirement in excess of 3.4 billion.

In 1957, however, July was the leader at 5.4 billion gallons, with August in second place at 5.3 billion.

February continued as the month with the weakest gasoline demand but the month's requirements have increased over 60 per cent in nine years. Gasoline consumption in February of 1949 was only 2.4 billion gallons compared with 3.9 billion in 1957.

Gasoline sales ranked this way in 1949: August, July, June, May, September, October, April, November, December, March, January, February.

The 1957 sales gave this lineup: July, August, May, June, October, April, September, December, November, March, January, February.

Sharp fluctuations in seasonal demand for gasoline illustrate the constant problems of transportation and refinery operation adjustments faced by refiners.

Some states require twice as much gasoline in vacation months as in winter months.

Wyoming, for instance, consumed over 200 million gallons in its 1957 peak month, July, but needed less than 9 million the previous February. California, the leading gasoline consuming state, required over 500 million gallons in July after its February requirements had approximated 398 million.

Florida's winter vacation season presents a special situation. Peak demand in 1957 in Florida came in December, when sales exceeded 153 million gallons. The year's low had come three months earlier with only 120 million in September.

Tiny Paper Plant In Connecticut Is Mechanized

NORWALK, Conn. (UPI) —What probably is the world's smallest paper mill — with a working force of one man — has now been fully mechanized.

Rudolph Bozak, president of the R. T. Bozak Co., which designs and builds loudspeakers for stereophonic and hi-fi systems, operates the mill in a corner of his factory. He makes his own paper for the speaker cones.

Developed by his organization, the new machine lifts the paper to the mold that shapes the cones. Pulp, water and the other necessary ingredients are mixed in a metal trough with a rotary beater that looks like the paddle on an old sternwheeler. Chemicals and a black dye are then added to the mixture. Baking and drying completes the process.

Although the paper mill is fully mechanized, its sole employe isn't out of work. He runs the new machine.

Texans Can't Brag On Size To Alaskans

By SAUL PETT

NOME, Alaska (AP) — Sights and sounds of Alaska:

In Alaska, when you say you're going out, it doesn't mean out of the house or out of jail or out of hock. It means you're going to Seattle, to the main part of the United States.

Among Alaskans, "outside" traditionally has been the word for the rest of the country. It reflects the isloation of the long winters, the waiting for the weather to lift so that planes can fly, waiting for the ice to break up so that ships can sail.

Among Texas-type Alaskans impressed with their state's size and newness, the rest of the United States is called "The Little 48" or "The Old Country."

Joke from a Texas-type Alaskan about Texas-type Texans:

"If those Texans don't quiet down, Alaska will divide itself in two and make Texas the third largest state."

A sure sign of "cabin fever" in most of Alaska is hearing train whistles. There's only one railroad in the 49th state, connecting Anchorage and Fairbanks, the two largest cities.

If all the people who said they were coming came to Alaska, the new state would be more overcrowded than Japan in a decade and Juneau, the capital, would be bigger than New York in a year.

Mayors, Chambers of Commerce and newspapers receive thousands of letters a week from people saying they're on their way to grow with the new frontier. The Chamber of Commerce of Juneau, whose population is 7,500, receives 3,000 to 4,000 letters a week.

One man says he's coming up to start a nail factory. Another says he's a tennis pro. Still another is a golf course greenskeeper. All three thought they might have a big future in Juneau.

Juneau needs them like it needs imported ice cubes. The whole town hugs the sides of two steep mountains. There is little building going on in a town where a two-bedroom frame house goes for $30,000.

Alaskans may try to outbrag Texans but their heart isn't in it. The new state has economic problems. Its chief income is from the Army, Navy and Air Force. Ranking far behind are gold mining and salmon fishing. Both are way down.

New Volkswagen Line On Display

Volkswagen, the most popular foreign - made automobile in America today, will have several models on display in the automobile show today.

The Volkswagen line, which includes five models of passenger automobiles, station wagons and and several truck models as well as the revolutionary "camper," is sold locally by Coleman - Edwards Motors, Inc., 120 Hall street.

The two owners, R. E. "Bob" Coleman and Lee Edwards, have been local representatives of the German - made line of automobiles since July of 1957, when they officially opened for business. Both men are well known in automotive circles in this area.

Featured in the passenger line are the Volkswagen DeLuxe sedan, Sun Roof sedan, convertible, Karmann Ghia sports and convertible models. Volkswagen also carries a line of station wagons pickup and panel trucks and the camper. This last model has been remodeled this year and provided all the conveniences of a house trailer.

Volkswagen is the only foreign automobile to penetrate into the American automobile market with more than 100,000 units sold this past year It was recently commended by a group, composed of representatives of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Society of Automotive Engineers, Society of Naval Architects and the Marine Engineers, for its ability in "rural and urban use."

Forty - two thousand people are employed at the Volkswagen works in Germany. This is the equivalent to the population of a fair - sized town.

The original works were planned about 20 years ago and the foundation stone laid on May 26 of 1938.

The story of the Volkswagen factory is the success story of a car, the most significant creation of the imaginative inventor and constructor, Professor Ferdinand Porsche. The fundamental constructional idea of Porsche remains in the automobile, although there have been 176 amendments since 1947.

When Heinz Nordhoff took over the management of the factory in the beginning of January 1948, it was a mere heap of rubble. A third of the plant had been spared from the holocaust of the war, the remainder was in ruin. From the beginning of its operation to last year, the record reads for itself. In 1948 the factory produced 19,-244 automobile units; in 1957 470,-500 units were put out.

Two million Volkswagens are rolling over the roads of more than a hundred different countries. This is the visible acknowledgement of universal acceptance of the vehicle

ON DISPLAY—Local people will be able to see the newest in German-made Volkswagens at Coleman-Edwards Motors, 120 Hall Street, starting today. This popular two-door sedan is just one of the many models now available here.

Salvador, a nation in Central America, has several mountain ranges. Highest of these is Santa Ana, 8,300 feet high.

GREAT COMBINATION — Compactness and economy of operation keynote the Rambler line for 1959, available in both six and Rebel V-8 models. Eleven four-door models are offered in the Rambler series, including station wagons, sedans and hardtops. The 108-inch wheelbase Rambler set an all-time sales record in 1958 because of the public swing to the concept of compactness, economy and maneuverability.

Rambler For '59 Completely New

American Motors' compact Rambler for 1959 features new exterior and interior styling, and many engineering advancements designed to further increase Rambler economy of operation and durability.

The 108-inch wheelbase Rambler Six and Rambler Rebel V-8 are offered in eleven models, including station wagons, hardtops and sedans.

"Rambler sales set a new all-time record in 1958 because of the public swing to the concept of compactness, economy and maneuverability," Roy Abernethy, vice-president of automotive distribution and marketing, said. "We anticipate even further production and sales gains in 1959 since more and more motorists each year are becoming aware of the Rambler concept of motoring."

The new Ramblers feature a missile-like spear which runs the full length of the car. The upper portion of the gently flared tailfins flows forward smoothly into the center of the car.

The Rambler line boasts a new die-cast grille, and new front and rear bumpers, which feature recessed areas for license plates, and are made of steel which is 23 per cent heavier for greater strength and durability.

The 1959 Ramblers retain the same overall exterior and interior dimensions in keeping with AM's compact-car concept.

Abernethy emphasized that Rambler interiors provide generous room for six persons even though the car is more than 1½ feet shorter than the average of the other low-priced 1959 models. At the same time, the car's front and rear seats measure five feet in width.

The compact dimensions are made possible by American Motor single-unit construction, under which useless bulk and weight is eliminated since there is no separate frame. The underbody and body sections are fused into an integral unit with more than 9,000 welds, which results in a stonger and safer automobile.

American Motors dips all Rambler bodies in a rust-preventing primer which seals all metal areas. This advanced and costly process, Abernethy said, assures longer car life by minimizing the widespread problem of rusted-out bodies.

Economy of operation continues as one of the main features of the 1959 Rambler. The 127 horsepower economy-champion Six is equipped with a new Visi-Flo carburetor designed to increase fuel economy by 1½ miles per gallon of regular grade gasoline. The dual-throat carburetor, which boosts the Rambler Six horsepower to 138, is available as optional equipment.

The 215-horsepower Rambler Rebel V-8 has a four-barrel carburetor which offers improved control of fuel under all conditions. It, too, operates efficiently on regular grade gasoline.

In another move to provide additional fuel economy, formerly optional axle ratios designed to give more miles per gallon have become standard equipment on 1959 models. The other ratios are optional at no extra cost.

As a "personalized comfort" innovation for 1959, separate and individually adjustable front reclining seats are offered as an option on all models. The two seats have separate sets of tracks, providing the driver and the front seat passenger with individual front-to-rear adjustments.

Front seat head-rests are another comfort feature being offered as optional equipment on the new models. They are available singly or in pairs, and are styled to match the car's upholstery. The head-rests are adjustable to 10 positions and can be removed if desired.

Tiny Paper Plant In Connecticut Is Mechanized

NORWALK, Conn. (UPI) —What probably is the world's smallest paper mill — with a working force of one man — has now been fully mechanized.

Rudolph Bozak, president of the R. T. Bozak Co., which designs and builds loudspeakers for stereophonic and hi-fi systems, operates the mill in a corner of his factory. He makes his own paper for the speaker cones.

Developed by his organization, the new machine lifts the paper to the mold that shapes the cones. Pulp, water and the other necessary ingredients are mixed in a metal trough with a rotary beater that looks like the paddle on an old sternwheeler. Chemicals and a black dye are then added to the mixture. Baking and drying completes the process.

Although the paper mill is fully mechanized, its sole employe isn't out of work. He runs the new machine.

New Volkswagen Line On Display

Volkswagen, the most popular foreign - made automobile in America today, will have several models on display in the automobile show today.

The Volkswagen line, which includes five models of passenger automobiles, station wagons and and several truck models as well as the revolutionary "camper," is sold locally by Coleman - Edwards Motors, Inc., 120 Hall street.

The two owners, R. E. "Bob" Coleman and Lee Edwards, have been local representatives of the German - made line of automobiles since July of 1957, when they officially opened for business. Both men are well known in automotive circles in this area.

Featured in the passenger line are the Volkswagen DeLuxe sedan, Sun Roof sedan, convertible, Karmann Ghia sports and convertible models. Volkswagen also carries a line of station wagons pickup and panel trucks and the camper. This last model has been remodeled this year and provided all the conveniences of a house trailer.

Volkswagen is the only foreign automobile to penetrate into the American automobile market with more than 100,000 units sold this past year It was recently commended by a group, composed of representatives of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Society of Automotive Engineers, Society of Naval Architects and the Marine Engineers, for its ability in "rural and urban use."

Forty - two thousand people are employed at the Volkswagen works in Germany. This is the equivalent to the population of a fair - sized town.

The original works were planned about 20 years ago and the foundation stone laid on May 26 of 1938.

The story of the Volkswagen factory is the success story of a car, the most significant creation of the imaginative inventor and constructor, Professor Ferdinand Porsche. The fundamental constructional idea of Porsche remains in the automobile, although there have been 176 amendments since 1947.

When Heinz Nordhoff took over the management of the factory in the beginning of January 1948, it was a mere heap of rubble. A third of the plant had been spared from the holocaust of the war, the remainder was in ruin. From the beginning of its operation to last year, the record reads for itself. Texans Can't Brag On Size To Alaskans

By SAUL PETT

NOME, Alaska (AP) — Sights and sounds of Alaska:

In Alaska, when you say you're going out, it doesn't mean out of the house or out of jail or out of hock. It means you're going to Seattle, to the main part of the United States.

Among Alaskans, "outside" traditionally has been the word for the rest of the country. It reflects the isloation of the long winters, the waiting for the weather to lift so that planes can fly, waiting for the ice to break up so that ships can sail.

Among Texas-type Alaskans impressed with their state's size and newness, the rest of the United States is called "The Little 48" or "The Old Country."

Joke from a Texas-type Alaskan about Texas-type Texans:

"If those Texans don't quiet down, Alaska will divide itself in two and make Texas the third largest state."

A sure sign of "cabin fever" in most of Alaska is hearing train whistles. There's only one railroad in the 49th state, connecting Anchorage and Fairbanks, the two largest cities.

If all the people who said they were coming came to Alaska, the new state would be more overcrowded than Japan in a decade and Juneau, the capital, would be bigger than New York in a year.

Mayors, Chambers of Commerce and newspapers receive thousands of letters a week from people saying they're on their way to grow with the new frontier. The Chamber of Commerce of Juneau, whose population is 7,500, receives 3,000 to 4,000 letters a week.

One man says he's coming up to start a nail factory. Another says he's a tennis pro. Still another is a golf course greenskeeper. All three thought they might have a big future in Juneau.

Juneau needs them like it needs imported ice cubes. The whole town hugs the sides of two steep mountains. There is little building going on in a town where a two-bedroom frame house goes for $30,000.

Alaskans may try to outbrag Texans but their heart isn't in it. The new state has economic problems. Its chief income is from the Army, Navy and Air Force. Ranking far behind are gold mining and salmon fishing. Both are way down.

Salvador, a nation in Central America, has several volcanic mountain ranges. Highest of these is Santa Ana, 8,300 feet high.

FOR VACATION DRIVERS

Gasoline Supplies Near Record Level

HOUSTON (AP) — The spring-summer heavy demand season for gasoline begins next week and the oil industry has a near record supply of motor fuel on hand.

The average vacationing motorist also will find gasoline prices a bit lower in most areas than a year ago. Downward adjustments resulting from 1958's over-supply problems still were under way in a few areas this week.

Some refiners believe the April-September high demand season is getting under way with excessive gasoline inventories.

Gasoline being held in storage normally reaches an annual peak at the end of March. A rapid drop that begins in April normally continues through September while refiners are concentrating on building adequate inventories of heating fuel for the approaching winter season.

Because of the over-supply situation, gasoline stocks in early January had been cut to 11 million barrels below year-earlier levels. A gradual increase, however, has boosted current storage to about 210 million barrels, compared to a record 216 million at the start of the 1958 vacation period.

Executives representing the nation's largest oil companies last week placed before the Texas Railroad Commission their annual estimates of adequate inventories for crude and petroleum products. The estimates of desired level for gasoline at the start of the spring-summer season ranged from 160 to 200 million barrels. Some executives thought the current level of about 210 million is on the high side.

The heaviest demand for gasoline falls in July and August but the two months have switched positions since 1949. August was the leader in 1949 when demand exceeded 3.5 billion gallons. July was the runnerup with a requirement in excess of 3.4 billion.

In 1957, however, July was the leader at 5.4 billion gallons, with August in second place at 5.3 billion.

February continued as the month with the weakest gasoline demand but the month's requirements have increased over 60 per cent in nine years. Gasoline consumption in February of 1949 was only 2.4 billion gallons compared with 3.9 billion in 1957.

Gasoline sales ranked this way in 1949: August, July, June, May, September, October, April, November, December, March, January, February.

The 1957 sales gave this lineup: July, August, May, June, October, April, September, December, November, March, January, February.

Sharp fluctuations in seasonal demand for gasoline illustrate the constant problems of transportation and refinery operation adjustments faced by refiners.

Some states require twice as much gasoline in vacation months as in winter months.

Wyoming, for instance, consumed over 200 million gallons in its 1957 peak month, July, but needed less than 9 million the previous February. California, the leading gasoline consuming state, required over 500 million gallons in July after its February requirements had approximated 398 million.

Florida's winter vacation season presents a special situation. Peak demand in 1957 in Florida came in December, when sales exceeded 153 million gallons. The year's low had come three months earlier with only 120 million in September.

FOR 1959

Edsel Changed In Four Ways

The 1959 Edsel is being hailed as the "Car That Makes History By Making Sense."

For this year, the Edsel has been changed in price, models, size and engines.

The local dealer is Steele Motors Inc.

These four changes have one purpose, to bring the Edsel in tune with the times and give the public a car that is sensible without sacrificing passenger space and styling taste.

ENGINES

All but one of Edsel's four engines for 1959 operate on standard gasoline. The Edsel lineup also includes for the first time an Economy Six for those who want the maximum in gas saving.

Edsel transmissions will suit every taste. They include the versatile automatic Dual-Power Drive which tailors shifting to the driver's taste; a new, low-cost two-speed Mile-O-Matic and a rugged three-speed synchromesh manual transmission.

The 1959 models have the "Edsel look," but they have completely new bodies. The Edsel grille is instantly recognizable, but has been adapted to the compact styling theme of the car. Dual headlights have been lowered and are an integral part of the grille. The vertical airscoop retains its outline but has been restyled by liberal use of bright metal to harmonize with the horizontal sweep of the car.

Interior dimensions, wheelbase, all stamped body parts, and the entire lineup of models has been changed. For 1959, Edsel has a complete line of cars in three series.

SERIES

Edsel's Ranger series includes a two-door and a four - door sedan, and a two-door and a four-door hardtop. Corsairs will be available in four - door sedans, two-door and four-door hardtops and convertibles. In addition, there are two Villager station wagons — six passenger and nine passenger four - door models.

Edsel is loaded with common sense features for 1959.

Its new Mile-O-Matic transmission trims 50 pounds by liberal use of aluminum, thus improves mileage, and engines using standard gasoline cost less to run per gallon.

ROOF

In addition, a flatter roof and new rear door contours permit much easier entrance and exit from the back seat.

Trunk space is a full six feet wide and the spare tire is moved forward allowing clear stowage area.

Items which were extra cost on Edsel last year are standard for 1959. They include wall to wall carpeting, electric clock, dry type air cleaner, oil filter and power booster windshield wipers. Edsel retains contour seats on Corsair models and has self-adjusting brakes on all models at no extra cost.

Rear seat construction, with generous padding, protects the middle passenger there from "riding the hump" and feeling the bumps.

WIRING

All of Edsel's wiring connections are of the plug-in type, reducing short circuit hazards. Wiring goes through the engine fire wall by means of an exclusive plug-in junction box. All fuses are on a clearly marked board which is located within easy reach of the driver.

Edsel's Economy Six is the most modern in the industry with short - stroke pistons, overhead valves, and improved carburetion for the maximum economy.

A full line of accessories is available on the 1959 including two heaters, two radios, heater-defroster-air conditioing unit, separate air conditioner, power brakes, power steering, power seats and power windows, tinted glass, rear bumper spare tire kit, and many others.

Unique for Edsel is the Dial-Temp control for heater or air conditioner. One knob on the instrument panel controls heat, fresh air, defrosting, and cooled air. Operation of the unit is controlled by vacuum motors.

LINCOLN WITHOUT A BEARD

SURVIVES 'SACKS'

Petticoat No Longer Passe

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The sack took the starch out of petticoat sales. The shirtwaist has put it back.

If anyone is happier than the wolves to see women return to shape, especially to fitted waists and billowy skirts, it is the manufacturers of what the trade calls the "bouffants." Petticoat fever even has spread behind the Iron Curtain.

"The bouffants are having a tremendous revival," said Samuel Feldman, president of the Lingerie Manufacturers Assn., Inc., "because of the end of the chemise and the general return to shape."

A good many of those springtime smiles from petticoat makers are engendered by revival of one fashion classic—the shirtwaist. A shirtwaist looks fine without a petticoat, but it takes on an extra something when there is a starchy underlayer.

Feldman, who is head of Fantasy Lingerie, doubted that maker would sell as many petticoats this year as they did in the peak year, 1956, because "it takes a little while for new styles to get spread."

"But wait till next year," he said happily.

Petticoats have been part of fashion cycles for centuries. They had all but disappeared, except for small girl clothes, until 1951 when a designer named Ann Fogarty began making shirtwaisters numerous variations and all with layers of petticoats. Some of the skirts were puffed out with as many as six.

The fad spread and petticoats sold by the millions. Closet space was at a premium, as all ages began to billow. Teenagers collected them by the dozens. "We also sold them to women in their 70's," said Philip Scall, president of the Bouffant Shoppe, New York which features nothing else.

Chemise Takes Over

Feldman estimated that in the peak period, 35 per cent of all "day wear lingerie" sold was bouffant. Then in 1957 the sack, the chemise and soft skirts took over in fashion. Sales wilted like a rose petal in a desert.

Manufacturers kept in business because they also made other lingerie. There still was a petticoat market in children's wear, for bridal gowns and the full-skirted cocktail dress, which never went out of style.

Today's petticoats come with fewer ruffles and crispness than the earlier crop, Feldman said. Manufacturers use less horse-hair and there are fewer taffetas. Leading materials are the nylon sheers with some starch added for rustle; nylon tricots over marquisette or net, fine, nylon tulle; nylon chiffons and silk organdies.

Scall said that petticoats apparently are beloved in Russia too. Anyway, he said, the dancers of both the Moiseyev and Beryozka companies were customers during their New York appearances.

"We had 15 or 16 of the Beryozka girls in here," said Scall. "We sold them over 150 petticoats . . . for themselves and to take home as gifts, I guess."

Today's petticoats come with fewer ruffles and crispness than the earlier crop, Feldman said. Manufacturers use less horse-hair and there are fewer taffetas. Leading materials are the nylon sheers with some starch added for rustle; nylon tricots over marquisette or net, fine, nylon tulle; nylon chiffons and silk organdies.

Scall said that petticoats apparently are beloved in Russia too. Anyway, he said, the dancers of both the Moiseyev and Beryozka companies were customers during their New York appearances.

"We had 15 or 16 of the Beryozka girls in here," said Scall. "We sold them over 150 petticoats . . . for themselves and to take home as gifts, I guess."

ANNIVERSARY MODEL

New Planning In '59 Mercury

Space-planned bodies which provide a totally new experience in passenger comfort in both front and back seats feature the dynamically styled Mercury for 1959. Monroe's Mercury dealer is Steele Motors, Inc.

These completely new cars — Mercury's 20th anniversary models — offer a rare combination of interior spaciousness, engineering excellence, advanced design and superior performance and economy.

The instrument panel is moved well forward, providing six inches more knee-room and ten inches more distance from the front seat back. The volume of space taken up by the transmission tunnel hump down the center is cut almost in half.

Visibility is improved both by lowering the hood 2½ inches and by the big, compound curved windshield which is more than 60 per cent larger than previous models.

Front seat entrance is improved by redesigning the windshield post, which provides 2½ inches more knee clearance and by making the front doors up to four inches wider.

INTRODUCING

Mercury is introducing windshield wipers which operate in tandem, both blades going in the same directional sweep at the same time, thus giving full-width cleaning with no center blind spot. Blades are longer and clean 43 per cent more area than previous wipers, and they clean the center portion of the windshield, for the first time on American-made cars. Wipers operate electrically.

For maximum economy, Mercury's engines include a 312-cubic inch displacement V-8 with two-barrel carburetor in the Monterey series.

Mercury's high compression, overhead valve V-8 engines are mated in power teams to give lively response and smooth, economical performance throughout the entire driving range.

Refinements to the whole series of 383 cubic inch and 430 cubic inch displacement Maruader engines are designed to continue to give the performance expected of Mercury.

Mercury's 312 cubic inch engine with two-barrel carburetor in the Monterey series saves on initial cost and operates on regular grade gasoline. Mercury also offers a 383 cubic inch engine with two-barrel carburetor. Horsepower ranges from 235 in the 312-inch engine to 345 in the 430-inch engine.

Mufflers made of aluminized steel that double muffler life, and tailpipes made with steel 25 per cent thicker are standard on all 1959 models.

AVAILABLE

Two improved automatic transmissions are available, the Merc-O-Matic single range with five-position selector lever, and the Multi-Drive Merc-O-Matic dual range with six-position selector lever. Conventional transmission is standard on Monterey and Commuter models.

Big, self-adjusting brakes have large, full-circle ribbed cooling areas and superior fade and recovery characteristics and are standard on all models.

'Palace Pubs' Pay No License

LONDON (UPI) — Once each year London's five most privileged pub owners present themselves — as their predecessors have done for centuries — at Buckingham Palace, there to receive free, their annual liquor licenses.

Other pub owners in Britain pay for their licenses, but these five are the "Palace Publicans," whose places "verge on the Palace," and they appear at Buckingham by command of the Board of the Green Cloth.

"Don't ask me the origin of the board's name," said Edgar George Hoiles, owner of the Silver Cross, oldest of the "Palace Pubs," as he sipped his eleven o'clock glass of hock.

"The most popular theory is that the board originally consisted of the palace caterers meeting around a table that was covered with green cloth."

However that may be, the board started operations from Whitehall Palace back in the days of King Charles I. In those days, it had the power to punish by death any subject of the king who ran counter to palace orders.

Today, the board, administered by the keeper of the queen's household, remains a power — at least as far as the five pub owners, who operate within walking distance of Buckingham Palace, are concerned.

Local police and health inspectors annually report to the bench of the "Board of Green Cloth" on the condition and behavior of the five privileged pubs: The Silver Cross, The Ship, The Shade, Clarance and Whitehall Court.

"Palace pub owners have no power of argument before the board," said Hoiles, stroking his moustache. "But we'd' rather close down than not lease the board. You know we're very jealous of our visit to the palace. It lets us see the inside."

Hoiles said he thinks the Silver Cross is the oldest public house in the country. The other palace pubs, he said, "all were built after Whitehall Palace was burned down in 1698," while the Silver Cross traces back to 1253, when it was known as The Hermitage of St. Catherine and was practically next door to the palace of Charles I.

Charles decided to make The Hermitage a paying proposition by letting the building to Sir William Wade, who paid the king for the privilege of running it, Hoiles said.

Wade built his family crest, a silver cross, into the masonry above the front door and made the inn into a gaming house and bordello for the dandies at court.

"It was because King Charles was financially hard up that the Silver Cross was turned into a gaming house," Hoiles said.

He noted that after the king was executed, the Silver Cross continued to do excellent business during the reign of Charles II, under a new owner, Sir Joseph Craig.

Craig was a noted builder who had the foresight to construct the home of Nell Gwyn, favorite mistress of Charles II, less than a stone's throw from the pub.

Boat Capsizes, Man On Hunting Outing Drowns

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Roy N. Jackson, 35, of Houghton, electrician at the Air Force base in Bossier, drowned Stturday when a boat carrying four hunters and their dogs capsized on Bodcau Bayou about 20 miles east of Shreveport.

Deputies said the boat overturned when the dogs rushed toward the front as the boat approached a bank. Jackson's companion swam to safety of the bank, about 10 feet away.

Jackson sank quickly, deputies said, because he was laden with hunting equipment and clothes. Besides several items of heavy clothing, he was wearing a belt that had an ax, saw, knife and pistol attached.

Ray Milland Prepares For New Series

NEW YORK (UPI)—"If I were making this alone, it would be the most successful Tv series ever," said Academy Award winner Ray Milland, whose sophisticated detective-adventure series, "Markham," begins on CBS-TV Saturday, May 2.

"I have the network, the agency and the sponsor on the scene, so a lot of my ideas are out," the handsome, outspoken English actor explained. Seems Ray's ratting-rocketing ideas involve the liberal use of females.

As Roy Markham, an urbane, cultured, globe-trotting investigator, Milland will encounter some dillies. "But there'll be no necking. I'm just allowed to look at the girl, mumble a few words, think things, and then I've got to go about my work. If I have a sexpot on the show, I may have her wear bifocals. The bifocal-wearing sexpots are a most interesting kind," Milland noted, with the air of a man reminiscing.

"Anyhow," he said, quickly adjusting his thoughts back to the interview, "Markham will always be in there punching and if it doesn't work out with the girls, it won't be his fault.

"Really," Milland added, "We're not going to get too sexy. We're thinking of those re-runs. They usually come on in the early evening, when the kiddies are awake. you know."

What other distinguishing characteristics will enliven the adventures of Markham? "Well, the musical background is going to be very different," said Milland, who was named Reginald Truscott-Jones at birth 51 years ago in Neath, Wales. "All our music will be recognizable. None of that far-out jazz. I think music backgrounds are overdone in movies and TV, and it's especially nauseating where they smother you with 55 violins. We'll play melodies that have been heard before."

Another difference: Markham will operate in dinner clothes once in awhile and, of course, he'll be seen in the best places as he seeks to recover stolen gems, art treasures and fortunes. That's why Milland was in New York for a week recently — to film about 80 exterior shots. The shots will be integrated into stories filmed in Hollywood and they'll show Milland, or Markham, entering "21" walking along Fifth Avenue, window-shopping at Cartier's, lobby-lounging at the Plaza.

New York City isn't Milland's cup of tea. "Everything is so dingy and grimy once you're off Fifth Avenue. And even on Fifth Avenue, you daren't look up because you'll get a cinder in your eye. They told us, before we left Hollywood, to film exteriors of the glamorous New York restaurants. I told them they're all small hole-in-the-wall entrances. There's nothing glamorous about a hole in the wall. Give me Rome.

Colors Seen As Cure For 'Kitchenitis'

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Have you got a good case of the kitchen blues?

Reach for a decorating book. It may be that you aren't bored being family chef and chief bottle washer, your doldrums may be due to "kitchinitis," an old-fashioned conditon curable by a large dose of spring tonic containing one or more of the following: paint, wallpaper, tiles, new cultinary tools or other kitchen equipment.

The kitchen often is neglected because it is not part of the grand tour when guests are being paraded through the house. But the average homemaker spends the best part of her working day in that quarter so it should be revitalized, if needed, to spare her the miseries of domesticity.

Kitchens should be bright and cheery. Walls may be painted turquoise, aqua, pale green, blue, cooler colors that are easier to live with than hot yellows, brilliant oranges, deep pinks and reds. Warm shades of yellow and red are likely to increase the feeling that cooking in the kitchen is a fireman's job.

Look at the cabinets. Do they need painting, too? If the kitchen is small, cabinets should be painted the same color as the walls to give the illusion of more space. If the kitchen is large, cabinets can be painted almost any color. Some homemakers prefer a lighter tint of the color of the wall or a contrasting shade of ivory, beige, sand, pale yellow or a light, soft gray. Semi-gloss or gloss enamel is considered best for kitchens as it may be washed easily and will not show fingermarks.

There are many ways you can perk up your kitchen. Large oversized prints of fruit or vegetables can lend a lift to walls. One small wall may be devoted to wallpaper or colored food pictures and menus posted at odd angles. Or put wallboard up on a wall, paint it and hang from it copper-bottom pots, French aluminum or ceramic cooking ware on hooks.

A string of red onions, a bunch of herbs and a string of dried mushrooms are decorative assets to wallboard. It's the place, too, for your clock, wire salad basket, bread basket, calendar, and bracket for paper towels and other wrapping.

Engineer Group Makes Plans For Annual Meeting

Ray Milland Prepares For New Series

NEW YORK (UPI)—"If I were making this alone, it would be the most successful Tv series ever," said Academy Award winner Ray Milland, whose sophisticated detective-adventure series, "Markham," begins on CBS-TV Saturday, May 2.

"I have the network, the agency and the sponsor on the scene, so a lot of my ideas are out," the handsome, outspoken English actor explained. Seems Ray's ratting-rocketing ideas involve the liberal use of females.

The shots will be integrated into stories filmed in Hollywood and they'll show Milland, or Markham, entering "21" walking along Fifth Avenue, window-shopping at Cartier's, lobby-lounging at the Plaza.

New York City isn't Milland's cup of tea. "Everything is so dingy and grimy once you're off Fifth Avenue. And even on Fifth Avenue, you daren't look up because you'll get a cinder in your eye. They told us, before we left Hollywood, to film exteriors of the glamorous New York restaurants. I told them they're all small hole-in-the-wall entrances. There's nothing glamorous about a hole in the wall. Give me Rome.

Colors Seen As Cure For 'Kitchenitis'

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Have you got a good case of the kitchen blues?

Reach for a decorating book. It may be that you aren't bored being family chef and chief bottle washer, your doldrums may be due to "kitchinitis," an old-fashioned conditon curable by a large dose of spring tonic containing one or more of the following: paint, wallpaper, tiles, new cultinary tools or other kitchen equipment.

The kitchen often is neglected because it is not part of the grand tour when guests are being paraded through the house. But the average homemaker spends the best part of her working day in that quarter so it should be revitalized, if needed, to spare her the miseries of domesticity.

Kitchens should be bright and cheery. Walls may be painted turquoise, aqua, pale green, blue, cooler colors that are easier to live with than hot yellows, brilliant oranges, deep pinks and reds. Warm shades of yellow and red are likely to increase the feeling that cooking in the kitchen is a fireman's job.

Look at the cabinets. Do they need painting, too? If the kitchen is small, cabinets should be painted the same color as the walls to give the illusion of more space. If the kitchen is large, cabinets can be painted almost any color. Some homemakers prefer a lighter tint of the color of the wall or a contrasting shade of ivory, beige, sand, pale yellow or a light, soft gray. Semi-gloss or gloss enamel is considered best for kitchens as it may be washed easily and will not show fingermarks.

There are many ways you can perk up your kitchen. Large oversized prints of fruit or vegetables can lend a lift to walls. One small wall may be devoted to wallpaper or colored food pictures and menus posted at odd angles. Or put wallboard up on a wall, paint it and hang from it copper-bottom pots, French aluminum or ceramic cooking ware on hooks.

A string of red onions, a bunch of herbs and a string of dried mushrooms are decorative assets to wallboard. It's the place, too, for your clock, wire salad basket, bread basket, calendar, and bracket for paper towels and other wrapping.

Engineer Group Makes Plans For Annual Meeting

The Monroe section of the Louisiana Engineering Society will meet Tuesday at 6:30 p.m., for its annual shrimp and oyster supper in the mechanical engineering laboratory at Bogard Hall on the campus of Louisiana Tech in Ruston.

Dean Burton R. Risinger of the school of business administration at Tech, will address the group on the subject of "Economic Impact of Interstate Highway 20."

Guests are invited and members are urged to make reservations for the meeting as soon as possible.

2 Small Towns Become One In So. Minnesota

TRIMONT, Minn. (UPI) — This town of 876 residents in southern Minnesota was recently created out of a merger of two communities that had been sitting side-by-side for 56 years.

The two were Triumph (pop. 561) and Monterey (pop. 315). Only a few months ago, the voters of both places overwhelmingly approved getting together. The name of the new locality was created out of the first three letters of the names of the two old towns.

"I don't think we'll have much trouble in adapting to the new situation," said Anton Meidle, who was mayor of Monterey and is now mayor of Trimont. "As it was, there wasn't too much overlap in our two towns."

Children from both had been attending the same school, and residents had been using the same municipal liquor store.

One newspaper, the Triumph-Monterey Progress, had been serving both towns and only the first part of the paper's name had to be changed.

But the merger automatically repealed most of the ordinances that had been governing each village. A new set of laws is being drafted.

NO COMPROMISE

New Oldsmobile Safety Conscious

There can be no compromise where safety is concerned and Oldsmobile, through the years, has proven this by pioneering many advancements that have become major contributions to driving safety, according to H. N. Metzel, chief engineer for the Oldsmobile Division.

"Naturally, there are times when we feel that we have made greater strides than ever in this direction. We believe that 1959 is such a year." Van-Trow Olds Cadillac Co. is the local dealer.

Among the host of advanced safety contributions included in the 1959 Oldsmobile models are the new "Roto-Matic" power steering unit; new larger "Air - Scoop" brakes at all four wheels; the "Safety - Spectrum" speedometer; enlarged glass area for greater visibility and heavier "Guard-Beam" frame.

"Steering not only is made easier by the new 'Roto-Matic' unit," Metzel said, "but it also gives the driver more precise control and a greater feel of the road at all times."

The new, larger "Air - Scoop" brakes, which appear at all four wheels, improve brake cooling so extensively that even under the most severe driving conditions, brake fade is greatly reduced.

"This assures safer, surer stops under the most difficult driving conditions. Braking effectiveness is maintained even in mountainous terrain," he said.

LOWER

Metzel added that the lower operating temperature, made possible by a unique brake drum design which literally scoops air into the brake drums, also reduces brake lining wear.

Another advanced safety feature is the new "Safety-Spectrum" speedometer which relies on a band of varying colors to aid in maintaining safe operating speeds. Speed is indicated by the moving color band which is green from 0-35 m.p.h., orange from 35 - 65 m.p.h. and red above 65 m.p.h.

"This speedometer, combined with our 'Safety Sentinel', makes the driver speed conscious at all times," Metzel said. The "Safety Sentinel" triggers a buzzer and flashing orange light when the speed exceeds a predetermined setting.

In addition, total glass area in all 1959 Oldsmobile models has been increased up to 36 per cent to give increased visibility in all directions.

The "Panoramic" windshield alone has up to 570 square inches more of glass area and contours deep into the roofline to offer a better view of overhanging traffic signals.

"Couple the greater windshield area with our new wider - arc, electric windshield wipers, and driving in inclement weather becomes far less fatiguing," Metzel said.

Also adding to greater driving safety and comfort is Oldsmobile's new, larger "Guard - Beam" frame which is the strongest, most stable Oldsmobile has ever built.

"Our carry-over safety features include standard and optional items such as the padded instrument panel; "Safety - Vee" steering wheel; "Safety - Plate" glass throughout and many others," Metzel said.

Appeal Of Labor Leader Turned Down By Court

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals Friday dismissed the appeal of Lee Brown, former local labor leader convicted of falsely swearing about his Communist connections.

The court ruled that Brown's time to file the record in the case expired Nov. 19, 1958. Earlier, Brown was granted eight time extensions. He has 21 days to ask a rehearing.

A U. S. District Court jury convicted Brown March 27, 1958 and he was sentenced to three years in prison by Judge J. Skelly Wright.

Brown, former vice president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union branch here, was accused in connection with an affidavit filed with the National Labor Relations Board.

300 TUDOR SEDAN — Ford's custom 300 tudor sedan is equipped as most people buy cars—with radio, heater, automatic transmission and oil filter. This model is the same length as the Fairlane 500 and the Galaxie series.

1959 CONCEPT

Elegance, Dignity Mark New Fords

The new concept of the 1950 Ford is a result of consumer demand for more elegance and dignity in automotive styling as opposed to gaudiness or extremism.

Ford engines have been built for greater fuel economy, and a new, lighter Fordomatic transmission has 105 fewer parts than in 1958.

The 1959 Ford is "quality-designed," a term Ford engineers use to define the emphasis placed on quality in the basic design of the car, starting from the drawing board stage.

The local dealer is Brown-Rivers-Scogin.

Ford engines this year offer greater operating economy and improved engine performance in the normal driving ranges, 30 to 70 m.p.h. Ford recommends regular grade gasoline in all standard engines, which can result in a saving of up to one dollar a tank full. These benefits have been achieved in part by a slight horsepower reduction.

21 MODELS

The 1959 Ford line includes 21 models ranging from the Custom 300's, which are six inches longer than in 1958, through the six station wagon models, to the recently-announced Galaxie series.

Station wagon length has been increased more than five inches; cargo area is eight inches longer, and cargo space is 11 cubic feet more than in last year's models. All 1959 Fords are on a 118-inch wheelbase and have an over-all length of 208 inches.

A new version of the Fordomatic transmission, a two-speed automatic transmission, has eliminated the need for 105 parts, which, with the use of aluminum for the transmission case and bell housing, has reduced the total Fordomatic transmission weight by 50 pounds, or 22.8 per cent.

Ford's four modern engines combine efficiency, durability and economy with the added customer savings resulting from quick and easy servicing. The full-flow oil filter, standard equipment on all 1959 engines, permits Ford to recommend an oil change only every 4,000 miles, resulting in further savings to the customer.

In addition to the new Fordomatic and Ford's proven three-speed syncromesh manual transmission, Ford offers an improved version of the dual-range Cruise-O-Matic, combining overdrive economy with automatic transmission convenience.

A new, Ford-designed Equa-Lock differential, providing positive traction when driving under conditions of poor footing, such as ice, snow or mud, is available as optional equipment.

A new foot-operated parking brake, affording more convenience and knee room for the driver, is released with an easy-to-operate tip-down handle.

Ford engineers have improved the riding qualities for the 1959 Ford with a new, link-type, rubber-bushed ride stabilizer to reduce road shock, and recalibrated shock absorbers for a smoother, easier ride.

The 1959 Ford with new Diamond Lustre finish, a super-enamel that doesn't require waxing, is available in a wide selection of solid and two-tone exterior colors, color-keyed to match the interior upholstery.

The safety concept of "packaging the passenger" against injury includes as standard features the extra-rugged, five cross-member frames with wide-flared side rails, safety door locks and the Lifeguard steering wheel.

Safety seat belts, padded instrument panel and padded sun visor are available as optional equipment and laminated safety glass is used in the windshield and side windows.

Window Boxes For Begonias Recommended

According to the Belgian Begonia Growers Association, it is much easier to grow tuberous begonias in window boxes than in pots. This is the way they do it in Belguim:

The boxes can be made from wood, asbestos, zinc or similar materials. They should be from 7 to 8 inches in width and height, with a length according to the size of the window sill. The boxes are painted dark gray, dark brown or in a color matching with that of the walls.

As in pot culture, young plants can be planted at once in the boxes, if one can use a room in which to keep the plants in good condition until they can be brought outside. However, if the boxes cannot be placed outside before the end of May, the young plants cannot remain in small pots or flats where they have been started. Therefore, during the second half of April they should be transplanted at a distance of 4 - 5 inches in larger flats or under cold frames. Here is how this transplanting must be done in either case.

The metal or asbestos boxes, whose bottoms are provided with holes, are drained with coarse ashes as in the case of pots. For wooden boxes, this is not necessary. The boxes are then filled with the mixture and the young plants planted one foot apart.

WRONG NUMBER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Giovanni Perona, an atomic scientist from Italy, was accused of turning in a false alarm, but the case was dismissed when Perona explained he merely wanted to make a telephone call. Italian street phones, it seems, look remarkably like New York City fire boxes.

Studebaker Lark Embodies Quality

The Lark by Studebaker is a new concept in an automobile designed to meet today's driving needs.

At the 1959 model preview, Harold E. Churchill, Studebaker-Packard Corp. president, said the Lark is the car "the American public wants and has asked for. The name was decided upon after considerable research and discussion. But it was an inspiration! It embodies the high quality, the bright spirit, the liveliness of this remarkable car."

The Lark offers answers to the disadvantages of over-sized over-elaborate cars and the inadequacies of small foreign cars. It has reduced exterior size while maintaining "big car" interior roominess. It offers the conveniences of automatic transmissions and other power assists.

Nearly three feet shorter than the average American car, Studebaker has eliminated many pounds of useless weight. Yet the Lark not only carries six adults comfortably, but provides a surprising 16.5 cubic feet of trunk space.

As a result, over-all maneuverability is improved, turning diameter has been reduced, and the car can be parked with ease.

Studebaker and Packard of Monroe is the Twin Cities Agency.

The Lark rides smoothly over its 108½ inch wheelbase on a load-leveling suspension system specially designed by Studebaker engineers.

Increased stability with reduced body roll on curves contributes further to the greater comfort and safety of the Lark. This results both from the improved suspension system and a wider tread.

A redesigned ladder-type frame provides greater torsional and beam strength. This, coupled with stronger body construction, means greater structural rigidity.

To substantially reduce replacement costs, the Lark features removable fender panels and interchangeable front and rear bumpers.

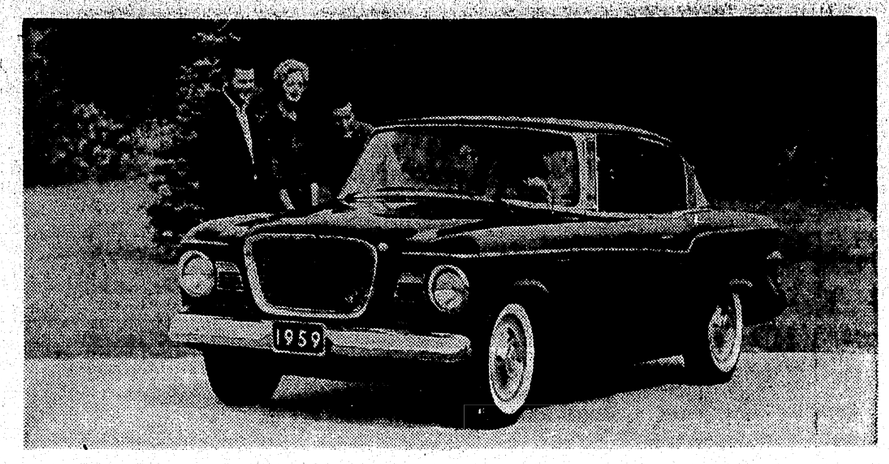
Improved heat distribution and faster defrosting results from Studebaker's new under-dash Climatizer unit. The front seat has been designed to permit heat to flow unobstructed under the seat to the rear-seat passengers.

All 1959 Studebakers feature large, self-centering, self-energizing brakes; full-pressure engine lubrication; a heavy-duty crankshaft; exclusive "heat dam" pistons and an automatic choke.

Studebaker's economy of operation is even further improved by more efficient engines-a new, 169.6 cubic inch, L-head six, and an improved, short-stroke, 259.2 cubic inch V-8.

The new six has an improved combustion chamber design with a shorter stroke, plus a higher 8.3 to 1 compression ratio and new carburetion. The result is maximum economy and durability, combined with smooth, lively performance.

More efficient two-barrel carburetion and a higher 8.8 to 1 compression ratio enhance the overall performance and economy of the improved V-8 power plant. For those desiring more power, dual exhausts and four-barrel carburetors are available optionally on V-8 models.



POPULAR NEW ROAD BEAUTY — Studebaker's new 1959 Lark two-door sedan is shown above in the model which is offered only with a six-cylinder engine and the deluxe model trim. The 169.6 cubic inch L-head engine develops 90 horse power at 4,000 rpm, and has an improved 8.3 to 1 compression ratio with newly designed carburetion. This results in more power on less fuel, plus durability and smooth, lively performance.

Japan Creates 2,750-Acre Lake By Sealing Sea

OKAYAMA, Japan (UPI)—Japan has taken a page out of Hollands book and created a 2,750-acre lake by sealing off the sea in southern Honshu.

Officials claim the man-made fresh-water lake is next to the world's largest, second in size only to Lake Ijssel on the North Sea in the Netherlands.

Nine years of labor and two billion yen ($5.5 billon) went into construction of the new lake which is situated along the coast of Kojima in Okayama Prefecture on the Inland Sea and which will be used to irrigate nearby farmlands.

First a causeway 5,084 feet long and 98 feet wide was built to shut out the sea. Next, the area was drained off. Then, the basin was filled with fresh water from a river that once emptied into Kojima Bay but which was diverted for this purpose.

1959 CONCEPT

Elegance, Dignity Mark New Fords

The new concept of the 1959 Ford is a result of consumer demand for more elegance and dignity in automotive styling as opposed to gaudiness or extremism.

Ford engines have been built for greater fuel economy, and a new, lighter Fordomatic transmission has 105 fewer parts than in 1958.

The 1959 Ford is "quality-designed," a term Ford engineers use to define the emphasis placed on quality in the basic design of the car, starting from the drawing board stage.

The local dealer is Brown-Rivers-Scogin.

Ford engines this year offer greater operating economy and improved engine performance in the normal driving ranges, 30 to 70 m.p.h. Ford recommends regular grade gasoline in all standard engines, which can result in a saving of up to one dollar a tank full. These benefits have been achieved in part by a slight horsepower reduction.

21 MODELS

The 1959 Ford line includes 21 models ranging from the Custom 300's, which are six inches longer than in 1958, through the six station wagon models, to the recently-announced Galaxie series.

Station wagon length has been increased more than five inches; cargo area is eight inches longer, and cargo space is 11 cubic feet more than in last year's models. All 1959 Fords are on a 118-inch wheelbase and have an over-all length of 208 inches.

A new version of the Fordomatic transmission, a two-speed automatic transmission, has eliminated the need for 105 parts, which, with the use of aluminum for the transmission case and bell housing, has reduced the total Fordomatic transmission weight by 50 pounds, or 22.8 per cent.

Ford's four modern engines combine efficiency, durability and economy with the added customer savings resulting from quick and easy servicing. The full-flow oil filter, standard equipment on all 1959 engines, permits Ford to recommend an oil change only every 4,000 miles, resulting in further savings to the customer.

In addition to the new Fordomatic and Ford's proven three-speed syncromesh manual transmission, Ford offers an improved version of the dual-range Cruise-O-Matic, combining overdrive economy with automatic transmission convenience.

A new, Ford-designed Equa-Lock differential, providing positive traction when driving under conditions of poor footing, such as ice, snow or mud, is available as optional equipment.

A new foot-operated parking brake, affording more convenience and knee room for the driver, is released with an easy-to-operate tip-down handle.

Ford engineers have improved the riding qualities for the 1959 Ford with a new, link-type, rubber-bushed ride stabilizer to reduce road shock, and recalibrated shock absorbers for a smoother, easier ride.

The 1959 Ford with new Diamond Lustre finish, a super-enamel that doesn't require waxing, is available in a wide selection of solid and two-tone exterior colors, color-keyed to match the interior upholstery.

The safety concept of "packaging the passenger" against injury includes as standard features the extra-rugged, five cross-member frames with wide-flared side rails, safety door locks and the Lifeguard steering wheel.

Safety seat belts, padded instrument panel and padded sun visor are available as optional equipment and laminated safety glass is used in the windshield and side windows.

Window Boxes For Begonias Recommended

According to the Belgian Begonia Growers Association, it is much easier to grow tuberous begonias in window boxes than in pots. This is the way they do it in Belguim:

The boxes can be made from wood, asbestos, zinc or similar materials. They should be from 7 to 8 inches in width and height, with a length according to the size of the window sill. The boxes are painted dark gray, dark brown or in a color matching with that of the walls.

As in pot culture, young plants can be planted at once in the boxes, if one can use a room in which to keep the plants in good condition until they can be brought outside. However, if the boxes cannot be placed outside before the end of May, the young plants cannot remain in small pots or flats where they have been started. Therefore, during the second half of April they should be transplanted at a distance of 4 - 5 inches in larger flats or under cold frames. Here is how this transplanting must be done in either case.

The metal or asbestos boxes, whose bottoms are provided with holes, are drained with coarse ashes as in the case of pots. For wooden boxes, this is not necessary. The boxes are then filled with the mixture and the young plants planted one foot apart.

WRONG NUMBER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dr. Giovanni Perona, an atomic scientist from Italy, was accused of turning in a false alarm, but the case was dismissed when Perona explained he merely wanted to make a telephone call. Italian street phones, it seems, look remarkably like New York City fire boxes.

Studebaker Lark Embodies Quality

The Lark by Studebaker is a new concept in an automobile designed to meet today's driving needs.

At the 1959 model preview, Harold E. Churchill, Studebaker-Packard Corp. president, said the Lark is the car "the American public wants and has asked for. The name was decided upon after considerable research and discussion. But it was an inspiration! It embodies the high quality, the bright spirit, the liveliness of this remarkable car."

The Lark offers answers to the disadvantages of over-sized over-elaborate cars and the inadequacies of small foreign cars. It has reduced exterior size while maintaining "big car" interior roominess. It offers the conveniences of automatic transmissions and other power assists.

Nearly three feet shorter than the average American car, Studebaker has eliminated many pounds of useless weight. Yet the Lark not only carries six adults comfortably, but provides a surprising 16.5 cubic feet of trunk space.

As a result, over-all maneuverability is improved, turning diameter has been reduced, and the car can be parked with ease.

Studebaker and Packard of Monroe is the Twin Cities Agency.

The Lark rides smoothly over its 108½ inch wheelbase on a load-leveling suspension system specially designed by Studebaker engineers.

Increased stability with reduced body roll on curves contributes further to the greater comfort and safety of the Lark. This results both from the improved suspension system and a wider tread.

A redesigned ladder-type frame provides greater torsional and beam strength. This, coupled with stronger body construction, means greater structural rigidity.

To substantially reduce replacement costs, the Lark features removable fender panels and interchangeable front and rear bumpers.

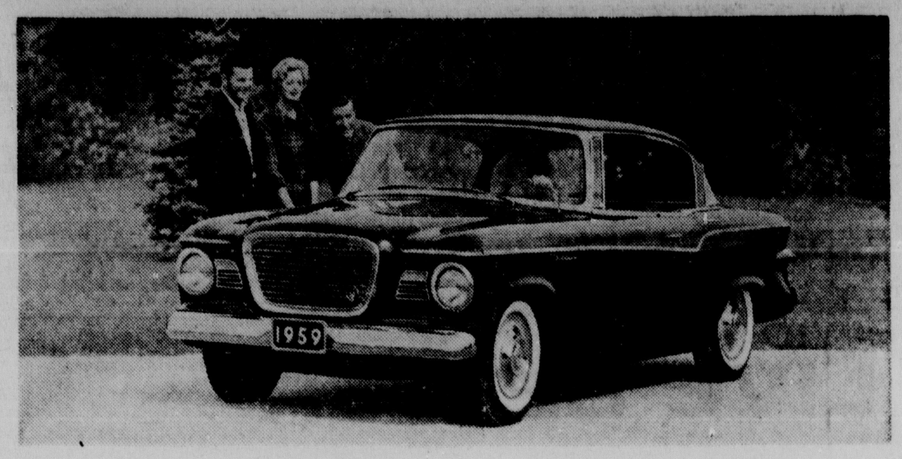
Improved heat distribution and faster defrosting results from Studebaker's new under-dash Climatizer unit. The front seat has been designed to permit heat to flow unobstructed under the seat to the rear-seat passengers.

All 1959 Studebakers feature large, self-centering, self-energizing brakes; full-pressure engine lubrication; a heavy-duty crankshaft; exclusive "heat dam" pistons and an automatic choke.

Studebaker's economy of operation is even further improved by more efficient engines-a new, 169.6 cubic inch, L-head six, and an improved, short-stroke, 259.2 cubic inch V-8.

The new six has an improved combustion chamber design with a shorter stroke, plus a higher 8.3 to 1 compression ratio and new carburetion. The result is maximum economy and durability, combined with smooth, lively performance.

More efficient two-barrel carburetion and a higher 8.8 to 1 compression ratio enhance the overall performance and economy of the improved V-8 power plant. For those desiring more power, dual exhausts and four-barrel carburetors are available optionally on V-8 models.



POPULAR NEW ROAD BEAUTY — Studebaker's new 1959 Lark two-door sedan is shown above in the model which is offered only with a six-cylinder engine and the deluxe model trim. The 169.6 cubic inch L-head engine develops 90 horse power at 4,000 rpm, and has an improved 8.3 to 1 compression ratio with newly designed carburetion. This results in more power on less fuel, plus durability and smooth, lively performance.

Japan Creates 2,750-Acre Lake By Sealing Sea

OKAYAMA, Japan (UPI)—Japan has taken a page out of Hollands book and created a 2,750-acre lake by sealing off the sea in southern Honshu.

Officials claim the man-made fresh-water lake is next to the world's largest, second in size only to Lake Ijssel on the North Sea in the Netherlands.

Nine years of labor and two billion yen ($5.5 billon) went into construction of the new lake which is situated along the coast of Kojima in Okayama Prefecture on the Inland Sea and which will be used to irrigate nearby farmlands.

First a causeway 5,084 feet long and 98 feet wide was built to shut out the sea. Next, the area was drained off. Then, the basin was filled with fresh water from a river that once emptied into Kojima Bay but which was diverted for this purpose.

A NEW MONTMARTE' body cloth of viscose-metallic-nylon Jacquard is available in five colors in the four-door Custom Coronet Sedan. The "Montmarte" fabric is combined with vinyl in the seat bolsters. Standard Coronet interiors use a new viscose Jacquard cloth called "Manchu" attractively patterned in a Far-Eastern motif on a background of polished satin weave.

ECONOMICAL

Driver's Dream Is 1959 Dodge

The 1959 Dodge is a driver's dream come true — comfortable, easy to operate, with conveniently located controls; high-styled and economical.

The Monroe Auto Mart Inc. at 310 Walnut features the luxurious new Dodge.

Swivel front seats lead the Dodge comfort parade. The deeply - padded custom seats swing out 40 degrees at the touch of a lever, providing relaxed entry and exit for driver and passenger.

Designed with women in mind, the seats enable the ladies to enter and alight from the car with greater ease and grace.

PUSH-BUTTON

Virtually all driver operations of the new Dodge cars are push-button or pull-button controlled. Instruments are grouped in a shrouded cluster highlighted by a bar-type safety speedometer which registers speed in warning colors as well as numerals.

Steering wheels are higher so the driver can get in and out of the car easier, and are flattened slightly on top to afford better road vision.

Dual taillights of the '59 Dodge autos are housed in tubular nacelles designed so the lenses show to the side of the car as well as to the rear. Cutback tail fins have softer, more flaring lines.

The exterior paint used on Dodge cars combines style and economy. The Lustre - Bond Hi-Baked enamel finish permits the blending of more Aluminum particles which results in a "look of depth". In addition the new paint requires far less frequent waxing and polishing, and may go for as long as two years with nothing more than washing.

Interiors of the 1959 Dodge cars are newly - designed and finished in smart combinations of vinyl and fabric.

GREATER ECONOMY

Four high - economy engines are offered on the various Dodge models. Coronets are equipped with either a 230-cubic inch L-head six - cylinder engine or a 326-cubic inch V-8 which can use economical gasoline.

A 361-cubic inch V-8 powers Royal and Custom Royal models. The top - power D-500 power plants are 383-cubic inch units with either one or two four-barrel carburetors.

Road - proven Torsionaire suspension has been improved. New cams permit easier front end adjustment, and longer tire life.

Dodge offers two electronic driver assists in 1959. One in a rear - view mirror that automatically deflects the glaring headlights of overtaking cars from the driver's eyes. The other is a headlight dimmer, the scanner of which "senses" the lights of oncoming vehicles and turns the car's headlights to low beam.

All Pontiac's Models Dazzling

Unmatched in beauty and unprecedented in fresh styling approach, the 1959 Pontiac debuts with 14 all-new, breath-taking body styles.

This new Pontiac is sold locally by Twin City Pontiac Co.

The exciting new line of automobiles, from the luxurious Bonnevilles to the lowest priced Catalina models, is lower and wider. Window area is up to 37 per cent greater, providing unsurpassed visibility for driving safety.

Imparting added appeal is the standardization of dazzling Magic Mirror acrylic lacquer finishes, 15 solid colors and 42 recommended two-tone combinations. The high gloss lacquer, introduced by Pontiac in 1956 and known as the most durable finish in the industry, is two to five times more weather resistant than other paints. The '59 Pontiac line will entice even the artist's eye with such colors as: Royal Amethyst, Gulfstream Blue, Shoreline Gold, Seaspray Green, Canyon Copper, Silvermist Gray, and Mandalay Red.

From every angle, clean, tasteful styling highlights the dynamic new cars. A 60 per cent greater area Vista-Panoramic windshield extending into the roof and a large wrap-around rear window, lend a spectacular effect of aircraft design. The startling new four-door Vista hardtop, available in all series, features a modernistic roof over-hang in the rear.

Dual head lamps mounted in twin grilles, wrap-around two-bar bumper, and a V-shaped hood design extending rearward from the grilles, are predominant features of the front view. The Pontiac or Bonneville name in gold script adorns the chromed rectangular grille work on the left side. Parking and signal lights are located between bumper bars at the outer edges. At the vertex of the V-shaped hood design is an attractive triangular, white plastic medallion trimmed in chrome and embellished by a centered gold star. Narrow, chromed fender ornaments of air-swept design deck the front fender tops.

A low silhouette, enhanced by a sweeping side moulding extending the entire length of the car, characterizes the side view on all three Pontiac series.

Bonneville models are distinguished by a crown emblem on the front door panel, four simulated vents on the rear fender, a chromed moulding outlining outlining both rear fender flight vanes and the Bonneville name in gold script in the top corner of each rear fender. New wheel discs, featuring 38 embossed streets slanting outward from a five-inch hub carrying the Pontiac Motor Division name in depressed black lettering, are standard on all Booneville and Star Chief models, and optional with the Catalina.

Four emblematic stars on the rear fender distinguish the side panel styling on the Star Chief series. The Star Chief name in chromed script is located in the upper corner of rear fenders and the outboard flight vanes are trimmed with chromed steel.

Catalina models, distinctive by simplicity of side styling, also carry the chromed script name plate and outboard rear fender flight vane chrome treatment.

Full width wrap-around rear bumpers, an expansive rear deck lid, oval shaped tail lamp ports, and elongated ornamentation, accentuate the low, wide rear silhouettes of the new Pontiac line.

Bonneville models (except Safari) feature extra width tail lamps with chromed moulding. The Pontiac name in individual chrome letters decorates a ribbed section between tail lights and the Bonneville name in gold script over a triangular plaque is centrally positioned on the deck lid. Circular backup lamp ports are smartly located on the rear of the twin flight vanes on all models.

MORE STUNNING THAN EVER—The 1959 Pontiac Star Chief four-door sedan exemplifies Pontiac's complete departure from conventional design. Two other models are offered in this series; a startling new four-door Vista hardtop and a two-door sport sedan. Each is distinguished by four emblematic stars along the rear quarter area, a chromed "Star Chief" name plate on the rear fenders, a special deck lid ornament, large, gleamnig wheel discs, and many other attractive features.

CREDIT UNIONS GROW

NEW YORK (UPI) — Credit unions are playing an increasingly important role in the consumer instalment credit field. They now hold eight per cent of total consumer instalment credit, 17 per cent of all personal loans and six per cent of all automobile loans, according to banking sources.

U. S. Envoys To Confer On Latin Affairs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Assistant Secretary of State Roy R. Rubottom Jr. will confer with U. S. ambassadors to Caribbean and Central American nations next week on the area's turbulent political and economic affairs.

The meeting, it was learned, will be held at San Salvador. It will include the ambassadors or top U. S. diplomats in Mexico, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Cuba, Dominican Republic and Haiti.

Word of the meeting came as Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) declared that interAmerican relations were "in a more critical stage today than they have been at any time in the past three decades."

Humphrey, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a speech at the University of Florida, "the nations to the south are in the midst of an epic social revolution."

He said the United States should look into a Marshall Plan type of program for the Americas.

Gatherings similar to the upcoming San Salvador conference were started during the Truman administration. It was said that Rubottom's decision to meet with the envoys now did not mean there was any specific emergency in the Latin American area.

But a sure topic of discussion was the political uncertainty in the region, dramatically pointed by the victory of Fidel Castro in Cuba.

Castro has indicated that he feels the present governments of the Dominican Republic, Nicaragua and Haiti should be overthrown, just as he overthrew the Batista regime in his home island.

Little Prospect 2 Germanys Reunite

Editor's Note—The chasm separating East and West Germany widens and deepens in recurring crises involving the whole of the Western world and the Soviet world. There's little prospect that the two Germanys will be united as one nation for many years to come. Here's a review of what has happened and what may happen.

By RICHARD O'REGAN

BERLIN (AP)—In the desolate days of Berlin's capitulation, Karl and Max Frenzel threw down their guns, shook hands as brothers and went in different directions.

Karl fled westward and Max surrendered to the Soviets. Karl now is a prosperous West German shoe store owner. Max, he has learned, has an engineer's job in Communist East Germany.

"We will never see each other again," Karl says. "We have grown too far apart. The fact is that there are two Germanys. People keep saying that Germany one day will be one nation again. But not in my lifetime. We might as well accept that."

This spring there may be East-West discussions—even decisions — on Germany's futures. There may result some cooperation between the two separate Germanys. But whatever is said or done, there appears little doubt that the map of Europe is going to show two Germanys, two nations, for many years—perhaps decades — to come.

East Germany, with its 17½ million inhabitants, is now too far along the road to communism for the Soviet Union to allow it to turn back. It is too vital, militarily and politically, to the Soviet world. Its industrial production is second only to the Soviet Union.

West Germany, with its 51 millions, is firmly wedded to a flourishing capitalist economy and to the Western way of doing things. Industrially, its production is second only to the United States in the entire Western world.

Germany's situation is almost as if her former enemies had agreed: "We can't get along with each other. We can't decide how to squabbling.In the meantime, both of us have added something to our side's strength. And we have done one thing we both wanted—we have made it impossible for a new Hitler to come along and cause trouble again."

Whether the diplomats say it is a good thing or not that Germany is split, it is a fact that the division has:

1. Shaken the old German cultures and traditions.
2. Cracked the old class and Prussian caste systems.
3. Checked the fanatic nationalism of the German people which caused two world wars. It cannot take root again in the present situation. Neither can anti-Semitism although that tries now and then to raise its head.

What has been substituted is:

In the East — thorough-going communism from the top to the bottom of society. For 14 years, Marxist concepts have been stamped with terror and the suppression whose resistance to it was crushed in the Berlin uprising on June 17, 1953. Now these people have little more than sullen hope.

In the West—the concept of a united Western Europe in which West Germany can play a leading role culturally, politically and economically in the interests of common peace and security. These are the ideas of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The division of Germany started as soon as the war was over. At the Potsdam conference in July 1945 the Big Four agreed to decentralize the country politically with no central government. They agreed, however, that the country should be treated as a single economic unit. That's where the trouble began. The only kind of economic unit the Soviet Union wanted was a Communist one.

Stalin's aim was to keep Germany dismembered and discontented. The more hopeless the country and its people were, the more chance for communism to spread.

In their own zone, they began systematically plundering and shipping out everything movable. East Germany quickly became an economic desert with the population living at near-starvation.

The West didn't want this sort of thing. Every early Western effort to provide a mere minimum basis for the Germans to survive was denied and frustrated by the Soviet Union. At the same time, the Soviets took steps toward communizing their zones-closing private banks, splitting up big estates and nationalizing industry.

In December 1946, something had to be done to coordinate the first Western efforts to start life going again in Germany. The United States and Britain established a "bizone." It was a step that upset Stalin's plans for economic unrest.

The Soviets finally walked out of the four-power Allied Control Council in Berlin on March 20, 1948. The Berlin blockade began shortly after. In November, while the blockade was in force, the Berlin Communists finally split the Berlin city government, which had been democratically elected. They set up a rump government of their own in the eastern sector of the former capital.

Stalin's plan to take over all of Germany collapsed when the blockade ended in 1949. Germany was finally divided.

In the West, the Federal Republic of Germany with a freely elected government under Chancellor Adenauer was formed in September 1949. In the East, without elections, the Communists created the German Democratic Republic under Premier Otto Grotewohl.

The feeling of frustration, hopelessness and lack of any future already had ended for the West Germans when new currency was introduced in 1948. In 1949, with considerable Marshall Plan aid the break with the east complete, Adenauer began to pull West Germany up by its bootstraps.

Today, West Germany's industrial production is 232 per cent of what it was before the war under Hitler. West Germany is in the middle of its biggest boom in history. The Deutsche mark is one of the world's top currencies.

The "German miracle" has disrupted the old economic society. Tens of thousands of new businessmen have elbowed their way to places side by side with those old industrial barons who survived, like the might Krupp family

The former upper classes, who floated in diplomatic circles have consequently disappeared as an elite.

U. S. Envoys To Confer On Latin Affairs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Assistant Secretary of State Roy R. Rubottom Jr. will confer with U. S. ambassadors to Caribbean and Central American nations next week on the area's turbulent political and economic affairs.

The meeting, it was learned, will be held at San Salvador. It will include the ambassadors or top U. S. diplomats in Mexico, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Cuba, Dominican Republic and Haiti.

Word of the meeting came as Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) declared that interAmerican relations were "in a more critical stage today than they have been at any time in the past three decades."

Humphrey, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a speech at the University of Florida, "the nations to the south are in the midst of an epic social revolution."

He said the United States should look into a Marshall Plan type of program for the Americas.

Gatherings similar to the upcoming San Salvador conference were started during the Truman administration. It was said that Rubottom's decision to meet with the envoys now did not mean there was any specific emergency in the Latin American area.

But a sure topic of discussion was the political uncertainty in the region, dramatically pointed by the victory of Fidel Castro in Cuba.

Castro has indicated that he feels the present governments of the Dominican Republic, Nicaragua and Haiti should be overthrown, just as he overthrew the Batista regime in his home island.

Little Prospect 2 Germanys Reunite

Editor's Note—The chasm separating East and West Germany widens and deepens in recurring crises involving the whole of the Western world and the Soviet world. There's little prospect that the two Germanys will be united as one nation for many years to come. Here's a review of what has happened and what may happen.

By RICHARD O'REGAN

BERLIN (AP)—In the desolate days of Berlin's capitulation, Karl and Max Frenzel threw down their guns, shook hands as brothers and went in different directions.

Karl fled westward and Max surrendered to the Soviets. Karl now is a prosperous West German shoe store owner. Max, he has learned, has an engineer's job in Communist East Germany.

"We will never see each other again," Karl says. "We have grown too far apart. The fact is that there are two Germanys. People keep saying that Germany one day will be one nation again. But not in my lifetime. We might as well accept that."

This spring there may be East-West discussions—even decisions — on Germany's futures. There may result some cooperation between the two separate Germanys. But whatever is said or done, there appears little doubt that the map of Europe is going to show two Germanys, two nations, for many years—perhaps decades — to come.

East Germany, with its 17½ million inhabitants, is now too far along the road to communism for the Soviet Union to allow it to turn back. It is too vital, militarily and politically, to the Soviet world. Its industrial production is second only to the Soviet Union.

West Germany, with its 51 millions, is firmly wedded to a flourishing capitalist economy and to the Western way of doing things. Industrially, its production is second only to the United States in the entire Western world.

Germany's situation is almost as if her former enemies had agreed: "We can't get along with each other. We can't decide how to squabbling.In the meantime, both of us have added something to our side's strength. And we have done one thing we both wanted—we have made it impossible for a new Hitler to come along and cause trouble again."

Whether the diplomats say it is a good thing or not that Germany is split, it is a fact that the division has:

1. Shaken the old German cultures and traditions.

2. Cracked the old class and Prussian caste systems.

3. Checked the fanatic nationalism of the German people which caused two world wars. It cannot take root again in the present situation. Neither can anti-Semitism although that tries now and then to raise its head.

What has been substituted is:

In the East — thorough-going communism from the top to the bottom of society. For 14 years, Marxist concepts have been stamped with terror and the suppression whose resistance to it was crushed in the Berlin uprising on June 17, 1953. Now these people have little more than sullen hope.

In the West—the concept of a united Western Europe in which West Germany can play a leading role culturally, politically and economically in the interests of common peace and security. These are the ideas of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The division of Germany started as soon as the war was over. At the Potsdam conference in July 1945 the Big Four agreed to decentralize the country politically with no central government. They agreed, however, that the country should be treated as a single economic unit. That's where the trouble began. The only kind of economic unit the Soviet Union wanted was a Communist one.

Stalin's aim was to keep Germany dismembered and discontented. The more hopeless the country and its people were, the more chance for communism to spread.

In their own zone, they began systematically plundering and shipping out everything movable. East Germany quickly became an economic desert with the population living at near-starvation.

The West didn't want this sort of thing. Every early Western effort to provide a mere minimum basis for the Germans to survive was denied and frustrated by the Soviet Union. At the same time, the Soviets took steps toward communizing their zones-closing private banks, splitting up big estates and nationalizing industry.

In December 1946, something had to be done to coordinate the first Western efforts to start life going again in Germany. The United States and Britain established a "bizone." It was a step that upset Stalin's plans for economic unrest.

The Soviets finally walked out of the four-power Allied Control Council in Berlin on March 20, 1948. The Berlin blockade began shortly after. In November, while the blockade was in force, the Berlin Communists finally split the Berlin city government, which had been democratically elected. They set up a rump government of their own in the eastern sector of the former capital.

Stalin's plan to take over all of Germany collapsed when the blockade ended in 1949. Germany was finally divided.

In the West, the Federal Republic of Germany with a freely elected government under Chancellor Adenauer was formed in September 1949. In the East, without elections, the Communists created the German Democratic Republic under Premier Otto Grotewohl.

The feeling of frustration, hopelessness and lack of any future already had ended for the West Germans when new currency was introduced in 1948. In 1949, with considerable Marshall Plan aid the break with the east complete, Adenauer began to pull West Germany up by its bootstraps.

Today, West Germany's industrial production is 232 per cent of what it was before the war under Hitler. West Germany is in the middle of its biggest boom in history. The Deutsche mark is one of the world's top currencies.

The "German miracle" has disrupted the old economic society. Tens of thousands of new businessmen have elbowed their way to places side by side with those old industrial barons who survived, like the might Krupp family

The former upper classes, who floated in diplomatic circles have consequently disappeared as an elite.

PLYMOUTH STYLING ALL NEW—A new massive front end and smart grille complimented by slender, outward-canted tail fins capped with chrome are focal points in the all-new styling of the 1959 Plymouth. This Fury four-door hardtop, like all 1959 Plymouths, has new styling from bumper to bumper and road to roof. All Plymouth models have improvements which reduce operating costs and at the same time improve performance.

Latest Plymouth Motoring Novelty

The new swivel seats of the 1959 Plymouth were designed to provide one of the outstanding attractions of the auto show, advance reports indicate. This one feature has attracted more attention than any Plymouth innovation since the introduction of push - button gear shifting.

Here in the Monroe and West Monroe community the agency for this new Plymouth is Monroe Auto Mart, Inc.

Harry E. Chesebrough, general manager of Plymouth, said reports from dealers in all parts of the country "clearly show that the new swivel seats are the most talked about feature introduced by any automobile manufacturer on a 1959 car."

The 1959 Plymouths have new road to roof and bumper - to - bumper styling, new engines, greater economy, offering up to 10 per cent more fuel savings, and a new top-of-the-line series of luxury models. The 29 models offered include the new Sport Fury series, which for the first time in the low - price field provides the swivel front seats as standard equipment. The swivel seats are optional on four other models.

Another widely discussed feature is the 361 cubic inch Golden Commando engine, an optional equipment item for all Plymouth cars which is priced at but $80.00 over the cost of the Standard V-8. The special engine comes complete with four - barrel carburetor, dual exhaust, 60-amp battery and special capacity radiator. Last year the Golden Commando engine with a displacement of 350 cubic inches was a part of a high performance package listed at $301.40.

The swivel front seats represent the first major change in car seating since Plymouth introduced the rear - facing third seat on station wagons. The new feature, standard equipment on the Sport Fury 2-door hardtop and convertible, allows the front seat passenger and the driver to pivot the seats toward the door when entering or leaving the car. The new arrangement also provides an arm rest between driver and front seat passenger which may be folded back when three persons wish to ride in the car. Swivel seats are available as optional equipment on the 2 - door and 4-door hardtops in the Fury line, the Sport Suburban and the Belvedere convertible.

Plymouth's proven Torsion-Aire ride, which professional test drivers have termed "the most roadable suspension system on any American passenger car," retains its non - sway, non - dip characteristics and is standard equipment on all models. In addition, as optional equipment, air springs are used in conjunction with the regular rear leaf springs. They provide "self - leveling action," which assures that the rear of the car will remain at the same height regardless of weight of load. When the car is empty, the air springs support approximately 300 pounds of the weight on the rear axle, with the remaining weight supported by the leaf springs. As the car is loaded with passengers or luggage, the additional weight is carried by the air springs, which automatically add or decrease air pressure in response to load changes. The Oriflow shock absorber is continued on all Plymouth cars.

The new Mirror - Matic rearview mirror, automatically "dims" when lights of a following car come into view, removing the annoyance of the reflected glare in the driver's eyes. A photo-electric cell on the mirror activates a device which automatically shifts the mirror when bright lights strike it.

Reuther Tries 'Big Lie' Tag On Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Walter Reuther is trying to pin a "big lie" label on widely publized charges that he is partly to blame for Michigan's financial crisis.

The United Auto Workers chief went out of his way to reply to the allegations during recent testimony before the House banking subcommittee considering federal aid for areas of severe unemployment.

Newspapers, national magazines and Michigan Republican leaders have contended that Reuther's aggressive, politically active union has created a bad business climate that has driven industries from the state.

The UAW president, who concedes that Michigan is in the financial doldrums and probably won't recover soon, said economic forces sweeping the nation are responsible.

The debate could become politically significant if Republicans on the national level take up the cry. So far it's been confined to the state GOP.

Michigan, with its economy based on the erratic automobile industry, had more than twice as much unemployment as the rest of the nation during 1958. Joblessness averaged 13.8 per cent of the labor force last year compared to 2.7 per cent in 1953.

Reuther provided congressmen with this explanation:

—Shifts in military strategy—from tanks to missiles—reduced defense jobs in Michigan by 190,000 in the last five years.

—Many plants have moved out of the state to get closer to sources of raw materials.

—Thousands of workers got pink slips because smaller firms which once supplied parts and frames to "Big Three" automakers have been eliminated by the giant producers' decision to do this work themselves.

—Production of cars and trucks increased from under 5 million in 1957 to more than 7 million in 1957 but the number of auto workers inched up by less than 4,000 because of automation.

—Many old factories in Detroit were abandoned as obsolete. Newer plants invariably mean newer machines which require fewer workers to run them.

"For almost two years the people of Michigan have been subjected to an incessant drumfire of distorted figures ... and malicious propaganda which tells them their state is becoming an economic wasteland," Reuther testified.

He said this drive was "obviously designed to gain political and economic power for certain interests" in the state but has boomeranged by frightening some manufacturers away from Michigan.

Actually, he said, Michigan's long range prospects are excellent.

Reuther supported Gov. G. Mennen Williams' plans for taxing personal and corporation incomes because Michigan is in "dire need" of more revenues.

But 38 other states also are facing financial troubles, 28 others have personal income taxes, and 35 tax corporate profits, he said.

Reuther said the UAW would fight for additional social welfare legislation despite the business-centered attacks on labor's political activity.

But Reuther, who gained fame for his aggressive and precedent-setting victories at the bargaining table, was clearly on the defensive.

Psychology Prof Added To Faculty

Ralph T. George has been appointed to the Northeast State faculty, President George T. Walker announced yesterday.

He assumed this week the duties of assistant professor and psychologist in the Special Education Department.

Just prior to accepting the position her. George held an assistant professorship in psychology at Austin Peay State College, Clarksville, Tenn. His professional experiences also include serving as field executive of Boy Scouts in Savannah, Ga., and Florence, S C., and counselor and teacher in the Industrial School for Boys at Florence.

He holds the B.S. degree from Berry College, the B. A. from Vanderbilt University, and the M. A. from George Peabody College for Teachers, where he majored in psychology and minored in related subjects.

ASSISTANTSHIP

While George was doing advanced study at Peabody, he held an assistantship in an individual mental testing class. Last spring he was a research assistant at the college, where he devoted time to the development of a Peabody Picture Vocaculary Test, designed primarily for work in the field of special education. The test, which is scheduled for early publication, was financed by a grant from the U.S. Office of Education.

He also did a study on reading skills of blind children as compared with those of normally seeing children. This project stemmed from Peabody's interest in offering courses for children with poor sight.

George is affiliated with Delta Kappa Pi Fraternity and several other learned societies and professional organizations.

He is married to the former Virginia Maxwell of Birmingham. They have two girls, aged four and eight.

Giant Telescope Work To Begin

ROANOKE, Va. (UPI) — U. S. Steel Corp. said its American Bridge Division will start work this week on fabricating the structural steel for a monster radio telescope capable of both seeing and hearing objects 19 times farther away from the earth than the Mount Palomar, California telescope.

Involving several companies and the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory, the Sugar Grove, W. Va., project will cost 60-million dollars.

VANISHED DEC. 7

Mystery Cloaks Portland Family

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Sunday, the 7th of December, 1958, was a good day to go hunting for a Christmas tree. Or so it seemed to Santa Claus.

Santa Claus was Kenneth R. Martin, 54-year-old service manager for a Portland electrical firm. For many years, he had dressed his husky frame in a red suit and distributed giant candy canes to his neighbors to help decorate their homes for Christmas.

Consequently the northeast Portland street where Martin and his family lived was known as "Candy Lane" at yuletide.

Yes, it was a good day to look for a tree and some greenery. Skies were cloudy but there was no threat of rain. The temperature was in the 50's, unseasonably warm. Martin and his wife, Barbara Jean, bustled their three pretty daughters — Barbara, 14, Virginia, 13, and Sue, 11 — into the family station wagon. They set out on their expedition at about about 2 p.m.

No one knows if they ever found a Christmas tree. The Martins haven't been heard from since.

Where are they? How could a family of five vanish from the face of the earth? These questions have led to an exhaustive search — one of the biggest in the history of the Pacific Northwest.

So far there is only one solid clue.

Late in the afternoon of the day of the disappearance, Martin purchased five gallons of gasoline in Cascade Locks, a town on the Columbia River 40 miles east of Portland. A gasoline credit receipt bearing his signature arrived in the mail at the Martin home two weeks after Dec. 7. The signature was identified as his. No purchases have been made with his gas credit card since then. No checks have been drawn on the Martin bank account since Dec. 5.

There have been hundreds of "leads." The Multnomah County sheriff's office here — the central agency filtering all information pertaining to the Martin case — carefully looks into each tip and "clue."

Sheriff Francis Lambert said that six weeks after the disappearance the Martin file in Multnomah County alone included 201 "tip" letters, 207 other reports and several hundred telephone calls, a "conservative estimate."

The week after the family vanished, bulletins were circulated in eight Western states. Two weeks later, 6,000 circulars were distributed nationally to law enforcement agencies.

A reward of $1.000 will be paid for information leading to discovery of the family. Relatives and friends raised $900 and $100 was donated by a motor safety club.

The disappearance of the Martins' 1954 cream and red trimmed Ford station wagon only complicates the puzzle.

Forests, rivers, lakes, trails, and mountains within a 50-mile radius of Portland have been searched again and again by authorities. An initial lead that the Martins possibly headed for Mt. Hood east of here to collect greenery prompted a massive hunt on the 11,245-foot peak, highest in Oregon, but also proved fruitless.

On the theory that the Martin car might have plunged into the Columbia River, the Army Corps of Engineers lowered the level of water five feet in the lake behind Bonneville Dam. Portable sonar equipment rigged in boats was used to probe the river depths. Results were negative.

Some "tips" have been on the visionary side. On Dec. 29, a woman phoned authorities that she had a vision the family was "in water by a totem pole," but she didn't know exactly where.

An orchard owner reported he saw a man and woman gathering greenery Dec. 7 east of Portland in a canyon where an old Indian burial ground was located, adding that one week later he noticed a flock of buzzards swooping into the canyon. A check was made but nothing was found.

One letter came from Burlington, Iowa. It was from a police clerk who had seen the Martin circular and was quite certain he saw the family in Burlington last Christmas Eve.

Other tipsters suggest the Martins are in a wooded ravine, a sealed tunnel or railroad boxcar or a deserted cabin. Some think the five were kidnaped or murdered, or both.

Few Rules To Follow About Growing Child

NEW YORK (UPI) — It won't be too long now before family picnic time. And it's just about time for cook-outs on the patio.

When the family includes a very young baby, there are a few common sense rules to follow. If you heed them, the baby will be as safe on these outings as he is in his own crib.

The picnic site should include a shaded area in which to place the baby's play pen. Too much sun on his tender skin can be bad.

ASSIGN BABY WATCHER

Try to keep the baby in the play pen, but this doesn't mean you don't need a baby-watcher nearby. Assign some responsible older child or an adult the job of watching that baby doesn't chew on grass, weeds, stones or twigs. He'll try to get his hands on everything outside the play pen.

If baby can climb out of the play pen and there is water or other hazards nearby, you may find it helpful to place a baby halter on him and attach it to the pen.

If the cooking is done over an outdoor grill or open fire, remember that babies have no regard for fire—be it in a state park or the patio. Keep the child well out of reach.

RESIST TEMPTATION

On a family outing there's always a temptation, too, to let baby sample picnic food and soft drinks. Resist it.

Take along food the baby's accustomed to. Heat the food at home and tote it in one of those portable and insulated picnic bags or jugs. Aluminum foil around a heated bottle of milk will keep it warm.

Keep baby at a safe distance when older children and grown-ups play ball or roughhouse. A wild pitched ball, a carelessly tossed stone or stick, can be perilous.

Railway System Authorized To Reincorporate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the Pennsylvania Co., a holding company of the Pennsylvania Railroad system, to reincorporate in Delaware to save taxes.

The commission said the company, originally incorporated in Pennsylvania, will save nearly $800,000 a year in corporate taxes by the move.

The Pennsylvania Co. is a holding company for the Pennsylvania Railroad's 26 subsidiary rail lines. The commission said the transaction would not affect transportation service to the public since the company is not an operating carrier.

He assumed this week the duties of assistant professor and psychologist in the Special Education Department.

Just prior to accepting the position her. George held an assistant professorship in psychology at Austin Peay State College, Clarksville, Tenn. His professional experiences also include serving as field executive of Boy Scouts in Savannah, Ga., and Florence, S C., and counselor and teacher in the Industrial School for Boys at Florence.

He holds the B.S. degree from Berry College, the B. A. from Vanderbilt University, and the M. A. from George Peabody College for Teachers, where he majored in psychology and minored in related subjects.

ASSISTANTSHIP

While George was doing advanced study at Peabody, he held an assistantship in an individual mental testing class. Last spring he was a research assistant at the college, where he devoted time to the development of a Peabody Picture Vocaculary Test, designed primarily for work in the field of special education. The test, which is scheduled for early publication, was financed by a grant from the U.S. Office of Education.

He also did a study on reading skills of blind children as compared with those of normally seeing children. This project stemmed from Peabody's interest in offering courses for children with poor sight.

George is affiliated with Delta Kappa Pi Fraternity and several other learned societies and professional organizations.

He is married to the former Virginia Maxwell of Birmingham. They have two girls, aged four and eight.

Giant Telescope Work To Begin

ROANOKE, Va. (UPI) — U. S. Steel Corp. said its American Bridge Division will start work this week on fabricating the structural steel for a monster radio telescope capable of both seeing and hearing objects 19 times farther away from the earth than the Mount Palomar, California telescope.

Involving several companies and the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory, the Sugar Grove, W. Va., project will cost 60-million dollars.

Railway System Authorized To Reincorporate

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the Pennsylvania Co., a holding company of the Pennsylvania Railroad system, to reincorporate in Delaware to save taxes.

The commission said the company, originally incorporated in Pennsylvania, will save nearly $800,000 a year in corporate taxes by the move.

The Pennsylvania Co. is a holding company for the Pennsylvania Railroad's 26 subsidiary rail lines. The commission said the transaction would not affect transportation service to the public since the company is not an operating carrier.

Mystery Cloaks Portland Family

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Sunday, the 7th of December, 1958, was a good day to go hunting for a Christmas tree. Or so it seemed to Santa Claus.

Santa Claus was Kenneth R. Martin, 54-year-old service manager for a Portland electrical firm. For many years, he had dressed his husky frame in a red suit and distributed giant candy canes to his neighbors to help decorate their homes for Christmas.

Consequently the northeast Portland street where Martin and his family lived was known as "Candy Lane" at yuletide.

Yes, it was a good day to look for a tree and some greenery. Skies were cloudy but there was no threat of rain. The temperature was in the 50's, unseasonably warm. Martin and his wife, Barbara Jean, bustled their three pretty daughters — Barbara, 14, Virginia, 13, and Sue, 11 — into the family station wagon. They set out on their expedition at about about 2 p.m.

No one knows if they ever found a Christmas tree. The Martins haven't been heard from since.

Where are they? How could a family of five vanish from the face of the earth? These questions have led to an exhaustive search — one of the biggest in the history of the Pacific Northwest.

So far there is only one solid clue.

Late in the afternoon of the day of the disappearance, Martin purchased five gallons of gasoline in Cascade Locks, a town on the Columbia River 40 miles east of Portland. A gasoline credit receipt bearing his signature arrived in the mail at the Martin home two weeks after Dec. 7. The signature was identified as his. No purchases have been made with his gas credit card since then. No checks have been drawn on the Martin bank account since Dec. 5.

There have been hundreds of "leads." The Multnomah County sheriff's office here — the central agency filtering all information pertaining to the Martin case — carefully looks into each tip and "clue."

Sheriff Francis Lambert said that six weeks after the disappearance the Martin file in Multnomah County alone included 201 "tip" letters, 207 other reports and several hundred telephone calls, a "conservative estimate."

The week after the family vanished, bulletins were circulated in eight Western states. Two weeks later, 6,000 circulars were distributed nationally to law enforcement agencies.

A reward of $1,000 will be paid for information leading to discovery of the family. Relatives and friends raised $900 and $100 was donated by a motor safety club.

The disappearance of the Martins' 1954 cream and red trimmed Ford station wagon only complicates the puzzle.

Forests, rivers, lakes, trails, and mountains within a 50-mile radius of Portland have been searched again and again by authorities. An initial lead that the Martins possibly headed for Mt. Hood east of here to collect greenery prompted a massive hunt on the 11,245-foot peak, highest in Oregon, but also proved fruitless.

On the theory that the Martin car might have plunged into the Columbia River, the Army Corps of Engineers lowered the level of water five feet in the lake behind Bonneville Dam. Portable sonar equipment rigged in boats was used to probe the river depths. Results were negative.

Some "tips" have been on the visionary side. On Dec. 29, a woman phoned authorities that she had a vision the family was "in water by a totem pole," but she didn't know exactly where.

An orchard owner reported he saw a man and woman gathering greenery Dec. 7 east of Portland in a canyon where an old Indian burial ground was located, adding that one week later he noticed a flock of buzzards swooping into the canyon. A check was made but nothing was found.

One letter came from Burlington, Iowa. It was from a police clerk who had seen the Martin circular and was quite certain he saw the family in Brlington last Christmas Eve.

Other tipsters suggest the Martins are in a woodd ravine, a sealed tunnel or railroad boxcar or a deserted cabin Some think the five were kidnaped or murdered, or both.

Communists Infiltrating Iraq's Army

CAIRO (AP)—Communists are infiltrating into the Iraqi army by winning over the Arab equivalent of GI Joe, according to reports from Baghdad. As a result there may be a "sergeants' coup" building up in the oil-rich land.

This would be something new for the Middle East.

Iraqi Communists are the first revolutionaries in the Arab world to try to take over an army from the ground up. Until now it has been assumed that only officers counted in Arab armies and that anyone who controlled the officers controlled the army.

Iraqi Communists are reported to have a considerable number of officers on their side, but their biggest strength appears to be among the enlisted men.

According to reports in this capital of President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic, such Communist strategy already has scored one success.

In the abortive Mosul army revolt in northern Iraq last month, there was the rare spectacle of sergeants and corporals turning against their officers, these reports point out.

The revolt has become the basis of a feud between Nasser and Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem. Nasser has been accused of inciting the revolt in order to bring Iraq into the U.A.R. Nasser has accused Communists of plotting to take over Iraq.

Reports from Baghdad say systematic subversion in the army is proceeding full-scale. Large numbers of privates and sergeants—who come from the lowest economic level in Iraq—are regularly seen at Communist meetings.

As a consequence, Premier Kassem may be in danger of slipping deeper into a Communist trap.

Kassem's trump card has been the army.

Before the Mosul revolt he was represented as believing he could safely permit Communists to get control of street mobs in order to balance off troublesome pro-Nasser Arab nationalists. Kassem was said to have felt that the loyalty of the army gave him ultimate power in the case of a showdown with the Communists. But now it may be doubtful if Kassem can count on the army even if key officers are loyal.

Eight Negroes Challenge Park Ban In Alabama

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Eight Montgomery Negroes who are challenging segregation barriers in the city parks have asked a federal judge to decide the issue without a trial.

Their request was filed Friday under a federal court procedure which allows the judge to waive the formality of a trial if there is no valid dispute on the facts. The Negroes say there is no question about the facts in the park suit.

City attorneys have 10 days to answer the request. U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr., said the petition probably will be argued next month.

All city parks in Montgomery have been closed since shortly after the integration suit was filed last December. The city commission said it would keep them closed if necessary to prevent racemixing.

A city ordinance prohibits integration at city parks and other public recreation centers.

Nickel plating was first used commercially about 1870 in England.

State Registrars Elect Officers At Convention

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — At the close of its annual convention Saturday the Louisiana Assn. of Registrars of Voters elected C. L. Bushnell, Rapides Parish registrar, president of the association.

Also elected were Charles Mitchel of Caddo Parish, first vice president; E. Rodriguez of Orleans Parish, second vice president; and Mrs. Lottie Bloch Rapides deputy registrar, secretary-treasurer.

The registrars also passed a resolution urging that Gov. Earl Long permit Douglas Fowler to remain as state director of registrars.

An unidentified delegate said the resolution was based on a "rumor" that Drayton Boucher, state custodian of voting machines, planned o resign and Long would name Fowler to the post.

ORKIL

powerful new termite chemical

Yours at no extra cost when Orkin protects your property

Good News for Home Owners, Bad News for Termites

Orkin has just completed an unparalleled break-through in termite control with the development of:

1. Orkil, powerful new termite chemical.
2. The world's strongest surety bonded guarantee naming YOU, not ORKIN, as beneficiary.

Orkil is the outgrowth of the continuous laboratory and field research made possible by Orkin's size and resources. It's murder to termites . . . kills on contact and sets up a lasting chemical barrier that termites cannot penetrate.

And Orkil makes possible Orkin's unmatched guarantee. Orkin's bonded guarantee includes a definite commitment to inspect your property at least once a year and includes protection against future termite damage up to $5,000.00. This guarantee is bonded by one of the world's largest bonding and insurance companies with assets in excess of $355,000,000.

If anyone else claims similar protection, ask your insurance agent or attorney to review the actual bond to determine your rights as a beneficiary.

Besides Orkil and the unmatched Orkin guarantee, Orkin protection includes million-dollar liability insurance coverage. And it brings you more than half a century of experience by an organization with assets in excess of $9,000,000 and the top credit rating of AAA-1.

Measured by all standards Orkin termite control is your most economical protection.

Be sure your home is safe, Get Orkin's free inspection

Two ways to tell whether termites are eating you out of house and home: 1) see them swarming, or 2) ask "Otto", the Orkin Man, to inspect your premises without cost or obligation.

It takes a trained technician to determine the extent of an infestation. Spot checks and spot treatments won't do. Orkin inspection and treatment are complete—and completely satisfactory. Ask for the names of Orkin customers near you.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Monroe Baseball

Monroe interests desiring a return to adult baseball, but hesitating to make known plans until feeling assured of help in presenting a team, finally took the wraps off Friday night and made the big step toward participation in the proposed amateur league for south Arkansas and north Louisiana members.

So the seeds sown by Leonard Pratt, the Bastrop insurance man, are sprouting with Monroe now joining Crossett, Ark., and Bastrop as almost certain members, and there are strong possibilities that Delhi, Oak Grove, West Monroe, Rayville, Lake Providence, or Farmerville will supply the other clubs needed for a six or eight-club league.

Legion Memorial Stadium here, rented annually to the Monroe Recreation department by L. B. Faulk Post since Monroe's departure from the professional baseball scene, is certain to become the home of the new "Sports."

The amateur Monroe Sports have been assured use of the uniforms of the old pro Sports who went out of business when the Evangeline League collapsed after the 1956 season. Monroe made only one year in the Evangeline, a loop the Sports joined after the Cotton States collapsed at the close of the '55 campaign in which Monroe was the pennant winner and playoff champion.

This new step in amateur ball assures area talent of continued baseball through just about all age levels. Youngsters hereabouts can begin playing "organized" ball at the age of eight years in Little League, or Little Boys. Then for the teen-agers there's Dixie League, Teener League, and American Legion Junior baseball, none available to athletes 18 years old or older.

The new amateur adult circuit has no age limitations, and has the backing of the board of directors of Monroe's Little League which had been conducting just about all kids' summer baseball in Monroe for the past few years. It was this assurance of organizational aid that encouraged men like Eddie Hemphill, George Luffey, Leo McStravick, Bob Carter, Bob Anderson, Leo Kay, Gene Pettit, Bobby Sadler, Wayne Tanner, J.D. Reeves Gene Ridings, Edd Routt, Allen Jones and others to tackle the task of putting a team in the new league. Luffey the Northeast State baseball coach, was named club president; Hemphill is vice president, Anderson is secretary and Carter is club manager.

The league, itself, remains to be organized. That is due to take place next Sunday at the West Monroe city hall.

INVITATION PENDING

Charles Stewart, West Monroe High School graduate now attending Northwestern State College where he rules in trampoline as Southern Amateur Athletic Union and National Junior AAU champion, has been invited to participate in the National AAU meet at Boston, Mass., April 24-25.

But Northwestern will not put its official stamp of approval on the invitation for the same reasons that Mississippi State's SEC basketball champions rejected a trip to the recent NCAA basketball tournament. So, if Stewart gets this chance in the NAAU trampoline event and possibly earns a place on the nation's Olympic team, it's almost certain he'll have to go on his own and without the sanctiton of his college.

Trampoline is a gym event that is not a contact sport involving other conterders such as is the case in basketball, football and the like. Trampoline athletes display their skill individually. Thus, Stewart has no qualms about who may be rival contenders and would welcome, we have been advised, a chance to compete.

His coach, Jeff Hennessy, who was his high school tutor before they both moved to Northwestern, says of Stewart: "I think he's a cinch to win if we can get him up there."

Transportation is the only problem, but its a $350 one and no solution is in sight. But the AAU meet is a little over two weeks away. Possibly someone can come to Stewart's aid. If he has the chance to win his coach thinks he has, Stewart deserves to reap this national honor for his home town.

NASH TO DEFEND

Roy Nash, Monnoe native and captain of the Louisiana Tech golf team, will defend his Louisiana amateur golf championship at the Oakbourne Country Club in Lafayette April 23-26. Nash, only northeast Louisiana golfer ever to win the state title, made good at Bayou DeSiard C.C. here last year.

Oakbourne will provide a real test for anyone entering the tournament. This Dick Wilson-designed course is 6,564 yards, offering a golfer the possible use of every club in his bag before finishing the 18-hole route. Almost all greens are slightly elevated. The course is lightly sand-trapped, but what traps there are are so placed that they catch the bad shots.

Already the Lafayette followers are drumming up young challengers for Nash. They point to Don Segure of Jennings as a young player with a steadying game, and to Earl Tullos of Bogalusa, considered one of the longest drivers in the state. Coming out of New Orleans will be Buddy Corvetta, Curtis Peahson, Buddy Majors, and Dudley Geigerman, the latter state seniors champion.

CROSSETT PARK

Located in the northeast corner of Crossett's new municipal park, the newest addition is made possible by a $45,000 gift from Mrs. Elizabeth R. Crossett of Santa Barbara, Calif., as a memorial to her late husband, Edward C. Crossett, former chairman of the board of the Crosett Company.

R. P. Meredith, chairman of the city recreation commission of Crossett, said work is progressing rapidly after a lifting of heavy rains, and the ball park will be a big boost to Crossett's recreational facilities, providing a plant for a complete baseball program up through adult participation.

Crossett is one of the stronger area towns planning a baseball club for the proposed new south Arkansas and north Louisiana amateur circuit now in the making.

Javelin Mark Bettered In Texas Relays

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Bill Alley of Kansas threw the javelin 270 feet 1½ inches to better the American and collegiate records Saturday in headlining the Texas Relays that produced six records and tied two others.

Alley's toss brought him the vote as outstanding athlete of the track and field carnival. It broke the Texas Relays record by almost 18 feet, the collegiate record by 13 feet ½ inch and was 1½ inches better than the American record.

Kansas and Texas tied for the championship of the university class with 58 points apiece, Kansas was picked by sports writers as the outstanding team.

University class records included a pole vault of 14 feet 8½ inches by Jim Graham of Oklahoma State and a mile relay of 3:10.3 by Texas.

Lamar Tech won the college division with 42 points to 39 for favored East Texas State.

Two records and a tie came from the college division where Texas A&I set a 3:13.5 standard in the mile relay and East Texas State did 41.0 in the 440-yard relay in the preliminaries only to lose in the finals to a 42.0 by Texas A&I when the first runner, John West, pulled a muscle.

Howard Payne ran the 2-mile relay in 7:41.5 to tie the record.

In the junior college-freshman class Baylor set a 440-yard record with 41.7 and Ray Knaub of Baylor tied the 100 - yard dash record at 9.5 in the preliminaries but lost in the finals.

Alley's record came on his first throw and was so far it almost went out of the field. It bettered the American record of 270 feet set by Franklin Held of the San Francisco Olympic Club in 1956 and it wiped out the collegiate record of 257 feet 1 inch set by John Fromm of Pacific Lutheran in 1958. It was 11 feet ½ inch udner the world's record of 281 feet 2 inches held by Egil Danielsen of Norway.

Kansas, winning the 4-mile relay, had three runners under 4:20 in the mile—Tom Skutka 4:16.0, Billy Mills 4:19.2 and Cliff Cushman 4:19.3, the latter, a fine half-miler, too, was close to Alley in the voting for outstanding athlete.

Vic Seixas In Tennis Finals At San Juan

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) —Veteran Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and young Luis Ayala of Chile reached the final of an international tennis tournament with singles victories over American opponents Saturday.

Seixas, playing in his first tournament since September, slipped by Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md., 7-5, 8-6. Ayala cut down Jack Douglas of Palo Alto, Calif., 6-4, 6-2.

Christine Truman of London defeated Gwen Thomas of Cleveland, 6-4, 9-7, in a women's semifinal and will meet Janet Hopps of Seattle for the title. Miss Hopps won her semifinal match Friday.

Miss Hopps and Martha Hernandez of Mexico won the women's doubles championship, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4 over Miss Truman and Betty Pratt of Jamaica.

Louisiana Tech Trackmen Edge Northeast In Upset

NATCHITOCHES, La. (Special) — Coach Jim Mize's Louisiana Tech track team upset favored Northeast State in a triangular meet here yesterday as Northwestern State finished third. The margin was a narrow 2 2-3 points as the Bulldogs edged out a 67-2-3 to 65 win. NSC had 48-1-3.

Four Gulf States Conference records were bettered and one tied in the triangular meet. Tom Sturdivant, Tech, tied the 120 high hurdle mark of 14.5 seconds. Dave Styron, Northeast sprinter, bettered the century mark with a 9.6 time Dale Hoffpauir, NSC javelin tosser threw one for 210 feet 7-14 inches to better the GSC mark in this event.

The Northeast 440 - yard relay bettered the conference mark in this event with a speedy 41.7 race. Don Styron, the second half of Northeast's one - two track punch, bettered the GSC 220 low hurdle mark with a 23.0 effort.

It was a close meet all the way as Northwestern State was in convention with the two leaders until the distance events and relays pushed them into a distant third.

The defeat was Northeast's first of the year at the hands of a GSC school. Coach Lew Hartzog's Indians had won two dual meets, two triangulars and the college division title in the Southwestern Recreation Meet before finishing fourth in the Florida Relays last week behind three universities.

Northeast had defeated Tech three times this season before today and Northwestern once. In a triangular meet March 21, Northeast defeated Tech, 80½ to 60¾. Northwestern was third with 36¾.

SLATED FOR THURSDAY

Majors Schedule Earliest Opener

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball beats the gun Thursday with its earliest start ever.

Once again the New York Yankees and Milwaukee Braves are favored to meet in the World Series although the going may be tougher in each league.

Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland are expected to test the Yankees with Boston as an outside threat. San Francisco and Pittsburgh generally are counted upon to press Milwaukee with some support for Cincinnati's new power.

The owners are gambling with the weather in starting four days earlier than usual. Their bonus is an extra weekend that could be profitable both at the gate and on the network television series.

As usual, the season will end on the last Sunday in September. The nine-game Thursday-Friday opening program probably will attract about 270,000 fans.

The Thursday schedule calls for only two games. In the ceremonial opener at Washington, Vice President Nixon may sub for the absent President Eisenhower to throw out the first ball before Cookie Lavagetto's Senators take on the Baltimore Orioles.

The other Thursday game will be played in Cincinnati with the dashing Pittsburgh Pirates as the guests. This game provides a first hand check for one of the big deals of the winter that brought slugger Frank Thomas to the Reds and sent Don Hoak, Smoky Burgess and Harvey Haddix to the Pirates.

The Pirates will open at home Friday against Milwaukee, which probably will open with Felix Mantilla on second in Red Schoendienst's old job.

San Francisco, flushed with pennant talk after picking up Sam Jones from the Cards, will open at St. Louis in a night game Friday..

Los Angeles also opens on the road at Chicago.

Philadelphia has a home night opener against Cincinnati when the Phil fans will get a first look at their new second baseman, George Anderson, while Robin Roberts takes his 11th opening day assignment.

The Yankees take on the Boston Red Sox at Yankee Stadium on Friday although it is not likely that Ted Williams will be able to play because of his neck ailment.

Chicago and Detroit, two clubs whom many think will fight it out for second money, clash in the opener at Detroit. Cleveland plays at Kansas City in the other Friday game. Baltimore and Washington will be idle after the ceremonial opener.

Driver Killed In Fastest Car Race Ever Run

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)— George Amick, 34, of Rhinelander, Wis., was killed Saturday in a two-car crackup on the final lap of the fastest automobile race ever run.

Jim Rathmann of Miami, Fla., had just crossed the finish line of the USAC 100-mile championship race at the new Daytona International speedway with a fantastic 170.26 miles an hour average when Amick, running third, crashed into the car of Bill Cheesebourg of Tucson, Ariz.

Amick, a close second last year in his first Indianapolis 500 mile race, was killed instantly as his car flipped end ovre end at more than 170 m. p. h.

Cheesbourg's car remained upright and skidded into the infield. He was taken to the track hospital but apparently was not seriously hurt.

Dixie League Will Operate

The Dixie Boys Baseball League will definitely operate this year, director Dan McClure announced last night.

The league, for boys aged 13-15 is securing new sponsors and managers and information on teams and the schedule will be released soon.

McClure also stated that a new board of directors will be elected.

Delta Loop To Meet Monday

The newly named Delta League, formerly the Little Eight League, will hold its final pre-season meeting Monday night in West Monroe, president Don Zeigler announced yesterday.

The meeting will begin at 7 o'clock in the P & K Cafe.

Zeigler said the league's opening date would be set at Monday's meeting, among other things.

Rabbits Remain Popular Targets

By DION HENDERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

More hunters still fire at rabbits each year than at any other kind of game. And it's probably a good thing. The average householder can count two rabbits for every tulip now.

And yet, there's something comforting about the durability of the rabbit's popularity. Other fads and fashions come and go. Today's television set is obsolescent tomorrow. Today's automobile was obsolescent yesterday. Suddenly a generation of little boys look at derby hats with respect. But the same old model rabbit stay right up there at the top of the hit and miss parade.

The harvest last year for such purposes amounted to some 3 million. Every state has rabbits, and thus automatically rabbit hunters.

Missouri claims it is the top state in this department, with more or less substantiated figures that some six million rabbits are popped into the pot there each year. Whether this is true, or whether it just seems like that many to a statistician who has had rabbit the last 17 days running himself, ecological reports declaim not.

Rabbits can be divided into more than 60 subspecies. You might call this hare splitting, but you shouldn't, because these are all true rabbits. Genuine rabbits, that is.. Sylvilagus. There are Eastern cottontails, Rocky Mountain cottontails, and Western cottontails. There are also Pacific Coast brush rabbits while from Texas eastward, there is a group called swamp rabbits. There is another group called swamp rabbits by certain elements of the Northern Midwest's backwoodsmen, but other call this species deer. Including, it might be noted, the local game wardens.

There are a number of reasons why rabbits grow and flourish under the nearly unbelievable pressures of predation factors. The main one is obvious and possibly awe inspiring to anyone who sits up late and looks over the front lawn after the lights are out.

He is practically certain to see rabbits especially two rabbits. They face each other, bristling, as though on the verge of a fight. Suddenly they dart at one another, making both vertical and horizontal passes like a couple of enraged bumble bees bound to fight to the death.

This has been abundantly described in professional literature, but seldom better than by a New Hampshire expert who recently concluded a masterpiece of the genre with thunderous delicacy, saying: :"Well, they aren't fighting."

A girl rabbit may—shucks, she inevitably must—become a mother by the time she's six months old. She may have as many as five or six litters of up to seven rabbits a year, and before she's had the sixth, the young ones from the first are producing themselves. She's an excellent mother, and if being charges by an enraged rabbit is one of the outdoor thrills that has escaped you, try messing with the children when momma's around.

There is much more to be said on the subject, but it can be summarized for these hasty times. If you think that you really don't care for the subject, just try it once in hasenpfeffer.

Mit spaetzel.

Pelicans Defeat Loyola, 9 To 8

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Pelicans squeezed by Loyola of the South 9-8 Saturday in a game halted by darkness after seven innings.

The Pels held a 7-1 lead after two innings but had to push over two runs in the bottom of the seventh to win their fourth straight exhibition game.

New Orleans, held to five hits, opened its scoring with five runs on three walks, a triple by Cob Jarvis and singles by R. C. Otey and Ted Tate. The Pels' tying and winning runs came on an error.

The victory was credited to Earl Mossor who relieved Jim Kite in the sixth. The loss was charged to Bob Delpidio who went to the rescue of Vince Guttuso in the first.

Deadlocked At 212 After Third Round

By HUGH FULLERTON

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Canada's Stan Leonard slammed back with a 3-under-par 69 Saturday and tied defending champion Arnold Palmer for the lead after 54 holes of the 23rd Masters Golf Tournament.

Ex-champion Cary Middlecoff, moving in with a 4-under-par 68, was only a stroke off the pace as Leonard and the muscular Palmer, of Ligonier, Pa., forged a deadlock with 2 totals.

So the game is on for Sunday—the defending titleholder, the ex-champion and the relatively unknown—in the three-man showdown of this classic at massive Augusta National.

That's the way Leonard, a calm, 44-year-old veteran from Vancouver, expressed it after the third round had eliminated virtually all the other contenders.

Leonard, posting his second 69 of the tournament, set the target. Palmer, needing a birdie on the 18th hole to tie for the lead, made it on a 12-foot putt and scored a 71 for the day.

Middlecoff, also needing one birdie on the last three holes to make it a three-way deadlock, parred his way in and failed by a stroke to catch the others. But his 68 gained him the position he likes—where he can win with a strong finish.

It was a finish that provided every kind of thrill for a crowd estimated at 40,000 to 50,000—probably the largest in the history of American golf. And it set up another likely thriller for Sunday. Only the three really remained in the running although National Amateur champion Charlie Coe was only three strokes behind at 215 after a superb 67, the best score of the tournament.

The three contenders all are players who have been tested by competition. Leonard, the oldest, was a club pro in Canada for 17 years before he tried his skill on the U. S. tour. He has won two tournaments and has a calm, unworried attitude.

Middlecoff, 38, has won two U. S. Open championships and was Masters champion in 1955. He didn't play the circuit this winter but won the first tournament he entered at St. Petersburg, Fla., last month.

Palmer, 29, was U. S. Amateur champion five years ago and reached a peak in his successful pro career last spring when he winner in 21 years.

Nearly two dozen players appeared to have some sort of chance when the third round began with 42 survivors of the original field of 87. Two of the greatest, Ben Hogan and Sam Snead, who have accounted for five Masters titles between them, shot their way out early.

Playing together in a grim reminder of their playoff for the Masters title five years ago, Snead scrambled to a 72, even par for 6,980 yard Augusta National course, leaving him seven strokes behind.

Hogan, putting uncertainly on the front nine, came in with 76 for a 223 total.

INDIANS-GIANTS

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Outfielder Willie Mays, who hasn't hit a home run during the Grapefruit season, unloaded three Saturday as San Francisco trounced Cleveland 17-4.

Derks Field here was jammed with 10,406 baseball fans, the largest paid attendance here in history.

Mays gathered six RBI with the three homers and a double. The Giants smashed 21 hits for 45 bases in winning the fifth of seven exhibition games with the Indians.

San Francisco battered five Cleveland pitchers, as Al McCardle and Jackie Brandt also hit round-trippers for the Giants.

Rocky Colavito homered for two of the Cleveland runs in the seventh frame when the Indians scored three times.

YANKEES-TIGERS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —The New York Yankees banged three home runs Saturday and defeated the Detroit Tigers, 6-5, in the Bombers' final appearance here this spring. Mickey Mantle, Dick Sanders and Cletis Boyer connected.

Duke Maas, ex - Detroit right-hander, went seven innings for the victory and Jim Coates finished. Maas gave up a run in the second on doubles by Eddie Yost and Harvey Kuenn. Catcher Lou Berberet homered in the seventh.

Coates gave up the other two runs in the ninth when he walked two. One scored on a throwing error by shortstop Boyer.

Paul Foytack was the loser. Sanders, who was optioned to Richmond of the International League prior to the game, hit a two - run homer off him in the first.

Boyer's home run came off Tom Morgan in the seventh.

A'S-PHILS

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Harry Chiti slammed a pinch double with one out in the 9th to give the Kansas City Athletics a 6-5 exhibition game victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday.

The A's started the rally when Dick Williams, batting for Bob Martyn, hit a double. Hal Smith struck out, but Zeke Bella walked. Chiti then came up with the double that scored the pair on base.

Earlier in the game Kent Hadley had hammered out two homers and a single for the A's.

RED SOX—CUBS

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Pete Runnels and Vic Wertz drove in three runs apiece but it took a ninth inning error by Chicago's Tony Taylor to give the Boston Red Sox an 8-7 verdict over the Cubs Saturday.

Taylor overthrew first base on a desperate attempt to complete a double play. The ball landed in the seats and Dick Gernert, who had smashed a homer in the seventh, was sent home from second base with the deciding tally.

The Cubs had rallied to tie the score in the eighth on Walt Moryns three-run homer.

Runnels banged a home run and two doubles for three runs batted in and Wertz contributed a double and a single for an additional three RBI.

Gernert's homer took care of the other Boston tally.

The Cubs started off as if they would win in a cakewalk. They pounded starter Dave Sisler for six straight singles and four runs in the opening inning.

CARDS — ORIOLES

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Spectacular fielding plays by Brooks Robinson and Ronnie Hansen choked off a seventh-inning St. Louis rally Saturday night, and the Baltimore Orioles went on to a 5-2 victory over the Cardinals behind the eight-hit pitching of Jack Harshman and Hoyt Wilhelm.

A three-run sortie in the seventh off Phil Clark clinched the verdict after Bob Boyd's double, a wild pitch by Ernie Broglio and Bob Nieman's sacrifice fly had broken a 1-1 tie in the Baltimore fifth.

Highlights of the exhibition, though, were provided by Robinson and Hansen on the left side of the Oriole infield.

Following Ray Jablonski's seventh inning pinch double with one away, the 21-year-old Robinson leaped to his left to knock down Don Blasingame's hot smash and toss him out.

Seconds later, Joe Cunningham lashed a ground single through the middle which the 20-year-old Hansen stabbed on the grass behind second base.

Still off balance, the Baltimore shortstop whirled and flung a perfect peg to catcher Gus Triandos, nipping pinch runner Lee Tate as he atttmpted to register the tying run from second.

REDS-BRAVES

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves defeated Cincinnati 9-3 Saturday, belting Don Newcombe for 15 hits, including home runs by Frank Torre and Wes Covington.

Joining in the hitfest was the Braves' Eddie Mathews, who had gone 0-for-14 in the last few games. The muscular third baseman collected two singles.

The victory gave the Braves an exhibition record of 8-15.

Cincinnati's record stands at 12-15.

Lew Burdette got credit for the victory, giving up seven hits in the first seven frames. Don McMahon held the Reds hitless in the final two.

Torre and Hank Aaron led the attack with three hits apiece. Torre's homer came with one on in the first. Ed Bailey clubbed a solo homer for the Reds, clearing the fence in deep right centerfield in the seventh.

PIRATES—WHITE SOX

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Bob Skinner's two-run single in the ninth off Don Rudolph gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 10-9 triumph over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

The Bucs rapped Dick Donovan, Claude Raymond and Rudolph for 16 hits. Donovan yielded 11 of the hits and eight runs in seven innings.

Ron Kline, winner Ben Daniels and Bob Porterfield were raked for 14 hits by the White Sox, who had a 7-1 lead in two innings. Norm Cash slammed the only homer of the contest which closed the White Sox Florida campaign.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Monroe Baseball

Monroe interests desiring a return to adult baseball, but hesitating to make known plans until feeling assured of help in presenting a team, finally took the wraps off Friday night and made the big step toward participation in the proposed amateur league for south Arkansas and north Louisiana members.

So the seeds sown by Leonard Pratt, the Bastrop insurance man, are sprouting with Monroe now joining Crossett, Ark., and Bastrop as almost certain members, and there are strong possibilities that Delhi, Oak Grove, West Monroe, Rayville, Lake Providence, or Farmerville will supply the other clubs needed for a six or eight-club league.

Legion Memorial Stadium here, rented annually to the Monroe Recreation department by L. B. Faulk Post since Monroe's departure from the professional baseball scene, is certain to become the home of the new "Sports."

The amateur Monroe Sports have been assured use of the uniforms of the old pro Sports who went out of business when the Evangeline League collapsed after the 1956 season. Monroe made only one year in the Evangeline, a loop the Sports joined after the Cotton States collapsed at the close of the '55 campaign in which Monroe was the pennant winner and playoff champion.

This new step in amateur ball assures area talent of continued baseball through just about all age levels. Youngsters hereabouts can begin playing "organized" ball at the age of eight years in Little League, or Little Boys. Then for the teen-agers there's Dixie League, Teener League, and American Legion Junior baseball, none available to athletes 18 years old or older.

The new amateur adult circuit has no age limitations, and has the backing of the board of directors of Monroe's Little League which had been conducting just about all kids' summer baseball in Monroe for the past few years. It was this assurance of organizational aid that encouraged men like Eddie Hemphill, George Luffey, Leo McStravick, Bob Carter, Bob Anderson, Leo Kay, Gene Pettit, Bobby Sadler, Wayne Tanner, J.D. Reeves Gene Ridings, Edd Routt, Allen Jones and others to tackle the task of putting a team in the new league. Luffey the Northeast State baseball coach, was named club president; Hemphill is vice president, Anderson is secretary and Carter is club manager.

The league, itself, remains to be organized. That is due to take place next Sunday at the West Monroe city hall.

INVITATION PENDING

Charles Stewart, West Monroe High School graduate now attending Northwestern State College where he rules in trampoline as Southern Amateur Athletic Union and National Junior AAU champion, has been invited to participate in the National AAU meet at Boston, Mass., April 24-25.

But Northwestern will not put its official stamp of approval on the invitation for the same reasons that Mississippi State's SEC basketball champions rejected a trip to the recent NCAA basketball tournament. So, if Stewart gets this chance in the NAAU trampoline event and possibly earns a place on the nation's Olympic team, it's almost certain he'll have to go on his own and without the sanctiton of his college.

Trampoline is a gym event that is not a contact sport involving other conterders such as is the case in basketball, football and the like. Trampoline athletes display their skill individually. Thus, Stewart has no qualms about who may be rival contenders and would welcome, we have been advised, a chance to compete.

His coach, Jeff Hennessy, who was his high school tutor before they both moved to Northwestern, says of Stewart: "I think he's a cinch to win if we can get him up there."

Transportation is the only problem, but its a $350 one and no solution is in sight. But the AAU meet is a little over two weeks away. Possibly someone can come to Stewart's aid. If he has the chance to win his coach thinks he has, Stewart deserves to reap this national honor for his home town.

NASH TO DEFEND

Roy Nash, Monnoe native and captain of the Louisiana Tech golf team, will defend his Louisiana amateur golf championship at the Oakbourne Countny Club in Lafayette April 23-26. Nash, only northeast Louisiana golfer ever to win the state title, made good at Bayou DeSiard C.C. here last year.

Oakbourne will provide a real test for anyone entering the tournament. This Dick Wilson-designed course is 6,564 yards, offering a golfer the possible use of every club in his bag before finishing the 18-hole route. Almost all greens are slightly elevated. The course is lightly sand-trapped, but what traps there are are so placed that they catch the bad shots.

Already the Lafayette followers are drumming up young challengers for Nash. They point to Don Segure of Jennings as a young player with a steadying game, and to Earl Tullos of Bogalusa, considered one of the longest drivers in the state. Coming out of New Orleans will be Buddy Corvetta, Curtis Peahson, Buddy Majors, and Dudley Geigerman, the latter state seniors champion.

CROSSETT PARK

Located in the northeast corner of Crossett's new municipal park, the newest addition is made possible by a $45,000 gift from Mrs. Elizabeth R. Crossett of Santa Barbara, Calif., as a memorial to her late husband, Edward C. Crossett, former chairman of the board of the Crosett Company.

R. P. Meredith, chairman of the city recreation commission of Crossett, said work is progressing rapidly after a lifting of heavy rains, and the ball park will be a big boost to Crossett's recreational facilities, providing a plant for a complete baseball program up through adult participation.

Crossett is one of the stronger area towns planning a baseball club for the proposed new south Arkansas and north Louisiana amateur circuit now in the making.

Javelin Mark Bettered In Texas Relays

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Bill Alley of Kansas threw the javelin 270 feet 1½ inches to better the American and collegiate records Saturday in headlining the Texas Relays that produced six records and tied two others.

Alley's toss brought him the vote as outstanding athlete of the track and field carnival. It broke the Texas Relays record by almost 18 feet, the collegiate record by 13 feet ½ inch and was 1½ inches better than the American record.

Kansas and Texas tied for the championship of the university class with 58 points apiece, Kansas was picked by sports writers as the outstanding team.

University class records included a pole vault of 14 feet 8½ inches by Jim Graham of Oklahoma State and a mile relay of 3:10.3 by Texas.

Lamar Tech won the college division with 42 points to 39 for favored East Texas State.

Two records and a tie came from the college division where Texas A&I set a 3:13.5 standard in the mile relay and East Texas State did 41.0 in the 440-yard relay in the preliminaries only to lose in the finals to a 42.0 by Texas A&I when the first runner, John West, pulled a muscle.

Howard Payne ran the 2-mile relay in 7:41.5 to tie the record.

In the junior college-freshman class Baylor set a 440-yard record with 41.7 and Ray Knaub of Baylor tied the 100 - yard dash record at 9.5 in the preliminaries but lost in the finals.

Alley's record came on his first throw and was so far it almost went out of the field. It bettered the American record of 270 feet set by Franklin Held of the San Francisco Olympic Club in 1956 and it wiped out the collegiate record of 257 feet 1 inch set by John Fromm o' Pacific Lutheran in 1958. It was 11 feet ½ inch udner the world's record of 281 feet 2 inches held by Egil Danielsen of Norway.

Kansas, winning the 4-mile relay, had three runners under 4:20 in the mile—Tom Skutka 4:16.0, Billy Mills 4:19.2 and Cliff Cushman 4:19.3, the latter, a fine half-miler, too, was close to Alley in the voting for outstanding athlete.

Vic Seixas In Tennis Finals At San Juan

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) —Veteran Vic Seixas of Philadelphia and young Luis Ayala of Chile reached the final of an international tennis tournament with singles victories over American opponents Saturday.

Seixas, playing in his first tournament since September, slipped by Donald Dell of Bethesda, Md., 7-5, 8-6. Ayala cut down Jack Douglas of Palo Alto, Calif., 6-4, 6-2.

Christine Truman of London defeated Gwen Thomas of Cleveland, 6-4, 9-7, in a women's semi-final and will meet Janet Hopps of Seattle for the title. Miss Hopps won her semifinal match Friday.

Miss Hopps and Martha Hernandez of Mexico won the women's doubles championship, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4 over Miss Truman and Betty Pratt of Jamaica.

Louisiana Tech Trackmen Edge Northeast In Upset

NATCHITOCHES, La. (Special) — Coach Jim Mize's Louisiana Tech track team upset favored Northeast State in a triangular meet here yesterday as Northwestern State finished third. The margin was a narrow 2 2-3 points as the Bulldogs edged out a 67-2-3 to 65 win. NSC had 48-1-3.

Four Gulf States Conference records were bettered and one tied in the triangular meet. Tom Sturdivant, Tech, tied the 120 high hurdle mark of 14.5 seconds. Dave Styron, Northeast sprinter, bettered the century mark with a 9.6 time Dale Hoffpauir, NSC javelin tosser threw one for 210 feet 7-14 inches to better the GSC mark in this event.

The Northeast 440 - yard relay bettered the conference mark in this event with a speedy 41.7 race. Don Styron, the second half of Northeast's one - two track punch, bettered the GSC 220 low hurdle mark with a 23.0 effort.

It was a close meet all the way as Northwestern State was in convention with the two leaders until the distance events and relays pushed them into a distant third.

The defeat was Northeast's first of the year at the hands of a GSC school. Coach Lew Hartzog's Indians had won two dual meets, two triangulars and the college division title in the Southwestern Recreation Meet before finishing fourth in the Florida Relays last week behind three universities.

Northeast had defeated Tech three times this season before today and Northwestern once. In a triangular meet March 21, Northeast defeated Tech, 80½ to 60¾. Northwestern was third with 36¾.

SLATED FOR THURSDAY

Majors Schedule Earliest Opener

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball beats the gun Thursday with its earliest start ever.

Once again the New York Yankees and Milwaukee Braves are favored to meet in the World Series although the going may be tougher in each league.

Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland are expected to test the Yankees with Boston as an outside threat. San Francisco and Pittsburgh generally are counted upon to press Milwaukee with some support for Cincinnati's new power.

The owners are gambling with the weather in starting four days earlier than usual. Their bonus is an extra weekend that could be profitable both at the gate and on the network television series.

As usual, the season will end on the last Sunday in September. The nine-game Thursday-Friday opening program probably will attract about 270,000 fans.

The Thursday schedule calls for only two games. In the ceremonial opener at Washington, Vice President Nixon may sub for the absent President Eisenhower to throw out the first ball before Cookie Lavagetto's Senators take on the Baltimore Orioles.

The other Thursday game will be played in Cincinnati with the dashing Pittsburgh Pirates as the guests. This game provides a first hand check for one of the big deals of the winter that brought slugger Frank Thomas to the Reds and sent Don Hoak, Smoky Burgess and Harvey Haddix to the Pirates.

The Pirates will open at home Friday against Milwaukee, which probably will open with Felix Mantilla on second in Red Schoendienst's old job.

San Francisco, flushed with pennant talk after picking up Sam Jones from the Cards, will open at St. Louis in a night game Friday.

Los Angeles also opens on the road at Chicago.

Philadelphia has a home night opener against Cincinnati when the Phil fans will get a first look at their new second baseman, George Anderson, while Robin Roberts takes his 11th opening day assignment.

The Yankees take on the Boston Red Sox at Yankee Stadium on Friday although it is not likely that Ted Williams will be able to play because of his neck ailment.

Chicago and Detroit, two clubs whom many think will fight it out for second money, clash in the opener at Detroit. Cleveland plays at Kansas City in the other Friday game. Baltimore and Washington will be idle after the ceremonial opener.

Delta Loop To Meet Monday

The newly named Delta League, formerly the Little Eight League, will hold its final pre-season meeting Monday night in West Monroe, president Don Zeigler announced yesterday.

The meeting will begin at 7 o'clock in the P & K Cafe.

Zeigler said the league's opening date would be set at Monday's meeting, among other things.

Driver Killed In Fastest Car Race Ever Run

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)— George Amick, 34, of Rhinelander, Wis., was killed Saturday in a two-car crackup on the final lap of the fastest automobile race ever run.

Jim Rathmann o' Miami, Fla., had just crossed the finish line of the USAC 100-mile championship race at the new Daytona International speedway with a fantastic 170.26 miles an hour average when Amick, running third, crashed into the car of Bill Cheesebourg of Tucson, Ariz.

Amick, a close second last year in his first Indianapolis 500 mile race, was killed instantly as his car flipped end ovre end at more than 170 m. p. h.

Cheesbourg's car remained upright and skidded into the infield. He was taken to the track hospital but apparently was not seriously hurt.

Dixie League Will Operate

The Dixie Boys Baseball League will definitely operate this year, director Dan McClure announced last night.

The league, for boys aged 13-15 is securing new sponsors and managers and information on teams and the schedule will be released soon.

McClure also stated that a new board of directors will be elected.

Rabbits Remain Popular Targets

By DION HENDERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

More hunters still fire at rabbits each year than at any other kind of game. And it's probably a good thing. The average householder can count two rabbits for every tulip now.

And yet, there's something comforting about the durability of the rabbit's popularity. Other fads and fashions come and go. Today's television set is obsolescent tomorrow. Today's automobile was obsolescent yesterday. Suddenly a generation of little boys look at derby hats with respect. But the same old model rabbit stay right up there at the top of the hit and miss parade.

The harvest last year for such purposes amounted to some 3 million. Every state has rabbits, and thus automatically rabbit hunters.

Missouri claims it is the top state in this department, with more or less substantiated figures that some six million rabbits are popped into the pot there each year. Whether this is true, or whether it just seems like that many to a statistician who has had rabbit the last 17 days running himself, ecological reports declaim not.

Rabbits can be divided into more than 60 subspecies. You might call this hare splitting, but you shouldn't, because these are all true rabbits. Genuine rabbits, that is. Sylvilagus. There are Eastern cottontails, Rocky Mountain cottontails, and Western cottontails. There are also Pacific Coast brush rabbits while from Texas eastward, there is a group called swamp rabbits. There is another group called swamp rabbits by certain elements of the Northern Midwest's backwoodsmen, but other call this species deer. Including, it might be noted, the local game wardens.

There are a number of reasons why rabbits grow and flourish under the nearly unbelievable pressures of predation factors. The main one is obvious and possibly awe inspiring to anyone who sits up late and looks over the front lawn after the lights are out.

He is practically certain to see rabbits especially two rabbits. They face each other, bristling, as though on the verge of a fight. Suddenly they dart at one another, making both vertical and horizontal passes like a couple of enraged bumble bees bound to fight to the death.

This has been abundantly described in professional literature, but seldom better than by a New Hampshire expert who recently concluded a masterpiece of the genre with thunderous delicacy, saying: :"Well, they aren't fighting."

A girl rabbit may—shucks, she inevitably must—become a mother by the time she's six months old. She may have as many as five or six litters of up to seven rabbits a year, and before she's had the sixth, the young ones from the first are producing themselves. She's an excellent mother, and if being charges by an enraged rabbit is one of the outdoor thrills that has escaped you, try messing with the children when momma's around.

There is much more to be said on the subject, but it can be summarized for these hasty times. If you think that you really don't care for the subject, just try it once in hasenpfeffer.

Mit spaetzel.

Pelicans Defeat Loyola, 9 To 8

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The New Orleans Pelicans squeezed by Loyola of the South 9-8 Saturday in a game halted by darkness after seven innings.

The Pels held a 7-1 lead after two innings but had to push over two runs in the bottom of the seventh to win their fourth straight exhibition game.

New Orleans, held to five hits, opened its scoring with five runs on three walks, a triple by Cob Jarvis and singles by R. C. Otey and Ted Tate. The Pels' tying and winning runs came on an error.

The victory was credited to Earl Mossor who relieved Jim Kite in the sixth. The loss was charged to Bob Delpidio who went to the rescue of Vince Guttuso in the first.

Deadlocked At 212 After Third Round

By HUGH FULLERTON

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Canada's Stan Leonard slammed back with a 3-under-par 69 Saturday and tied defending champion Arnold Palmer for the lead after 54 holes of the 23rd Masters Golf Tournament.

Ex-champion Cary Middlecoff, moving in with a 4-under-par 68, was only a stroke off the pace as Leonard and the muscular Palmer, of Ligonier, Pa., forged a deadlock with 2 totals.

So the game is on for Sunday—the defending titleholder, the ex-champion and the relatively unknown—in the three-man showdown of this classic at massive Augusta National.

That's the way Leonard, a calm, 44-year-old veteran from Vancouver, expressed it after the third round had eliminated virtually all the other contenders.

Leonard, posting his second 69 of the tournament, set the target. Palmer, needing a birdie on the 18th hole to tie for the lead, made it on a 12-foot putt and scored a 71 for the day.

Middlecoff, also needing one birdie on the last three holes to make it a three-way deadlock, parred his way in and failed by a stroke to catch the others. But his 68 gained him the position he likes—where he can win with a strong finish.

It was a finish that provided every kind of thrill for a crowd estimated at 40,000 to 50,000—probably the largest in the history of American golf. And it set up another likely thriller for Sunday. Only the three really remained in the running although National Amateur champion Charlie Coe was only three strokes behind at 215 after a superb 67, the best score of the tournament.

The three contenders all are players who have been tested by competition. Leonard, the oldest, was a club pro in Canada for 17 years before he tried his skill on the U. S. tour. He has won two tournaments and has a calm, unworried attitude.

Middlecoff, 38, has won two U. S. Open championships and was Masters champion in 1955. He didn't play the circuit this winter but won the first tournament he entered at St. Petersburg, Fla., last month.

Palmer, 29, was U. S. Amateur champion five years ago and reached a peak in his successful pro career last spring when he winner in 21 years.

Nearly two dozen players appeared to have some sort of chance when the third round began with 42 survivors of the original field of 87. Two of the greatest, Ben Hogan and Sam Snead, who have accounted for five Masters titles between them, shot their way out early.

Playing together in a grim reminder of their playoff for the Masters title five years ago, Snead scrambled to a 72, even par for the 6,980 yard Augusta National course, leaving him seven strokes behind.

Hogan, putting uncertainly on the front nine, came in with 76 for a 223 total.

INDIANS-GIANTS

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Outfielder Willie Mays, who hasn't hit a home run during the Grapefruit season, unloaded three Saturday as San Francisco trounced Cleveland 17-4.

Derks Field here was jammed with 10,406 baseball fans, the largest paid attendance here in history.

Mays gathered six RBI with the three homers and a double. The Giants smashed 21 hits for 45 bases in winning the fifth of seven exhibition games with the Indians.

San Francisco battered five Cleveland pitchers, as Al McCardle and Jackie Brandt also hit round-trippers for the Giants.

Rocky Colavito homered for two of the Cleveland runs in the seventh frame when the Indians scored three times.

YANKEES-TIGERS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —The New York Yankees banged three home runs Saturday and defeated the Detroit Tigers, 6-5, in the Bombers' final appearance here this spring. Mickey Mantle, Dick Sanders and Cletis Boyer connected.

Duke Maas, ex - Detroit right-hander, went seven innings for the victory and Jim Coates finished. Maas gave up a run in the second on doubles by Eddie Yost and Harvey Kuenn. Catcher Lou Berberet homered in the seventh.

Coates gave up the other two runs in the ninth when he walked two. One scored on a throwing error by shortstop Boyer.

Paul Foytack was the loser. Sanders, who was optioned to Richmond of the International League prior to the game, hit a two - run homer off him in the first.

Boyer's home run came off Tom Morgan in the seventh.

A'S-PHILS

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Harry Chiti slammed a pinch double with one out in the 9th to give the Kansas City Athletics a 6-5 exhibition game victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday.

The A's started the rally when Dick Williams, batting for Bob Martyn, hit a double. Hal Smith struck out, but Zeke Bella walked. Chiti then came up with the double that scored the pair on base.

Earlier in the game Kent Hadley had hammered out two homers and a single for the A's.

RED SOX—CUBS

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Pete Runnels and Vic Wertz drove in three runs apiece but it took a ninth inning error by Chicago's Tony Taylor to give the Boston Red Sox an 8-7 verdict over the Cubs Saturday.

Taylor overthrew first base on a desperate attempt to complete a double play. The ball landed in the seats and Dick Gernert, who had smashed a homer in the seventh, was sent home from second base with the deciding tally.

The Cubs had rallied to tie the score in the eighth on Walt Moryns three-run homer.

Runnels banged a home run and two doubles for three runs batted in and Wertz contributed a double and a single for an additional three RBI.

Gernert's homer took care of the other Boston tally.

The Cubs started off as if they would win in a cakewalk. They pounded starter Dave Sisler for six straight singles and four runs in the opening inning.

CARDS — ORIOLES

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Spectacular fielding plays by Brooks Robinson and Ronnie Hansen choked off a seventh-inning St. Louis rally Saturday night, and the Baltimore Orioles went on to a 5-2 victory over the Cardinals behind the eight-hit pitching of Jack Harshman and Hoyt Wilhelm.

A three-run sortie in the seventh off Phil Clark clinched the verdict after Bob Boyd's double, a wild pitch by Ernie Broglio and Bob Nieman's sacrifice fly had broken a 1-1 tie in the Baltimore fifth.

Highlights of the exhibition, though, were provided by Robinson and Hansen on the left side of the Oriole infield.

Following Ray Jablonski's seventh inning pinch double with one away, the 21-year-old Robinson leaped to his left to knock down Don Blasingame's hot smash and toss him out.

Seconds later, Joe Cunningham lashed a ground single through the middle which the 20-year-old Hansen stabbed on the grass behind second base.

Still off balance, the Baltimore shortstop whirled and flung a perfect peg to catcher Gus Triandos, nipping pinch runner Lee Tate as he atttmpted to register the tying run from second.

REDS-BRAVES

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves defeated Cincinnati 9-3 Saturday, belting Don Newcombe for 15 hits, including home runs by Frank Torre and Wes Covington.

Joining in the hitfest was the Braves' Eddie Mathews, who had gone 0-for-14 in the last few games. The muscular third baseman collected two singles.

The victory gave the Braves an exhibition record of 8-15.

Cincinnati's record stands at 12-15.

Lew Burdette got credit for the victory, giving up seven hits in the first seven frames. Don McMahon held the Reds hitless in the final two.

Torre and Hank Aaron led the attack with three hits apiece. Torre's homer came with one on in the first. Ed Bailey clubbed a solo homer for the Reds, clearing the fence in deep right centerfield in the seventh.

PIRATES—WHITE SOX

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Bob Skinner's two-run single in the ninth off Don Rudolph gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 10-9 triumph over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

The Bucs rapped Dick Donovan, Claude Raymond and Rudolph for 16 hits. Donovan yielded 11 of the hits and eight runs in seven innings.

Ron Kline, winner Ben Daniels and Bob Porterfield were raked for 14 hits by the White Sox, who had a 7-1 lead in two innings. Norm Cash slammed the only homer of the contest which closed the White Sox Florida campaign.

INDIANS DROP OPENER

Rouse Hurls Northeast To Twin Bill Split With SLC

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer

Third baseman Gary Huckabay doubled in the winning run with two out in the eighth frame of the extra inning nightcap for a 2-1 Northeast victory to give the Indians a split with Southeastern after the Lions were handed the first game, 6-5, on five unearned tallies here Saturday afternoon.

Huckabay's solid blow to deep right center matched a brilliant four-hit effort by junior hurler Jerry Rouse and pushed the Indians into the GSC win column for the first time this season. Coach George Luffey's club has now dropped two games to Gulf States competition. SLC beaten Friday by Louisiana Tech, have an identical conference record of 1-2.

Jerry Salamone, Southeastern second baseman, suffered a broken ankle in the second inning of the opener. Northeast's George Bryan collided with Salamone on an attempted force play at the keystone sack after a grounder by Phil Petras and the Lion infielder had to be helped off the field.

Rouse and the Lions' C. J. Payne hooked up in a no-hit duel for three innings before catcher John Dayries touched the Indian right hander for a scratch hit in the fourth. Northeast countered with its first hit and run in the bottom of the fourth on a single to center by Ike McMullen.

Nick Keller came on in the fifth frame for SLC and blanked the hosts until the fateful extra-inning. Harry Rushing went down on strikes to open the eighth for Northeast. First sacker George Bryan followed with the second hit off Keller, a looping liner to right. Freedie Peters, who entered the game for Mitchell Hughes in the seventh, was caught looking at a third strike and outfielder James Mock worked Keller for a walk.

Then Huckabay, who led the nation in runs batted in among small colleges last year, took two called strikes and boomed Keller's third pitch to deep right centerfield and Bryan streaked home standing up with the winning run.

Ike McMullen gave Northeast a short-lived 1-0 margin in the fourth with a run-scoring single, but the tenacious Lions bounced back to tie it up in the fifth.

With two out, Mock walked to set the stage for McMullen's blow, the first of the game for the Northeast club. Payne followed with another free pass to Huckabay and McMullen sent a rifle shot through the mound for the Indian hit and run.

Dayries gave SLC its only run in the fifth after he led off with an infield hit. Rouse struck out Payne and Frank Misuraca rapped a single to push Dayries to third. Buddy Ruddick then drove a hard smash to short that Phil Petras couldn't hold and Dayries galloped in with the marker.

Northeast sent Payne to the showers in the fifth after a walk to catcher Ralph Ward. Keller' relieved and Rouse sacrificed Ward to third after the Indian had stolen second. Rushing walked faked a dash to second and the alert Lion infield trapped Ward between third and home. Bryan flied out to end the threat.

Southeastern put two runners on in the first and fourth but couldn't make them count. An error by Rushing and a walk to Sheldon Fernandez gave the invaders runners on first and second with one out but the next two batters couldn't get the ball out of the infield.

Two errors and a hit loaded the sacks for SLC in the fourth, Jimmy Ruddick fanned and George Grosche hit into a double play.

Rouse gave up hits in only the fourth, fifth and sixth and whiffed four in going the route. Keller was tagged with the loss.

Jay Gross, Northeast's mound ace who was the most valuable player in last week's Easter Tournament pitched creditable ball in the opener, but shoddy play in the field gave SLC five gift runs.

The Indians picked up two runs in the second and three more in the third and held a 5-4 advantage until the last inning. Three hits and a wild throw by Gross wrapped up the game for the Lions.

Southeastern notched two unearned markers in the opening stanza after the first two men grounded out. Fernandez worked Gross for a walk and Huckabay booted a ground ball by Chuck Mason for what would have been the final out. Given new life, the Lions took the advantage and Jerry Salamone blasted a double to left for the two runs.

Mock walked and Huckabay pushed him to second with a single. Hughes, attempting to sacrifice, bunted and Dayries threw to third too late to nail Mock. John O'Conner lined to first and when Fernandez dropped the ball trying to tag Hughes, Huckabay scampered in with the second score.

Three more Indians crossed the plate in the third to provide Gross with a temporary 5-2 lead. McMullen walked and Mock was nicked by Robert Hardy, who went three innings for Southeastern.

Hughes picked on a fast ball and bounced a ground-rule two-bagger over the right field fence to drive in McMullen. Third baseman Misuraca fumbled O'Conners grounder and two more runs tallied for the Indians.

Mike McGuffee, freshman from Enterprise, took over on the hill for SLC in the fourth after starter Hardy was lifted for a pinch hitter. He whiffed four of the first six batters he faced and held the Indians in check the rest of the game.

The winners narrowed the margin to one run in the sixth on errors by Huckabay, McMullen and Rushing and a hit by Rodney Fuhrman.

In the seventh, with one out, McMullen tried to shoestring Mason's line drive to left and it fell in for a double. Jimmy Ruddick singled him to tie the score, and Wayne Newsom came through with a three-bagger to win the game.

Isendu First In Handicap At Jamaica

NEW YORK (AP)—Wee Willie Shoemaker rode six winners, including Brookfield Farms' Isendu in the $27,650 Paumonok Handicap before a crowd of 37,738, largest of the season, at Jamaica Saturday.

Evenly weighted at 123 pounds Isendu and Calument Farm's Kentucky Pride were in a head and head duel most of the way with Isendu, on the inside, scoring by half a length.

Kentucky Pride, the 3-2 favorite though he had never beaten Isendu in two meetings, was second by a length and a half over Georgiana Foster's Viscount. Natalie R. Lynch's Nan's Mink was fourth.

The sensational riding of Shoemaker, only jockey to win the national championship four times, stole the show from the feature. He had mounts in eight of the nine races.

Shoemaker won the opener with Darling Linda ($8.40) and the second with Little Leaguer ($9) for a $33.20 double.

Manuel Ycaza won the third and fourth races with Succabone ($12.50) and Greek Page ($5.20). Shoemaker finished out of the money aboard Quadreme in the third, and had no mount in the fourth.

Then Shoemaker won four straight, with Land of Hope ($11), Black Hills ($4.50), Isendu, and Our Dad ($3.30). His mount in the ninth and last race was Dad's Delight, who finished eighth and last.

It was one of several such performances put on by Willie in his illustrious career. On Aug. 16, 1955, at Washington Park, he won six times in seven mounts and in 1953, the year he establishtd a record of 485 victories, he twice had six winners in one day.

The all-time Jamaica record is Alfred Robertson's "six of seven" on Oct. 9, 1941, when there were only seven races daily.

Isendu paid $5.50, $2.70, $3.20. Kentucky Pride returned $2.80, $2.30, and Viscount was $2.90.

The time for the 6 furlongs was 1:10.4.

Subs Sparkle As Celtics Beat Minneapolis, 118-115

By BOB HOOBING

BOSTON (AP)—Boston turned turned to its bench strength for a pulsating 118-115 comeback National Basketball Assn. playoff victory over Minneapolis Saturday with Kentucky fireman Frank Ramsey and sharpshooter Sam Jones in key roles.

The Celtics took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven championship series as they defeated the Lakers for the 19th consecutive time.

Through the great efforts of rookie of the year Elgin Baylor who scored 34 points and 10-year league veteran Vern Mikkelsen who added 23, the Lakers stormed back from a 12-point halftime deficit to battle Boston to the wire.

It took a pair of free throws by Ramsey and some fancy dribbling by Jones to eke out the decision despite the fact a late spurt carried the home team to a 111-103 bulge. Over the last few minutes the Lakers outscored the Celtics 12-3 with Baylor doing most of the damage.

Ramsey drew a back court foul from Mikkelsen with half a minute to play and scored both of them to make the count 118-113 and put the game virtually on ice for the favored Celtics. Jones' trigger dribbling ran out the clock after Baylor got the final two-pointer.

Ramsey paced the winners with 29 points.

Minneapolis tightened its defense and capitalized on a cold-shooting period by Boston to pull up from a 65-53 deficit to an 84-all deadlock at the end of the third quarter.

Mikkelsen, who played on four of the Lakers' five world championship clubs, dropped in 15 of the team's 31 points in that span.

Dick Garmaker opened the final period with a long set shot as the Lakers forged in front and a Boston Garden crowd of 8,195 gave a moan.

The nationally televised contest remained back and forth over the next two minutes until Bob Cousy and Tommy Heinsohn combined with Ramsey and Jones to spark the Celts.

A patented one-hander from the top of the key by Cousy sent Boston ahead 91-90 and Jones hit on a set from the corner.

Jim Krebs, the former Southern Methodist star, closed the gap again for Minneapolis to 93-92 before Cousy wound up with another one-hander that rattled the rim and Heinsohn collected two free throws that pushed the Boston margin to 97-92.

Minneapolis chipped away and was within four points again when Ramsey drew a foul on Baylor and converted his try. Jones hit a jump, Ramsey fed Heinsohn underneath the bucket, Ramsey hit a set, Bill Russell scored on a free throw, and Ramsey fired in a jump.

It was Mikkelsen, Baylor, Mikkelsen, Garmaker, Fust and a couple of Baylor jumpers before the bell rang and the Lakers had fallen just short.

In the final analysis, Boston won from the foul line.

The Celts connected on 24 of 32 chances while Minneapolis had 15 of 27. Baylor missed seven tries at the line—very unusual for this star of the six-game upset of defending world titlist St. Louis in the semifinal playoff series.

The Lakers had a 50-47 edge in field goals.

Heinsohn finished second behind Ramsey among Boston scorers with 24 while Jim Loscutoff had 14, Bill Sharman 13 and Jones and Cousy 12 each.

Gene Conley had nine points but more important for the 6-8 fugitive from baseball, he had 13 rebounds in the first half.

Ramsey and Conley came off the bench before intermission to guide the Celts into their 12-point halftime bulge.

WILDLIFE GROUP

Castor Creek Club Names Barton Prexy

OLLA, La. (Special) Deputy Sheriff Clifton Barton of LaSalle parish was elected president of the Castor Creek Wildlife Club at its organizational meeting here Friday night.

More than fifty sportsmen of the Urania, Kelly, Tullos, and Olla area met here to organize the second wildlife club for LaSalle parish. The first, the LaSalle Sportsmen's Club, was organized recently at Jena.

Pete Henderson, was elected vice president of the Castor group and Benny Zeagler, was named secretary-treasurer.

Elected to the state board of directors as representatives of the new club were E. E. Sims and Gove D. Davis.

Upon accepting the take of leading the Castor Creek sportsmen in their first year, Deputy Barton called for all sportsmen of the Urania-Olla-Kelly-Tullos area to join the club and participate in the program for wildlife in this area.

A major project already in motion is the damming of Castor Creek to create a huge lake that is expected to make this area a great attraction to sportsmen from throughout the state.

Attending the meeting here were several sportsmen from Monroe, including H. Y. "Hi" Johnson, V. A. Capers, Robert B. Boyd, John Boyd, Thomas Boyd, and A. S. "Bud" Tidwell Jr., members for the Ouachita Unit of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation. Capers is president of the Ouachita Valley Coon Hunters Association.

Bridgeport Cops Biddy Cage Title

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Bridgeport, Conn., won the International Biddy Basketball Tournament for the second straight year Saturday, defeating New Orleans, 50-46.

Only one other team has won the tournament in consecutive years. Jersey City, N. J., was the champion in 1954 and 1955 and also won in 1952.

Puerto Rico finished in third place by beating Bedford, Ind., 46-38. New York edged New Jersey 32-30 in the consolation finals.

Orioles Send Two To Minors

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles Saturday assigned pitcher Chuck Estrada to Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League, and outfielder Leo Burke to the International League's Miami Marlins.

Jim Caldwell, 20-year-old catcher, was sent to the Birds' minor league base at Thomasville, Ga.

The action reduced Baltimore's roster to 31.

Plans Strong Round, Fires Underpar 69

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Stan Leonard met Arnold Palmer coming out of the club house before the start of Saturday's third round in the Masters Golf Tournament and gave him this friendly warning:

"Don't look over your shoulder out there today, Arnie."

The six-times Canadian Open champion meant he intended to burn up the course and overhaul Palmer, who was leading Leonard by two strokes: and that Palmer might get rattled if he checked the scoreboards.

Leonard did just what he planned to do, firing a e-under-par 69.

And Arnold took Stan's advice.

"If I'd looked over my shoulder I'd still be out there," he said.

As it was, he scrambled to a 71, good enough to hold a tie for first with Leonard at 212.

Palmer, the defending champion and Leonard agreed when asked what they thhought they'd need to shoot Sunday to win.

"I have no idea," said Palmer. "I ain't saying a thing," said Leonard.

It will be age vs. youth: Leonard is 44, Palmer 29. But the 15 years he's spotting Palmer didn't seem to worry Leonard.

"I think I can go one more round," he said with a grin. "I guess the game is on now," said the balding Canadian, even before Palmer had canned a 12-foot birdie putt on 18 for the tie.

"I'd like to have a green coat," he added. In addition to a big hunk of chas, each Masters winner gets a green coat such as those worn by Augusta National Golf Club members.

LITTLE, DIXIE LEAGUES

765 Boys Show Up For Tryouts

Approximately 765 boys, trying out for 95 vacancies, turned out yesterday as the two Littile League and the Dixie circuit opened tryouts here.

Four hundred youngsters swamped supervisors in the Northside Little League workout at Bendel Memorial Stadium. Recreation Department director Jack Hesketh said not all of the boys got a chance to work out because of the overflow.

Hesketh said only about 40 new players can be used in the Northside League and about 35 in the Southside circuit, which had 275 show up at Lion Field for tryouts.

Hesketh said boys left over from the Little League tryouts would play in the Minor leagues if enough managers can be recruited.

"We don't anticipate much trouble in getting sponsors but we need managers badly," Hesketh said.

Hesketh said he hoped to add two more teams to the four that played in the Dixie League last season but again the trouble was managers. He said he could get sponsors but needed a couple of managers.

Ninety 13 and 14 year-olds turned out for the Dixie workouts at Legion Stadium. Presently only about 20 berths are open in the Dixie loop, Hesketh said.

The Little League workouts would be handled differently next Saturday, Hesketh said, with the boys divided into age groups.

Eight-year-olds are scheduled to practice at 8:30 nine-year-olds at 9:30, 10-year-olds at 10:15 and 11 and 12-year-olds at 11 o'clock.

Rouse Hurls Northeast To Twin Bill Split With SLC

By JIM CALHOUN
Staff Sports Writer

Third baseman Gary Huckabay doubled in the winning run with two out in the eighth frame of the extra inning nightcap for a 2-1 Northeast victory to give the Indians a split with Southeastern after the Lions were handed the first game, 6-5, on five unearned tallies here Saturday afternoon.

Huckabay's solid blow to deep right center matched a brilliant four-hit effort by junior hurler Jerry Rouse and pushed the Indians into the GSC win column for the first time this season. Coach George Luffey's club has now dropped two games to Gulf States competition. SLC beaten Friday by Louisiana Tech, have an identical conference record of 1-2.

Jerry Salamone, Southeastern second baseman, suffered a broken ankle in the second inning of the opener. Northeast's George Bryan collided with Salamone on an attempted force play at the keystone sack after a grounder by Phil Petras and the Lion infielder had to be helped off the field.

Rouse and the Lions' C. J. Payne hooked up in a no-hit duel for three innings before catcher John Dayries touched the Indian right hander for a scratch hit in the fourth. Northeast countered with its first hit and run in the bottom of the fourth on a single to center by Ike McMullen.

Nick Keller came on in the fifth frame for SLC and blanked the hosts until the fateful extra-inning. Harry Rushing went down on strikes to open the eighth for Northeast. First sacker George Bryan followed with the second hit off Keller, a looping liner to right. Freedie Peters, who entered the game for Mitchell Hughes in the seventh, was caught looking at a third strike and outfielder James Mock worked Keller for a walk.

Then Huckabay, who led the nation in runs batted in among small colleges last year, took two called strikes and boomed Keller's third pitch to deep right centerfield and Bryan streaked home standing up with the winning run.

Ike McMullen gave Northeast a short-lived 1-0 margin in the fourth with a run-scoring single, but the tenacious Lions bounced back to tie it up in the fifth.

With two out, Mock walked to set the stage for McMullen's blow, the first of the game for the Northeast club. Payne followed with another free pass to Huckabay and McMullen sent a rifle shot through the mound for the Indian hit and run.

Dayries gave SLC its only run in the fifth after he led off with an infield hit. Rouse struck out Payne and Frank Misuraca rapped a single to push Dayries to third. Buddy Ruddick then drove a hard smash to short that Phil Petras couldn't hold and Dayries galloped in with the marker.

Northeast sent Payne to the showers in the fifth after a walk to catcher Ralph Ward. Keller' relieved and Rouse sacrificed Ward to third after the Indian had stolen second. Rushing walked faked a dash to second and the alert Lion infield trapped Ward between third and home. Bryan flied out to end the threat.

Southeastern put two runners on in the first and fourth but couldn't make them count. An error by Rushing and a walk to Sheldon Fernandez gave the invaders runners on first and second with one out but the next two batters couldn't get the ball out of the infield.

Two errors and a hit loaded the sacks for SLC in the fourth, Jimmy Ruddick fanned and George Grosche hit into a double play.

Rouse gave up hits in only the fourth, fifth and sixth and whiffed four in going the route. Keller was tagged with the loss.

Jay Gross, Northeast's mound ace who was the most valuable player in last week's Easter Tournament pitched creditable ball in the opener, but shoddy play in the field gave SLC five gift runs.

The Indians picked up two runs in the second and three more in the third and held a 5-4 advantage until the last inning. Three hits and a wild throw by Gross wrapped up the game for the Lions.

Southeastern notched two unearned markers in the opening stanza after the first two men grounded out. Fernandez worked Gross for a walk and Huckabay booted a ground ball by Chuck Mason for what would have been the final out. Given new life, the Lions took the advantage and Jerry Salamone blasted a double to left for the two runs.

Mock walked and Huckabay pushed him to second with a single. Hughes, attempting to sacrifice, bunted and Dayries threw to third too late to nail Mock. John O'Conner lined to first and when Fernandez dropped the ball trying to tag Hughes, Huckabay scampered in with the second score.

Three more Indians crossed the plate in the third to provide Gross with a temporary 5-2 lead. McMullen walked and Mock was nicked by Robert Hardy, who went three innings for Southeastern.

Hughes picked on a fast ball and bounced a ground-rule two-bagger over the right field fence to drive in McMullen. Third baseman Misuraca fumbled O'Conners grounder and two more runs tallied for the Indians.

Mike McGuffee, freshman from Enterprise, took over on the hill for SLC in the fourth after starter Hardy was lifted for a pinch hitter. He whiffed four of the first six batters he faced and held the Indians in check the rest of the game.

The winners narrowed the margin to one run in the sixth on errors by Huckabay, McMullen and Rushing and a hit by Rodney Fuhrman.

In the seventh, with one out, McMullen tried to shoestring Mason's line drive to left and it fell in for a double. Jimmy Ruddick singled him to tie the score, and Wayne Newsom came through with a three-bagger to win the game.

Isendu First In Handicap At Jamaica

NEW YORK (AP)—Wee Willie Shoemaker rode six winners, including Brookfield Farms' Isendu in the $27,650 Paumonok Handicap before a crowd of 37,738, largest of the season, at Jamaica Saturday.

Evenly weighted at 123 pounds Isendu and Calument Farm's Kentucky Pride were in a head and head duel most of the way with Isendu, on the inside, scoring by half a length.

Kentucky Pride, the 3-2 favorite though he had never beaten Isendu in two meetings, was second by a length and a half over Georgiana Foster's Viscount. Natalie R. Lynch's Nan's Mink was fourth.

The sensational riding of Shoemaker, only jockey to win the national championship four times, stole the show from the feature. He had mounts in eight of the nine races.

Shoemaker won the opener with Darling Linda ($8.40) and the second with Little Leaguer ($9) for a $33.20 double.

Manuel Ycaza won the third and fourth races with Succabone ($12.50) and Greek Page ($5.20). Shoemaker finished out of the money aboard Quadreme in the third, and had no mount in the fourth.

Then Shoemaker won four straight, with Land of Hope ($11), Black Hills ($4.50), Isendu, and Our Dad ($3.30). His mount in the ninth and last race was Dad's Delight, who finished eighth and last.

It was one of several such performances put on by Willie in his illustrious career. On Aug. 16, 1955, at Washington Park, he won six times in seven mounts and in 1953, the year he establishtd a record of 485 victories, he twice had six winners in one day.

The all-time Jamaica record is Alfred Robertson's "six of seven" on Oct. 9, 1941, when there were only seven races daily.

Isendu paid $5.50, $2.70, $3.20. Kentucky Pride returned $2.80, $2.30, and Viscount was $2.90.

The time for the 6 furlongs was 1:10.4.

PLAYOFF OPENER

Subs Sparkle As Celtics Beat Minneapolis, 118-115

By BOB HOOBING

BOSTON (AP)—Boston turned turned to its bench strength for a pulsating 118-115 comeback National Basketball Assn. playoff victory over Minneapolis Saturday with Kentucky fireman Frank Ramsey and sharpshooter Sam Jones in key roles.

The Celtics took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven championship series as they defeated the Lakers for the 19th consecutive time.

Through the great efforts of rookie of the year Elgin Baylor who scored 34 points and 10-year league veteran Vern Mikkelsen who added 23, the Lakers stormed back from a 12-point halftime deficit to battle Boston to the wire.

It took a pair of free throws by Ramsey and some fancy dribbling by Jones to eke out the decision despite the fact a late spurt carried the home team to a 111-103 bulge. Over the last few minutes the Lakers outscored the Celtics 12-3 with Baylor doing most of the damage.

Ramsey drew a back court foul from Mikkelsen with half a minute to play and scored both of them to make the count 118-113 and put the game virtually on ice for the favored Celtics. Jones' trigger dribbling ran out the clock after Baylor got the final two-pointer.

Ramsey paced the winners with 29 points.

Minneapolis tightened its defense and capitalized on a cold-shooting period by Boston to pull up from a 65-53 deficit to an 84-all deadlock at the end of the third quarter.

Mikkelsen, who played on four of the Lakers' five world championship clubs, dropped in 15 of the team's 31 points in that span.

Dick Garmaker opened the final period with a long set shot as the Lakers forged in front and a Boston Garden crowd of 8,195 gave a moan.

The nationally televised contest remained back and forth over the next two minutes until Bob Cousy and Tommy Heinsohn combined with Ramsey and Jones to spark the Celts.

A patented one-hander from the top of the key by Cousy sent Boston ahead 91-90 and Jones hit on a set from the corner.

Jim Krebs, the former Southern Methodist star, closed the gap again for Minneapolis to 93-92 before Cousy wound up with another one-hander that rattled the rim and Heinsohn collected two free throws that pushed the Boston margin to 97-92.

Minneapolis chipped away and was within four points again when Ramsey drew a foul on Baylor and converted his try. Jones hit a jump, Ramsey fed Heinsohn underneath the bucket, Ramsey hit a set, Bill Russell scored on a free throw, and Ramsey fired in a jump.

It was Mikkelsen, Baylor, Mikkelsen, Garmaker, Fust and a couple of Baylor jumpers before the bell rang and the Lakers had fallen just short.

In the final analysis, Boston won from the foul line.

The Celts connected on 24 of 32 chances while Minneapolis had 15 of 27. Baylor missed seven tries at the line—very unusual for this star of the six-game upset of defending world titlist St. Louis in the semifinal playoff series.

The Lakers had a 50-47 edge in field goals.

Heinsohn finished second behind Ramsey among Boston scorers with 24 while Jim Loscutoff had 14, Bill Sharman 13 and Jones and Cousy 12 each.

Gene Conley had nine points but more important for the 6-8 fugitive from baseball, he had 13 rebounds in the first half.

Ramsey and Conley came off the bench before intermission to guide the Celts into their 12-point halftime bulge.

WILDLIFE GROUP

Castor Creek Club Names Barton Prexy

OLLA, La. (Special) Deputy Sheriff Clifton Barton of LaSalle parish was elected president of the Castor Creek Wildlife Club at its organizational meeting here Friday night.

More than fifty sportsmen of the Urania, Kelly, Tullos, and Olla area met here to organize the second wildlife club for LaSalle parish. The first, the LaSalle Sportsmen's Club, was organized recently at Jena.

Pete Henderson, was elected vice president of the Castor group and Benny Zeagler, was named secretary-treasurer.

Elected to the state board of directors as representatives of the new club were E. E. Sims and Gove D. Davis.

Upon accepting the take of leading the Castor Creek sportsmen in their first year, Deputy Barton called for all sportsmen of the Urania-Olla-Kelly-Tullos area to join the club and participate in the program for wildlife in this area.

A major project already in motion is the damming of Castor Creek to create a huge lake that is expected to make this area a great attraction to sportsmen from throughout the state.

Attending the meeting here were several sportsmen from Monroe, including H. Y. "Hi" Johnson, V. A. Capers, Robert B. Boyd, John Boyd, Thomas Boyd, and A. S. "Bud" Tidwell Jr., members for the Ouachita Unit of the Louisiana Wildlife Federation. Capers is president of the Ouachita Valley Coon Hunters Association.

Plans Strong Round, Fires Underpar 69

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Stan Leonard met Arnold Palmer coming out of the club house before the start of Saturday's third round in the Masters Golf Tournament and gave him this friendly warning:

"Don't look over your shoulder out there today, Arnie."

The six-times Canadian Open champion meant he intended to burn up the course and overhaul Palmer, who was leading Leonard by two strokes: and that Palmer might get rattled if he checked the scoreboards.

Leonard did just what he planned to do, firing a e-under-par 69.

And Arnold took Stan's advice.

"If I'd looked over my shoulder I'd still be out there," he said.

As it was, he scrambled to a 71, good enough to hold a tie for first with Leonard at 212.

Palmer, the defending champion and Leonard agreed when asked what they thhought they'd need to shoot Sunday to win.

"I have no idea," said Palmer. "I ain't saying a thing," said Leonard.

It will be age vs. youth: Leonard is 44, Palmer 29. But the 15 years he's spotting Palmer didn't seem to worry Leonard.

"I think I can go one more round," he said with a grin. "I guess the game is on now," said the balding Canadian, even before Palmer had canned a 12-foot birdie putt on 18 for the tie.

"I'd like to have a green coat," he added. In addition to a big hunk of chas, each Masters winner gets a green coat such as those worn by Augusta National Golf Club members.

Bridgeport Cops Biddy Cage Title

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Bridgeport, Conn., won the International Biddy Basketball Tournament for the second straight year Saturday, defeating New Orleans, 50-46.

Only one other team has won the tournament in consecutive years. Jersey City, N. J., was the champion in 1954 and 1955 and also won in 1952.

Puerto Rico finished in third place by beating Bedford, Ind., 46-38. New York edged New Jersey 32-30 in the consolation finals.

Orioles Send Two To Minors

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles Saturday assigned pitcher Chuck Estrada to Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League, and outfielder Leo Burke to the International League's Miami Marlins.

Jim Caldwell, 20-year-old catcher, was sent to the Birds' minor league base at Thomasville, Ga.

The action reduced Baltimore's roster to 31.

LITTLE, DIXIE LEAGUES

765 Boys Show Up For Tryouts

Approximately 765 boys, trying out for 95 vacancies, turned out yesterday as the two Littile League and the Dixie circuit opened tryouts here.

Four hundred youngsters swamped supervisors in the Northside Little League workout at Bendel Memorial Stadium. Recreation Department director Jack Hesketh said not all of the boys got a chance to work out because of the overflow.

Hesketh said only about 40 new players can be used in the Northside League and about 35 in the Southside circuit, which had 275 show up at Lion Field for tryouts.

Hesketh said boys left over from the Little League tryouts would play in the Minor leagues if enough managers can be recruited

"We don't anticipate much trouble in getting sponsors but we need managers badly," Hesketh said.

Hesketh said he hoped to add two more teams to the four that played in the Dixie League last season but again the trouble was managers. He said he could get sponsors but needed a couple of managers.

Ninety 13 and 14 year-olds turned out for the Dixie workouts at Legion Stadium. Presently only about 20 berths are open in the Dixie loop, Hesketh said.

The Little League workouts would be handled differently next Saturday, Hesketh said, with the boys divided into age groups.

Eight-year-olds are scheduled to practice at 8:30 nine-year-olds at 9:30, 10-year-olds at 10:15 and 11 and 12-year-olds at 11 o'clock.

RECORDS EXPECTED TO TOPPLE

Greatest Field Ever Seen For Southwestern Relays

LAFAYETTE, La. (Special) — The greatest field of athletes ever to assemble in Louisiana will be on hand for the 31st annual Southwestern Relays April 9-11 at SLI's McNaspy Stadium in Lafayette — and Relays officials predict that records will topple in wholesale lots.

Oklahoma, LSU, Houston University, Kansas State, Tulane, six Gulf States conference colleges and several Lone Star Conference schools will enter full teams in the 1959 Relays. In addition, a number of individual competitors will represent colleges and universities in six states.

Record -breaking performonces are expected in both high school and collegiate competition. Some 400 athletes from more than 80 high schools will see action Thursday and Friday, April 9-10. On Saturday the college and university finals will be held.

A special feature of this year's Relays will pit Olympic champion sprinter, Bobby Morrow, against a hand - picked field in an invitational 100-yard dash event. Running against Morrow — who shares the world's record of 9.3 seconds for the century — will be Dave Styron of Northeast State, Olin Cassel of Houston, and Pat Garrett of Louisiana Tech.

Cassel and Styron have both been clocked at 9.4, while Garrett has run several 9.5's. Morrow hopes to lower the world's record to 9.2 in his Relays appearance.

Oklahoma University's Sooners cracked five records last year and will be primed for another all - out assault on the record book. LSU athletes will threaten two — and perhaps three — Relays records. Houston University's strong team, coached by Johnny Morris, will also take dead aim at a number of standards. Kansas State's sprint medley team cracked a Relays record last year and hope to lower their own record this year.

LSU's sensational sophomore hurler, Dickie Durham, stands a good chance of setting a new Relays mark in the 120-high hurdles. The Relays record is 14.4 seconds, set by Dick Pruett of Houston in 1956. Durham has been clocked at 14 seconds flat this season.

The LSU 440-yard relay team, with All-American halfback, Billy Cannon, running the anchor leg, could set a new record in the event. Houston and Baylor share the record of 41.2 seconds for the event. LSU's team has been clocked at 41 seconds flat in competition this season.

The oldest Relays record on the books was shattered last year when huge George Church of Oklahoma pushed the 16-pound shot 54-8 to shatter the 53-6 record set in 1934 by Jack Torrance of LSU. No other Relays record is more than three years old, giving an indication of the all - around excellence of recent competition in the big track and field carnival.

An indication of the type of competition on tap for the 1959 Relays can be gleaned from the 100 yard dash field. In college and university competition, it's going to take a 9.6 to even qualify for the final heat. Cannon (9.4), Northeast State's Don Styron (9.4), Louisiana Tech's Pat Garrett (9.5), Houston's Olin Cassell (9.4), and East Texas State's Ken Baird (9.6) are only seven of the more than a dozen sprinters who will compete in the century.

Competition will be just as severe in most other events.

In high school competition, Byrd High of Shreveport will send track relay teams to Lafayette with excellent chances of shattering the 440, sprint medley, and mile relay marks. Two Lafayette High athletes — Edward Red in the javelin and Don Wiley in the discus — will take aim at Relays records in Class AAA prep competition.

Wiley has thrown the discus better than 155 feet in the competition this year, bettering the Relays record of 146' 9½" by Fred Clark of Baton Rouge High in 1957. Reds top throw this season in the javelin is 196-1. That eclipses the Relay standard of 183-6 by Bob Childress of Byrd High, set in 1952.

Preliminaries for class B and C schools will begin at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, April 9. Competition will continue throughout the day.

The class A, AA and AAA schools will open preliminaries at 9:30 a.m. Friday, April 10. Competition will continue throughout the day.

Preliminaries in the college and university division will begin at 9:45 a.m. Saturday, April 11. The finals will get underway with the two mile relay at 1:30 p.m. The invitational 100-yard dash featuring Bobby Morrow will be held at 2:00 p.m.

Advance tickets for the Relays will go on sale Wednesday, April 1 at the SLI business office in Martin Hall. The office will be open from 8-5 daily, except Saturday and Sunday.

Home Pros Play At Lake Charles

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Defending champion Dick Metz and four other former titleholders face the troublesome combination of a long jinx and red-hot newcomer Mason Rudolph when the $5,000 Lake Charles Invitational Golf Tournament opens Thursday. It will be played over the 6,365-yard, par 72 Lake Charles Country Club course.

The long-standing hex is that no tournament winner has defended his title successfully and the 72-hole event, designed strictly for the nation's teaching pros, is up for its seventh staging.

The 51-year old Metz, who recently served connections with a Fort Worth, Tex., country club, won last year's renewal in a sudden death playoff with Buster Cupit of Fort Smith, Ark. Metz, plagued over the years with an uncooperative putter, rolled in a 40-footer from off the green on the third hole of the playoff.

The 24-year old Rudolph, a native of Clarksville, Tex., recently turned professional after an amateur career that included a stint on U.S. Walker Cup team and a victory in the highly prized Western Amateur.

Rudolph won the Gulf Coast Invitational two weeks ago at Gulfport, Miss., and set a tournament record of 11-under-par 273 in the process. The Lake Charles tournament is patterned after the older Gulf Coast and limits its entries to home professionals who spend the year teaching the game to aspiring duffers.

Other ex-champions who will be trying to break the jinx and take young Rudolph in stride include Charlie Harper of Columbus, Ga., the titlist in 1957; host professional Gray Little, the 1954 winner; amateur B. J. Murphy of Shreveport, La., who topped the field in 1953; and Cupit, the 1955 winner.

Florida Derby Money Goes To Easy Spur

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—James D. Norris' Easy Spur caught Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer 50 yards from the finish to win the $116,400 Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park Saturday.

Easy Spur, even money choice with the crowd of 24,246, ran the mile and a furlong in 1:47 1-5 under a heady ride by Bill Hartack and beat Sword Dancer by three quarters of a length.

Norwood Stable's Master Palynch, winner of the Louisiana Derby last month, took third money and Mrs. S. H. Sadacca's The Chosen One was fourth in the nine-horse field.

Bayard Sharp's Troilus, second choice at 2-1 after winning the Flamingo Stakes in February, was last.

Easy Spur paid $3.80, $2.90 and $2.80. Sword Dancer, third choice at 4-1, returned $4 and $3.70 and show price on Master Palynch was $8.70.

Bastrop Club To Hold Workout

BASTROP, La. (Special) — Manager Leon Langston has announced the first tryout session for boys interested in playing on Bastrop's entry in the proposed North Louisiana - South Arkansas amateur baseball league will be held here Sunday afternoon.

The workout will be held on the Bastrop High School diamond.

Langston urged all interested boys 18 or over living in Morehouse Parish to attend the workout.

Spahn To Pitch Braves' Opener

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Veteran southpaw Warren Spahn was named Saturday to pitch for the Milwaukee Braves when the National League champions open the season at Pittsburgh next Friday.

It was a foregone conclusion that Manager Fred Haney would select the nine-time 20-game winner for the opener after Spahn's three-hit shutout against St. Louis March 24.

Haney also announced that the roster was cut to 30 players with the assignment of pitcher Jerry Nelson, infielder Casey Wise and outfielder Al Spangler to Louisville of the American Assn. Catcher Joe Lonnett, already on the Louisville roster, was returned to that club.

Techmen Tumble Demons In Pair

RUSTON, La. (Special)--Louisiana Tech's home-run power routed Northwestern, 12-4, in the first game of a doubleheader here yesterday, with the Bulldogs edging the Demons, 5-4, in the second tilt.

The wins give Tech a 7-2 record for the season and three victories without a loss in Gulf States Conference.

J. W. Mercer and Gareth Methvin turned in route-going mound performances for Tech, with Larry Reeves and Billy Roy Cook absorbing the losses for the Demons.

In the first tilt, NSC got two of its runs in the first inning without a hit. An error and two walks filled the bases and Mercer hit Kemp Gordon to force in a run. David Sosa's sacrifice fly scored the other. An error and single by Ralph Conrad and Gordon accounted for the other two Demon runs in the seventh.

Tech got started on a solo homer by Jack Moreland in the third. Then Glen Schuler doubled and a hit batsman an error loaded the bases. Reeves then issued two walks to force in two runs.

B. K. Miller and Jim Orton each slammed two-run homers in the fifth and Mercer clouted a three-run roundtripper in the sixth.

Mercer, although bothered by wildness, tossed a three-hitter to win his second game without a loss.

Methvin upped his record to 2-1 with the second game victory.

In the second contest, NSC took the lead in the first when Conrad singled, stole second and scored on a single by Gordon.

Tech got two runs in the bottom of the first on Clyde Thompson's double and another homer by Orton, his fifth in nine games.

A walk, singles by Conrad, Gordan and Sosa and a Tech error gave the Demons two more runs in the third. Tech got them back in the bottom of the frame when Orton singled, Scott walked and Glen Schuler tripled.

Tech increased its lead to 5-3 with another run in the fifth when Scott doubled and Schuler singled him home. The Demons got their final run in the sixth when Billy Jack Booth singled, went to third on a throwing error and scored on a sacrifice fly by Gordon.

Orton was the top hitter for the day with 4-8 and five runs batted-in. He and Schuler accounted for all the Tech runs in the second game.

Former Ring Champ Tries To Hang Self

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI)—Former welterweight boxing champion Johnny Saxton, an orphanage kid whose piston fists brought him world fame and a quarter of a million dollars, tried to hang himself in a jail cell Saturday after he was caught robbing a 5 and 10 cent store.

The 28-year-old ex-fighter was committed to a mental hospital after he threatened another suicide attempt if returned to a jail cell.

Dr. Carl Surran and Dr. Frank B. Doggett, police surgeons, said he was suffering from dimentia praecox and recommended his commitment to the state hospital at Ancora.

Doggett said Saxton was very depressed and unhappy because he was unemployed and because he had "been on top and now has nothing." He quoted the former fighter as saying he couldn't stand being kept in a cell and that if he was returned to jail he would try again to end his life.

Doggett said Saxton told him that he knew when he attempted to burglarize the store he would be caught but "didn't care." He said he could have escaped if he wanted to but he wished to be caught.

"I wished the policemen had shot me," Doggett quoted Saxton.

Tech Golfers Beat Demons

RUSTON, La. Special)- -Louisiana Tech's golf team won its second straight victory yesterday as the Bulldog linksmen downed Northwestern, 10½ to 7½, at the Ruston Country Club course.

The Tech team dethroned by McNeese last year, earlier this week downed the Cowboys, 12½ to 5½, in a Lake Charles match.

Medalist in yesterday's match was Tech's Don Goodspeed who shot a 75 on the par 71 course.

The summary:

No. 1--Roy Nash, Tech, defeated Billy Morgan, NSC,2-1

No. 2--Don Goodspeed, Tech, split with Pat Hayes, NSC, 1½-

No. 4--Pat Williams, NSC, defeated Bobby Jameson, Tech, 2-1.

Hayes and Williams defeated Thomas and Jameson, 2-1.

Money Boys Favor Yanks, Tribe To Win

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Nevada gamblers are rating the New York Yankees and Milwaukee Braves as wide, wide favorites to keep their American and National League baseball pennants.

In fact, both again are prohibitive favorites.

At Las Vegas or Reno, the bookies will pay only $1 for every $3 you bet if the Yankees win. And they'll put up just $3 for every $5 you wager on the Braves to walk off with the National League title again.

Last year, Nevada gamblers favored the Yanks 2 to 5 and the Braves 4 to 5.

Except in a few spots, odds on the pennant chances of other teams remain mostly unchanged.

The San Francisco Giants, ranked far back as a 40 to 1 shot last year, now are given a 3 to 1 chance.

Pittsburgh, which surprised with a second place finish in 1958, has jumped from 100 to 1 to 5 to 1.

Los Angeles, favored to place second in the National League last year, are ranked fourth as 6 to 1 hopefuls.

In the American League, Cleveland now is favored at 5 to 1. Last year, it was rated 12 to 1.

And the Chicago White Sox, a 4 to 1 chance last year, have dropped to 10 to 1.

Kansas City and Washington both are looked upon as 100 to 1 shots in the American League, while Philadelphia and Chicago are given 50 to 1 chances to win the National League pennant.

RECORDS EXPECTED TO TOPPLE

Greatest Field Ever Seen For Southwestern Relays

LAFAYETTE, La. (Special) — The greatest field of athletes ever to assemble in Louisiana will be on hand for the 31st annual Southwestern Relays April 9-11 at SLI's McNaspy Stadium in Lafayette — and Relays officials predict that records will topple in wholesale lots.

Oklahoma, LSU, Houston University, Kansas State, Tulane, six Gulf States conference colleges and several Lone Star Conference schools will enter full teams in the 1959 Relays. In addition, a number of individual competitors will represent colleges and universities in six states.

Record -breaking performonces are expected in both high school and collegiate competition. Some 400 athletes from more than 80 high schools will see action Thursday and Friday, April 9-10. On Saturday the college and university finals will be held.

A special feature of this year's Relays will pit Olympic champion sprinter, Bobby Morrow, against a hand - picked field in an invitational 100-yard dash event. Running against Morrow — who shares the world's record of 9.3 seconds for the century — will be Dave Styron of Northeast State, Olin Cassel of Houston, and Pat Garrett of Louisiana Tech.

Cassel and Styron have both been clocked at 9.4, while Garrett has run several 9.5's. Morrow hopes to lower the world's record to 9.2 in his Relays appearance.

Oklahoma University's Sooners cracked five records last year and will be primed for another all - out assault on the record book. LSU athletes will threaten two — and perhaps three — Relays records. Houston University's strong team, coached by Johnny Morris, will also take dead aim at a number of standards. Kansas State's sprint medley team cracked a Relays record last year and hope to lower their own record this year.

LSU's sensational sophomore hurler, Dickie Durham, stands a good chance of setting a new Relays mark in the 120-high hurdles. The Relays record is 14.4 seconds, set by Dick Pruett of Houston in 1956. Durham has been clocked at 14 seconds flat this season.

The LSU 440-yard relay team, with All-American halfback, Billy Cannon, running the anchor leg, could set a new record in the event. Houston and Baylor share the record of 41.2 seconds for the event. LSU's team has been clocked at 41 seconds flat in competition this season.

The oldest Relays record on the books was shattered last year when huge George Church of Oklahoma pushed the 16-pound shot 54-8 to shatter the 53-6 record set in 1934 by Jack Torrance of LSU. No other Relays record is more than three years old, giving an indication of the all - around excellence of recent competition in the big track and field carnival.

An indication of the type of competition on tap for the 1959 Relays can be gleaned from the 100 yard dash field. In college and university competition, it's going to take a 9.6 to even qualify for the final heat. Cannon (9.4), Northeast State's Don Styron (9.4), Louisiana Tech's Pat Garrett (9.5), Houston's Olin Cassell (9.4), and East Texas State's Ken Baird (9.6) are only seven of the more than a dozen sprinters who will compete in the century.

Competition will be just as severe in most other events.

In high school competition, Byrd High of Shreveport will send track relay teams to Lafayette with excellent chances of shattering the 440, sprint medley, and mile relay marks. Two Lafayette High athletes — Edward Red in the javelin and Don Wiley in the discus — will take aim at Relays records in Class AAA prep competition.

Wiley has thrown the discus better than 155 feet in the competition this year, bettering the Relays record of 146' 9½" by Fred Clark of Baton Rouge High in 1957. Reds top throw this season in the javelin is 196-1. That eclipses the Relay standard of 183-6 by Bob Childress of Byrd High, set in 1952.

Preliminaries for class B and C schools will begin at 9:30 a.m. Thursday, April 9. Competition will continue throughout the day.

The class A, AA and AAA schools will open preliminaries at 9:30 a.m. Friday, April 10. Competition will continue throughout the day.

Preliminaries in the college and university division will begin at 9:45 a.m. Saturday, April 11. The finals will get underway with the two mile relay at 1:30 p.m. The invitational 100-yard dash featuring Bobby Morrow will be held at 2:00 p.m.

Advance tickets for the Relays will go on sale Wednesday, April 1 at the SLI business office in Martin Hall. The office will be open from 8-5 daily, except Saturday and Sunday.

Home Pros Play At Lake Charles

By ED TUNSTALL

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—Defending champion Dick Metz and four other former titleholders face the troublesome combination of a long jinx and red-hot newcomer Mason Rudolph when the $5,000 Lake Charles Invitational Golf Tournament opens Thursday. It will be played over the 6,365-yard, par 72 Lake Charles Country Club course.

The long-standing hex is that no tournament winner has defended his title successfully and the 72-hole event, designed strictly for the nation's teaching pros, is up for its seventh staging.

The 51-year old Metz, who recently served connections with a Fort Worth, Tex., country club, won last year's renewal in a sudden death playoff with Buster Cupit of Fort Smith, Ark. Metz, plagued over the years with an uncooperative putter, rolled in a 40-footer from off the green on the third hole of the playoff.

The 24-year old Rudolph, a native of Clarksville, Tex., recently turned professional after an amateur career that included a stint on U.S. Walker Cup team and a victory in the highly prized Western Amateur.

Rudolph won the Gulf Coast Invitational two weeks ago at Gulfport, Miss., and set a tournament record of 11-under-par 273 in the process. Money Boys Favor Yanks, Tribe To Win

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Nevada gamblers are rating the New York Yankees and Milwaukee Braves as wide, wide favorites to keep their American and National League baseball pennants.

In fact, both again are prohibitive favorites.

At Las Vegas or Reno, the bookies will pay only $1 for every $3 you bet if the Yankees win. And they'll put up just $3 for every $5 you wager on the Braves to walk off with the National League title again.

Last year, Nevada gamblers favored the Yanks 2 to 5 and the Braves 4 to 5.

Except in a few spots, odds on the pennant chances of other teams remain mostly unchanged.

The San Francisco Giants, ranked far back as a 40 to 1 shot last year, now are given a 3 to 1 chance.

Pittsburgh, which surprised with a second place finish in 1958, has jumped from 100 to 1 to 5 to 1.

Los Angeles, favored to place second in the National League last year, are ranked fourth as 6 to 1 hopefuls.

In the American League, Cleveland now is favored at 5 to 1. Last year, it was rated 12 to 1.

And the Chicago White Sox, a 4 to 1 chance last year, have dropped to 10 to 1.

Kansas City and Washington both are looked upon as 100 to 1 shots in the American League, while Philadelphia and Chicago are given 50 to 1 chances to win the National League pennant.

Former Ring Champ Tries To Hang Self

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI)—Former welterweight boxing champion Johnny Saxton, an orphanage kid whose piston fists brought him world fame and a quarter of a million dollars, tried to hang himself in a jail cell Saturday after he was caught robbing a 5 and 10 cent store.

The 28-year-old ex-fighter was committed to a mental hospital after he threatened another suicide attempt if returned to a jail cell.

Dr. Carl Surran and Dr. Frank B. Doggett, police surgeons, said he was suffering from dimentia praecox and recommended his commitment to the state hospital at Ancora.

Doggett said Saxton was very depressed and unhappy because he was unemployed and because he had "been on top and now has nothing." He quoted the former fighter as saying he couldn't stand being kept in a cell and that if he was returned to jail he would try again to end his life.

Doggett said Saxton told him that he knew when he attempted to burglarize the store he would be caught but "didn't care." He said he could have escaped if he wanted to but he wished to be caught.

"I wished the policemen had shot me," Doggett quoted Saxton.

Tech Golfers Beat Demons

RUSTON, La. Special)- -Louisiana Tech's golf team won its second straight victory yesterday as the Bulldog linksmen downed Northwestern, 10½ to 7½, at the Ruston Country Club course.

The Tech team dethroned by McNeese last year, earlier this week downed the Cowboys, 12½ to 5½, in a Lake Charles match.

Medalist in yesterday's match was Tech's Don Goodspeed who shot a 75 on the par 71 course.

The summary:

No. 1--Roy Nash, Tech, defeated Billy Morgan, NSC,2-1

No. 2--Don Goodspeed, Tech, split with Pat Hayes, NSC, 1½-

No. 4--Pat Williams, NSC, defeated Bobby Jameson, Tech, 2-1.

Hayes and Williams defeated Thomas and Jameson, 2-1.

Delta Relays At Tallulah Friday

TALLULAH, La. (Special) — Plans are taking shape for the "Queens Contest" and the running of the sixth annual Delta Relays here Friday, April 10, Coach Morton, track coach at Tallulah High School, and Mrs. M. C. Stone, head of the queen contest announced this week.

Seventeen teams have entered the Delta Relays with the Tallulah High School track team as defending champions. The Trojans have won the event for the past three years, with the Vicksburg Greenies taking the first and Canton, Texas, taking the second event.

The strength of the teams entered in the sixth event is not known locally, however, Bastrop could be the dark horse as well as some of the others.

This is the first year a Queens Contest has been held in connection with the event, and if it proves a popular added attraction it will be held each year here on out, Coach Morton said.

All field events will be held in the afternoon beginning at 1 p.m. Preliminaries in the high hurdles, low hurdles, 100 - yard dash, 440-yard and 220, plus semi - finals in the 100 - yard dash will also be run in the afternoon.

The Queens Contest ceremonies will get underway at 6:45 p.m. with Mayor W. P. Sevier crowning the winner. The queen will receive a wrist watch. The night events are to get underway at 7 p.m.

Eight of the 17 schools entered have signified that they would send an entrant to the Queens Contest. Miss Dianne Todd will represent Tallulah High School, Miss Marilyn Lyles will represent Mangham High School, and Miss Martha Carroll will represent Wisner High School. The other five schools, Neville of Monroe, Crowville, Winnsboro, Oak Grove and Ouachita of Monroe will have entrants, Coach Morton said.

Any school who has not been contacted and would like to participate are urged to get in touch with Coach Morton as soon as possible.

Other schools entered in the meet are Cooper of Vicksburg, West Monroe, Lake Providence, Ferriday, Vidalia, Waterproof and Holly Ridge.

A pretty girl named Denise Prado, of Brazil, has been named the Pan American Coffee Queen. She was formerly a student at Oklahoma State University.

Disqualified In Masters Tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Peter Thomson of Australia was disqualified from the Masters Golf Tournament Saturday for turning in an incorrect score after he had shot a 218 for 54 holes, six strokes behind the leaders.

The tournament committee said the error was made by Thomson's playing partner, Chick Harbert. Harbert put down a four for the Australian on the 18th hole whereas he actually took a five. Thomson checked the score but didn't discover the error.

The committee pointed out that both players correctly certified Thomson's 18 hole total to be 35—72.

LAST WEEK'S PRINCIPALS

Six-Man Tangle At Local Arena

Six of the principals in last week's after-match argument- - -George and Jack Curtis, Jerry Miller, Phil Brummett, Charley Laye and Jack Snow- - -renew hostilities Monday night at B & B Arena in a six-man tag team bout.

The other two principals, referee Bobby Raines and an unknown policeman, may or may not be on hand.

Last week's ruckus started when Raines ruled a tag bout between the Curtis boys and Brummett and Laye a draw when the time ran out. The wrestlers and the ref, joined by semi-final contestants Miller and Snow, kept a lively little session going until the policeman called a halt.

Promoter August Baumgartner says local grappling fans have demanded a rematch of the six men and he has obliged.

The main event will have a 90-minute limit with two falls to win. Three 10-minute bouts will open the card.

The Curtis boys, with the help of Miller, figure they can clean house on villains Laye, Brummett and Snow. The bad boys, of course disagree.

Snow made his local debut last week by subbing for Bill Strong against Miller. Miller won it when Snow was disqualified.

Legion Baseball Meeting Slated

The first organization meeting of American Legion Junior Baseball's fifth district will be held in the local Legion home next Sunday afternoon, April 12, district chairman R. D. Farr Jr. has announced.

The meeting will start at 2 o'clock.

Farr urged all persons affilitated with the Legion baseball program last year or any others interested in entering a new team to attend the meeting.

Towns which fielded teams last summer are Monroe, West Monroe, Rayville, Delhi, Columbia, Bastrop, Ruston and Farmerville.

Forest Hills To Keep Davis Cup Challenge Round

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1959 Davis Cup challenge round will be played at the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills, N. Y., on Aug. 28-29-30, Victor Denny of Seattle, president of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Assn., said Saturday.

Denny held a press conference after the USLTA Executive Committee had conferred all day on the choice.

"Both the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif., and Boston College's new football stadium were considered as sites," Denny said.

He added the decision to keep the matches at Forest Hills was swayed by the fact that it would cost approximately $80,000 for equipment and other incidentals to move them and also that Forest Hills officials were experienced in handling them.

The U. S. Davis Cup team won the international tennis trophy in Australia last December.

Crews Named Grid Coach At Hamburg

HAMBURG, Ark. (Special) — According to an announcement by S. P. Portis, Superintendent of Schools, Donald Crews has been selected as senior football coach and social science teacher at Hamburg High School. He will succeed W. E. Woodiel, who recently resigned.

Crews is a 1947 graduate of De-Queen High School, holds a B.S. degree from Southern State College at Magnolia, and a MA degree from Memphis State University. He lettered four years in football and track at Southern State College, and was named to the All-AIC football team as a halfback in 1951. He holds the school record of 100-yard dash at Southern State. The past four years he has been head football and basketball coach at Marion High School. Marion plays every team in its district.

Mrs. Crews is the former Dorinda Hale of El Dorado. They have one child, a daughter, three and one-half years old.

LSU Rallies To Turn Back Ole Miss, 8-5

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Bill Loftin raced home with the deciding run in the eighth inning Saturday as Louisiana State came from behind to beat Mississippi 8-5.

Bob Flowers pitched all the way for LSU, giving up 10 hits. He settled down after yielding four runs in the first two innings.

Andy Bourgeois smashed a three run homer in the fifth to give LSU a temporary lead. Mississippi tied the score in the seventh on a walk and an error.

After Loftin's winning run, Ronnie Johnson doubled in two insurance runs in the eighth.

Detention Home

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

"Signal 41," the police car radio grated.

"Car 7, go to 2734 Benton street and investigate," the dispatcher announced.

The officers acknowledged the burglary message, replied "10-4" and headed toward Benton.

A few hours later, with the stolen clothing recovered and a frightened, belligerent 12-year-old in custody, the officers turned their car into the driveway of the Monroe City Hall.

Two hours after that, the youngster stepped through the doorway of the Green Oaks detention home, and met Mr. and Mrs. Norris Smith.

The Smiths are "mother and father" to anywhere from 5 to 10 youngsters each day. But the children change from week to week and come in assorted ages, sizes and colors.

Area boys and girls, from approximately age 10 through 16 are brought to the Green Oaks detention home by probation officers, if they become involved in trouble and cannot be returned to their own homes before court action is taken.

AVERAGE

No child ever is "committed" to the home.

His average length of stay there is 3 days — time enough for a complete social investigation into the youngster's past history. It is conducted by the probation officers: Buster Crowley and Mrs. B. Harris for the parish and West Monroe, Major John B. Whitfield for Monroe.

Green Oaks Home resembles a sprawling ranch house. Built by the parish at a cost of $144,182.10, it was opened in August, 1957, run by the state welfare department until Dec. 31, 1958, and is now handled by Ouachita Parish, Monroe and West Monroe.

It also appears on the ballots at Tuesday's election, when property owners will have a chance to vote approval for maintenance of the detention home for five years, with a ¼ mill tax.

However, the home was built on land donated to the parish by Goodwill Charity Organization, a Negro charity group, with a provision that the property must be used only for a detention home.

If the tax to support the home is not approved, the building and grounds will be turned over to the Negro group.

"The Welfare department spent $32,000 per year, with seven employees working. We're doing an excellent job with just two employees and a budget of $1,000 per month," stressed M. W. Montgomery, president of the Ouachita Parish Police Jury.

Buster Crowley, chief probation officer for the parish juvenile court, explains the value of the home this way:

"The atmosphere at Green Oaks is very conducive to our work. Many times when a child is picked up, he is extremely hostile toward anyone connected with the courts.

HELPFUL ATTITUDE

"Mr. and Mrs. Smith 'relate' very well to the children . . . they've raised their own family, so they know how to take care of youngsters. The children see that the Smiths are helping them, and naturally they come to realize that the probation officers and the courts are part of this helpful attitude.

"When a kid gets hostile and sullen, we're not going to be able to do much for him. But with the atmosphere at Green Oaks, he relaxes, and sees that we want to help him. Then he is willing to cooperate with us," Crowley stressed.

Only one out of every 10 children who have some difficulty are taken to the home. If the probation officers can return the child to his or her own home until time for a court appearance, he does this.

These are the boys and girls you will find in the Green Oaks Home:

1. Run - aways, children from other towns who are picked up here, and those returned here who refuse to return to their own homes.

2. Children who have gotten into some trouble with the law, and who are:

a. Awaiting court disposition of their case.

b. Waiting for a pre - hearing investigation of their case — the social investigation of past history.

c. Those who have been committed to a training institution and who are awaiting transportation to the institution.

Probation and court officials here have talked with those in charge of Louisiana Training Institute for boys, the training school for girls at Alexandria, and the school for Negro boys and girls at Scotlandville, and and come up with the following information:

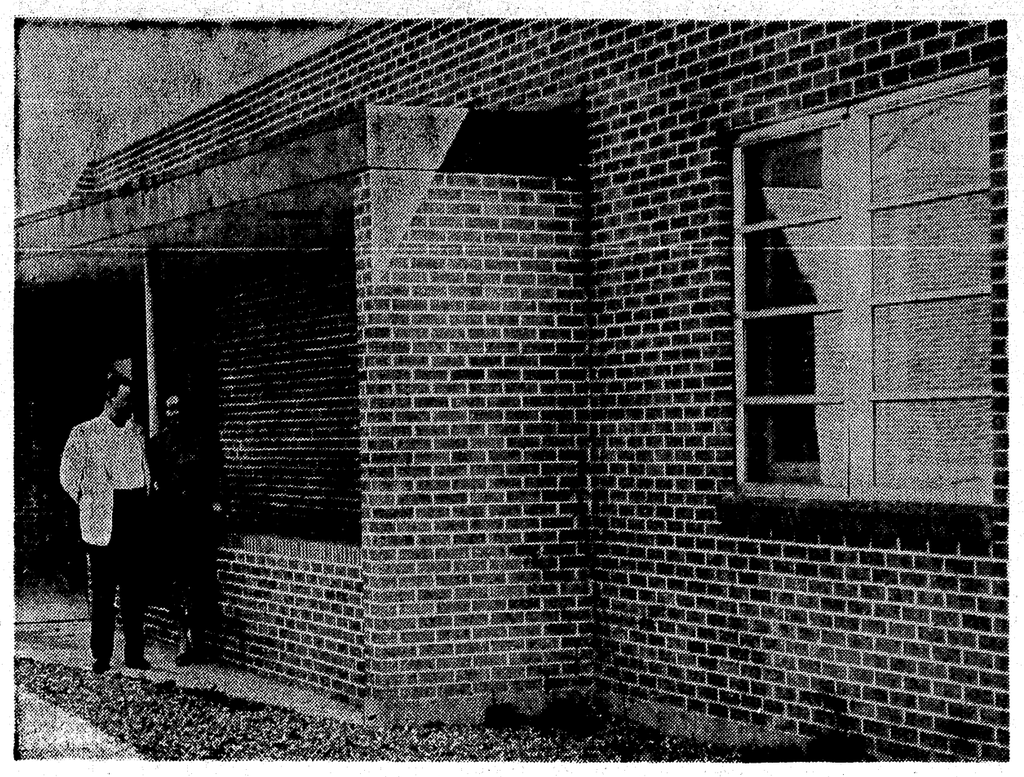
"Youngsters who are brought to the institution from the detention home are more ready to respond to rehabilitation. There hostility is gone."

"The Juvenile laws of this state provide that everything be for the best interests of the child. If a child is committed to an institution, it is for his own welfare," point out court officials.

"The Smiths at the detention home, probation officers and law enforcement officers work together in the best interests of the child. Since we began running the home on a local level in January, the communities of Monroe and West Monroe have responded very well and cooperated with law enforcement agencies," mentioned Montgomery.

"Without their help, operation of the home would have been difficult," he added.

How does a youngster or teenager get to the home?



Green Oaks resembles large ranch-type home.

Eighty - five to 90 per cent come from Ouachita Parish. The law enforcement agencies — city police, sheriff, state police — receive a report of trouble and investigation shows that juveniles were involved.

The youngsters are taken in custody and turned over to a probation officer. If the child's own home situation is such that he can be returned there, that's where he goes until court hearing. Nine out of 10 go to their own homes.

But if he would be better off at Green Oaks, or if his parents are sick or the crime is serious, he is placed in the detention home.

IN CUSTODY

"Sometimes when a youngster is taken into custody in the middle of the night, it is easier to place him at the home overnight, rather than hunting around the city trying to find a relative," officers point out.

From the minute he arrives at the home, everything there is for his rehabilitation.

Soft - spoken, fatherly Mr. Smith, who has a history of 20 years in the Air Force, leadership duties as a master - sergeant, three years as a cottage parent at Louisiana Training Institute and experience of raising three boys of his own, meets the nervous youngster at the door.

A few light questions and filling out of an admittance sheet follows in the pine - paneled reception room.

Then, the child is taken to a supply room, furnished clean, pressed clothing in his size and a clean bath towel, then shown to the shower room.

He places his own clothing outside the bathroom door, and before he is done with his shower, Mrs. Smith has the clothes in a washing machine, nearly ready to put in the drier.

Whether the youngster is at the home 2 hours or 5 days, he leaves with his clothes clean and ironed, "in better shape than when he came," Crowley noted.

If it's at night, the youngster is shown to his room to sleep. During the day, he is left there alone for an hour.

"If he looks the least bit disturbed, I stay and talk," explained Smith.

Then, in the morning, the child joins his own race.

SCHEDULE

This is the schedule at Green Oaks:

Up at 7 a.m.; first breakfast, 7:30, second breakfast, 8; recreation, chores and library from 8:30-11:30 a.m. The girls help Mrs. Smith in the kitchen, the boys and Smith work together to keep the home clean, or take care of the yard, in a family-type situation.

First lunch is at 11:30, second at 12 noon, and from 12:30 to 2 p.m., the youngsters have a rest period in their rooms, with magazines and radio music.

From 2-4:30 p.m., one race stays in the recreation room and watches TV, plays checkers or reads books and magazines, while the other race makes use of the playground equipment and basketball court just outside the building.

First supper is at 4:30, second at 5, and from 5:30-7 p.m., the races change places, with those who were inside during the afternoon using the playground, and those who were outside watching TV.

At 7:30 they go to their bedrooms with magazines and radio music.

"At 9 o'clock, I say 'Time for lights out' and tell them 'Good Night, children'," Smith mentioned.

The home has a family - type atmosphere. And it is completely segregated. The white and Negro youngsters are kept apart and given their meals separately.

"No child is forced to help Mrs. Smith with preparing the meals or to do chores with me in the building. Usually, they are glad to help out, but anytime they don't want to, they take a magazine and go to their rooms," Smith pointed out.

COMMENTED

Montgomery commented that "It's good for the children to have a little responsibility —maybe if they had more in their own home it would help them."

Spotless inside, the home has pine - paneled and modernistic brick walls, gleaming tile floors and screens on the windows — no bars.

Next to the reception room is a consultation room, where parents may visit their youngsters.

A Bible or religious picture is found in each room — including a picture of Christ in the reception room, a painting of the Last Supper in the dining room and a Bible on the nightstand in each bedroom.

Directly in back of the reception, in the T-shaped building, is the recreation and dining room, with one wall red brick opposite a wall of windows.

A television set, soft chairs, ping - pong table, and three blond wood dining room tables, one with a bouquet of fresh - cut flowers, are in the recreation room.

Two rooms open off to one side of the recreation room — a library, with magazines and books carefully screened by the Smiths, and a classroom . . . "You'd be amazed at how many youngsters want to discuss the Bible, religion or schoolwork," remarked Mrs. Smith.

Beyond the library is the girls wing, completely separate from that of the boys, on the other side of the building.

Four single and four double rooms are in each wing, with one dormitory type room in each side. The beds are bunk - type, so another can be added on top in case the population expands . . . "In the summertime, when the children don't have anything to do, they get into something. We don't want an increase in population at the home — but it happens," Montgomery sighed.

The rooms are "self - contained", with a bed, soft innerspring mattress, chair, nightstand and lavatory. Radio and phonograph music is piped in during the daytime, via a public address system.

In case a child should ever become ill while at the home, Dr. John P. Burton is on call 24-hours a day, and the youngster will be taken to his office or the hospital immediately, regardless of the illness.

"We're not doctors — no matter how minor an illness is, we take the child to Dr. Burton. He has cooperated 100 per cent," Smith explained.

FIRST AID

A first aid room is also located at the home, with emergency equipment in case a youngster could not be moved and the doctor were called to the home.

The Smiths maintain a "24-hour check" to make sure the children are all right.

An intercom contains a phonograph, radio, microphone and monitor, so immediate contact can be made with the children in any room.

A fire - alarm system, when pushed down, automatically opens every door in the building.

The home's green and white kitchen is roomy, comfortable, and equipped with a huge refrigerator and a next - door supply room resembling a small grocery.

Youngsters are fed under the commodities program—the same as for school lunches. Food is purchased through a wholesaler.

The Smiths are relieved from 12 noon Saturday to noon Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Robinson. But most of the time, they're right there with their "family."

The youngsters attend a church service each Wednesday and Sunday when a local minister visits the home.

Discussing their work, both Mr. and Mrs. Smith mentioned that they "enjoy helping children."

"It gives me an opportunity to help disturbed or displaced children who need aid," Smith added.

They measure up to the high qualifications demanded for juvenile workers by the Louisiana Youth Commission.

Green Oaks, when opened, was the only detention home in the state recognized by the National Association of Probation and Parole. Today, it is one of the finest in the South, both in equipment and personnel, officials reveal.

But what does this all mean to the children who are brought there, and to the community which wants to avoid juvenile delinquency?

"It gives the children a desire to improve, to try to 'get back on the right track'," Montgomery commented.

"Each child is given his own comb and toothbrush when he arrives. Many are amazed that they can keep these things when they leave — it's the first time that anyone's done something for them without wanting something in return," Smith revealed.

Recently, one young boy showed up at the home with shoes that were mainly the top part.

He was given a good pair. That little act of kindness erased all his hostility. When he appeared before the judge in Fourth District Court, he showed his desire to improve with these words:

"Yes sir, judge, what must I do."

FEB. 1 DEADLINE

Housing Bill Delay Is Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — That housing bill which was supposed to reach President Eisenhower's desk by Feb. 1 probably won't get there for several more weeks, congressional sources said Saturday.

Passage has been delayed, they said, because the Democratic leadership suddenly switched signals. Instead of rushing the measure, the leaders decided to let it languish.

Behind the switch is a gradual drain on the mortgage insuring authority of the Federal Housing Administration, plus the Democrats' disposition to pass a bill bigger than the President wants.

FHA Commissioner Julian H. Zimmerman has quietly advised congressional leaders that his agency can probably operate through April without serious trouble. But if FHA fails to get new authority by about May 1, the mortgage insuring program probably will have to be run directly out of Washington on a day-to-day basis.

Normally, FHA field offices can insure mortgages without consulting headquarters.

With FHA in a bind and its operations curtailed, capitol sources said, there would be more pressure on the President to sign the omnibus housing measure. Accordingly, the House has taken no action on a housing measure approved by its Banking and Currency Committee Feb. 25.

House debate may begin April 15. But a Senate-passed bill differs from the House measure in several respects. Allowing for a House-Senate conference committee to iron out differences, the legislation is not expected to arrive at the White House before the end of the month.

The final bill is expected to have "something for everyone"—authority for FHA, money for slum clearance and college housing, authorization for public housing, and an increase in the maximum interest rate on GI home loans from the present 4¾ per cent to 5¼ per cent. This would bring the GI mortgage in line with FHA loans and probably make it easier for veterans to get GI loans. But it may also be more expensive.

Less certain, but a distinct possibility, is that Congress will approve lower down payments on medium and high-priced houses financed with FHA loans. The banking committee voted to allow changes in the down payment formula that would cut the minimum cash outlays on a $115,000 house from $630 to $555 and on a $20,000 house from $1,980 to $1,355.

The committee-approved measure also would extend from 30 to 35 years the maximum repayment period for an FHA loan. This would trim monthly payments by about four dollars a month on a mortgage of $13,500 but would mean that in the long run the home buyer was paying more interest.

Neither of these liberalization features were in the Senate bill. But observers believe the Senate would accept them if the House insisted.

Whether the President will sign or veto the measure he finally gets could be influenced by what members of Congress heard during the Easter recess back home. Their constituents' feelings, or lack of them, about government spending could influence the size of the final measure.

Stocks Post Good Gains During Week

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—High quality buying re-entered the stock market this week to put prices on the upgrade once again.

The market halted its cautious, irregular decline of the preceding two weeks and posted a good gain.

Blue chips took over the leadership at midweek, quieting the worries of those who felt that the high - flying antics of cheaper stocks portended an early end to the bullish drive.

Most important to the market technicians was a rally by rails, a group which has lagged behind the rest of the market for most of 1959. This was interpreted as lending substance to the renewed offensive by the leading industrials and utilities.

The AP 60-stock average this week advanced $1.90 to $223.60.

Volume for the week was 15,642,380 shares and the lowest for any full week since the week ended Feb. 14 when 14,792,690 shares were traded. Turnover was low at the beginning of the week but picked up on the final days.

The market background continued highly favorable. Steel output remained at record levels. Rail carloadings were higher. Consumers were reported boosting their installment debt in February.

The U.S. government bond market firmed this week after the Treasury's massive pre-Easter financing.

Corporate securities, however, closed lower on balance in fairly heavy trading. Investment quality issues declined to a new 1959 low on the AP bond index and foreign dollar bonds drifted lower. This more than offset slight gains by rails and industrials. Utilities were unchanged for the week.

Corporate volume rose to $31,951,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $22,841,600 for the previous four-day week and $18,656,000 for the corresponding four-day week in 1958.

WHAT WE'RE EATING

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department estimates the per capita consumption of major commodity foods in the United States during 1959 at more than 1,600 pounds

This includes 158.1 pounds of red meat, 353 eggs, 29.8 pounds of chicken, 349 pounds of fluid milk and cream, more than 18 pounds of ice cream, 17.5 pounds of butter and margarine, almost 100 pounds of fresh fruits, more than 100 pounds of vegetables and 16.5 pounds of coffee.

Grain Futures Generally Hold Gains For Week

CHICAGO (AP)—Despite some fairly sharp setbacks at the end of the week, grain futures prices generally still held rather broad gains for the second consecutive week.

The only price declines on the Board of Trade were for new crop oats months. All other grains and soybeans were well over on the plus side, a few contracts by major fractions but several of them upwards from a cent to as much as three cents or more.

Corn with moderate to good gains almost daily for about two weeks was the leader for the week although it absorbed the sharpest declines in Friday's active profit-takings for the week-end.

Several contracts climbed into new high levels for the season. These included new crop soybeans, May wheat and some rye months. The principal influence throughout the week was the probability of tight corn, wheat and rye commercial supplies in Chicago.

At the end of the week, wheat futures were 1⅝-2½ cents a bushel higher than a week ago, May $2.11⅛; corn 1¼-3¼ higher, May $1.23⅜-½; oats ¾ higher to ⅜ lower, May 67½; rye unchanged to 1 cent higher, May $1.42⅝- , and soybeans ⅜ 1⅜ higher, May $2.25⅝-¾.

STOCK AVERAGE BACK ON RISE — The Associated Press average of 60 stocks moved higher for first time in three weeks, closing today at 223.6 from 221.7 a week ago. The commodity index made its first decline in four weeks, closing Friday 171.7 from 172.5 in the preceding period. Industrials were prominent on the downside. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

Cotton Futures Chalk Up Gains For Past Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices closed mixed this week after displaying a strong tone during most of the five-day trading session.

Active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished at prices ranging from $1.80 a bale higher to 60 cents lower than at the close of the holiday-shortened previous week.

Before Friday's sell-off, the distant March, May and July positions scored new life-of - contract highs. Trade and commission house buying buoyed the market during most of the week, stimulated partly by an improvement in textile mill demand.

The nearer months advanced on the continued prospect of a tight supply of "free" cotton at the end of the current crop year.

Offerings were furnished through profit-taking, light hedge selling and some switching from distant to nearer months. On Friday, the nearby May contract weakened on spot house liquidation and the decline affected the whole market.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the exchange at 47,000 bales vs. 61,000 the previous week and 100,000 in the like 1958 week. This brought the total for the season to an estimated 2,071,000 bales vs 3,779,000 at the same time last season.

ENGINEER REPORTS

Sahara Major Oil Source For Europe

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A Texas engineer believes the French Sahara some day may supply Western Europe with a major portion of its petroleum requirements.

Paul Charrin, president of an oil well servicing company that operates in five countries, says discoveries in the northeast corner of the vast French desert in the last three years have been fantastic.

He believes that by 1962 production from the North African area may meet all of France's oil requirements and that, eventually, natural gas from the desert may be piped to France, Spain, Germany, and England.

"It is estimated that 4 billion barrels of oil reserves and 10 trillion cubic feet of gas have been discovered since the first well was completed in July, 1956," the French-born Charrin said.

"The area's oil potential cannot be compared with the Middle East as yet. But the 'as yet' is very imporatnt in that explorations so far have touched only a very small part of an area four or five times as large as Texas."

Market outlets are a major problem but several pipe line projects to relieve the situation are under way or under study.

A line linking a gas field with the Mediterranean coast is in the planning stage.

"They also are talking of running a line under the Mediterranean, through Spain and France, with one branch extending to Hamburg and another to London," he said. "It is more than a dream. Several American companies have expressed interest and are checking such matters as potential reserves."

Charrin, a mining engineer graduate in France, came to the United States 23 years ago and became associated with a large well servicing firm in Houston. Some 12 years ago he formed his own company, Perforating Guns Atlas Corp., that now has subsidiaries operating in Canada, Germany, Venezuela, and Bolivia.

Charrin said French Sahara geologic and geophysical operations originally were undertaken only by French companies and organizations, with some participation by the Shell companies.

"No one else became interested until last year, when Sinclair, Cities Service, Phillips, and Jersey Standard entered the area," he said.

He said there have been three very important discoveries since 1956. They are at Edjeleh near the Libyan border and at Hassi-Messaoud and Hassi-R'Mel, some 400 miles south of Algiers.

Some 40 to 50 wells have been drilled at Edjeleh. Reserves are estimated at from 700 million to 1 billion 400 million barrels. Without a market outlet, the wells are shut in but a pipe line project to Gabes on the coast of Tunisia is planned.

"The crude there is so good it is being used directly in engines at the drilling rigs without having to be refined," Charrin said.

Charrin said two French companies, REPAL and CFPA brought in the much bigger field at Hassi-Messaoud, where he said a conservative estimate of reserves would be at least 2 billion barrels.

WITH CANDIDACY TALK

Gov. Long Fogs Up Political Picture

BATON ROUGE, April 4 (UPI) —Louisiana Political leaders were in agreement on one point this week: Smoke from Gov. Earl Long's "pipe dream" of resigning in order to run again in the next governor's race has fogged up the state political picture.

No two politicians in the state were agreed on what Long's announcement meant, except as a notice to all comers not to count Earl Long out of Louisiana politics.

But theories of what the announcement meant were forthcoming from all levels at the Capitol and throughout the state. However, the political pundits admitted that only Earl Long knows whether Earl Long will resign to run, as in the "pipe dream."

One possibility, a state senator said, "is that Earl Long is in dead earnest about running. If he is, then Jimmie Davis has his work cut out for him." Davis had been considered a shoo-in in the first primary before Long's "pipe dream."

Another seasoned veteran of politics—under both Huey and Earl Long— said the "pipe dream" was just Earl's method of smoking the other candidates into the open. None of the strong contenders for the governorship has announced formally yet.

Other theories:

—Long wants something to hold over the heads of his legislative supporters until after the May fiscal session of the legislature.

—The governor is trying to draw state Supt. of Education Shelby Jackson into the race for governor. A corollary: If Jackson runs for governor, Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar may run for superintendent of education.

—Long is trying to force the leading candidates—including Davis—into making concessions in return for—not Long's support, but merely his withdrawal from the scene.

—The pipe dream" is a coverup for Long's plans to run against Rep. Harold McSween in the eighth congressional race next year.

—Long is expecting his move to run again for governor to be challenged in the courts. The challenge, if successful, will provide the cause for Long's return in the 1964 race.

Can he do it? Is it legal?

The state constitution merely states a governor may not be his own immediate successor. If Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar were to become governor for eight months or so, would this satisfy the constitutional requirement?

The constitution is vague. Does the wording mean merely that another man may serve a few months between two four - year terms by Long, or does the constitution mean a governor may not serve two successive terms?

Long's "pipe dream" would, if it becomes fact, be the first occasion to interpret the constitution on this point.

While newsmen and state politicians compared notes on the pipe dream and its meaning, Long was reportedly in an excellent mood at his office.

But visitors to Long's office were unable to determine if Long's frame of mind was the result of a recent trip to Hot Hot Springs, Ark., or whether the governor was just enjoying all the head-scratching he had caused with his "pipe dream."

Labor Chiefs Argue, But Not To Split

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sounds of bickering and bluster continue bouncing from the inner councils of organized labor's biggest club, the AFL-CIO.

But despite feuding and fussing among top leaders, it still appears the merged labor movement is going to stick together.

What's all the arguing about? Fundamentally, former CIO chiefs led by Walter Reuther, head of the big Auto Workers Union, feel the AFL is ducking and compromising on too many of its problems.

By and large, leaders of the old AFL, where AFL-CIO President George Meany has his roots, regard the veteran CIO crowd as upstarts and even rather ungentlemanly for pushing favored labor aims too hard. AFL stalwarts counsel more patience.

However unsightly evidence of these clashes of personalities and methods may appear to the outsider, they were freely—and, it turns out, accurately—predicted by the labor leaders themselves at the outset of the merger three years ago.

But somehow the wounds have been patched up. Basically AFL forces have the upper hand. Disgruntled CIO chiefs apparently have never been so disgruntled as to seriously consider quitting the merged organization.

This was the situation at the most recent flareup within the AFL-CIO executive council at its winter session at San Juan, Puerto Rico. Tempers soared, hot words flew. There was little give and take on problems and in the end fundamental differences remained unsettled.

Reuther wanted a mass march of unemployed on Washington. He talked in terms of 20,000 to 40,000. Meany balked at such a show of pressure on the administration and Congress, a view shared by many other councilmen.

This led to other complaints: too little attention to organizing; a disposition to let jurisdictional rivalries between unions slide along unsolved, and other points of friction. A broadside charge was made that Meany makes too many policy decisions on his own.

It was finally decided to give Reuther a little more ground on the Washington unemployed rally. Plans are in the works now to stage it April 8 with anywhere from 5,000 to 10,000 delegates. A smaller group will descend on Capitol Hill the next day to buttonhole congressmen for aid for the idle.

Most bystanders at the San Juan sessions felt the fuss may have cemented rather than weakened the AFL-CIO. It brought differences out into the open and got them discussed. To that extent, everybody knows better now where everyone stands.

Youths Collect Tons Of Pennies For New School

PURVIS, Miss. (AP) — Youths of the Alabama-Mississippi Conference of the Seventh Day Adventist Church will turn over four tons of pennies estimated at more than $10,000 Sunday to Bass Memorial Academy at the nearby school site.

The coins, collected during a two-month drive, will help finance construction of the first building planned on the grounds, an administrative office building.

The church conference will build a 12-grade boarding school on the site, donated about two years ago by I. H. Bass Sr. of Lumberton.

Some 60 churches are in the two-state conference.

BY U.S. IN NOTE

Berlin Airways Ceiling Rejected

BERLIN (UPI) — The United States told the Soviets Saturday that American military transports would fly through the corridors linking West Berlin and West Germany at whatever height they choose.

In a note, the United States rejected a Soviet attempt to put a ceiling on the Western corridors over Communist East Gerany.

The note was in reply to a Soviet protest against the "illegal" flight of a C130 transport at 25,000 feet. The Russians said the flight created an air hazard.

Three Soviet jet fighters harassed the unarmed transport throughout its inbound and outbound flights March 27. The U.S. immediately protested the incident through its representative on the four - power Berlin Air Safety Center.

The center controls flights to and from Berlin.

The Soviet protest charged the high - altitude flight violated air safety regulations and could lead to collisions, loss of life and destruction of aircraft.

The United States made it clear it would not submit to any Soviet-imposed ceilings on the three Western air lanes between West Berlin and the West.

The Soviets had maintained that air space above 10,000 feet in the corridors is reserved for Soviet aircraft flying across the western airlanes. They said "The U. S. will have to bear the full responsibility for any undersirable results of such violations."

The U. S. note, described by informed sources as a "written reply" to the Soviet protest, was delivered through the Air Safety Center.

It rejected the Soviet contention that the American transport created a hazard to air safety by flying at 25,000 feet, or that any flight at that height violated any existing agreement.

It further declared that U. S. planes would continue to fly to and from West Berlin at altitudes of their pilot's own choosing.

Sources in Bonn said the British and French embassies approved the position taken by the United States in the new controversy. However, the sources said the British and French did not make any official protest because the incident involved a U. S. plane.

Crop Surplus Solution Is Still Sought

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The question keeps bobbing up: Why aren't farm surpluses — particularly grains — diverted to industry?

This, it is suggested, could end costly farm price supports and maybe end production curbs.

This idea was pressed before Congress in 1938 by the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration and farm organizations. Congress set up four regional laboratories to develop new uses and markets for farm surpluses.

These laboratories have done much to develop new uses for farm products, but nothing that provided a big new outlet. One reason was that the researchers got sidetracked on other problems during the war. Also, they never had what they regarded as enough money for the job.

In 1958 Congress set up a commission to study the matter and this group, with the help of 188 leaders in agriculture, industry and science, plus government experts, came up with an opinion a year later.

In its report to Congress, the group posed this question:

"Can the economy develop profitable industrial markets capable of absorbing enough of the excess farm production to minimize, possibly even to eliminate, the need for costly restrictions, supports and surplus - disposing operations?"

It then gave this answer:

"An emphatic yes,'—provided the necessary steps are taken to make possible and encourage such a development."

It then went on to recommend, among other things, more federal funds for research. It urged programs for training more scientific talent with a bent in this direction, plus financial incentives to encentives to encourage industrial concerns to develop findings provided by the scientists.

The commission said:

"Raw materials produced by farmers are made of chemical components just as are most of the nonagricultural materials used to make industrial products. Coal and petroleum, in fact, are plants that died a long time ago."

It went on to say that farm-produced materials, too, can be modified, tailored to practical needs, taken apart and recombined to make new products with new properties — plastics, films, fibers, coatings and the like.

In fact, science already has shown much can be done along the line.

But these findings have not been widely adopted. There are many reasons. A major one is that competitive raw materials, such as petroleum, coal and wood fibers, are much cheaper than farm products.

The commission declared, however, that these were not insurmontable barriers.

Congress has not yet seen fit to do much about the recommendations. Bills have been introduced to carry them out. A few committee hearings have been held.

Public Welfare Expenditures In Mississippi Gain

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The State Department of Public Welfare paid $3,530,062 in public welfare payments during March, an increase of $15,950 over the February total, commissioner W. E. Holcomb said Saturday.

Of the total, $2,355,897 went to the state's 80,718 needy aged. Holcomb said the number of needy agtd decreased by 69 and the payments decreased by $2,219 under the February totals.

The average old age grant during March was $29.19, a decrease of five cents under the February average.

The department paid also $224,216 to the 5,824 blind, averaging $38.50; $221,440 to the 7,515 permanently and totally disabled, averaging $29.47; and $728,509 to the 53,772 dependent children in 11,879 families, averaging $13.55 per child and $40.75 per family.

Holcomb said the department paid $15,569 in state funds for the foster care of 601 children in 258 homes and distributed $1,475,000 worth of surplus federal commodities to 431,093 persons during February.

Fire Destroys Store, Hotel In Louisiana Town

MORRINGSPORT, La. (AP) — Fire of undetermined origin destroyed an appliance store and two-story hotel Saturday. Damages were estimated at $50,000.

The only person in the buildings was the owner, C. R. Patterson. He was sleeping in one of the hotel apartments when the blaze started, but escaped safely.

The Patterson Hotel and Caddo Home and Supply Co. store were in adjoining buildings.

PLANS AUSTRALIA MOVE

Subsidy Opponent Auctions Off Farm

DOWAGIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Farmer Stanley Yankus, rebel against the government's agriculture subsidy program for six years, gave up Saturday, sold his 100-acre chicken farm at auction for $20,500 and said he was ready to move to Australia.

It all came about because Yankus said federal officials had no right to dictate how much wheat he could grow for his chickens.

A crowd of 2,000 stood around Yankus' eight-room white brick and clapboard home amidst a carnival-like atmosphere while auctioneer John M. Glassman moved through stacks of kitchen utensils and other small items.

"I admire Yankus for his stand," farmer Frank Stangland, Albion, Ind., said. "It doesn't matter where he is going, what he's getting into. The point is: 'Why is he leaving here?' "

It only was an hour after the auction began that Dale Douthett, a White Oaks, Mich., businessman made the apparent high bid of $20,500 for the basic land and the home.

Yankus had the option of refusing the bid but he said he would not since earlier he indicated he would accept any offer over $20,000.

Yankus said he hoped the entire sale would net him $25,000 so he could pack up his family and start "fresh" in Australia.

"This is one sale I wish had not taken place," Glassman said just before the bidding. "However, the auction will be conducted in a Democratic fashion."

Yankus took that as a theme for his brief speech:

"I'm not a Democrat. I'm a Republican," he said. "Our nation is a republic. Many people fail to realize that many people can't vote away the right to property or liberty. My right to property has been voted away and I think that's contrary to the Constitution of the United States."

Yankus, 40 said when he first began his fight against acreage allotments and subsidies back in 1953 he felt popular opinion would keep federal officials from telling him how much wheat he had to grow to feed his chickens.

Yankus felt since he never applied for government wheat subsidies officials had no right to dictate the amount he could grow.

But government officials had a different idea. They said he could grow but 15 acres. Yankus said he needed 35 acres and therein lay the difficulty.

Police stood by Saturday to keep the crowd, at times heatedly arguing whether Yankus or the government was right, from getting into any difficulty.

FEB. 1 DEADLINE

Housing Bill Delay Is Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — That housing bill which was supposed to reach President Eisenhower's desk by Feb. 1 probably won't get there for several more weeks, congressional sources said Saturday.

Passage has been delayed, they said, because the Democratic leadership suddenly switched signals. Instead of rushing the measure, the leaders decided to let it languish.

Behind the switch is a gradual drain on the mortgage insuring authority of the Federal Housing Administration, plus the Democrats' disposition to pass a bill bigger than the President wants.

FHA Commissioner Julian H. Zimmerman has quietly advised congressional leaders that his agency can probably operate through April without serious trouble. But if FHA fails to get new authority by about May 1, the mortgage insuring program probably will have to be run directly out of Washington on a day-to-day basis.

Normally, FHA field offices can insure mortgages without consulting headquarters.

With FHA in a bind and its operations curtailed, capitol sources said, there would be more pressure on the President to sign the omnibus housing measure. Accordingly, the House has taken no action on a housing measure approved by its Banking and Currency Committee Feb. 25.

House debate may begin April 15. But a Senate-passed bill differs from the House measure in several respects. Allowing for a House-Senate conference committee to iron out differences, the legislation is not expected to arrive at the White House before the end of the month.

The final bill is expected to have "something for everyone"—authority for FHA, money for slum clearance and college housing, authorization for public housing, and an increase in the maximum interest rate on GI home loans from the present 4¾ per cent to 5¼ per cent. This would bring the GI mortgage in line with FHA loans and probably make it easier for veterans to get GI loans. But it may also be more expensive.

Less certain, but a distinct possibility, is that Congress will approve lower down payments on medium and high-priced houses financed with FHA loans. The banking committee voted to allow changes in the down payment formula that would cut the minimum cash outlays on a $115,000 house from $630 to $555 and on a $20,000 house from $1,980 to $1,355.

The committee-approved measure also would extend from 30 to 35 years the maximum repayment period for an FHA loan. This would trim monthly payments by about four dollars a month on a mortgage of $13,500 but would mean that in the long run the home buyer was paying more interest.

Neither of these liberalization features were in the Senate bill. But observers believe the Senate would accept them if the House insisted.

Whether the President will sign or veto the measure he finally gets could be influenced by what members of Congress heard during the Easter recess back home. Their constituents' feelings, or lack of them, about government spending could influence the size of the final measure.

Stocks Post Good Gains During Week

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—High quality buying re-entered the stock market this week to put prices on the upgrade once again.

The market halted its cautious, irregular decline of the preceding two weeks and posted a good gain.

Blue chips took over the leadership at midweek, quieting the worries of those who felt that the high - flying antics of cheaper stocks portended an early end to the bullish drive.

Most important to the market technicians was a rally by rails, a group which has lagged behind the rest of the market for most of 1959. This was interpreted as lending substance to the renewed offensive by the leading industrials and utilities.

The AP 60-stock average this week advanced $1.90 to $223.60.

Volume for the week was 15,642,380 shares and the lowest for any full week since the week ended Feb. 14 when 14,792,690 shares were traded. Turnover was low at the beginning of the week but picked up on the final days.

The market background continued highly favorable. Steel output remained at record levels. Rail carloadings were higher. Consumers were reported boosting their installment debt in February.

The U.S. government bond market firmed this week after the Treasury's massive pre-Easter financing.

Corporate securities, however, closed lower on balance in fairly heavy trading. Investment quality issues declined to a new 1959 low on the AP bond index and foreign dollar bonds drifted lower. This more than offset slight gains by rails and industrials. Utilities were unchanged for the week.

Corporate volume rose to $31,951,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange from $22,841,600 for the previous four-day week and $18,656,000 for the corresponding four-day week in 1958.

WHAT WE'RE EATING

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department estimates the per capita consumption of major commodity foods in the United States during 1959 at more than 1,600 pounds

This includes 158.1 pounds of red meat, 353 eggs, 29.8 pounds of chicken, 349 pounds of fluid milk and cream, more than 18 pounds of ice cream, 17.5 pounds of butter and margarine, almost 100 pounds of fresh fruits, more than 100 pounds of vegetables and 16.5 pounds of coffee.

ENGINEER REPORTS

Sahara Major Oil Source For Europe

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A Texas engineer believes the French Sahara some day may supply Western Europe with a major portion of its petroleum requirements.

Paul Charrin, president of an oil well servicing company that operates in five countries, says discoveries in the northeast corner of the vast French desert in the last three years have been fantastic.

He believes that by 1962 production from the North African area may meet all of France's oil requirements and that, eventually, natural gas from the desert may be piped to France, Spain, Germany, and England.

"It is estimated that 4 billion barrels of oil reserves and 10 trillion cubic feet of gas have been discovered since the first well was completed in July, 1956," the French-born Charrin said.

"The area's oil potential cannot be compared with the Middle East as yet. But the 'as yet' is very imporatnt in that explorations so far have touched only a very small part of an area four or five times as large as Texas."

Market outlets are a major problem but several pipe line projects to relieve the situation are under way or under study.

A line linking a gas field with the Mediterranean coast is in the planning stage.

"They also are talking of running a line under the Mediterranean, through Spain and France, with one branch extending to Hamburg and another to London," he said. "It is more than a dream. Several American companies have expressed interest and are checking such matters as potential reserves."

Charrin, a mining engineer graduate in France, came to the United States 23 years ago and became associated with a large well servicing firm in Houston. Som 12 years ago he formed his own company, Perforating Guns Atlas Corp., that now has subsidiaries operating in Canada, Germany, Venezuela, and Bolivia.

Charrin said French Sahara geologic and geophysical operations originally were undertaken only by French companies and organizations, with some participation by the Shell companies.

"No one else became interested until last year, when Sinclair, Cities Service, Phillips, and Jersey Standard entered the area," he said.

He said there have been three very important discoveries since 1956. They are at Edjeleh near the Libyan border and at Hassi-Messaoud and Hassi-R'Mel, some 400 miles south of Algiers.

Some 40 to 50 wells have been drilled at Edjeleh. Reserves are estimated at from 700 million to 1 billion 400 million barrels. Without a market outlet, the wells are shut in but a pipe line project to Gabes on the coast of Tunisia is planned.

"The crude there is so good it is being used directly in engines at the drilling rigs without having to be refined," Charrin said.

Charrin said two French companies, REPAL and CFPA brought in the much bigger field at Hassi-Messaoud, where he said a conservative estimate of reserves would be at least 2 billion barrels.

Labor Chiefs Argue, But Not To Split

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sounds of bickering and bluster continue bouncing from the inner councils of organized labor's biggest club, the AFL-CIO.

But despite feuding and fussing among top leaders, it still appears the merged labor movement is going to stick together.

What's all the arguing about?

Fundamentally, former CIO chiefs led by Walter Reuther, head of the big Auto Workers Union, feel the AFL is ducking and compromising on too many of its problems.

By and large, leaders of the old AFL, where AFL-CIO President George Meany has his roots, regard the veteran CIO crowd as upstarts and even rather ungentlemanly for pushing favored labor aims too hard. AFL stalwarts counsel more patience.

However unsightly evidence of these clashes of personalities and methods may appear to the outsider, they were freely—and, it turns out, accurately—predicted by the labor leaders themselves at the outset of the merger three years ago.

But somehow the wounds have been patched up. Basically AFL forces have the upper hand. Disgruntled CIO chiefs apparently have never been so disgruntled as to seriously consider quitting the merged organization.

This was the situation at the most recent flareup within the AFL-CIO executive council at its winter session at San Juan, Puerto Rico. Tempers soared, hot words flew. There was little give and take on problems and in the end fundamental differences remained unsettled.

Reuther wanted a mass march of unemployed on Washington. He talked in terms of 20,000 to 40,000 Meany balked at such a show of pressure on the administration and Congress, a view shared by many other councilmen.

This led to other complaints: too little attention to organizing; a disposition to let jurisdictional rivalries between unions slide along unsolved, and other points of friction. A broadside charge was made that Meany makes too many policy decisions on his own.

It was finally decided to give Reuther a little more ground on the Washington unemployed rally. Plans are in the works now to stage it April 8 with anywhere from 5,000 to 10,000 delegates. A smaller group will descend on Capitol Hill the next day to buttonhole congressmen for aid for the idle.

Most bystanders at the San Juan sessions felt the fuss may have cemented rather than weakened the AFL-CIO. It brought differences out into the open and got them discussed. To that extent, everybody knows better now where everyone stands.

Cotton Futures Chalk Up Gains For Past Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices closed mixed this week after displaying a strong tone during most of the five-day trading session.

Active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished at prices ranging from $1.80 a bale higher to 60 cents lower than at the close of the holiday-shortened previous week.

Before Friday's sell-off, the distant March, May and July positions scored new life-of - contract highs. Trade and commission house buying buoyed the market during most of the week, stimulated partly by an improvement in textile mill demand.

The nearer months advanced on the continued prospect of a tight supply of "free" cotton at the end of the current crop year.

Offerings were furnished through profit-taking, light hedge selling and some switching from distant to nearer months. On Friday, the nearby May contract weakened on spot house liquidation and the decline affected the whole market.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the exchange at 47,000 bales vs. 61,000 the previous week and 100,000 in the like 1958 week. This brought the total for the season to an estimated 2,071,000 bales vs 3,779,000 at the same time last season.

Grain Futures Generally Hold Gains For Week

CHICAGO (AP)—Despite some fairly sharp setbacks at the end of the week, grain futures prices generally still held rather broad gains for the second consecutive week.

The only price declines on the Board of Trade were for new crop oats months. All other grains and soybeans were well over on the plus side, a few contracts by major fractions but several of them upwards from a cent to as much as three cents or more.

Corn with moderate to good gains almost daily for about two weeks was the leader for the week although it absorbed the sharpest declines in Friday's active profit-takings for the weekend.

Several contracts climbed into new high levels for the season. These included new crop soybeans, May wheat and some rye months. The principal influence throughout the week was the probability of tight corn, wheat and rye commercial supplies in Chicago.

At the end of the week, wheat futures were 1⅜-2½ cents a bushel higher than a week ago, May $2.11⅛; corn 1¼-3¼ higher, May $1.23⅜-½; oats ¾ higher to ⅜ lower, May 67½; rye unchanged to 1 cent higher, May $1.42⅝-, and soybeans ⅜ 1⅜ higher, May $2.25⅝-¾.

Speakers include Mrs. James C. Parker of Grand Rapids, Mich., president of the National Congress.

WITH CANDIDACY TALK

Gov. Long Fogs Up Political Picture

BATON ROUGE, April 4 (UPI) —Louisiana Political leaders were in agreement on one point this week: Smoke from Gov. Earl Long's "pipe dream" of resigning in order to run again in the next governor's race has fogged up the state political picture.

No two politicians in the state were agreed on what Long's announcement meant, except as a notice to all comers not to count Earl Long out of Louisiana politics.

But theories of what the announcement meant were forthcoming from all levels at the Capitol and throughout the state. However, the political pundits admitted that only Earl Long knows whether Earl Long will resign to run, as in the "pipe dream."

One possibility, a state senator said, "is that Earl Long is in dead earnest about running. If he is, then Jimmie Davis has his work cut out for him." Davis had been considered a shoo-in in the first primary before Long's "pipe dream."

Another seasoned veteran of politics—under both Huey and Earl Long— said the "pipe dream" was just Earl's method of smoking the other candidates into the open. None of the strong contenders for the governorship has announced formally yet.

Other theories:

—Long wants something to hold over the heads of his legislative supporters until after the May fiscal session of the legislature.

—The governor is trying to draw state Supt. of Education Shelby Jackson into the race for governor. A corollary: If Jackson runs for governor, Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar may run for superintendent of education.

—Long is trying to force the leading candidates—including Davis—into making concessions in return for—not Long's support, but merely his withdrawal from the scene.

—The pipe dream" is a coverup for Long's plans to run against Rep. Harold McSween in the eighth congressional race next year.

—Long is expecting his move to run again for governor to be challenged in the courts. The challenge, if successful, will provide the cause for Long's return in the 1964 race.

Can he do it? Is it legal?

The state constitution merely states a governor may not be his own immediate successor. If Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar were to become governor for eight months or so, would this satisfy the constitutional requirement?

The constitution is vague. Does the wording mean merely that another man may serve a few months between two four - year terms by Long, or does the constitution mean a governor may not serve two successive terms?

Long's "pipe dream" would, if it becomes fact, be the first occasion to interpret the constitution on this point.

While newsmen and state politicians compared notes on the pipe dream and its meaning, Long was reportedly in an excellent mood at his office.

But visitors to Long's office were unable to determine if Long's frame of mind was the result of a recent trip to Hot Hot Springs, Ark., or whether the governor was just enjoying all the head-scratching he had caused with his "pipe dream."

BY U.S. IN NOTE

Berlin Airways Ceiling Rejected

BERLIN (UPI) — The United States told the Soviets Saturday that American military transports would fly through the corridors linking West Berlin and West Germany at whatever height they choose.

In a note, the United States rejected a Soviet attempt to put a ceiling on the Western corridors over Communist East Gerany.

The note was in reply to a Soviet protest against the "illegal" flight of a C130 transport at 25,000 feet. The Russians said the flight created an air hazard.

Three Soviet jet fighters harassed the unarmed transport throughout its inbound and outbound flights March 27. The U.S. immediately protested the incident through its representative on the four - power Berlin Air Safety Center.

The center controls flights to and from Berlin.

The Soviet protest charged the high - altitude flight violated air safety regulations and could lead to collisions, loss of life and destruction of aircraft.

The United States made it clear it would not submit to any Soviet-imposed ceilings on the three Western air lanes between West Berlin and the West.

The Soviets had maintained that air space above 10,000 feet in the corridors is reserved for Soviet aircraft flying across the western airlanes. They said "The U. S. will have to bear the full responsibility for any undersirable results of such violations."

The U. S. note, described by informed sources as a "written reply" to the Soviet protest, was delivered through the Air Safety Center.

It rejected the Soviet contention that the American transport created a hazard to air safety by flying at 25,000 feet, or that any flight at that height violated any existing agreement.

It further declared that U. S. planes would continue to fly to and from West Berlin at altitudes of their pilot's own choosing.

Sources in Bonn said the British and French embassies approved the position taken by the United States in the new controversy. However, the sources said the British and French did not make any official protest because the incident involved a U. S. plane.

Crop Surplus Solution Is Still Sought

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The question keeps bobbing up: Why aren't farm surpluses — particularly grains — diverted to industry?

This, it is suggested, could end costly farm price supports and maybe end production curbs.

This idea was pressed before Congress in 1938 by the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration and farm organizations. Congress set up four regional laboratories to develop new uses and markets for farm surpluses.

These laboratories have done much to develop new uses for farm products, but nothing that provided a big new outlet. One reason was that the researchers got sidetracked on other problems during the war. Also, they never had what they regarded as enough money for the job.

In 1956 Congress set up a commission to study the matter and this group, with the help of 188 leaders in agriculture, industry and science, plus government experts, came up with an opinion a year later.

In its report to Congress, the group posed this question:

"Can the economy develop profitable industrial markets capable of absorbing enough of the excess farm production to minimize, possibly even to eliminate, the need for costly restrictions, supports and surplus - disposing operations?"

It then gave this answer:

"An emphatic yes,'—provided the necessary steps are taken to make possible and encourage such a development."

It then went on to recommend, among other things, more federal funds for research. It urged programs for training more scientific talent with a bent in this direction, plus financial incentives to encentives to encourage industrial concerns to develop findings provided by the scientists.

The commission said:

"Raw materials produced by farmers are made of chemical components just as are most of the nonagricultural materials used to make industrial products. Coal and petroleum, in fact, are plants that died a long time ago."

It went on to say that farm-produced materials, too, can be modified, tailored to practical needs, taken apart and recombined to make new products with new properties — plastics, films, fibers, coatings and the like.

In fact, science already has shown much can be done along the line.

But these findings have not been widely adopted. There are many reasons. A major one is that competitive raw materials, such as petroleum, coal and wood fibers, are much cheaper than farm products.

The commission declared, however, that these were not insurmontable barriers.

Congress has not yet seen fit to do much about the recommendations. Bills have been introduced to carry them out. A few committee hearings have been held.

Public Welfare Expenditures In Mississippi Gain

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The State Department of Public Welfare paid $3,530,062 in public welfare payments during March, an increase of $15,950 over the February total, commissioner W. E. Holcomb said Saturday.

Of the total, $2,355,897 went to the state's 80,718 needy aged. Holcomb said the number of needy agtd decreased by 69 and the payments decreased by $2,219 under the February totals.

The average old age grant during March was $29.19, a decrease of five cents under the February average.

The department paid also $224,216 to the 5,824 blind, averaging $38.50; $221,440 to the 7,515 permanently and totally disabled, averaging $29.47; and $728,509 to the 53,772 dependent children in 11,879 families, averaging $13.55 per child and $40.75 per family.

Holcomb said the department paid $15,569 in state funds for the foster care of 601 children in 258 homes and distributed $1,475,000 worth of surplus federal commodities to 431,093 persons during February.

Fire Destroys Store, Hotel In Louisiana Town

MORRINGSPORT, La. (AP) — Fire of undetermined origin destroyed an appliance store and two-story hotel Saturday. Damages were estimated at $50,000.

The only person in the buildings was the owner, C. R. Patterson. He was sleeping in one of the hotel apartments when the blaze started, but escaped safely.

The Patterson Hotel and Caddo Home and Supply Co. store were in adjoining buildings.

PLANS AUSTRALIA MOVE

Subsidy Opponent Auctions Off Farm

DOWAGIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Farmer Stanley Yankus, rebel against the government's agriculture subsidy program for six years, gave up Saturday, sold his 100-acre chicken farm at auction for $20,500 and said he was ready to move to Australia.

It all came about because Yankus said federal officials had no right to dictate how much wheat he could grow for his chickens.

A crowd of 2,000 stood around Yankus' eight-room white brick and clapboard home amidst a carnival-like atmosphere while auctioneer John M. Glassman moved through stacks of kitchen utensils and other small items.

"I admire Yankus for his stand," farmer Frank Stangland, Albion, Ind., said. "It doesn't matter where he is going, what he's getting into. The point is: 'Why is he leaving here?' "

It only was an hour after the auction began that Dale Douthett, a White Oaks, Mich., businessman made the apparent high bid of $20,500 for the basic land and the home.

Yankus had the option of refusing the bid but he said he would not since earlier he indicated he would accept any offer over $20,000.

Yankus said he hoped the entire sale would net him $25,000 so he could pack up his family and start "fresh" in Australia.

"This is one sale I wish had not taken place," Glassman said just before the bidding. "However, the auction will be conducted in a Democratic fashion."

Yankus took that as a theme for his brief speech:

"I'm not a Democrat. I'm a Republican," he said. "Our nation is a republic. Many people fail to realize that many people can't vote away the right to property or liberty. My right to property has been voted away and I think that's contrary to the Constitution of the United States."

Yankus, 40 said when he first began his fight against acreage allotments and subsidies back in 1953 he felt popular opinion would keep federal officials from telling him how much wheat he had to grow to feed his chickens.

Yankus felt since he never applied for government wheat subsidies officials had no right to dictate the amount he could grow.

But government officials had a different idea. They said he could grow but 15 acres, Yankus said he needed 35 acres and therein lay the difficulty.

Police stood by Saturday to keep the crowd, at times heatedly arguing whether Yankus or the government was right, from getting into any difficulty.

Youths Collect Tons Of Pennies For New School

PURVIS, Miss. (AP) — Youths of the Alabama-Mississippi Conference of the Seventh Day Adventist Church will turn over four tons of pennies estimated at more than $10,000 Sunday to Bass Memorial Academy at the nearby school site.

The coins, collected during a two-month drive, will help finance construction of the first building planned on the grounds, an administrative office building.

The church conference will build a 12-grade boarding school on the site, donated about two years ago by I. H. Bass Sr. of Lumberton.

Some 60 churches are in the two-state conference.

CD Meeting Is Planned At College

Representatives of Monroe area schools will meet at Northeast College Thursday to learn how to operate Civil Defense radiological detection equipment.

The meeting will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Maj. Gen. Raymond F. Hufft, state Civil Defense director, said the workshop will be sponsored jointly by the state department of education and the Louisiana Civil Defense agency.

He said the one-day series will be held for representatives of public and parochial schools who have been assigned the Civil Defense kits by the office of civil and defense mobilization.

TEACH

Although the primary purpose of the distribution is to teach high school students basic information concerning the detection of radiation, the program is expected to assist the Civil Defense cause, said Hufft.

He added that the kits will strengthen the radiological program which is under the general direction of the state department of health.

At the opening of the workshop in Baton Rouge last week, J. B. Robertson, assistant superintendent of education and Civil Defense coordinator of the department of education, announced a two-point CD program for Louisiana schools.

"Every school must set up programs to protect students in event of major disaster and to condition the students to the possibility of enemy attack," he declared.

The workshop at Northeast will be under the chairmanship of Lewis Parrish, New Orleans, state Civil Defense training officer.

Song Fest Set At Northeast For April 17

The Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils at Northeast State, governing bodies of fraternity and sorority life, will hold a spring Song Fest at 8 p.m., April 17 in the Fine Arts Recital Hall.

Each of the five participating fraternities and sororities will choose members to sing for timed periods of 10 or 15 minutes. The size of singing groups and selection of songs will be determined by each organization.

Awards will be presented to the first and second-place winners to be decided by off-campus judges.

J. B. Martin is president of the Interfraternity Council, governing Delta Kappa Rho, Kappa Alpha and Tau Kappa Epsilon, social fraternities. Miss Kaki Walker heads the Panhellenic Council, made up of Alpha Omicron Pi and Phi Mu social sororities.

No admission will be charged for the affair which is open to the public.

Ten Coeds Vying For College Crown

Ten coeds will vie for the "Miss Northeast" crown at the annual beauty pageant scheduled April 23 at 8 p.m. in Brown Auditorium on the college campus.

Miss Alberta Futch, of Southeastern Louisiana College, who captured the "Miss Louisiana" title last spring, will participate in the coronation ceremonies.

The pageant is being directed this year by Ray Vineyard, senior speech major from Hammond. He was chosen by the Student Council, which sponsors the spring feature. Assistant director is Miss Rita Snider, speech major from Monroe.

Entries for the "Miss Northeast" title represent various towns in this area. They were selected by campus organizations for sponsorship in competition. Several are experienced participants in pageants or other projects in which beauty or both beauty and talent are requisites.

CONTESTANTS

Contestants are Miss Ann Nichols, physical education major from Monroe, sponsored by Alpha Omega Pi, social sorority; Miss Charlene Correro, speech student from Monroe, sponsored by the Northeast Speech Club; Miss Janis Himburn, English major from Monroe, sponsored by the Geological Society; Miss Patsy Price, Ferriday social studies major, the Tau Kappa Epsilon selection.

Miss Clarice Brown, Monroe speech education student, sponsored by Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, national music fraternity; Miss Shearon Regenald, accounting major from Lake Providence, the choice of Kappa Alpha fraternity; Miss Joan Dupuy of Monroe, home economics student, and entrant of Delta Kappa Rho fraternity; Miss Jean Stark of Bastrop, speech eduation student and choice of Phi Mu sorority.

Miss Mary Frances Smith, business education major from Sicily Island, being sponsored by the Lettermen's Club and Miss Bobby June Moore, home economics major from Monroe and the entrant of Scabbard and Blade, military fraternity.

In addition to meetings of the coeds who will participate in the pageant, Vineyard said that stage designing has been planned and music attractions are progressing. Both an orchestra and college choir will play prominent parts in the program, he said.

ACROSS THE NATION

Tugboats Play Big Role In Industry

By HAROLD LISTON
AP Staff Writer

A churning towboat pushes an awkward, angular barge upstream to where the Illinois meets the Des Plaines, 55 miles from Chicago.

There, at the confluence of the two rivers where the world's largest all-nuclear commercial power plant is being built, a 3,500-mile water journey ends.

Aboard the barge is a 300-ton reactor pressure vessel, the heart of the nuclear power plant. It had been loaded aboard at Camden, N.J., carried down the Atlantic Coast and around the Florida Keys through the Gulf Intracoastal Canal to New Orleans and up the Mississippi and Illinois rivers to its new home.

The reactor vessel—20 feet wide and 42 feet high—was too large for any overland transport. Water shipment was the only way.

But from the historic Hudson to the mighty Columbia from the Gulf of Mexico to the headwaters of the Mississippi tugs and barges churn away at countless more prosaic tasks.

Oil, coal, grain, lumber, steel—heavy bulk cargoes—are the bread and butter of the waterways industry.

Across the nation more than 1,700 operators of towing vessels and barges operate 19,000 towboats, tugboats and barges of one kind or another and employ about 65,000 persons.

The great central valley of the United States, drained by the Mississippi and its tributaries, is the backbone of the barge and tow industry.

Ton miles of freight handled on the Mississippi system, including offshore traffic at the ports of New Orleans and Baton Rouge, have leaped from around 20 billion in 1945 to more than 60 billion in 1957., the last year for which complete figures are available.

The entire industry, embracing busy New York port traffic, West Coast shipping, Atlantic Waterway traffic and the limited barge service on the Great Lakes, hauled in 114 billion ton miles of freight in 1957.

A ton mile is the common term used to designate freight volume—a ton of freight hauled one mile.

The lure of a plentiful supply of fresh water, plus the cheap water transport, have combined to stimulate the growth of industry along navigable streams in the heartland of the country and on the gulf.

Across the country, a spokesman for the waterways carriers points out, 132 industrial projects were begun on waterways in the last quarter of 1958 alone. More than 2,800 industries using water traffic have been located on the nation's streams and barge-served coasts in the last seven years, bargemen say.

Although oil represents one-third of the movement on waterways, such diverse products as grain, sugar, molasses, fertilizer, chemicals, steel, frozen meats, and even wine, are also carried.

Workhorse towboats, rated up to 8,500 horsepower, push as many as 40 barges at once along the Mississippi. Skillfully knit together with steel cables, the towboat and barges form a tow, a floating island of commerce.

Some integrated oil tows, up to 1,170 feet long, dwarf ocean liners in length. Individual barges have grown to sizes of 290 feet long, 50 feet wide, and 12 feet deep. As much as 40,000 tons of cargo are carried in a single flotilla.

New Power Struggle Due By Hoodlums

NEW YORK (AP)—Turmoil in the nation's underworld was anticipated Saturday as an upshot of the narcotics conviction of Vito Genovese, described in some quarters as its ruling overlord.

One possibility was a new conclave to pick a successor to the 61-year-old rackets boss who reputedly piled up a 30-million-dollar fortune in four decades of illegal activity.

Another possibility was a grim struggle for power among the country's top hoodlums, perhaps settled with gangland bullets as so often in the past.

In any case authorities were on the alert for a further mobster gathering such as the notorious convention which took place in November 1957 at Apalachin, N.Y.

That generally was regarded as a parley of U.S. kingpins in the Mafia, underworld society spawned in Sicily many years ago. Some officials think it was for reshuffling power after the assassination of Albert Anastasia.

Genovese was a delegate to the Apalachin meeting. He has been tabbed variously as the king of th underworld and the boss of the Mafia in this country.

He and 14 others were convicted in Federal Court Friday night after a three-month trial on narcotics conspiracy charges. The government said Genovese was the mastermind of a powerful ring importing heroin from Cuba, Mexico, Puerto Rico and Europe.

He could be sentenced to 20 years in prison, deportation, or both. Seven years ago he was stripped of his U.S. citizenship on grounds of fraud. He was naturalized after coming here from Italy in 1913.

Sentencing in the narcotics case was set for April 17. There was no word as to whether the government would seek immediate deportation.

A CERTAIN SMILE

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) —Mrs. Narcissus Bonds, 39, told police she was pretty sure they'd collared the right man for holding up the bar where she works, except that the suspect's mouth looked different.

Her doubt was wiped out, however, when a detective searched the man and found a set of false teeth in his pocket.

Vienna, home for one-quarter of Austria's population, is now planning to build a subway system to relieve transportation difficulties.

FOR U.S. BOMBERS

New Type Missile Production Slated

By CHARLES W. Corddry
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force soon will order production of a new ballistic missile to be launched from bombers. It also is weighing the possibility of doubling orders for Atlas interconteinental ballistic missiles.

Informed sources who disclosed this Saturday said the Air Force was ready to name one of about two dozen competing contractors to produce the air-launched ballistic missile.

The missile, on which experiments have been under way for months at Cape Canaveral, Fla., is expected to have a 1,000-mile range. Its development would extend the usefulness of the Strategic Air Command's big bomber fleet. The first bombers may receive the missiles in about 18 months.

Armed with them, bombers will be able to destroy targets without coming near enemy defenses, in much the same way as Polaris missile submarines can operate at sea.

Whether the Air Force doubles its arsenal of Atlas interconteinental ballistic missiles depends on what Congress does about increasing missiles appropriations.

The House Appropriations Committee and defense leaders have had many secret conferences on the cost of providing greater numbers of the Atlas, protected in underground sites, to increase this country's deterrent to war.

The Air Force has now ordered mine squadrons of Atlas missiles. The squadrons, with 650 to 700 men each, will be stationed at nine bases and will have a total of 80 missiles launchers. The first squadron will have three launchers, the next thee squadrons will have nine launchers each, and the last five will have 10 each, according to well informed authorities.

The first four squadrons will be at "soft" or unprotected, above-ground sites.

Under present plans, the next five squadrons will be at "hardened" sites where missiles will be kept above ground but in concrete shelters which can withstand a nuclear blast.

There have been demands to install some Atlas missiles in deep underground sites. But the Air Force has concluded that the cost would be too great unless a considerable number of additional squadrons were set up.

Connie Ready To Tell Jury Her Version

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — The Connie Nicholas murder trial readied for its fourth week Saturday and so far the one person no one has heard from has been Connie Nicholas.

Mrs. Nicholas' attorney, however, said she definitely would take the stand to tell how and why her "gentleman" lover, handsome, wealthy — and married—drug executive Forrest Teel, was shot to death.

It was hoped Mrs. Nicholas' attorney, when it comes, would help somewhat to unravel the mass of contradictory stories so face placed before the all-husband jury.

Detectives Friday, however, did anything but clear up just how Mrs. Nicholas, 44, whose back alley love affair with Teel lasted 15 years until she was replaced with younger Laura Mowrer, felt about Teel.

On one hand, detectives told how, just after Teel's death, Mrs. Nicholas, who had attempted suicide, awoke from her hospital bed and said, "you don't shoot someone you love."

Then on the other hand, others quoted her as saying: "I shot him. I shot him. I'm sorry."

Which was the case? Or were both versions true? And what of other contradictory remarks?

"The electric chair (for me)? The sooner the better."

Or "get me the best criminal lawyer in the city."

"I loved him. I loved him."

Or "I used to call him Forrest, Now I call him Teel."

Defense lawyer Charles Symmes said Mrs. Nicholas would tell her full story to the jury and that the story would include the tale of Teel's affair with Miss Mowrer, 14 years Mrs. Nicholas' junior.

It was outside Miss Mowrer's apartment on July 31 that Teel was found shot to death beside the wheel of his expensive auto.

The defense claims Teel was shot during a struggle with Mrs. Nicholas in the car over the role of Miss Mowrer.

The prosecution says Mrs. Nicholas shot Teel and no struggle was involved.

Key to the case may be Mrs. Nicholas' paralyzed right hand. The defense says the hand was injured when Teel tried to grab the tiny french revolver from her when she threatened to shoot herself.

The prosecution says the paralysis came after Mrs. Nicholas lay on the arm for 20 hours after swallowing 75 sleeping pills and thus impaired circulation.

Montgomery Plans Soviet Capital Visit

LONDON (UPI)—Retired Field Marshall Sir Bernard Montgomery announced Saturday night he will fly to Moscow April 28 for a three-day visit.

Montgomery said he had asked Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev whether he could visit the Russian capital and was told he would be "very welcomed."

The announcement, made from Montgomery's country Isington Mill home, immediately aroused speculation here as to what—besides sightseeing—the retired military leader hoped to accomplish.

The London Sunday Times early edition said Montgomery was going to Moscow "presumably ot see Mr. Khrushchev."

"Although the visit is a private one, it is assumed that its objects have been discussed with (prime minister Harold) MacMillan" and that he has "raised no objections," it said.

MacMillan and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd paid a 10-day visit to Moscow and other Soviet cities in late February and early March.

Informed sources in London said Montgomery also was expected to meet with Soviet military leaders, some of whom he knew personally when he was British commander in Germany during 1945 and 1946.

The Sunday Times said Montgomery wanted to gather fresh material on Russia for a series of lectures he will give at Oxford University. "But it is obvious that he will use his immense prestige as an international soldier to convince the Russians of the necessity to reduce tensions in Europe," the paper said.

3 Tax Propositions Get Endorsement

The Ouachita Parish Medical Society has officially endorsed three propositions in Tuesday's property election. The action was announced by Dr. Felix J. Willey, president of the organization.

The group endorsed and asked the support of the general public of the two propositions dealing with the Ouachita parish health unit, and the maintenance tax for the Ouachita parish dention home, Green Oaks.

The two propositions dealing with the health unit, Numbers 3 and 4, the boards of health of Monroe, have already been endorsed by West Monroe, and Ouachita parish The various boards formally approved the two items in their January meetings.

Proposition No. 3 deals with the one-mill tax for the purpose of operating, maintaining and sustaining the Ouachita parish unit. The other proposition, No.4, is also a one-mill tax, for one year, for the construction, erection and building of proper housing and building of the unit.

DOWNTOWN

The present building which houses the parish health unit is located in downtown Monroe and long has been in depreciating condition. Originally built as a federal post office building, the three-story edifice was abandoned in 1923 when the present post office was completed. Other public groups used the building until the health unit took over several years ago.

Bought by the City of Monroe in the late 1940's for $25,000, the building has not been remodeled or substantially improved since that time. It currently houses the health unit, district laboratory and regional office. All have been crowded for several years which has hindered the efficiency, Dr. W. Carroll Summer, unit director, said.

The proposition dealing with the maintenance tax for the health unit, is a renewal of a tax which expired last year, with a one-quarter mill increase.

END OF AN INDUSTRY

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (UPI) —In this town, 1871 is remembered as the year "the roof feel in." That was when this old whaling port lost 34 whaleships in the Alaskan ice fields.

The financial loss came to $2,000,000, but, miraculously, every member of the fleet—1,219 persons, including the wives and children of whaling captains — survived. They traveled overland along the coast for three days through a violent gale before they were rescued by seven whalers in open water.

No whalers sail from New Bedford today. But the Eskimos of Point Barrow still whale in New Bedford boats with abandoned harpoons and gear left from what was once a great industry.

GETS 'HEP' QUICKLY

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Newly elected city judge Joseph P. Kuszynski was only momentarily puzzled by the way a defendant in youth court asked for a public defender.

The boy told the judge, "I want a state mouthpiece."

Who created the idea that went into the message that sent the reader out of the house to buy?

The chances are that one of the country's 3,000 skilled advertising agencies thought up, wrote, designed and placed the newspaper ad that sent this lady out to buy.

Last year agencies and other advertisers in the U. S. and Canada placed over $10 billion worth of advertising in newspapers, magazines, radio, television and outdoor advertising. The largest amount, by far, was invested in daily newspapers.

In a relatively few years agencies have helped to make thousands of products household words. And, from the start, agencies and newspapers have worked closely to bring news of products and services to you.

Most agencies, like the clients they serve so well, recognize the daily newspaper as the most effective advertising medium to introduce and maintain any product on the market.

New Power Struggle Due By Hoodlums

NEW YORK (AP)—Turmoil in the nation's underworld was anticipated Saturday as an upshot of the narcotics conviction of Vito Genovese, described in some quarters as its ruling overlord.

One possibility was a new conclave to pick a successor to the 61-year-old rackets boss who reputedly piled up a 30-million-dollar fortune in four decades of illegal activity.

Another possibility was a grim struggle for power among the country's top hoodlums, perhaps settled with gangland bullets as so often in the past.

In any case authorities were on the alert for a further mobster gathering such as the notorious convention which took place in November 1957 at Apalachin, N.Y.

That generally was regarded as a parley of U.S. kingpins in the Mafia, underworld society spawned in Sicily many years ago. Some officials think it was for reshuffling power after the assassination of Albert Anastasia.

Genovese was a delegate to the Apalachin meeting. He has been tabbed variously as the king of th underworld and the boss of the Mafia in this country.

He and 14 others were convicted in Federal Court Friday night after a three-month trial on narcotics conspiracy charges. The government said Genovese was the mastermind of a powerful ring importing heroin from Cuba, Mexico, Puerto Rico and Europe.

He could be sentenced to 20 years in prison, deportation, or both. Seven years ago he was stripped of his U.S. citizenship on grounds of fraud. He was naturalized after coming here from Italy in 1913.

Sentencing in the narcotics case was set for April 17. There was no word as to whether the government would seek immediate deportation.

A CERTAIN SMILE

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UPI) —Mrs. Narcissus Bonds, 39, told police she was pretty sure they'd collared the right man for holding up the bar where she works, except that the suspect's mouth looked different.

Her doubt was wiped out, however, when a detective searched the man and found a set of false teeth in his pocket.

Vienna, home for one-quarter of Austria's population, is now planning to build a subway system to relieve transportation difficulties.

FOR U.S. BOMBERS

New Type Missile Production Slated

By CHARLES W. Corddry
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force soon will order production of a new ballistic missile to be launched from bombers. It also is weighing the possibility of doubling orders for Atlas interconteinental ballistic missiles.

Informed sources who disclosed this Saturday said the Air Force was ready to name one of about two dozen competing contractors to produce the air-launched ballistic missile.

The missile, on which experiments have been under way for months at Cape Canaveral, Fla., is expected to have a 1,000-mile range. Its development would extend the usefulness of the Strategic Air Command's big bomber fleet. The first bombers may receive the missiles in about 18 months.

Armed with them, bombers will be able to destroy targets without coming near enemy defenses, in much the same way as Polaris missile submarines can operate at sea.

Whether the Air Force doubles its arsenal of Atlas interconteinental ballistic missiles depends on what Congress does about increasing missiles appropriations.

The House Appropriations Committee and defense leaders have had many secret conferences on the cost of providing greater numbers of the Atlas, protected in underground sites, to increase this country's deterrent to war.

The Air Force has now ordered mine squadrons of Atlas missiles. The squadrons, with 650 to 700 men each, will be stationed at nine bases and will have a total of 80 missiles launchers. The first squadron will have three launchers, the next thee squadrons will have nine launchers each, and the last five will have 10 each, according to well informed authorities.

The first four squadrons will be at "soft" or unprotected, above-ground sites.

Under present plans, the next five squadrons will be at "hardened" sites where missiles will be kept above ground but in concrete shelters which can withstand a nuclear blast.

There have been demands to install some Atlas missiles in deep underground sites. But the Air Force has concluded that the cost would be too great unless a considerable number of additional squadrons were set up.

Connie Ready To Tell Jury Her Version

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — The Connie Nicholas murder trial readied for its fourth week Saturday and so far the one person no one has heard from has been Connie Nicholas.

Mrs. Nicholas' attorney, however, said she definitely would take the stand to tell how and why her "gentleman" lover, handsome, wealthy — and married—drug executive Forrest Teel, was shot to death.

It was hoped Mrs. Nicholas' attorney, when it comes, would help somewhat to unravel the mass of contradictory stories so face placed before the all-husband jury.

Detectives Friday, however, did anything but clear up just how Mrs. Nicholas, 44, whose back alley love affair with Teel lasted 15 years until she was replaced with younger Laura Mowrer, felt about Teel.

On one hand, detectives told how, just after Teel's death, Mrs. Nicholas, who had attempted suicide, awoke from her hospital bed and said, "you don't shoot someone you love."

Then on the other hand, others quoted her as saying: "I shot him. I shot him. I'm sorry."

Which was the case? Or were both versions true? And what of other contradictory remarks?

"The electric chair (for me)? The sooner the better."

Or "get me the best criminal lawyer in the city."

"I loved him. .I loved him."

Or "I used to call him Forrest, Now I call him Teel."

Defense lawyer Charles Symmes said Mrs. Nicholas would tell her full story to the jury and that the story would include the tale of Teel's affair with Miss Mowrer, 14 years Mrs. Nicholas' junior.

It was outside Miss Mowrer's apartment on July 31 that Teel was found shot to death beside the wheel of his expensive auto.

The defense claims Teel was shot during a struggle with Mrs. Nicholas in the car over the role of Miss Mowrer.

The prosecution says Mrs. Nicholas shot Teel and no struggle was involved.

Key to the case may be Mrs. Nicholas' paralyzed right hand. The defense says the hand was injured when Teel tried to grab the tiny french revolver from her when she threatened to shoot herself.

The prosecution says the paralysis came after Mrs. Nicholas lay on the arm for 20 hours after swallowing 75 sleeping pills and thus impaired circulation.

Montgomery Plans Soviet Capital Visit

LONDON (UPI)—Retired Field Marshall Sir Bernard Montgomery announced Saturday night he will fly to Moscow April 28 for a three-day visit.

Montgomery said he had asked Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev whether he could visit the Russian capital and was told he would be "very welcomed."

The announcement, made from Montgomery's country Isington Mill home, immediately aroused speculation here as to what—besides sightseeing—the retired military leader hoped to accomplish.

The London Sunday Times early edition said Montgomery was going to Moscow "presumably ot see Mr. Khrushchev."

"Although the visit is a private one, it is assumed that its objects have been discussed with (prime minister Harold) MacMillan" and that he has "raised no objections," it said.

MacMillan and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd paid a 10-day visit to Moscow and other Soviet cities in late February and early March.

Informed sources in London said Montgomery also was expected to meet with Soviet military leaders, some of whom he knew personally when he was British commander in Germany during 1945 and 1946.

The Sunday Times said Montgomery wanted to gather fresh material on Russia for a series of lectures he will give at Oxford University. "But it is obvious that he will use his immense prestige as an international soldier to convince the Russians of the necessity to reduce tensions in Europe," the paper said.

OF MEDICAL SOCIETY

3 Tax Propositions Get Endorsement

The Ouachita Parish Medical Society has officially endorsed three propositions in Tuesday's property election. The action was announced by Dr. Felix J. Willey, president of the organization.

The group endorsed and asked the support of the general public of the two propositions dealing with the Ouachita parish health unit, and the maintenance tax for the Ouachita parish dention home, Green Oaks.

The two propositions dealing with the health unit, Numbers 3 and 4, the boards of health of Monroe, have already been endorsed by West Monroe, and Ouachita parish The various boards formally approved the two items in their January meetings.

Proposition No. 3 deals with the one-mill tax for the purpose of operating, maintaining and sustaining the Ouachita parish unit. The other proposition, No.4, is also a one-mill tax, for one year, for the construction, erection and building of proper housing and building of the unit.

DOWNTOWN

The present building which houses the parish health unit is located in downtown Monroe and long has been in depreciating condition. Originally built as a federal post office building, the three-story edifice was abandoned in 1923 when the present post office was completed. Other public groups used the building until the health unit took over several years ago.

Bought by the City of Monroe in the late 1940's for $25,000, the building has not been remodeled or substantially improved since that time. It currently houses the health unit, district laboratory and regional office. All have been crowded for several years which has hindered the efficiency, Dr. W. Carroll Summer, unit director, said.

The proposition dealing with the maintenance tax for the health unit, is a renewal of a tax which expired last year, with a one-quarter mill increase.

END OF AN INDUSTRY

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (UPI) —In this town, 1871 is remembered as the year "the roof feel in." That was when this old whaling port lost 34 whaleships in the Alaskan ice fields.

The financial loss came to $2,000,000, but, miraculously, every member of the fleet—1,219 persons, including the wives and children of whaling captains — survived. They traveled overland along the coast for three days through a violent gale before they were rescued by seven whalers in open water.

No whalers sail from New Bedford today. But the Eskimos of Point Barrow still whale in New Bedford boats with abandoned harpoons and gear left from what was once a great industry.

GETS 'HEP' QUICKLY

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Newly elected city judge Joseph P. Kuszynski was only momentarily puzzled by the way a defendant in youth court asked for a public defender.

The boy told the judge, "I want a state mouthpiece."

Who created the idea that went into the message that sent the reader out of the house to buy?

The chances are that one of the country's 3,000 skilled advertising agencies thought up, wrote, designed and placed the newspaper ad that sent this lady out to buy.

Last year agencies and other advertisers in the U. S. and Canada placed over $10 billion worth of advertising in newspapers, magazines, radio, television and outdoor advertising. The largest amount, by far, was invested in daily newspapers.

In a relatively few years agencies have helped to make thousands of products household words. And, from the start, agencies and newspapers have worked closely to bring news of products and services to you.

Most agencies, like the clients they serve so well, recognize the daily newspaper as the most effective advertising medium to introduce and maintain any product on the market.

THE TOTAL SELLING MEDIUM IS THE DAILY NEWSPAPER

MOVERS NEEDED!
Would you like to earn an average of $1,000 per month? Many successful van operators do this regularly driving for Aero Mayflower Transit Co., Inc. under 48-state contract. "I net over $1,000 per month, have paid for two tractors, own a new car, new household furniture, and have built up a nice bank account since joining Mayflower's contract fleet in 1953," says George Robinson. We are expanding Mayflower's service and need additional van operators 25 years or older to go into business for themselves with Mayflower. We furnish company paid training, if needed, at no cost. All you need is desire to become independent businessman and a 1957 or newer model tractor titled in your name that meets Interstate Commerce Commission safety requirements. Personal references needed. Write Jack Adams, P. O. Box 107, Indianapolis 6, Indiana.

"What Good Is Ability Without Opportunity?"
"If you meet our exacting qualifications, we offer modern and complete training — a permanent dignified position where ability is recognized and promotions are made accordingly. Excellent immediate income." You must have these qualifications:
Age 25 to 50.
Experience in working with people.
Ability to stand a rigid character investigation.
Above all, a desire to work and make this year the start of a permanent, successful career.
Interviews for position call C. W. Hancock, Frances Hotel FA 2-7151, Room 524, Monday April 6th, 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. or write Box 616 care of News-Star

FRESH AND BRIGHT
Coin-Operated Launderettes

Yields quick return on dollar invested plus regular income

Fresh and Bright is unlike any other coin-operated launderette in the South. No experience is required of the investor, no employees are necessary, no time is taken from present business.

Fresh and Bright stores are completely installed, ready for business. All details of location, financing, lease negotiation, installation of equipment, inside and outside signs are handled by Fresh and Bright pesonnel. And fresh and Bright stores are equipped with Philco-Bendix machines, the only complete package of commercial laundry equipment on the market, including single and double-load tumble-action machines and agitator type machines.

Each Fresh and Bright franchised store is opened with a Grand Opening promotion which includes a "Name The Lamb" contest, prizes, handbills, and heavy advertising support. Fresh and Bright is backed by powerful, continuing advertising telling thousands of homemakers that Fresh and Bright is the newest, most modern and economical place to wash their clothes.

Hundreds of choice locations are now available for Fresh and Bright. Call or write today for complete information on how you can own a profitable Fresh and Bright store.

MOVERS NEEDED!
Would you like to earn an average of $1,000 per month? Many successful van operators do this regularly driving for Aero Mayflower Transit Co., Inc. under 48-state contract. "I net over $1,000 per month, have paid for two tractors, own a new car, new household furniture, and have built up a nice bank account since joining Mayflower's contract fleet in 1953," says George Robinson. We are expanding Mayflower's service and need additional van operators 25 years or older to go into business for themselves with Mayflower. We furnish company paid training, if needed, at no cost. All you need is desire to become independent businessman and a 1957 or newer model tractor titled in your name that meets Interstate Commerce Commission safety requirements. Personal references needed. Write Jack Adams, P. O. Box 107, Indianapolis 6, Indiana.

"What Good Is Ability Without Opportunity?"
"If you meet our exacting qualifications, we offer modern and complete training — a permanent dignified position where ability is recognized and promotions are made accordingly. Excellent immediate income." You must have these qualifications:
Age 25 to 50.
Experience in working with people.
Ability to stand a rigid character investigation.
Above all, a desire to work and make this year the start of a permanent, successful career.

FRESH AND BRIGHT
Coin-Operated Launderettes
Yields quick return on dollar invested plus regular income

Fresh and Bright is unlike any other coin-operated launderette in the South. No experience is required of the investor, no employees are necessary, no time is taken from present business.

Fresh and Bright stores are completely installed, ready for business. All details of location, financing, lease negotiation, installation of equipment, inside and outside signs are handled by Fresh and Bright pesonnel. And fresh and Bright stores are equipped with Philco-Bendix machines, the only complete package of commercial laundry equipment on the market, including single and double-load tumble-action machines and agitator type machines.

Each Fresh and Bright franchised store is opened with a Grand Opening promotion which includes a "Name The Lamb" contest, prizes, handbills, and heavy advertising support. Fresh and Bright is backed by powerful, continuing advertising telling thousands of homemakers that Fresh and Bright is the newest, most modern and economical place to wash their clothes.

Hundreds of choice locations are now available for Fresh and Bright. Call or write today for complete information on how you can own a profitable Fresh and Bright store.

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Want Ad Quickly Sells Abandoned Church

The Cranston Methodist Church near New Era, Michigan, a rural church built in 1890s, had been abandoned and almost forgotten for years.

When the congregation needed money, they tried a want ad to sell the old building. Charles Bowden saw the ad, quickly bought the structure for a home and workshop.

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Want Ad Quickly Sells Abandoned Church

The Cranston Methodist Church near New Era, Michigan, a rural church built in 1890s, had been abandoned and almost forgotten for years.

When the congregation needed money, they tried a want ad to sell the old building. Charles Bowden saw the ad, quickly bought the structure for a home and workshop.

a. gay provincial print

chair cover.....14.98
sofa covers.....28.98

b. upholstery type solid

Rich nubby texture cotton and rayon actually looks like expensive upholstery . . . and fits as perfectly too! A washable wonder that keeps its good looks, because it's treated to resist wrinkles and soil. Exceptionally long wearing. Spice brown, Spice beige or Mint green.

ADJUSTA-FIT pre-tailored construction guarantees custom-like fit, quickly and easily. Just adjust to your furniture and your cover is as secure as upholstery.

e. hollywood cover in vibrant colors

Pep up bedroom, den or study with trim kick-pleat covers of colorful cotton corduroy. Lush deep pile thrives on tubbing, won't mat down. Add matching bolster covers and presto . . . your hollywood becomes a smart divan. Rich palette of Harmony House colors.
hollywood cover...12.98 bolster covers....4.79 ea.

f. tweedy texture Readi-upholstery

Here's really flawless fit! Handsome cotton covers stretch to slip on quickly and easily . . . hug like upholstery, have detachable fringe trim. Tumble dry, no ironing. Spice brown, Mint green, Tuscan rose.
chair cover.....9.98 sofa cover.....19.98

g. new sculptured weave floral

A refreshing change of pace for your decor. Exciting texture-weave cotton cover now has a rich sculptured look, a smart dimensional feel. Another fine washable with box pleat skirt. Dawn gray, Spice brown, Sage green.
